F. McGregor To Help King On Memoirs

Formerly Secretary To Prime Minister, Begins Work At Once

OTTAWA, Jan. 3—(CP)—F. A. McGregor, central figure in Canada's combines controversy, said today he has agreed to take on the job of helping former prime minister Mackenzie King write his memoirs. Mr. McGregor resigned Dec. 31 as commissioner of combines investigation.

He was Mr. King's secretary for 11 years, from 1914 to 1925, a period which included Mr. King's first years as prime minister.

It was Mr. McGregor's announced intention to resign which touched off major controversy of the recent session of parliament. He quit in protest against government withholding of a report in which he charged price-fixing existed from 1936 to 1947 in the flour-milling industry.

In a statement today, announcing that he will go to work with Mr. King at once, Mr. McGregor, 61, said he "would like to express my feeling of personal confidence" in Jutice Minister Garson, the minister who finally tabled the flour report and took the brunt of parliamentary criticism for its 10-month delay.

Good Relations

"I have enjoyed the most cordial relations with Mr. Garson," he said, "even throughout the recent period of controversy in parliament and am confident of his wholehearted support of the Combines Investigation Act."

Mr. McGregor's return to Mr. King marks revival of "a very personal" association terminated in 1925. Both have continued in Ottawa since then, Mr. King as prime minister or leader of the opposition, Mr. McGregor as registrar and later as commissioner of the Combines Act, Canada's anti-monopoly law.

Mr. King said recently on his 75th birthday he has not yet started writing his memoris and has been "amazed" at the amount of material he had collected over the years in public office. He has been sorting and analysing this material in preparation for writing about "the thngs, the events I thnk the people would like me to write about."

Mr. McGregor indicated that the initiative in the new venture rested with himself and that his approach to Mr. King met with an interested response."

Council Enters 2nd Century With Inauguration Today

Peterborough began this morning the second century of its municipal incorporation with the inauguration of the council of 1950, in much the same manner as the organization and establishment of its first council 100 years ago. Its members took the oath of office in the presence of assembled citizens, pledging themselves faithfully to represent the people who had elected them, and with forethinking of the problems that somewhat indistinctly lay ahead of them. The sentiment of the public meeting today, however, was concerned with both past and future, as in a brief hour of pause, respect was paid to those who had laid the original civic foundation, and those who had built upon it a fair city exceeding probably the visions of the men who began its shaping in 1850.

Awareness of the historic significance of this morning's ceremony was expressed in necessarily sketchy review and recapitulation of Peterborough's first century of municipal and community growth and progress. It was sounded in the prayer and address of the Rev. Dr. D. B. Gordon, after Mayor Max J. Swanston and the five recently elected aldermen were sworn in, and was repeated in His Worship's formal address.

And, then in necessary transition, the thoughts and purpose of the meeting faced toward the second century and the council set its house in order after the citizens had left them in goodwill and with good wishes for the business which immediately follows the customary ceremonial of beginning a new administration.

Reunion of Mayors

The centennial occasion assumed pleasing aspects of a reunion of former mayors and aldermen, many of whom were

Gordon Says CNR Hopeful Of Getting Fuel Supplies

MONTREAL, Jan. 3—(CP)—Donald Gordon, Canadian National Railways president, said today that the C.N.R. has hopes of getting new fuel supplies but the general position which caused it to warn of passenger service cancellations remains unchanged. At his first press conference since he took office two days ago succeeding R. C. Vaughan, Mr. Gordon said the general position remains unchanged and depends on developments in the United States. The railway, in announcing last week plans for a 25-per-cent system-wide reduction in steam-operated passenger trains effective Jan. 9, said it was due to work stoppages and shortened working hours in U.S. Mines.

"We hope and expect," he added "that we may be able to get further coal from certain areas but we do not know definitely yet and a great deal will depend upon development in US."

To a questioner who asked if the planned cancellations might anticipate certain railroad economies, the new president said "There is no truth in any suggestions that we will use the coal shortage as a means of curtailing services."

Another questioner asked him what was his first decision as chief of the CNR. He replied it was to meet the press because as "a public service it is essential that the management should know what the public is thinking and the newspapers are the very medium to provide that service."

Dealing at length with the coal shortage, he said the CNR has not yet cancelled trains. It had warned the public "that they must expect reduced passenger service until coal becomes available."

Pearson On Way To Ceylon Talks

GANDER, Nfld., Jan. 3 (CP)—A four-engined RCAF plane carrying Canada's Minister of External Affairs, L. B. Pearson, headed across the heaving Atlantic early today on the second leg of an historic flight to the Commonwealth conference at Colombo, Ceylon.

The North Star aircraft, making the first round the world flight in the history of the RCAF, arrived here from Ottawa Monday night. After a brief stopover to refuel and allow the 30 persons aboard to stretch cramped muscles, the big plane set off for the Azores.

From there the pilot, Flt. Lt. E. W. Smith of Metis Beach, Que will head his aircraft for Gibraltar, Malta, Baghdad and Karachi, the capital of Pakistan before arriving at Colombo.

At the conference, opening Jan. 9, Mr. Pearson will act as Canada's voice in discussions that will include the Commonwealth's answer to the spread of Communism in Asia; broadening of trade between Canada and the Far East; and economic problems including the convertability of sterling and dololars.

Assembly Okays French Budget

PARIS, Jan. 3 (AP) — The French National Assembly approved a record breaking balanced budget Monday giving Premier Georges Bidault's coalition cabinet three votes of confidence.

But Bidault's two month old middle of the road government can still be defeated by a veto of the new budget in the parliament's Upper House, the Council of the Republic. It would have to scrape up 311 votes, an absolute majority of the Assembly, to pass the disputed measure over the council's veto. The highest number polled tonight was 305.

The new budget balances revenues and expenditures at 2,257,000,000,000 francs ($6,400,000,000). The vote climaxed a month-long dispute over the imposition of new taxes to meet the estimated outgo.

Year's Delay Hinted Before Law

Voters In Toronto Approve Sport By 88,108 To 81,793

TORONTO, Jan. 3 (CP)—The feeling in Ontario government circles today is that the province will pass legislation making commerical Sunday sport permissible in Toronto and Windsor. Both centres voted for Sunday sport in plebiscites at municipal elections.

However, a Toronto paper reported that there might be a year's delay. It said there is doubt in some circles that the government will have time to reach a decision and decide on proper legislation before the spring session of the provincial legislature, due to start in February.

The paper said there was a feeling that the government would not openly oppose Sunday sport where voters had favored it.

Another newspaper said the government will "reluctantly" accede to the Toronto vote. It said members of the government feel there may be considerable controversy when the permissive legislation comes to the floor of the Legislature.

Not Studied Issue

Hon. Daha Porter, attorney-general, said the government has not yet considered the issue which has become one of government policy.

Reports at Queen's Park are that policy will be settled at a cabinet meeting, and possible considered also at a caucus of Progressive Conservative members of the Ontario Legislature.

An authority on procedure said that only the government has the authority to bring in a bill setting aside the restrictive provisions of the 'Lord's Day Act in Toronto and Windsor. He said this could not be introduced by a private member.

Miners Enter Pits

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 3 — (AP)—Some 7,000 Illinois coal miners today balked at going back to work but the rest of the 480,000 United States diggers dispelled strike rumors by re-entering pits. During the long holiday week, rumors circulated that John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers might stop work again to support their leader's struggle for a new contract.

Home Wrecked By Intruders, Owner At Party

GRIMSBY, Jan. 3 (CP)—Furniture was overturned and broken, pictures were ripped from the wall and windows were smashed by persons who broke into the home of Col. G. R. Chetwynd and apparently staged a running fight while the owner and his family attended a New Year's Eve party. Damage is estimated at more than $1,000.

Police at St. Catharines are holding Norton Smith, 17-year-old Grimsby high school student, who they say was found lying on a bed in an upstairs room in the Chetwynd home. He has been charged with breaking and entering. Another youth is being sought.

Smith appeared in court today at St. Catharines on charges of breaking and entering by night and of causing wilful damage to the Chetwynd home. Without being asked to plead to the charges he was remanded until Jan. 6.

The Chetwynd's family's almost-blind terrier, driven or frightened out of the house by the intruders, ran onto a highway and was killed by an automobile.

"I have seen houses in Europe hit by shells where the damage was less," Col. Chetwynd told reporters. "I am inclined to the belief that a running fight took place and that the combatants were throwing things at each other and knocking over furniture. Blood was spattered in nearly every room. So far as I can find, nothing was stolen."

U.K. To Take 60 Million Pounds Bacon

1950 Price Set At 29 Cents, Seven-Cent Drop

OTTAWA, Jan. 3 — (CP). — Agriculture Minister Gardiner today announced completion of a new agreement to sell 60,000,000 pounds of bacon to the United Kingdom this year at 29 cents a pound.

Details of the contract were made in a statement issued simultaneously in Ottawa and London. British officials here said they were enthused over final arrangements. The 1950 price is 7 cents a pound lower than the 1949 contract.

The new contract price is 3.5 cents a pound below the floor price announced by Mr. Gardiner a fortnight ago and will mean that the Federal Government will have to absorb a loss of $2,100,000 on the deal.

Discontinue Subsidy

Mr. Gardiner said the bacon subsidy will be discontinued "on and after July 1, 1950."

By that time the Federal Meat Board is expected to have purchased all the bacon it needs to meet the British contract.

After that time, said Mr. Gardiner, "existent export controls on hogs and pork products may be removed."

Russ Charges Worry Finland

HELSINKI, Jan. 3 — (AP) — Finnish political circles today viewed Russia's grave charges of peace-treaty violations as timed to bolster Finnish Communists in the coming presidential election.

The Soviet new year's day charges that Finland is harboring more than 300 Russian war criminals was the most serious warning this tiny Baltic country has received from its huge neighbor since the end of the war.

Russia has accused Finland of violating its 1944 peace treaty by furnishing war criminals with false documents and names. The strongly-worded note from Moscow said 56 of the alleged war criminals were known by the Finnish Government.

Finnish president Kuho K. Paasikivi took office March 11, 1946, and his term expires in March this year. Electors are to be chosen Jan. 16 and 17 and the election is scheduled Feb. 15. Most sources believe the 78-year-old President Paasikivi will be re-elected.

In London it was felt that Moscow might be preparing to give Finland "full treatment" designed for those Soviet neighbors who do not subscribe to the Kremlin Line. British observers thought Russia was indicating its displeasure at anti-Communist political development under the present government.

Cars Collide Three Injured

OSHAWA, Jan. 3 (CP)—Three persons were taken to hospital here following a head-on collision Monday night in heavy fog on Highway 12 near the village of Myrtle, 14 miles north of here. None of the injuries was said to be severe although both automobiles were damaged extensively.

Injured were:

Mrs. Ross Fisher, of Scarboro, near Toronto, arm and head injuries and shock; John G. Reid, of Toronto, driver of one of the cars, head injuries and passenger, Mrs. W. Chambers of Peterborough, leg and body injuries.

Driver of the other car, Ross Fisher, was uninjured.

US Holiday Death Toll Reaches 401 Mark

CHICAGO, Jan. 3 — (AP)— The New Year's holiday violent death toll in the United States passed the 400 mark today, but represented a sharp drop compared to the Christmas week-end total of 580.

The 401 killed in all types of violent accidents was less than the traffic deaths over the Christmas holiday.

But traffic, as usual during a major holiday, was the big killer. There were 253 persons killed in moter mishaps over the long week-end. That was 77 below the 330 predicted by the National Safety Council. In the two-day 1949 New Year's holiday there were 309 violent accidental deaths, including 207 traffic fatalities.

Taft, Hoover Urge US Use Armies Protect Formosa

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3 (AP)— Two Republican leaders—former President Herbert Hoover and Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio—want the United States to use armed strength if necessary to protect Formosa from the Chinese Communists.

Their strong proposals spotlighted the troubled China situation as Congressmen flocked back to Washington for the second session of the 81st Congress.

Hoover suggested a three-point program of U. S. military defence of Formosa and lesser islands off Communist held China—no recognition for the Chinese Communist government, and continued recognition and support for Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist forces now on Formosa.

These moves, he said, would build "a wall against Communism in the Pacific." And he added they would give "at least a continued hope of some time turning China in the paths of freedom again."

Taft told reporters that both American naval power and air power should be used to defend Formosa and prevent the spread of Communism in Asia.

Hoover gave his views in a letter to Senator William Knowland (Rep. Calif.) who released it Monday with a sharp criticism of his own against the administration's Far East policy. A short time later Taft outlined his position to a press conference.

Britain Plugs Dollar Drain

LONDON, Jan. 3 (AP)—Britain has plugged a persistent drain on her fund of United States dollars, an informed source reported today. He said an official announcement probably will be made Thursday.

The informant said this meant that devaluation of the pound has achieved its immediate purpose, and that, with the economics situation better, the chances have been increased for a general election in February or March. The Labor government must call an election before mid-summer when it will have been in office five years.

During the three months since Britain devalued her pound from $4.03 to $2.80 U.S., the informants said, her reserves were increased by nearly $100,000,000. The figure was $1,404,000,000 Sept. 30, 12 days after devaluation. Now, the informant said it is about $1,500,000,000.

The treasury is not passing final judgment on the success or failure of the devaluation policy unless and until the present trend continues for another three months, the informant said.

Latest Royal Romance May Be Farouk Upset

LONDON, Jan. 3 (AP) — Informed observers here anticipated King Farouk's reported Royal romance and the failure of his troops in Palestine might materially affect the result of today's parliamentary election in Egypt.

These sources suggested new unpopularity for the 29-year-old monarch, stemming from his reported interference in the romance of a young Egyptian couple, might strengthen the hand of the powerful Wafsit party and the Extremist Moslem Brotherhood, who oppose some of the King's policies.

Farouk and the Saadist majority in the present chamber already share the responsibility for Egypt's failure to crush the new Jewish State of Israel in the 1948 Palestine war. Egypt's unsuccessful military campaign in Palestine has been a blow to the fierce national pride.

News of dissatisfaction has leaked out despite censorship of Egypt's press and outgoing and incoming news dispatches.

2 Labor Chiefs Demand Government End Unemployment Emergency

Charge Ottawa Withholding Figures As Jobless Reach 300,000; Situation Extremely Grave, Nation Told

OTTAWA, Jan. 3—(CP)—The government was faced today with a joint demand from the country's two major labor chieftains for quick action to meet a "national emergency" in unemployment. It was the first joint action taken by the rival labor congresses—the Canadian Congress of Labor and the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada—in two years. Presidents A. R. Mosher of the C.C.L. and Percy Bengough of the T. L. C. urged the government to put into effect its accumulated public works projects for unemployment relief and to take other measures if these do not meet the situation.

They also accused the government of withholding some unemployment figures from the public and said reports received by their respective headquarters gave them "every reason to believe that more than 300,000 workers now are unemployed in Canada, representing more than six per cent of the entire labor force."

Labor Minister Mitchell was not available for comment, having left the capital for an undisclosed destination to spend the New Year's holiday. He is expected to return to the capital Wednesday.

Discussing unemployment generally, the spokesman said the number of persons unemployed always rose during winter months due to difficulty in placing seasonal workers. Farm laborers and those engaged on inland waters shipping found it difficult to obtain employment. This was aggravated this year by a reduction in the number of men wanted in the country's logging camps.

208,000 Unemployed

The latest reports from the labor department placed the number of job-seekers registered with the National Employment Service at the beginning of December at 208,000.

A government spokesman said there would not yet have been time to compile December figures.

The heads of the 460,000-member TLC and the 350,000-member CCL said the unemployment situation "has become so serious as to cause grave apprehension throughout the nation. On behalf of our respective organizations, representing nearly 1,000,000 workers, we wish to urge in the strongest possible manner that the government not only make the full facts known, but take appropriate steps to meet what has become a national emergency."

For the last three months, they said, the regular monthly report on claims for unemployment insurance benefits have been "withheld."

Union officials said the material alleged to have been withheld consists of detailed figures broken down by regions and municipalities. These had been furnished the congresses for some years up to last August, but none had been issued since then. The government still is making public national totals.

Charles Lamb Lindsay Mayor

Charles Lamb on Monday was elected mayor of Lindsay, defeating the encumbent, R. I. Moore by 127 votes.

It was a case of turn about as Mr. Moore ousted Mr. Lamb from office a year ago.

For deputy reeve it was a battle of the sexes as Miss Ada Greaves defeated Lloyd Burrows by 96 votes.

Following are the 1950 election results for Lindsay: Mayor—Charles Lamb 1793, R. I. Moore 1666; deputy reeve — Miss Ada Greaves 1593, Lloyd Burrows 1497; council (five elected) — Richard Butler, Vincent Cote, Frank Speer, Charles Ferguson and R. A. Wainman.

The ratepayers of Lindsay voted overwhelmingly in favor of the bus franchise bylaw, 3141 to 106.

Toronto Approves

In a record civic election turnout Monday voters of this "City of Churches" surprisingly decided by 88,108 to 81,793 to allow commercialized sports on the Sabbath.

In doing so they over-rode the almost unanimous opposition of the churches, went against the editorial advice of the city's three daily newspapers, and tossed the controversial question back to City Council.

But as far as Council is concerned the Sunday sport question now is largely technical. Mayor Hiram McCallum, re-elected with a record majority, said the question will be taken up with the Provincial Government early this month. The city's four Board of Control members—all re-elected—said they will support him.

Overshadowed by the Sunday sports question was the record vote total, the record mayoralty vote, the decision to change regular election date from New Year's Day probably to the first Monday in December, and the defeat of all but one of the Communist candidates.

Can File Petition

The result of the plebiscite on Sunday sport permits the city to petition the Ontario Legislature to amend the Federal Lord's Day Act. Windsor already has such a petition before the government after voting 2 to 1 in favor of Sunday sports recently. The procedure would be to pass a Bill giving municipalities the power to amend their by-laws, to delete that section of the Federal Act (administered by the Provinces) which bans sport events on Sundays at which admission is charged.

The only candidate openly supporting Sunday sport was Controller Norman Lamport, and he was opposed by three newspapers. But in their sports columns Ted Reeve of the Telegram and Jim Coleman of the Globe and Mail encouraged readers to vote "yes" on the question: "Are you in favor of the city of Toronto seeking legislation to make amateur, professional and other forms of commercialized sport legal on Sunday?"

Most young persons, who would be expected to favor Sunday sports, did not have a say in the matter. Those eligible to vote are tenants or owners of property assessed at $400 or more and 21 or over. Most persons living in rooms were ineligible since the assessment on single rooms seldom is as much as $400.

Spokesmen for all denominations had urged a "no" vote. James Cardinal McGuigan, Roman Catholic Archbishop of Toronto, although not directly opposing the issue said in a letter to Diocesan clergy a month ago that the whole of Sunday "is to be given to God and kept holy."

Avoid Interference

Chief among the affirmative group was the Sunday Afternoon Sports Committee which emphasized that games would be held between 1 p.m. and 6 p.m. so as not to interfere with church services.

Spurred by the heated debate on sports, the vote total was 168,578 compared with the previous record of 154,458 in 1949. Monday's figure, however, represented only 44.5 per cent of the 378,759 eligible, a scant fraction above 1939's percentage of 44.04.

Mayor McCallum's 133,320 votes gave him a personal record for the highest number of votes ever cast for a mayoralty candidate. Previous record was 122,927 for Robert H. Saunders, in 1948. Mr. Saunders left the mayor's chair to become chairman of the Ontario Hydro Power Commission.

There was virtually no contest for the mayoralty. Charles Mahoney, a business executive, making his first bid for office, drew 19,658, and Ross Dowson, steelworker and candidate of the Trotskyite Revolutionary Workers' Party, 15,600.

While all four controllers were re-elected, it was a squeeze for Controller Lamport, who won the fourth seat by 377 votes over the fifth contender.

Complete Returns

Complete returns gave John M. Innes 96,139; Leslie H. Saunders 87,799; D. A. Balfour 78,090, and Lamport 72,436. J. L. Shannon had 71,059; Stewart Smith, Communist, 45,251; Harry Bradley, 21,719, and F. J. Vacher 9,850.

The only one of the four Communists elected was Norman Freed, re-elected alderman in Ward 4.

Two Communists were returned to the Board of Education. Mrs. Edna Ryerson was re-elected in Ward 5 and S. J. Walsh received an acclamation in Ward 4.

A. J. Keans, chairman of the 1949 board, was defeated in Ward 7 by Mrs. Mary Temple, wife of the CCF member of the Ontario Legislature for Toronto High Park. In the last Ontario general election, Mrs. Temple's husband, William Temple, beat George Drew, then Ontario premier, in the High Park riding.

Ten of the city's 18 aldermen were returned to office, plus two elected by acclamation. There were six acclamations for the 18-member Board of Education. Alfred J. Skeans, last year's Board of Education chairman, was defeated in Ward 7.

9 In Hospital After Collisions

BOWMANVILLE, Jan. 3 (CP) —Nine persons were taken to hospital here following two separate collisions in dense fog on No. 2 highway near here Monday. None of the injuries were said to be severe.

Both accidents, police said, occurred when an automobile pulled out of line on the narrow highway and struck an oncoming vehicle. Visibility was limited to 25 feet, police said.

Mrs. Dorothea Keech, of Kingston, suffered head injuries and Mrs. Maude Burdett, of Galt, fractured ribs, in the first accident The cars were driven by their respective husbands.

A few minutes later seven persons, passengers in an automobile driven by Thomas McCarty, Beeton, Ont., were taken to hospital following a head-on crash with a transport truck driven by Harold Foyster, Winona, Ont. Their names were not released by the hospital.

UK To Take

This will mean that Canadian shippers once more will be able to sell bacon and other pork products to the United States and U. S. exporters will be able to ship their low-priced pork products to Canada.

"Meantime," said Mr. Gardiner "consideration will be given to applications for export permits for bacon to be shipped to markets other than Great Britain."

The new bacon contract compared with the 160,000,000-pound contract negotiated with the UK in 1949. The price obtained then was 36 cents a pound. However, because of high domestic demand and low production Canada was unable to ship more than 100,000,000 pounds.

Better Than Expected

A United Kingdom source said the new contract price of 29 cents a pound for grade a Wiltshires was a "better price than we had hoped for."

To pay for the bacon, the UK has obtained agreement from Canada to defer delivery of $17,500,000 worth of Canadian wheat from the 1949-50 wheat contract.

But another $10,000,000 worth of wheat will be deferred in order to provide the UK with funds to pay for Canadian canned salmon and eastcoast spruce.

The new Anglo-Canadian bacon contract is "extremely disappointing," H. H. Hannam, president of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, said today.

"The new contract, both from the standpoint of quantity and price, is extremely disappointing and is bound to have a distressing effect on the entire hog industry of Canada," Mr. Hannam said in a statement.

"For the past eight years the bacon contract with the UK has taken all of Canada's export surpluses—and has been the best means of providing a stable floor price for hog producers, a matter of vital importance to the industry."

The opening of the United States market some time next summer was not "an encouraging prospect," Mr. Hannam said.

Ross Harrison Retains Smith Reeveship

Reeve Ross Harrison won the major honors in Smith elections Monday defeating Robert Tully, Deputy-Reeve last year, by 199 votes. The division of the electors was: Harrison 603 and Tully 404.

Mr. Harrison carried five of the seven polls, and Mr. Tully received the majority at the two others, Milburn's School on the Chemong Road, and Queen Elizabeth School in the suburban fringe.

Gordon Fitzgerald was elected to the deputy-reeveship in a contest with Milton Clark. The margin was 254 votes. Fitzgerald polled 642 to Clark's 388. Both were councillors last year.

Fitzgerald had majorities at all the polls, except Bridgenorth, where Clark had a lead of 27.

The three councillors elected were: Sidney Brown 651; Robert McAdam 649; Allan B. Mann 608. The fourth candidate for council was Albert Crowe 485.

Mr. Mann headed five of the seven polls, Bridgenorth, Lakefield, Selwyn, Young's Point and Buckhorn Road. Mr. Brown led the council field at Queen Elizabeth School, and Mr. McAdam at Milburn's School.

Long Absence

Gordon Fitzgerald is returning to the deputy-reeveship after a long absence from that post which qualifies him as one of Smith's two representatives on the county council. He had retired from the township council some years ago, and recently started up the elective ladder again through the council.

Sidney Brown is the youngest son of the late William Brown, a reeve of Smith years ago.

The members of the council last year were: Reeve Ross Harrison; Deputy Reeve Robert Tully, and Councillors Alan B. Mann, Milton Clark and Gordon Fitzgerald.

Active Voting

The holiday voting was fairly active, Mr. A. I. Edamison, township clerk, commented to the Examiner. The number of qualified voters is around 2,800 of whom some are non-resident property owners. Ballots marked for the reeveship were 1,007.

Welfare: Ald. Burrows, with Young, Anglesey and Braund.

Invokes Blessing

The Rev. Dr. D. Bruce Gordon of Trinity United Church, president of the Peterborough Ministerial Association, led the assembly of citizens in prayer invoking God's blessing on the work of the council and also upon the people of Peterborough and their homes, following his reading from the 21st chapter of the Book of Revelations.

Concluding with an address that dwelt on the occasion of the 100th anniversary of Peterborough's municipal incorporation, Rev. Dr. Gordon said it was a far cry from the small town of 1850 to the bustling industrial centre of today.

Citizens were generally aware of all the changes which had taken place with the development of the city, but only superficially perhaps in their observations of the new faces, new stores and factories and new housing areas.

"It is the council that is more keenly aware of the growth of Peterborough in recent years. When I pause sometimes and think of the tasks recent councils have had to face in that period I have a feeling of deep respect and not a little wonder. For a community to increase in population by 50% in less than 10 years is a very significant thing, and must have caused some growing pains."

New Perspective

The work of the council had to be concentrated on the increasing of its service and public utilities, transportation, education to keep pace with the needs of that growth in estate, Dr. Grdon said. There were citziens who found it easy to speak of what the council should do, but in reviewing what it has actually accomplished the thoughtful gains a new perspective of the work and details of administration.

"Peterborough has been more fortunate in its civic leadership. During the five years that I have been here, I have yet to find a citizens who was not ready to express his pride in being a resident of this city. With sincere appreciation of the development and leadership during the past, we find ourselves at a decisive point in the history of our community This occasion is more than a milestone and the beginning of a new year. It is the opening of the second century of the history of Peterborough since it became a town, and it is also the opening of the second half of the 20th century."

Dr. Gordon said this present time was a decisive period in world development, where ideals, standards of private thinking and public responsibility, basic creeds of government, education and faith were being challenged and tested again.

"The ultimate result, we feel, will be a larger, more humane, more Christlike standards and practice. That is our faith, for we are a democracy, which is just another term for faith in our fellowmen."

Dr. Gordon said that people should be led to exercise the principles of democracy, its responsibilities, as well as its privileges, to be citizens and not merely residents. In that respect the municipality was a training ground for the task of world citizenship. In its affairs the citizen found opportunity of expressing himself in opinion, influence and service. He was a man among his fellows, free to play his part in making his community strong and worthy.

Need Strong Citizenship

"If there had been a strong and active civic consciousness in the towns and cities of Germany some years ago, our world would have been saved much. A strong nation and a world of peace can only be built on strong and worthy citizenship in our civilian life."

Dr. Gordon said he had often thought that Dominion Day, should be an occasion of a civic receptin for those young men and women who had passed their 21st birthdays during the year immediately gone by. It would bring home to them a deeper sense of their responsibility and realization of the fine heritage which had come to them from their forefathers.

In conclusion, Dr. Gordon said Peterborough faced the future with confidence.

"May the blessing of God be with this Council, and with all our citizens in this year of 1950, that it may be the best year we have known and that our civic life may be some reflection of the City of God."

Mayor Swanston thanked Dr. Gordon for his references to the Council, and for his words of prayer for its successful and faithful performance of duty. His Worship also appealed to the citizens for "all the help you can give us."

Junior Farmers Get Advice At Guelph Meet

KEMPTVILLE, Jan. 3 (CP) — Eastern Ontario's top junior farmers began registering Monday for their annual two-day conference.

About 100 boys and girls are expected to be on hand for the opening business sessions of the conference today. They include delegates from farm clubs in about 15 eastern Ontario counties and from New York State.

Today and Wednesday they will hear lectures by experts in various fields of farm management, work groups and entertainment.

Prof. R. G. Knox, animal husbandry department, opened the livestock, soils, and crops course. Dr. G. P. McRostie, head of the department of field husbandry, discussed hybrid corn as a grain crop. Dr. R. J. Weir talked of better hays and pastures as sources of the cheapest feed. Dr. H. D. Branion spoke of nutrition in relation to hays and pastures.

Fundamental Place

Said Prof. Knox: "Livestock in Ontario agriculture has a fundamental place with respect to a sense of security of the agricultural community, as well as with reference to the maintenance of the fertility of the soils of the province.

"Indeed, the production of livestock constitutes one of the most efficient implements in the conservation of our soils. Our people must enjoy a sense of security while they engage in a profitable enterprise."

The importance of sires of known ancestry and the value of planned breeding programs are being emphasized in the courses

Brutal Attack

OWEN SOUND, Jan. 3 (CP) — Declaring "our police must be protected against these brutal attacks" Magistrate E. C. Speremean today sentenced 21-year-old George Rush to two months in jail on conviction of a charge of assault occasioning actual bodily harm. The charge arose out of a New Year's Eve fracas at Rockford, three miles south of here, when Provincial Police Constable Ed. Johnston was attacked by Rash as he attempted to break up two fights at a dance. Constable Johnston suffered a dislocated nose, two black eyes, facial bruises and a cut over his eye which required three stitches.

Three Break Bones In Weekend Mishaps

COBOURG, Jan. 3 (ENS) — Emmett Crowe of Cobourg, sustained a broken left wrist when he slipped on the ice near the ferry dock on New Year's night. Mr. Crowe, who is employed at the ferry dock, broke a leg a few years ago when he slipped on some ice at the dock.

A fractured left shoulder was received by Mrs. Ernie Outwin on New Year's Eve in a fall in her home.

The third week-end mishap was suffered by 84-year-old Mrs. F. W. Ashdown who received a broken leg when struck by a truck while crossing the intersection of King and Ball streets on Sunday evening. Police said the truck was driven by Moreley Down of 499 Front Street, Trenton. Constable E. Butler investigated the traffic accident.

Two Youths Charged With Shopbreaking

COBOURG, Jan. 3.—James W. Shearing, 1, and John Rhyemas, 19, both of Toronto, were arrested over the week-end on two shopbreaking charges.

They are accused of breaking into Ball's Mill, Baltimore, where an attempt was made to open the safe, and with breaking and entering and theft from a grocery store in Cobourg.

Some $300 in cash and $175 in cigaretes were taken from the grocery store, but were recovered after the men's arrest.

They were picked up near Fenella, by Provincial Constables Lyle Erskine, Frank Clough and Don Nicol. They were remanded in custdy a week.

Fire In Sawmill Quickly Checked

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 3.—(ENS).—Fire in the sawdust on the floor of McManus mill, Lakefield, was discovered Sunday at 7.45 a.m. in time to avoid a large fire which might have resulted in several thousands of dollars damage.

When Jack Man was on his way to work Sunday morning, he saw smoke coming from the mill and turned in the fire alarm. The two fire engines and the brigade under Fire Chief Allan Clark, rushed to the scene and the flames were checked before doing serious damage.

The mill was in use on Saturday, but the origin of the fire is not known. Among the valuable articles which would have been lost if the fire had not been discovered until later in the day, were a new $4,000 tractor and a quantity of logs.

The mill is owned by James McManus and Sons.

E. G. BAKER

Baker Appointed Bell Manager

E. G. (Al) Baker, of Toronto, has been appointed Bell Telephone manager for Peterborough and vicinity, it was announced today. He succeeds the late F. D. Tufford who died here two weeks ago.

In addition to his Peterborough duties, Mr. Baker will supervise the company's business offices in Campbellford, Hastings, Havelock, Lakefield, Norwood and Omemee.

With 21 years' experience in the telephone business since he entered the company's service in Toronto in January, 1928, Mr. Baker brings wide knowledge of various phases of the telephone industry to his new position. Beginning his career as an installer, he became in 1931 a supervisor of salesmen. Transferred to the Toronto business office in 1934 he again joined the sales staff in 1937. With the exception of one year in the general commercial office he remained with the sales department until January, 1944, when he was appointed to the staff of the assistant vice-president in Montreal. In April, 1949, he returned to Toronto as special services supervisor in the general commercial department.

Born in Markdale on July 25, 1910, Mr. Baker received his public and high school education there. In 1935 he married Marjorie Shier of Owen Sound. He has two children, Brian, six, and Barry, nine. His favorite sports are baseball and tennis, and he is a keen angler and gardener. He was recording steward of the Carlton Street United Church in Toronto for four years and was a founder of the Communications Club in Toronto. He was president of the Toronto Bell Telephone Employees' Association in 1943.

Farming Couple Celebrates 40th Anniversary

WARKWORTH, Jan. 3. (ENS).—More than 90 guests attended a party Friday at the Free Methodist parsonage, in honor of Mr and Mrs. William Ireland who were celebrating their 40th wedding anniversary. Hosts were the Rev. A. B. Moffat and Mrs Moffat.

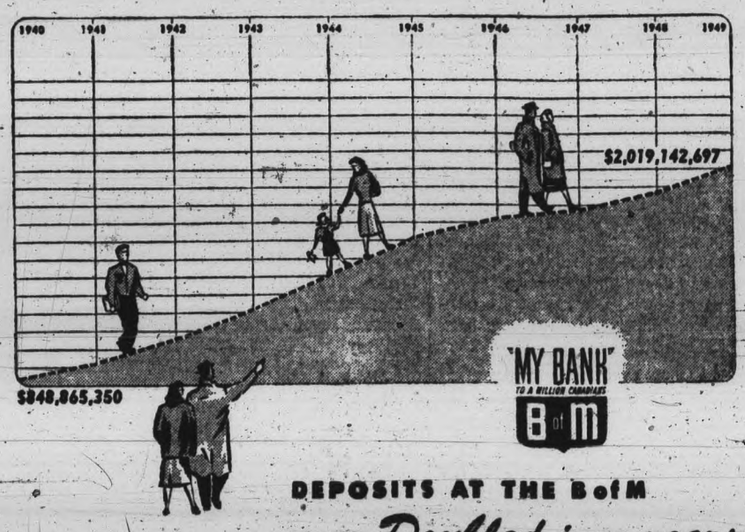
Mr. Ireland was born on the third concession of Percy township and is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Ireland. Mrs. Ireland, whose maiden name was Gertrude Pratt, is the eldest daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Elijah Pratt, of Maberly, Ont., in Lanark county.

After their marriage in 1909 they lived on the Ireland homestead in Percy township until moving to Warkworth a few years ago.

They have a daughter, Mrs. John Nixon (Olive) of Norwood, and a son, Fax Ireland, who lives in Campbellford, and four grandchildren.

Relatives attended from Norwood, Campbellford, Peterborough, Cobourg, Grafton, Colborne, Frankford, Fenella and Oak Heighs.

Dr. G. W. Grieve Dies



TORONTO, Jan. 3—(CP)—Dr. George Wellington Grieve, 79, internationally known orthodontist, died Monday after a prolonged illness. He was honorary vice-president of the World Orthodontic Congress. Born at Cobourg, Ont., Dr. Grieve graduated from the Royal College of Dental Surgeons, Toronto, in 1899. In 1931 he was elected honorary vice-president of the World Orthodontic Congress in London.

Canadians are thinking of tomorrow

DEPOSITS AT THE B of M HAVE Doubled in 10 years

—NOW TOTAL MORE THAN TWO BILLION DOLLARS

This huge sum is a tribute to Canadians' foresight and thrift.

Ten years ago, B of M customers kept a total of $848,000,000 in their savings and current accounts. During the war years, these people took the opportunity to boost their 'Fund For Tomorrow' to $1,613,000,000.

Their habit of saving for the years ahead has not only persisted since the war but has gained in strength. Today, their deposits stand at more than two billion dollars — an all-time B of M record and the largest Canadian deposits of any bank. Of this money, well over a billion dollars is in savings.

The fact that the B of M's resources also have topped the two-billion mark during the past year proves one thing clearly — that the size of a financial institution such as the Bank of Montreal simply reflects the measure of confidence a million and a half Canadian men and women share in it.

And by thinking of tomorrow, these people are helping to build the Canada of today and tomorrow. For their savings determine the support the Bank can bring — through investments and loans — to the enterprise of men and businesses across the nation. Indeed, this year, loans made by the B of M are the highest they've ever been.

Working with the people of Canada for the past 132 years, the Bank has kept continually before it these two guiding purposes — to assist actively the nation's economic development and to justify always the confidence of its depositors.

No Annual Royal Visit

Again this Christmas the King spoke to his subjects, by radio. Popular as was the Royal Tour in 1939, it is the removed King, remote from us as his throne, remote yet as intimate as his radio voice, that most Canadians conceive. To have the King visit Canada frequently and regularly, as the Toronto Saturday Night suggests, would bring him down to Canadian earth through which might dissipate, as a grounded electric current, the 'divinity which doth hedge a king'. We in this Dominion are content to have an occasional peep and the remote voice. As Burke said of Lord Chatham, the most dictatorial and imperious of English statesmen: "The least peep into the king's closet intoxicates him". That is the sort of intoxication which many Canadians now have from their King, got through the least peep, not from a full view.

• • •

We are glad to have a hereditary monarch, a king reigning over us constitutionally, but the regal mystery and our freedom of action seem best preserved when Royalty descends on us very infrequently. We comfortably take royalty vicariously, through the King's vice-regal nominee, the Governor-General, and through a voice coming across three thousand radio miles of sea; through pictures, the National Anthem, and our imagination.

Bagehot says in his English Constitution:

"The sovereign has, under a constitutional monarchy such as ours, three rights; the right to be consulted, the right to encourage, the right to warn; and a king of great sense and sagacity would want no others,—he would find that his having no others would enable him to use these with singular effect."

• • •

The King, as King of Canada, has a fourth right: to rule remotely and through a vicar. It is a right which we in Canada have preserved, and which all sovereigns have heretofore exacted. This right Victoria, George the Fifth, and George the Sixth, have used with singular effect. The effect would be destroyed if the King were to descend to Canadian earth periodically; a Royal Progress annually repeated could become a tourist's junket.

Two Million Cars

Canadians this year own more than two million motor vehicles. Most of them are cars, and there are enough of them to provide one car for every eight persons in Canada. There are more cars than there are single houses.

The Canadian automobile industry is proud of that fact that since automobile manufacturing began in this country more than five million vehicles have come off Canadian assembly lines. Last year the industry manufactured 116,819 passenger cars, 96,147 trucks and 794 buses, a total of 263,760 vehicles. Their selling value was $348,028,234. It was a record year, but this present year's production indicates that this peak will be passed. Of the 1948 production, 31,503 cars, 23,259 trucks and 11 buses were exported. There are eleven manufacturing plants in Canada.

It is generally known that the Canadian industry does not build most of its cars from the exhaust pipe to bonnet without depending on foreign (chiefly American) parts. In 1948 the industry imported $103,791,894 worth of parts and 20,612 complete vehicles valued at $27,302,683 were imported. Thus the total cost of importing parts and vehicles was the huge sum of $131,094,577. Most of this was paid out in American dollars, and therefore constitutes a large drain on our dollar reserves. The automobile industry is far from balancing its exports and imports. The value of the cars and parts exported was a mere $55,000,000.

Another item of interest in the business is that of the 221,300 new vehicles sold in Canada last year, 51,867 were bought on the instalment plan, arranged by financing companies. In the same year 103,767 used vehicles were bought by the same method. The total amount of the financing was 216,104,000. Readers who have not afforded cars may console themselves with the thought that they do not owe a single penny on the shiny new and used cars bought last year and now on the roads.

U.S. To Help Defend Formosa

One of the most important foreign-defence policy decisions made by the United States during 1949 was announced as the year ended. It was a distinct surprise to most observers, for it was a complete reversal of attitude by the Joint Chiefs of Staff and the U.S. State Department. It was a decision to help the Chinese Nationalist forces defend the Island of Formosa, the assistance to follow much the same pattern as United States aid to Greece in that nation's struggle with its Communist forces.

Some of the leading military men of the United States have consistently advocated this policy, among them General Douglas MacArthur, who certainly ranks high in public opinion, at least, as a military strategist. Some of his brother generals, however, are said to dislike MacArthur and inclined to belittle his opinions. According to one Washington report, these men had thoroughly convinced the Joint Chiefs of Staff that the risk involved in helping to defend Formosa was far greater than any gain which could be expected. Their conviction, however, apparently collapsed before the report of a recent U.S. military mission to Japan.

As in any highly controversial issue, the wisdom of this policy reversal will long be debatable, for there can be no decision based on evidence until military action (or lack of it) proves or disproves the point. One of the obvious complications is the effect this military mission will have on any future diplomatic relations between the United States and Communist China. Another is the extent to which Russia will regard the mission as justification for increasing aerial or naval assistance (or both) to the Chinese Communists.

It will be interesting to observe what effect this policy reversal will have on the status of the Chinese Nationalist delegates to the United Nations, and on the demand of the Chinese Communists that they be appointed to replace the representatives of the former mainland government. The latter issue may arouse considerable debate, for by the time it is introduced a number of nations are expected to have recognized the Communist Government of China.

Credo

We picked up this morning a book conceived before the Wall Street Crash had flattened the western world, and published in New York in 1930. It is called Living Philosophies. The editors asked dozens of people whom they considered important enough to give a message to "Our Age", to set down in their own words their creed. Twenty-two responded, or were dragged in by devious means to the "Symposium".

It is interesting now to run the eye over the names of the contributors, if not to read what they all have to say. These men of importance in American eyes were: Albert Einstein, Bertrand Russell, John Dewey, Robert Millikan, Theodore Dreiser, H. G. Wells, Fridtjof Nansen, Sir James Jeans, Irving Babbitt, Sir Arthur Keith, James Truslow Adams, H. L. Mencken, Julia Peterkin (in fairness to our readers, we state that her claim to fame was a Pulitzer Prize of 1929 for her novel Scarlet Sister Mary), Lewis Mumford, George Jean Nathan, Hu Shih (author of a history of Chinese philosophy), Joseph Wood Krutch, Irwin Edman (a professor of philosophy at Columbia University), Hilaire Belloc, Beatrice Webb, William Ralph Inge, J. B. S. Haldane.

The list is understandably weighted with Americans. What important names in 1950's ear it omits! No Churchill, no Stalin, no Mao, no Tito, no painter, musician, general or Gandhi. It is significant of those bewildering days that the book had space for so many critics, sceptics and for the supreme American iconoclast H. L. Mencken.

When Is The Halfway Mark?

Was there a year 0? Since a child does not have his first birthday until he has lived a year, it is reasonable to suppose that Christ, on whose birth our calendar is predicted, was not considered a year old until A.D. 1. Therefore, there was a year between B.C. and A.D. 1. Although the sixth century monk Dionysius Exiguus, who is reputed to have begun the custom of dating the calendar from the birth of Christ, may have made a mistake and left out the year 0, later people do not give much heed to scholarly statements that the twentieth century did not begin until the year 1901. The year 1900 was ushered in with ceremony and celebration as the dawn of the new century. So on January 1st, 1950, we are prepared to greet the second half of the twentieth century, and if we live to January 1st, 2,000 A.D. we shall then celebrate the beginning of the 21st century of the Christian era.

If some pedants want to wait to celebrate the coming of the next half-century until January 1st, 1951, we shall not interfere. For ourself, we took this January 1st. We see little use in quibbling about accuracy in the dating anyway, since Christ was more certainly born in 4 B.C. than in the year 1 A.D.—so scholars have discovered.

Fifty Years Of Typescript

OR. THE PAPER CHASER'S CARNIVAL

By IVOR BROWN

WHETHER or no we agree that a new half-century began on January 1st, 1950 there is no doubt that the years 1900-1950 will be memorable for the number of labour saving devices which never saved labour. Many, indeed, have made laborious matters far worse.

◇ ◇ ◇

THE spreading of the telephone has been one of these pests. The presence of this instrument forces one to make all sorts of arrangements which need never have been arranged and submits one to all sorts of invitations and requests at short notice which it would be bliss to avoid. The old convention that invitations ought to be written, so that excuses for refusing could be thought out at leisure and expressed with grace, had its manifest advantages.

THINK of the old-world Editor of a newspaper. That was a happy time when he sat and waited for the despatches to come in by frigate or coach or rider. There was nothing he could do to make ships and horses faster. So he lit one of the new-fangled cigars, for which he changed into a smoking-cap and smoking jacket, so important was the ritual of smoking, ordered three pennyworth of brandy and hot water and waited for the Trafalgars and Waterloos to be soberly reported in due course. But now he must be ringing up people all over the world, straining, worrying, never at peace.

HE wrote, of course, in long-hand, but he had been taught to write properly and would not be illegible. His printers could "take him" without a groan. And he wrote just fast enough to keep pace with his thoughts. But then came the typewriter. Patents for this machine were being rapidly taken out as long as a century ago, but its real triumph has come in the last fifty years. It has since then revolutionized women's lives by bringing them into offices and revolutionized offices by bringing women into them. It had certain conveniences of legibility; but it had one disastrous effect. It made so much easier the spilling of needless quantities of words. This nuisance became far worse when duplicating supervened. People who would have hesitated to get their quenchless minutes, reports and propaganda set up, at some cost, in print, now began to flood everybody's desks with masses of typewritten tedium.

◇ ◇ ◇

GO about the centre of any town and through the windows comes one incessant and unchanging noise, tap, tap, tap. Lazy men, too idle to write, dictate to busy women who comb the stuff out and reproduce it with their patient tap, tap, tap. Handwriting gets worse and worse. Mail-boxes become fuller and fuller.

◇ ◇ ◇

GOVERNMENT departments, educational societies, welfare bodies keep shovelling out this flood of typescript. Half of it need never have been written and would not have been if there had been no typewriters with their hand-maidens to keep up the key-bashing with unflagging energy.

◇ ◇ ◇

SO the typewriter, instead of saving labour, has multiplied it in every land, not for the typists only, but for the readers or at least for such readers as lack the courage and good-sense to throw most of it away. And what a colossal waste of paper the typewriter has encouraged! My own desk is cluttered every morning with the paper-chasers' typewritten reports, chronicles and imprecations which ought either to be more concise or ought never to have been begun at all. Great chunks of it go straight into the waste-paper-basket unread. I could hardly do a stroke of my own work if I really tried to cope with all this torrent of typescript which I receive from other people.

I DO not wish wantonly to disparage such bodies as UNESCO, about whose achievements I am vague. But I recently read about the numbers of words, astronomical millions of words, with which it has afflicted the world. I surmise that the League of Nations and the United Nations and all their associated bodies have used up more paper, much of it typewritten, than was used by all the political secretariats in the world before 1920.

◇ ◇ ◇

NO gathering can now meet without this proliferation of papers. The recording of speeches by machine has made the gaseous more gassy than ever. The welcomes, the inaugurations, the prolegomena, the subsequent transcripts swell into millions of words. But here is an important conference of the Roman world's great Triumvirs as imagined by Shakespeare in "Antony and Cleopatra".

Caesar: Welcome to Rome.
Antony: Thank you.
Caesar: Sit.
Antony: Sit, sir.
Caesar: Nay, then.
Antony: I learn, you take things ill which are not so,
Or being, concern you not.

And they are down to the job. They lived before shorthand, typewriting, duplicating, and all the rest of it. They lived before labour-saving. Can you imagine any such brevities at Lake Success or at one of those everlasting Three-Power Conferences in Paris?

◇ ◇ ◇

THERE were once the Luddite Riots in England conducted by those who smashed the machines which they thought would ruin them. Shall we, in the next fifty years, learn to smash a million typewriters and a million telephones, too? Some of these machines are necessary, helpful and should remain. But millions could go to the knackers and leave us with uncluttered desks, free and happier folk, our labour saved.

"AND THIS LITTLE PIG WENT . . ."

'Fifty Years Of Europe . . .'

By LORD DUNSANY

WHAT is that that has been rushing by so noisily and so swiftly? It is fifty years. One had hardly noticed. But they have gone. And changes mark their passage; more changes, I suppose, than any other fifty years have made in the history of Man.

Looking out of my window, I see my tennis court. Nobody just round here ever calls it anything else. But I suppose, if a stranger looked at it, he would wonder how it came by its name. The fact is, as I now begin to recognize, that in fifty years its pleasant corders of trees have nearly joined hands, and a certain number of flowers have grown up in their shelter, so that "tennis court" is only a convenient name by which to describe a certain part of what is really a copse.

Again, while London, once twenty miles away, is prowling nearer and nearer, our woods, with thousands of sycamores skirmishing on ahead of them, are advancing down slopes of hills, so that at a glance one could not tell for certain which was going to win, the wild or the tame. And that seems to depend on the cleverness of Man. But the odd thing about that is that the cleverness of Man is no more on the side of the tame than of the wild. Man plans cities, driving Nature further and further back. But that ancient spirit waits, while Man grows cleverer and cleverer, till he is able with neat facility to overthrow the cities he made; and one day Nature comes back into his streets with her willowherb.

But I will make no attempt to foretell what the next fifty years will do, because I have noticed about the progress of anything that it is apt to progress like a wave of an incoming tide, which comes sweeping in for perhaps four hundred yards, to be succeeded by another, that does not come eight hundred yards up the beach, but about four hundred yards one inch. That is how progress seems to go, so that the simple arithmetic of adding fifty years of progress to the progress of another fifty years does not always give us an accurate view of the future.

Another change I have noticed in the last fifty years may be due to the mere passage of time, which has naturally resulted in getting to know one's neighbours better; but there is a certain friendliness everywhere that mere time cannot entirely account for, and which is as though an angel had been walking amongst us. Actually it was Goering. People used to die separately and go alone to their graves, but when one experienced the liability to be mixed up in the same crater with the bodies of several other people, according to where poor old Goering chose to put down one of his bombs, a certain exclusiveness was gone, and has never entirely returned.

Another change is the work of the labour-saving devices, of which everyone was boasting fifty years ago when they were new. Call them, as I call them, employment-saving devices, and the whole change becomes clear. Scythes had only just gone out fifty years ago, and one man and a horse took over the work of twenty men. Where have the other nineteen gone? And the horse seems on his way to leave his skeleton in the museum among the great fossils of beasts that have had their day.

PERHAPS the greatest change of all is wireless. Those who were old fifty years ago in this country would hardly have credited it. It would have taken an Arab to believe that the music in every cottage with an aerial on its roof was a possibility. An Arab, like a friend of mine on the border of the Sahara, whose only reading was the Arabian Nights, in which he used to find all that he desired to know of life, would easily have believed that by magic one could hear in London the melodies that musicians played in Bagdad or Paris. Why wonder at it, when he probably accepts the Great Pyramid and the Sphinx as very proper ornaments for a desert?

But any of us who ceases to wonder at wireless would surely look without wonder at the Hanging Gardens of Babylon, if they should suddenly luxuriate before him or the Temple of Diana at Ephesus, or any other of those seven of which the ancients wondered, for it has turned our smoking-rooms into concert-halls, and brings to our ears every evening the whispers of the world.

And now I remember one thing that has never changed, while so many changes shook the rest of the world: along the railway beside which I live the trains that did their twenty miles an hour when I was a child have never lost their pace or deigned to increase it, but do their twenty miles to the hour still, unhustled by any fury in the passing of fifty years.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And a certain ruler asked him, saying, Good Master, what shall I do to inherit eternal life? And Jesus said unto him, Why callest thou me good? none is good, save one, that is, God. Thou knowest the commandments, Do not commit adultery, Do not kill, Do not steal, Do not bear false witness, Honour thy father and thy mother. And he said, All these have I kept from my youth up.

Now when Jesus heard these things, he said unto him, Yet lackest thou one thing: sell all that thou hast, and distribute unto the poor, and thou shalt have treasure in heaven: and come, follow me. And when he heard this, he was very sorrowful; for he was very rich.

And when Jesus saw that he was very sorrowful, he said, How hardly shall they that have riches enter into the kingdom of God!

Then Peter said, Lo, we have left all, and followed thee. And he said unto them, Verily I say unto you, There is no man that hath left house, or parents, or brethren, or wife, or children, for the kingdom of God's sake, who shall not receive manifold more in this present time, and in the world to come life everlasting. (Luke 18: 18-24, 28-30.)

Oddly Enough

By PAUL JENNINGS

From Florida to the Corinthian Isthmus
People give people gifts for Christhmus;
Some give hampers from Mason (and Fortnum)
With the rarest viands that can be bortnum,
Some give a weighty tome of Nietzsche's,
Some give powder, for female fietzsches,
Some give a fascist ham from Eire,
Some knit socks for a well-loved weire—
But some, who were never told what taste meant,
Buy terrible things from the bargain bastement,
Things so tasteless that taste is minus,
For well was it said by St. Thomas Aquinus
Sicut ens sicut unum, which, construed,
Means a thing is ONE, not a spawn or brood;
Yet people save up for monce and monce
For things that are several things at once—
The electric fire that is shaped like a yacht,
With copper sails round a mast red-hacht,
The fountain-pen-cum-cigarette-lighter
For the busy (and tasteless) smoker-wrighter,
The teapot shaped like a country cottage,
The razor that uses not soap but wattage,
The pourer of whisky, or even wyne,
Which when inverted plays Auld Lang Syne—
Not far removed, to the sensitive soul,
From (horror!) the musical toilet roul....
Dear Reader, if you gave things like these
Don't let this verse cause a goodwill-freeze;
The author's not arty, or over-zealous—
It's just that this year has made him jealous
By scoring the tally another notch
When nobody bought him a chiming watch.

Grenade Toy Explodes, Boy 9 Killed

ALLISTON, Jan. 3.—Proudly carrying a new-found plaything into his family's farmhouse, 9-year-old Donald Boorman was fatally wounded today by the explosion of a discarded hand grenade.

The blast in near-by Loretto district, 35 miles northwest of Toronto, blinded Donald's sister, 10-year-old Joan Boorman, and injured his brother.

Joan was rushed to the Hospital for Sick Children in Toronto where an emergency operation was performed in an effort to save her sight. Six-year old Philip is recovering in hospital from lesser injuries.

The Boorman family moved to Loretto just four weeks ago. The father, Albert E. Boorman, spent most of the month repairing his old frame house and readying the small farm for spring planting. His wife was in hospital.

Force of the explosion ripped splinters from the open air back veranda and blew off a supporting post which also held the clothesline. While the children were taken to hospital the family wash lay mud-stained in the backyard.

Hears Blast

Only details of the blast came from a neighbor, Thomas Gracey, who saw the three children playing in a tree-lined ditch near their home. As Gracey walked by the house the children jumped out of the ditch and shouted "Boo."

When he was further along the road, he heard a loud explosion, and the cries of children. Thinking it was only a stray shotgun blast he continued on his way and did not learn until later that one child had been killed.

Cpl. David Adair of the Ontario Provincial Police at Bradford said he believes the youngsters found the grenade near the house and were taking it inside when it exploded. Ie has not yet been learned whether the detonating pin had been pulled.

Origin of the apple sized bomb is unknown. The Canadian Army establishment at Camp Borden is only 12 miles away. But village residents say no army truck has been in the Lorretto area for at least three weeks.

During the war, military manoeuvres were carried on in the district. The grenade may have been discarded several years ago investigators say.

Albert Boorman had planned to return today to his job as a civilian motor mechanic at Camp Borden. He was on his way last night to the Hospital for Sick Children in a Provincial Police cruiser.

FORMER YALE PROFESSOR—Alfred Rive, former Yale University professor, has been Canadian High Commissioner to New Zealand since 1946. Born at Eramosa, Ont., Feb. 17, 1898, he joined the External Affairs Department in 1930 after teaching at Yale. He served five years on the Canadian delegation to the League of Nations and during the war, headed a special section of the department dealing with prisoners of war and Canadian interests in enemy countries.

Record Polling In Many Ont. Elections

By The Canadian Press.

Outside Toronto's record polling numerous Ontario cities, towns, villages and townships held municipal elections Monday and the race was close in many centres.

Only one city outside Toronto had to choose a Mayor, and at Port Arthur Fred Robinson, CCF member of the Legislature, was elected in a close vote over Chas. W. Cox, Liberal member of the Legislature. Cox had been formerly Mayor of Port Arthur for 15 consecutive years.

St. Catharines and Owen Sound while voting on various issues, had previously elected mayors by acclamation.

Among bylaws voted on, Collingwood turned down a proposal to lease the town exhibition buildings to the National Defence Department. Coldwater approved a public library, but rejected a Legion community hall.

The narrowest mayoralty margin was at Chesley, where E. F. Fox squeezed out a 30 vote victory over J. C. McDonald.

Charles Lamb, Lindsay taxi driver and auctioneer, will serve his eighth term as Mayor there. He had a margin of 127 votes over R. L. Moore, Lindsay barrister.

Ayrhart Wins

J. Ernest Ayrhart topped a four-way fight in Campbellford, polling 693 votes to his nearest opponent's 459. Mrs. Euphemia Long, a woman candidate, trailed the field with 24.

B. V. Holmes in Fort Francis and Leslie Skipper in Merritton, were elected by comfortable majorities while other mayors elected were E. J Fox in Chesley, P V. Smith in Grimsby and Charles Daly in Thorold.

Townships elections were the most numerous and reeves elected included Donald Brown in Nottawasaga, Fisher Ganton in Medonte, Arthur Downer in Tiny, William Brackett in Howard and James Holmes in Downey.

Coal Mine Blast

Portsmouth Considers Plan To Rehouse 20,000 Citizens

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

PORTSMOUTH, England, Jan. 3 (CP)—An £8,000,000 ($24,080,000) plan to rehouse 20,000 Portsmouth citizens in a new town is being considered by Portsmouth city council.

It proposes that the neighboring villages of Waterlooville, Purbrook and Widley, which now have 9,000 people, should be developed into a new town of 33,500.

Three other partially-developed sites recommended for development into complete small towns are Lee-on-Solent from 4,000 to 11,300 people, and Fareham, from 16,000 to 28,000.

"In the next 15 years there will have to be an exodus of 47,000 people from Portsmouth," said Max Lock, leader of a survey team which prepared the new plan.

Disagreement between city and county led to the commissioning of Lock as consultant by the ministry of town and country planning. His survey largely confirmed the county council's objections.

Lock held that "it would be substantially cheaper, as well as socially more advantageous to accommodate Portsmouth's overspill of population in existing incomplete settlements nearer the city.

"It would strengthen their community life, avoid building on good agricultural land, save the Portsmouth ratepayers £500,000 on capital expenditure for the rehousing of 20,000 people, and spare the people themselves a good deal of extra travelling to work."

27 Fatalities Mar Canada's Long Weekend

By The Canadian Press.

A dynamite suicide by a Pembroke construction worker was among the 27 fatalities which marred Canada's New Year holiday week-end.

Traffic accidents were responsible for 10 of the deaths, recorded in a nation-wide survey by The Canadian Press. Fires and drownings accounted for four more of the victims while the other 12 deaths happened in a variety of accidents.

Ontario and Quebec headed the list, each province recording nine deaths. British Columbia and Alberta each reported three, New Brunswick two and Nova Scotia one.

Police said Aage Floor, 41 year old Pembroke construction employee, blew himself up with 10 sticks of lynamite. They said he took the dynamite, sat on it, and then lit the fuse.

St. Thomas police said the death of Irene May Catherall, 18, might have been a suicide. Her body was found Saturday night with a bullet wound in the head and a 22 calibre rifle lying beside her.

Die From Injuries

In the death list were four persons who died from injuries received in earlier accidents. E J. Curry, 70, Toronto, died Sunday from injuries received in a Christmas Day accident and James Douglas, 20, Toronto, died Monday from injuries suffered in a car-truck crash Nov. 30.

The death Saturday of Violet Crowley, 30, of Arrowwood, Alta. and the death Monday of George Peter Jacobs, 19, Regina, raised the death toll of last Thursday's Southesk, Alta., train wreck to three.

Killed in traffic accidents were: Mrs. Joseph Hallo, 62, of Windsor; Hazel Maria Halliday, 22 months, Aylmer, Ont.; Adelard Labridge, 67, Quebec; Serge Gauthier, 3, Montreal; Mrs. J. B. Turcotte, 79, Montreal; Mrs W. B. Irving, 75, Victoria, B C, and Paul, Leduc, 35, Hull, P Q.

Police are investigating the death of Adelard Emond 58 whose body was found lying in a pool of blood in his Aylmer, Que., home by his son.

Norbert Robichaud, 56, and his housekeeper, Mrs. Adeline Votour, 62, died Friday night when fire destroyed the Robichaud house at Minto, N. B.

Two Drown

David DeWolfe, 20, drowned when he fell through thin ice while skating near Halifax and an unidentified man fell in the St. Charles River and drowned at Quebec.

Tommy Ward, five months, smothered in his crib at Hamilton. Miss Iren Brown died of carbon monoxide poisoning at Shawville, Que., and Mrs. Freada Svendson died from asphyxiation by coal gas at Notre Dame de Grace, Que.

Two train deaths were recorded. The body of Joe Rollo, a Haig, B. C., Indian, was found on the train tracks and Armand Gervais was killed when his jeep crashed into the side of a train at Valois, Que.

Norman Bormann, 12, was killed at Loretto, Man., when a hand grenade he was playing with exploded.

Max Tanner was the only person killed in a fall, dying when he fell from the back of a moving truck in Vancouver.

Georgina Massey froze to death outside her Calgary, Alta., home after having a heart attack.

Gets Third Spot

CINCINNATI, Jan. 3 (CP) — The Noronic disaster at Toronto in which 119 persons died amid roaring flames, rated as the third-best story of 1949 in the Cincinnati Enquirer's annual poll of newspapers, radios and readers. President Truman's announcement of the Russian atomic explosion was voted the top story of the year. Second was the death of Kathy Fiscus, the little girl who fell down an open well.

Pilot In Antarctic Talks To Ottawa Home

OTTAWA, Jan. 3—(CP) — A young pilot on Deception Island in the Antarctic exchanged New Year's greetings with his father in Ottawa Monday night.

A. R. St. Louis told The Canadian Press late Monday night that he had been in radio contact with his 26-year-old son Peter Borden St. Louis for more than an hour.

"Gee, it was swell to hear him," said Mr. St. Louis, whose son is at Deception Island preparing to carry out a hazardous flight to relieve a lonely British Antarctic meteorological base.

Deception Base is 2,200 miles from the South Pole and roughly 7,800 miles south of Ottawa.

New Brunswick Has First Baby Of New Year

By The Canadian Press

A baby boy in New Brunswick apparently is Canada's first baby of the New Year.

The boy, born in hospital at Moncton, N.B., son of Mr. and Mrs. George Arsenault, made his entry to this world at one minute past midnight, Atlantic Standard Time.

Competition was keen for the honor of being the first baby of the New Year. Actually, with Canada on seven different time zones from Newfoundland to the Yukon, it had to be a baby in the east. Newfoundland, half an hour ahead of Atlantic time, reported its first baby born at 2.30 a.m., so the honor went to New Brunswick.

On Eastern Standard Time it was close. Margaret Phillips, a bouncing girl weighing seven pounds five ounces, was born at Toronto's Grace Hospital just four seconds after midnight Saturday night. Margaret is the third child of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Phillips, of Toronto.

Entered at five seconds after midnight, Eastern Time, is another baby girl, the six pound 14-ounce daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Baxter, of Montreal.

Clint Hodgins Wins $183,507 On American Tracks In 1949

By CRAIG ARMSTRONG

NEW YORK, Jan. 3 (CP). — Clint Hodgins could well be called the harness racing driver of 1949.

During the 1949 season the 43-year-old from Clandeboye, Ont., led all other drivers in winning heats was second top money winner and broke two world records.

Hodgins, an apprentice on Ontario and Ohio track before joining the ranks of Grand Circuit drivers, won 128 heat victories—three more than his closest rival, Levi Harner of Bloomsburgh, Pa. Last year Hodgins drove 71 heat winners to place 11th.

Second Canadian

Joe O'Brien of New Glasgow, N.S., who made his bow last season as a trainer, was the only other Canadian driver among the top 15 heat winners. He was 12th with 76 heat victories.

Hodgins, known as "Clint the Canadian" around American tracks, won $183,507 during the year. Top money maker was Frank Erwin, winner of several stake races, with $192,006.

Third in the money-making list was Ralph Baldwin of Lloydminister, Sask., who won $146,027 and drove Bangaway, pride of the Saunders Mills Stables, Toledo, O., to victory in three major harness clasics.

Baldwin, who drove his first winner 18 years ago at Strathroy, Ont., piloted the three-year-old trotter to victory in the Kentucky Futurity, the Horseman Futurity and The Review Futurity.

He also set world trotting record with Egan Hanover, which paced 1½ miles over a mile track in 2:15 4-5. The previous mark was 2:16 2-5.

Drove Proximity

Hodgins drove Proximity, a seven-year-old mare which broke three of the six world records shattered in 1949, to new marks for 1 1-16 miles on a half-mile track and two heats on a half-mile track.

He guided Proximity around the half-mile track for the 1 1-16 miles record in 2:11—clipping 4-5 of a second off the previous mark. The two-heat record on a half-mile track fell when Proximity shaved three-fifths of a second off the previous record by trotting the half mile in 2:02 2-5. One-fifth of a second was carved off the old second-heat mark by clocking the course in 2:02 4-5.

Dr. Stanton, seven-year-old brown gelding, owned and driven by W. L. (Lindy) Fraser of Forest, Ont., was among the pacers to step a mile in two minutes or better. The aged gelding paced a mile in two minutes flat at Hollywood Park to enter the "two-minute" list for the first time last year.

Name Barney Hearn To Manage Ponies

WATERTOWN, NY, Jan. 3 — (CP). — Barney Hearn, released Friday as manager of Auburn Cayugas of the Class-C Border League, was signed Monday to manage Kingston, Ont., Ponies of the same league during the 1950 season.

The owners of the Kingston club, which finished last in the six-team loop last year, were reported to have had no trouble in reaching terms with Hearn.

The new manager will replace Hal Leach, who finished the 1949 season as acting manager. Zeke Bonura, former major-league slugger, had resigned as Kingston manager late in the season.

Weekend Stars

Detroit's Harry Lumley, who chalked up his fifth shutout of the season Sunday as Red Wings blanked Toronto Leafs 5-0.

Maurice (Rocket) Richard, Montreal winger, who scored his 23rd goal of the season and assisted in another as Canadiens edged Chicago Black Hawks 3-2 Saturday.

Jack Gelineau, rookie Boston netminder, whose 23 saves New Year's night gave him his third shutout of the season as Bruins blanked New York Rangers 6-0.

Roy Conacher, Chicago, who scored two goals and one assist as Chicago hung a 5-1 defeat on Montreal Sunday.

Ed Slowinski, New York, who tallied two goals to give Rangers a 4-1 triumph over Boston Saturday.

Oklahoma Beats Louisiana 35-0; California Beaten

NEW YORK, Jan. 3 (AP) — The loudest din rising from the scattered bowls today comes from the throats of fired-up Oklahomans challenging Notre Dame's position as the No. 1 college football team in the United States.

That was the cry from the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans where Oklahoma's big, fast T-wizards humbled Louisiana State 35-0 for the most impressive victory of the day.

Bud Wilkinson's Sooners were rated second behind the fighting Irish in the final Associated Press poll.

The Oklahomans stretched their winning streak to 21 games in running roughshod over Louisiana State.

Ohio State provided the most thrilling finish of the day, a 17-14 conquest of favored California in the Rose Bowl on a clock-cheating field goal, and joined with Santa Clara in registering the major upsets.

Santa Clara, throwing an "iron-man" line at one of the best defensive units in the land, throttled Kentucky's Wildcats, 21-13, in the Orange Bowl at Miami. Kentucky was a 5½ point favorite.

Rice, the pride of the southwest, measured up to its No. 5 national ranking with a great display of power that smothered North Carolina and the Tar Heels' celebrated Charlie Justice 27-13 in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas.

Here And There In Sports . . .

By The Canadian Press

Promoter Jack Solomons on Monday brushed aside threats of American legal action to stop the light heavyweight title fight between champion Freddie Mills of England and Joex Maxim of the United States.

The fight is scheduled for London's Earls Court Arena Jan. 24.

"I talked with Jack Kearns (Maxim's manager) by ship to shore telephone this morning," Solomons said at London, "and he assured me that his fighter is not tied up in any way by any other contract."

Kearns and Maxim are aboard the Queen Elizabeth due at Southampton tonight.

Promoter Sam Becker of Cincinnati said Saturday he had an exclusive contract for Maxim's services and that he would sue to stop the London fight unless Maxim agreed to defend the title, if he wins, in Cincinnati this summer.

At Fairbanks, Alaska, Leo Helsby kicked a 35 yard field goal Monday from a cleared spot in 10 inches of snow to give the University of Alaska a 3-0 victory over the Ladd Air Force base fliers in the second annual ice bowl game.

Neither team could gain consistently through the heavy snow that blanketed Griffin Park field.

The score was the first made in this farthest north football classic. Last year's inaugural between the same two teams ended in a no score deadlock.

Aided by a couple of characters who usually wear Calgary sweaters, Vancouver Blue Bombers slithered their way to an 8-0 victory over Calgary Junior Stampeders in the third annual Evergreen Bowl football tilt at Vancouver.

Rod Pantages booted two singles for the victors and then went over for a touchdown after Pete Thodos sprinted 40 yards to the Stamps' two yard line. Both Vancouver residents, Pantages and Thodos have played for Calgary's Senior Stampeders, western Canada football champions, for the last two seasons.

Normie Kwong, another senior Stampeder, was the standout for the losers.

Betting on horse racing in Great Britain dropped about 1½ per cent in 1949. Betting at the tracks was off almost four per cent from 1948 record figures but the blow was softened by increased off the course business.

Figures show the total handle for the year was £25,874,070 ($80,209,617.) This included bets at the tracks of £16,278,255 and bets away from the tracks—but included in the parimutuel pools—of £9,601,000.

At Hastings, England, Larry Evans, 17-year-old New York boy won a seven hour battle over Britain's Imre Koenig Monday to tie for second place in the current standing in the Hastings Chess Congress.

Scotty Rankine of Preston, Ont., won the 29th running of the YMCA New Year's Day 10 mile road race Monday in competition with 25 other entrants at Hamilton.

Four top entries for the 24th Knights of Columbus track meet at Boston Garden Jan. 21 were reported Monday night. Bob McFarlane of London, Ont., Canada's 440 and 880 champion, who was a semi-finalist in the 400-metre race in the last Olympics, entered the 600-yard dash.

Curtis Tone of the Shanahan Catholic Club of Philadelphia AAU 3,000-metre steeplechase champion, was entered in the two mile.

Bill Conrardy of Loyola, Chicago, filed for the Cheverus 1,000 yard run. Last spring he ran a 4.16 mile in the Central Collegiate Conference meet.

John Twomey of the Illinois A C, entered the mile run in which he was second last winter.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC PERDUE, Sports Editor.

Showing how far some sports are organized in advance, the Oshawa Merchants of the COBL met the other eve and elected 1950 officers. The executive meets on Jan. 10 to draw up summer plans. George Campbell says no definite action has been planned so far on getting Oshawa into the Toronto Viaduct Park League. He says of the COBL: "The inclusion of such clubs as Picton, Belleville and perhaps Cobourg would round out a more solid grouping, with more games and not too far to travel. But Napanee is almost as far as Kingston. Brockville and Kingston are too far away for a summer baseball schedule. The local club finished in the red last year and where they elect to play this summer may be decided strictly on a dollar-and-cents basis."

* * * * * *

OHHA has announced groupings up this way for minor hockey. Lakefield, Hastings, Keene and Omemee have juvenile clubs in, and Bert Hicks of Lindsay will draw up a schedule right away. Lindsay, Fenelon Falls and Peterborough have drawn byes into juvenile playdowns. Bowmanville, Orono and Omemee are in a midget setup, with Peterborough and Lindsay getting byes because of their own local groupings. Bantam teams of the district are Peterborough, Lindsay, Lakefield, Keswick, Beaverton, Newcastle and Orono, the locals having a bye till playdowns arrive.

Petes Meet Legion

Petes play the Legionnaires at 8.30 tomorrow e'en in Civic Arena, an OHA senior "B" group fixture. So, once again, these bitter local rivals tangle and one more there should be a full house. No question about it, these teams—when they meet here—draw the biggest gates of the senior "B" setup so far this season, and why not? They fight harder against each other than any other club, and there's heated and speedy action every second of play. As the schedule wears along, more and more individual feuds are cropping up between players of Petes and Legion, and only strict refereeing keeps them under control. It ought to be another humdinger of a senior "B" scrap.

Scribe Carver of Bella Villa points out that Vern Goyer—husky ace of the Diesels—is just 24 years old, and far from a veteran. Yeah, we remember him playing junior ball here just three or four years ago. He was in the navy and played football in Halifax and later with Argos. Played football, too, for Cobourg's Galloping Ghosts, and he has performed in various other sports. Almost a giant of a fellow, big Vern is by no means a rough player, drawing few penalties. But that's no invitation for little guys to bother him as he could eat 'em up if he so desired. He'd be a handy guy wearing livery in softball, football and hockey here, eh?

Ice Down The Drain

The rains came over the long week-end, and local and district rinks depending on natural ice took a terrible beating. Al Watkins has dr. wn up the schedule for the PMHA-ers to next Monday night and there'll also be play on outdoor rinks when there's ice. That applies, too, to the Keene arena. Just one joust tomorrow p.m. at 5.45 in Civic Arena, Trojans vs. Optimists in a midget melee. A twin bill Friday and again on Saturday, with eight teams slated for action next Monday here and in Keene. Referees are also listed. It is pointed out that teams are responsible for their transportation to Keene. Thank goodness, there's artificial ice at Civic Arena or Peterborough would have seen no hockey so far this season.

* * * * * *

Trent Valley League puckists are slated to get away tomorrow eve (Wednesday) but it sure doesn't look like there'll be ice anywhere. Marmora is scheduled for Norwood, with Hastings at Campbellford, while Friday calls for Norwood at Frankford, and Campbellford at Marmora. Our Campbellford correspondent says the executive there granted Owen Hendy—veteran of many a puck tussle—his release so he could strut his stuff for Hastings. The Hydro Town officials named Doug Free playing coach and expect he will be with the TVL-ers (and not with Belleville) when the schedule commences. The Lakefield OHA entry is still anxiously awaiting ice.

Agar Holding Lead For USHL Scorers

MINNEAPOLIS, Jan. 3 (AP) — George Agar, Minneapolis Millers' centre, today led the scorers in the United States Hockey League, for the fourth successive week.

Agar held a margin of 12 points over second-place Len Haldorsen of Tulsa Oilers. Agar had 20 goals and 35 assists for a total of 55 points, compared with the Oklahoman's 43 points.

Bill Warwick was tied for third with Ian Mackintosh of St. Paul with 42 points.

Jack Giesebrecht of Louisville Blades maintained his lead in goals scored with 22.

Hockey's Big Seven

By The Canadian Press.

A four-player deadlock for fourth place features the National Hockey League's individual scoring race in which Detroit's Ted Lindsay holds a six-points lead over second-place teammate Sid Abel.

After a holiday week-end which saw each club in action twice, Lindsay gained four points for a 42-point total followed by Abel with 36.

Chicago's Doug Bentley is entrenched in third position with 34 points, 27 of which come from assists.

The big four in the next slot are Maurice Richard of Montreal, the league's high goal-getter, John Peirson, Boston; Roy Conacher, Chicago, and Paul Ronty Boston, each with 32 points.

The leaders:	A	G	Pts
Lindsay, Detroit	16	26	42
Abel, Detroit	16	20	36
D. Bentley, Chicago	7	27	34
Richard, Montreal	23	9	32
Peirson, Boston	16	16	32
R. Conacher, Chicago	15	17	32
Ronty, Boston	14	18	32

Lindsay Takes 6-Point Lead In Scoring Race

MONTREAL, Jan. 3 (CP) — Ted Lindsay of Detroit Red Wings has taken a commanding six point lead in the National Hockey League scoring race.

League statistics released today show that the 24-year-old Detroit left winger has 16 goals and 26 assists for a total of 42 points, six more than teammate Sid Abel who is int he runnerup spot with 16 goals and 20 assists. Doug Bentley of Chicago Black Hawks is in third place with 34 points, made up of seven goals and 27 assists. Four player are grouped for the next position. They are Maurice Richard, Montreal Canadiens; John Peirson, Boston Bruins; Roy Conacher, Chicago and Paul Ronty, Boston.

Richard continues to hold a wide margin in the goal scoring column. The fleet footed Montreal left winger has scored 23 goals in 35 games, seven more than Lindsay and Abel, who are tied for second honors with 16 markers each. Doug Bentley with 27 assists leads the league in that department.

Durnan In There

Montreal's Bill Durnan is still holding onto the favored spot in the netminding division. Goaler Bill has allowed 73 goals in 35 games for an average of 2.04 a game. Detroit's Harry Lumley is next with a 2.20 average for 34 contests. Lumley and Durnan are tied with five shutouts for most number of goose eggs.

Toronto's Gus Mortson tops the league in the penalty parade with 80 minutes spent in the "cooler" in 34 games. Toronto is the most penalized team in the circuit with a total of 419 minutes in penalties.

Detroit leads the pennant race with 48 points made up of 22 victories, eight losses and four stalemates. Thirteen points back New York Rangers and Montreal Canadiens follow in second place with 35 points. Boston is third with 32, Toronto fourth with 30, and Chicago is in the cellar with 28.

Tee to Hack

By HERB MARTIN

Now that the holiday season has come and gone, let's get back to this curling business.

Tonight, the Neill Trophy at 7 and 9 o'clock.

On Saturday, Jan. 7, we have a men's bonspiel coming up. Play from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., The first 14 rinks entered complete the draw.

As the first schedule ends on Wednesday, Jan. 11, the curlers are requested to read the schedule book carefully. In the second schedule you play with your original rink but your opponent will be somewhat different.

From the Centreville, Ia., Citizen: "Directors will take office next Monday and the treasurer takes off in July."

PMHA Schedule

Games will continue this week in the PMHA at Civic Arena, while next Monday a double-header is planned here and also at Keene, commencing at seven p.m., if there is ice. Some local outdoor games will be played outdoors if it is cold enough for ice, Al Watkins advises. Teams are responsible for their own transportation to Keene. Following is the week's schedule with referees:

Jan. 4—Trojan midgets vs. Optimists at 5.45; Nigh and Ouimet.

Jan. 6 Optimist bantams vs. Trojans No. 2; Marine midgets vs. St. Peter's; Giardino and Romanhy.

Jan. 8—Keene midgets vs. Southend; Clappers juveniles vs. Keene; Leggitt and Nigh.

Jan. 10—Marines midgets at Keene; Trojan juveniles at Keene; Romanhy and Nigh; Trojans No. 2 bantams vs. SPS; IOOF juveniles vs. SPS; Ouimet and Giardino.

Toronto Takes Trophy

OSHAWA, Jan. 3 (CP) — The University of Toronto Schools rink skipped by A. Louden won the J. Douglas Waugh Memorial Trophy att he annual Ontario Teachers' Bonspiel held at the Oshawa Curling Club. Twenty-eight rinks of teachers participated, including curlers from Hamilton, Guelph, Galt, Lindsay, Peterborough and Toronto.

Football Officials Favor A Better Break For West

By JACK SULLIVAN.

TORONTO, Jan. 3 — (CP). — Eastern and Western senior football club officials added their voices today to those of Canadian sports editors and writers who plumped for a better financial deal for Western Canada Grey Cup final teams.

"What do you consider an equitable distribution" of the Grey Cup net receipts the editors were asked in the annual Canadian Press year-end sports poll. Most thought the West should receive the edge in finances over the Eastern champion.

The editors — and later club officials—based their opinion on the fact Western teams must travel 2,000 miles or more annually to Toronto for the classic. In addition, players arrive about one week in advance so that they may become accustomed to the Eastern weather.

Each Grey Cup finalist receives 50 per cent of the net gate receipts after transportation costs are paid for 24 persons and hotel expenses covering two days.

Lively Topic

It is likely the issue will be discussed at the Western Inter Provincial Football Union meeting at Regina January 15 and informal talk on it is likely at the January 21 meeting of the Inter-Provincial Rugby Football Union at Toronto.

And there is little doubt it will be a lively topic at the annual meeting of the Canadian Rugby Union, ruling body of the sport in the Dominion, scheduled for Winnipeg February 25.

Some of the sports editors and writers suggested a straight 60-40 split in favor of the Western clubs while the majority voted for a special allowance due to their two and three day train journey to the scene of the final compared to an overnight trip from out-of-Toronto Eastern teams.

Only three of 40 editors—Dink Carroll of the Montreal Gazette, Phil Seguin of Montreal La Patrie, and Gerald Renaud of Ottawa Le Droit — thought the West did well enough under the present arrangement.

Here is what Big Four officials had to say about the poll:

Bob Moran, Toronto Argonaut Club president—"I think the West should be granted certain extra expenses before the 50-50 cut. Their players should come East one week in advance of the playing date to become acclimatized and expenses up to that period are reasonable."

Hayman Hedges

Lew Hayman, coach of Montreal Alouettes—"As it is now, a 50-50 split between the West and the East actually is in effect because the West is given travelling expenses before the net is calculated. The West's expenses are much higher than the East. I'll be able to tell much better what my reaction to the split is when I see what Calgary and Montreal Alouettes netted from the last Grey Cup final."

Jack McGill, president of the Hamilton Wildcats— "The split should remain even, but the Western ball club is entitled to come East a reasonable time in advance of the playing date to become acclimatized."

E. K. (Eddie) Emerson, president of Ottawa Rough Riders — "A 50-50 split after expenses is the only reasonable thing to do. Higher prices should be paid for seats—$2.50 to $4.00, instead of $2, $2.50, and $3.00."

MINOR HOCKEY

Saturday Games

Harold Coleman's beat St. Peter's Midgets 4-1 in the first fray. Using McDougall, leading bantam scorer, St. Pete's had trouble getting around the faster Coleman boys. The sole marker for St. Pete's was by Foley. Coleman's goals were by White, and Scriver, with two for Batley.

In the second tussle Keene and St. Peters' Juveniles tied 2-2. It was 1-0 for St. Petes' going into the last frame with no scoring in the first period. Keene racked up two goals in quick succession and took the lead in the game With less than two minutes to go, St. Petes' got the tying marker. It was a hard fought game all the way with Keene showing their best form so far this season. Goals for Keene were by L. Selby and G. Selby. St. Peter's markers were by Bryan and Caravaggie.

Monday Games

Trojans No. 1 defeated St. Peters' 4-2 in a good bantam showing. Trojans playing good hockey, had the edge on St. Peters' all the way, scoring their fourth goal when St. Peter's had pulled the goaler with less than a minute to play. Goals for St. Peter's were by O'Connell and Pearson. Trojans' markers were by Carveth, Crough and Clarke, with Merritt getting two.

Oddfellows 8, Keene Juves 0 was the onesided score in the second encounter. Although Keene showed better form through the first two frames, holding Oddfellows to two goals, they fell down and appeared tired in the third period when Oddfellows scored six goals. This same thing happens to all Keene teams. A good crowd saw the Keene goaler make many fine saves in the early part of the game. Oddfellows were as usual pretty well organized all the way with Jensen and Robinson standing out with assists as well as score. Oddfellows' goals were by Armstrong, Pammett, Ferguon, Jensen one each, Bacon and Robinson getting two each.

Show Film

All players and coaches of the PMHA are asked to attend a special meeting and get-together at Queen Mary Auditorium this Wednesday at 8:30. A special hockey film will be shown and other entertainment is slated for the program. Dit Clapper and Dave Kerr are scheduled to address the gathering. All interested persons are urged to attend.

Detroit Red Wings' double triumph over the Toronto Maple Leafs topped the New Year holiday results in the National Hockey League. The four other teams recorded a win and a loss apiece as the league leaders trounced the Stanley Cup champions by lopsided scores.

Saturday at Toronto the Wings humbled the Leafs 5-1; and Sunday they shut them out 3-0 at Detroit. Montreal Canadiens edged Chicago Black Hawks 3-2 at Montreal Saturday, but the Hawks walloped the Canadiens 5-1 in the return engagement at Chicago.

New York and Boston also reversed themselves, the Rangers taking the Saturday game at New York 4-1, while the Bruins hung up a 6-0 shut out over the New Yorkers Sunday at Boston.

Today Detroit holds a 13 point edge over New York and Montreal, tied for second. Boston has moved into fourth spot, another three points back. Toronto is fifth, a full game behind Boston and a game ahead of last place Chicago.

Picks 10 Films Most Important Since Year 1900

By BOB THOMAS,

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 3 (AP). — What are the 10 most important movies of the half-century?

The first half of the twentieth century just about spans the history of the motion picture. So the question could also read "What are the 10 most important movies of all time?"

As an amateur film historian, I have picked my own 10. They are based (1) on their influence on the motion picture industry; (2) their popularity with the public. Here they are:

1—"The Great Train Robbery" (1903) was not the first film to tell a story, but it was the most successful of the early ones. It brought thousands of new fans for the budding industry.

2—"The Birth of a Nation" (1915) is without doubt the most important film of all time. D. W. Griffith brought the movies to maturity with this one great classic, introducing many new methods of story-telling.

All-Time Top

The picture was controversial, but amazingly popular. Made for $110,000, it returned uncounted millions and was the first film to charge $2 admission.

3—"The Kid" (1920) represented Charlie Chaplin at his best. The screen has never seen such a successful combination of comedy and drama.

4—"The Jazz Singer" (1927) makes the list not because it was a good picture; it would seem laughable in these sophisticated times. But it was the first picture to use synchronized dialogue and music. It helped bring the revolution to talkies.

5—"42nd Street" (1933) established the musical as a film commodity. "Broadway Melody" (1929) was the first hit musical, but "42nd Street" really brought the musical into is own.

Comedy-Romance

6—"It Happened One Night" (1934) brought mature comedy-romance to the screen. It made lasting stars of Clark Gable and Claudette Colbert.

7—"Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" (1937) is chosen because it was the leading money-maker of its time and because of the delight it gave to millions of movie-goers.

8—"Stagecoach" (1939) remains the screen's greatest Western. It brought a renewed interest in what might be called the screen's best (at least the surest) commodity—the outdoor epic.

9—"Gone With the Wind" (1939) has been seen by more people than any other picture. That alone would place it on this list. But it was also a stirring and faithful re-telling of a great story.

10—"The Best Years of Our Lives" (1946) was the first really fine film after the trash of the war years. Dealing realistically with post-war problems, it proved that thoughtful pictures could be profitable. It spawned the socially-conscious films of the present time.

Well, there's my list. Anybody wanna argue?

To Meet In Russia

TUSCON, Ariz., Jan. 3—(CP)—Leningrad, Russia, has been selected as the site for the next general assembly of the International Astronomical Union. Scientists from all parts of the world are expected to attend the gathering. Exact date of the meeting has not been set.

Fleet Changes Hands

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., Jan. 3—(CP).—Newfoundland's "splinter fleet" is changing ownership. Premier Smallwood announced that Canadian National Railways is buying three of the 10-ship wooden fleet for $180,000. The Newfoundland government which owns the motor ships, is "open for offers" for the others, the premier said.

VOL. C. No. 1 — TUESDAY, JANUARY 3, 1950

CLOSE RUNNER UP for the honor of being the first 1950 baby born in a Peterborough Hospital was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Baptiste Vinette, 16 Lisbourne St., who was born at 3.45 Sunday morning. She was born five minutes after the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Thomas Montgomery. Mrs. Vinette and daughter (left) smile happily today for the Examiner's staff photographer. Right are Mrs. John Primeau, 203 King St., and New Year Day son, born at 9.05 a.m. and below, Mrs. Robert Parnell, 65 James St., and her son, born at 10.50 a.m. All three were born at St. Joseph's Hospital. Mayor's Inaugural Address Reviews Early History As City Enters New Period

To Mayor M. J. Swanston devolved the honor today of presiding over the first meeting of the council of 1950, beginning the second century of Peterborough's municipal administration. Time intervened at the inaugural ceremony this morning, and seemed to pause briefly for memories and recollections of the organized civic life of this community, and beyond that a further 32 years to the marking of the boundaries of a townsite which nature itself had recommended here on the banks of the Otonabee River. Mayor Swanston began his address with an interesting summary of Peterborough's beginning in 1818 when it was only an imaginary conception of Richard Birdsall in his original survey of the county.

Quite manifestly Mr. Birdsall perceived then the scenic felicities and the industrial advantages which the river and its rapids, with their water power, offered to the community which he foresaw eventually developing here within the boundaries which he specifically marked out for it.

It may be mentioned with pleasing timeliness that Richard Birdsall was the great grandfather of Col. F. E. Birdsall of Birdsall, Asphodel township, one of the leading farmers of this county and of Central Ontario.

It is also to be found in records of pioneers of Peterborough that the present city hall site at Simcoe and Water Streets looked down over a natural park extending to the river, now occupied by the Dewart Milling Company and the gas works of the Utilities Commisison. There Adam Scott and his associates from Port Hope are said to have drawn up their boats, and it is also said to have been the end of the portage through Smith township, from Chemong Lake. Presumably Samuel de Champlain came that way.

Mayor Address

The text of Mayor Swanston's address follows:

"Ladies and Gentlemen:

This is an historic occasion since it commences the second 100 years in Peterborough's history as a municipality. It also marks the entry for the whole world on the last half of the twentieth century. I am sure that we all pray that the next 50 years of this great century will be free of the heartache, tears and bloodshed which have marked the preceding 50 years, which were torn by two world conflicts with great sacrifices by humanity.

"In the formalities observed at this inaugural meeting we are but following well-established precedent. It is the one occasion when Council proceedings digress from the strict order of business first and business only. The Council and the citizens do, I believe, expect me at this time to touch on some of the broad spheres of civic affairs and to endeavor to point the way to continued progress.

"It is well to recall that Peterborough's population has gained eleven thousand in the past ten years, and that many of these new citizens have no knowledge of the city's history. I may be pardoned, therefore, if I take a few moments to review the past, particularly since we are officially, at this time, looking back over 100 years in Peterborough's development."

Town Site Surveyed

'It is recorded that in 1818 when the original survey of North Monaghan Township was made, provision was made for a townsite where Peterborough now stands. This town site was laid out into streets and building lots. Those pioneer planners provided the best in city planning forethought, since in laying out this town in the bush, which was still but a dream, they surrounded the small community with park lots to be used as green areas and for gardening purposes, for the benefit of the citizens. This original plan was prepared by Richard Birdsall, whose descendants still are leaders in the County of Peterborough, and it was made under the direction of The Honourable Zachary Burnham, whose name has a familiar ring to most of us. It was in 1819 that Adam Scott, the first real settler, came up the Otonabee River to establish a site for a grist mill at the end of Simcoe Street. The hamlet became known as Scott's Plains.

"In the years immediately following, immigrants from the British Isles, many of whom were veterans of Wellington's army and Nelson's navy, who had helped to curb the ambitions of Napoleon at Trafalgar and Waterloo, entered the districts and succesfully carved farms out of the bush. It is recorded that at this time the hamlet's society was considered the most genteel in the whole province of Upper Canada. The town received great impetus in its growth when the Honourable Peter Robinson led into the district 2,000 hardy Irish settlers, who were established on 100 acre farm plots in the neighboring townships. The community prospered greatly and by 1849 the citizens decided that they should become independent of the Township of North Monaghan and have their own Town Council to deal with town affairs. Then, there were 333 houses, 350 families, and a population of 2,191. The chief trades were store-keeping and lumbering and the manufacture of wood products."

Thomas Benson First Mayor

"In the first election, New Year's Day, 1850, Thomas Benson was elected Mayor, and he had 12 stout councillors to assist him. During the years following, many resourceful and courageous men served Peterborough on the Town

Baby Girl First of Five New Year's Day Babies

Two baby girls raced to be first 1950 baby to arrive at Peterborough's two hospitals Sunday and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Thomas Montgomery, 738 Payne St., won by five minutes. She was born at 3.40 a.m. at St. Joseph's and at 3.45, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Baptiste Vinette, 16 Lisbourne St., was born at the same hospital. Dr. W. S. Fitzpatrick attended at both births.

Next two babies were also born at St. Joseph's. They were two boys, the first, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Primeau, 203 King St., at 9.05 a.m. and the second, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Parnell, 65 James St., at 10.50 a.m. Drs. J. R. Epping and Robert Bell were in attendance.

Fifth New Year baby, and the only one born at Civic Hospital, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Robbins, 775 Brown St. Dr. J. C. C. Dawson was in attendance.

LaundryBreak-in Nets Thieves $2

Thieves, believed to be boys, broke into Fanning's Laundry, King Street, some time between Saturday night and Sunday afternoon, taking $2 from a soft drink dispensing machine.

Entry was made by breaking a small window pane at the rear of the building and climbing up a pile of coal.

Some laundry bags were ripped open, but as far as could be discovered, nothing was taken from them. In the upstairs office several unemployment insurance books had been scattered and wires were pulled from a communications speaker.

4 Youths Held After $65 Stolen

Four young men were arrested by city police less than two hours after a break-in at Russelle's garage, north Water St., was discovered by Constable Donald S. Mackay, about 1.30 a.m. today.

The four are: Leonard Titus, 18, of 194 Hunter St. E.; Clinton Stockdale, 19, of RR 4, Peterborough; Roy Ellis, 19, of RR 10, Peterborough; and Jack Shannon, 18, of 14 Mill St.

Constable Mackay reported he was parking a car at the rear of the garage when he shone his flashlight on the rear windows. He saw that one pane of a window had been removed and set aside on the sill.

He called John R. Russelle, who told the constable he suspected Shannon. He said Shannon had worked at the garage at one time and had been present when his son put about $65 in a hiding place and locked up about 7:15 Monday night.

Together with Constable Gordon Trennum, Constable Mackay arrested Shannon at his home Shannon, it is said, admitted taking part in the robbery and showthem where he had put his $19 05 share of the $55 loot in a dresser drawer and under a bed mattress.

He then gave police three other names. Titus, Stockdale and Ellis were arrested and the money each gave up to police as his share, added up to about $36.

Police say Shannon told them he and his three companions sat in a downtown cafe and planned the theft. They drove in the car of Stockdale's father to the rear of the garage.

Police said $14 was taken from Stockdale, $2 35 from Ellis and $19 20 from Titus.

The youths are to appear before Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, in police court this afternoon.

$40 Cash Taken From Drug Store

McLeod's Drug Store was broken into and $40 in cash and three pen and pencil sets priced at a total of about $50 were taken sometime New Year's Eve or after midnight.

William Rooney, who, with his family, occupies an apartment above the Park St. store, reported to police about 4.40 a.m. that he noticed the breakin.

He said when he went in the door at the Park St. entrance to his apartment, he saw a painted glass panel leading to the store was broken. He phoned police.

They found lights on in the basement and in a stockroom. Mr McLeod said about $40 in quarters was missing from a cash tray and possibly a carton or two of cigarettes.

Later it was discovered three Shaeffer pen and pencil sets were gone. The pens and pencils were trade marked Craftsman Admiral and Statesman. Detective Sergeant John Stevens is investigating.

Flying Glass Cuts Face As Cars Meet

Two men were cut by flying glass when cars in which they were passengers collided about 2 a.m. on New Year's Day at Monaghan Road and Sherbrooke Street.

Robert D. Hardie, 558 Weller Street, received seven or eight cuts about the face and neck and was treated at St. Joseph's Hospital. Bob Bannon, 559 Harvey Street, received a cut on the forehead but did not require hospital treatment.

Bannon was a passenger in a car driven by William C. Wetherall, 1019 Monaghan Road.

Traffic Officer Harold Mesley, who investigated, reported that Wetherall was driving south on Monaghan Road, and at a jog in Monaghan Road at Sherbrooke Street, his car collided head on with a car driven by Emerson R. McDougall, Chemong Road. Hardie was a passenger in the McDougall car.

Police today laid a charge against McDougall.

Pair Arraigned

ST. THOMAS, Jan. 3—(CP)—Albert Gordon Bailey, 31, of Simcoe, and Mrs. Shirley Osborne, 22, also of Simcoe, were arraigned in court here today on three charges of entering and breaking.

New Year's Holiday Free Of Serious Motor Accidents

Despite a heavy New Year's motor traffic and Monday's fog there were no serious accidents in the Peterborough district over the weekend. V. E. Crebar, proprietor of the Chicken Palace on Highway 7 in Otonabee, was struck by a car and taken to St. Joseph's Hospital early New Year's morning.

Both knees and an elbow were injured and he was given a severe shaking up. Later he was released from hospital.

Details of the accident are lacking but it is believed Mr. Crebar was climbing into the car of William Thomas, on the highway just east of the Lock's Bridge when he was struck.

The door of the stationary vehicle was ripped off and Mr. Crebar was dragged about 10 feet.

Provincial Constable Norman De Bow is still investigating the accident.

Kenneth Langton, 23, of Simcoe St., was taken to Civic Hospital with a slight concussion late Saturday night when his car collided with another driven by James Deline of Havelock, on Highway 7, 1½ miles east of Norwood.

Langton vehicle was rounding a bend in the highway when it went out of control and the rear end met the front of Deline's oncoming car.

Deline was unhurt but Langton was taken to hospital with concussion. He was released Monday.

Provincial Constable Arthur Kellogg of Hastings investigated

Abandoned Stolen Car

Shortly before 9 p.m. on New Year's Eve Provincial Constables Earl Berwick and Albert Poulter chased a man through Jackson Park after he had abandoned a stolen car.

The unidentified man had a good head start and managed to elude the constables in the dark of the woods.

Earlier the car had been reported stolen from in front of 375 Stewart St. by Gordon Widdress of 368 Dobbin Ave. Mr. Widdess had left the keys in the 1949-model vehicle and when he returned to drive away it was missing.

The car was involved in a small accident on Jackson Park road and it was reported to the police by a nearby farmer. When the constables approached the driver of the car fled.

Two cars were involved in a minor collision three miles east of Peterborough on Highway 7, Sunday night.

A Kingston driver, C. Walton, collided with the car of E. Tripp, Monaghan Road, as both vehicles were travelling in the same direction. It was contended that Tripp was travelling without a tail light on his car.

Walton's car was damaged to the extent of $150 while the other sustained about $25 damage.

Constables Norman De Bow and James Healey investigated.

About $125 damage resulted in the collision of two cars Sunday night at the 6th concession of Otonabee and Highway 7. Mossom Golloher of Stewart St., pulled out of the Emery's Service Station, travelling in a westerly direction when his car and that of Harold Clements, Ottawa, came in collision.

Clements was also proceeding west and ran into Golloher's right hind mudguard.

Heavy fog descended on this section of Ontario about noon on Monday adding to the hazard of driving. Motorists in this district were "pretty careful" according to Provincial Police who are proud of the low number of accidents.

The Department of Highways had sanding crews out all day Sunday to lessen the danger of cars skidding and they continued their work on Monday.

County Engineer J. D. Kean also had crews out throwing a mixture of sand and salt on the county roads.

Liquid Refreshments Flowed Freely But Not One At Party Was Intoxicated

The New Year at one party was not brought into the world Saturday night amidst pink elephants but with the bagpipes of Scotland. Harry Anderson piped the 75 couples at the annual Alcoholics Anonymous branch New Year's Eve party in the Knights of Columbus Hall through the grand march.

Although bottles were continually being set up at the bar, there wasn't a single bleary eye in the large crowd. These people were out to prove that a good time could be had without drinking liquor. The pop flowed freely.

At the stroke of midnight the merry-makers formed into a grand march with Mr. Anderson, a piper with the Havelock Pipe Band, piping the old year out and the new year in.

Previous to this the members and wives or husbands had waltzed, square danced and fox trotted to the lively tunes played by Frankie Hamon and his musicians. All wore hats and had noisemakers to blend in with the gaily decorated surroundings. A buffet luncheon served to meet the growing hunger of the members.

After the crowd had departed alone amidst empty pop bottles stood one half-filled mickey. The bottle and the tea in it were part of one of the orchestra's novelty numbers.

Junior Red Cross Director Retires

TORONTO, Jan. 3—(CP)—Miss Jean Elizabeth Browne, National Director of the Canadian Junior Red Cross for 28 years, retired Monday.

Miss Browne played a leading part in the establishment and guidance of the Junior Red Cross movement which now counts 41,378,956 school-children members in 56 countries. In Canada, Miss Browne's leadership has helped it to progress to its present membership of nearly 900,000, operating as an integral part of the school system. It is regarded as a model by Red Cross officials.

Born at Parkhill, Ont., she graduated from the Toronto General Hospital nursing school and for several years was in charge of the hygiene branch of the Department of Education in Saskatchewan before joining the Red Cross staff. She is one of 12 Canadians holding the Florence Nightingale medal, presented to her by the International Red Cross in Geneva in 1939.

Sergeant's At Home Shows Public Redecorated Mess

Just once a year are members of the Sergeants' Mess at Peterborough Armouries "at home" to the public, and that is on New Year's day.

It is indeed a fine way to start another series of 12 months, for these chaps the exemplary of fine and generous hosts, and their action promotes good feeling among the citizens.

Their re-decorated quarters were proudly displayed by the sergeants. They had dispensed with the usual festive touches so that all could admire the soft blue shade of newly painted walls, effectively combined with pale yellow ceiling, but the mantels were filled with greeting cards, mostly displaying military crests.

A bouquet of white and yellow 'mums centred the long serving table which was laden with tasty refreshments. At one end was a silver tea urn from which cups were filled by Mrs. Davidson, Mrs. H. Hewitt, Mrs. H. Dodds and Mrs. J. Rexe.

Arrangements for the reception were in charge of Quartermaster V. Sedgwick and the food conveners were Mr. and Mrs. F. Gant.

Among those present were:

Sgt. F. Hopgood, L. Jackson, R. H. Davidson, BQMS and Mrs. J. Rexe Mr. and Mrs. Don Davidson, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. McDougall, L. Calladine, Miss K. Calladine, Sgt. J. Watson, RSM and Mrs. W. Find New Year's Toned Down Across Canada

By The Canadian Press

The little cherub-faced guy with the diapers—1950 version—was given a traditional welcome this weekend as Canadians ushered in the New Year.

Although he didn't get the usual welcome because of a midnight curfew in most provinces Saturday night, he did get plenty of help from home-party revellers as he took over from his 1949 counterpart, a Canadian Press survey shows.

The celebrations were toned down a bit. Bars were closed and dancing was halted before midnight in most provinces since New Year's Day fell on Sunday.

While some well-wishers celebrated in the home, others attended midnight church services. In the Quebec diocese alone, 675 masses were said in Roman Catholic churches. Other religious denominations reported "near capacity" crowds.

Weather conditions varied. In the western provinces it was clear and cold, while in Ontario freezing rains made driving conditions particularly hazardous. Snowflurries were reported in Quebec.

Police Blotters Quiet

It was quiet as far as the police blotters were concerned in Eastern Canada. Moutreal was probably the gayest city in the dominion on New Year's Eve as most clubs remained open to 3.30 a.m. Sunday, and some stayed open all night. But thousands thronged the Roman Catholic churches there as midnight mass was held for the first time in more than 10 years, owing to a Papal decree marking the inauguration of the 1950 Holy Year.

In Windsor, thousands made merry at public dances and private house parties. In one Toronto dance hall a 50-foot boat was lowered from the ceiling as hundreds of balloons floated out from it. At another Toronto dance hall a six-year-old girl—diaper and all—was carried around the room by "slaves."

Gayest Party Greets 1950 At Kawartha Country Club

Gaiety and song ushered in the New Year at the Kawartha Country Club. About 300 members and their friends enjoyed one of the finest parties on record. Decorations were done in modern style of blue and silver, with cut-outs of Father Time and the little "1950" liberally scattered about the ballroom.

Entertainment committee members were Ronnie Ward, in charge of decoratinos, Bert Bailey, John McIntyre, Jack Menzies and Frank Gray. A highlight of the evening was the bountiful turkey supper which they provided with the help of Mr. and Mrs. J. Leeming and the club staff.

Those present were:

Oven Dinner Costs Less Adds Flavour

By MARY MOORE

Maybe I should confine myself to speaking only for Mary Moore.

But from some of the muttering I hear from husbands and fathers who are feeling the pinch now, due to their Christmas bursts of generosity, other folks have to practise budget-balancing acrobatics too.

Baking adds flavor to food and if enough things are baked at one time, fuel is conserved.

Besides, I like a baked dinner. It seems so hearty and full of rich, retained, natural juices—as for instance in

Boston Baked Beans

Three cups dry navy beans, ½ to ½ pound salt pork, 1 medium-sized onion, 1½ teaspoons salt, ½ teaspoon dry mustard, 2 tablespoons brown sugar, ½ to ½ cup molasses, 3 cups boiling water. Pick over beans and wash and cover with water and let stand overnight. Drain off water and cover with fresh water. Cook over top of stove burned until tender, which requires about 1 hour. Cut the salt pork into pieces. Place some in bottom of bean pot or pyrex baking dish. Add half of the beans. Put in half of the onion. Mix together the salt, mustard, sugar, then add the molasses and boiling water, stir well and pour over beans. Put remaining pork over top. Slice remaining half of onion over top. Cove. Bake 5 hours at 300 deg. Fahr. taking off cover during last hour, and raising temperature to 350 deg. F.

While this dish does not contain any lean meat protein it does contain protein, for peas, beans and lentils are what are called the protein vegetables. The addition of fat salt pork gives the dish the richness it needs for well-balanced main-course nourishment.

Pass a finely shredded cabbage salad dressed with a tart dressing.

Boston Brown Bread

One cup sifted flour, 1½ teaspoons soda, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 cups whole wheat flour, 1 cup chopped raisins, 2 cups buttermilk, ¾ cup molasses, 1 tablespoon melted shortening or cooking oil. Sift together the flour, salt and soda. Stir into them the whole wheat flour and raisins. Mix together the buttermilk and molasses, and stir into the dry ingredients to just mix. Fold in melted fat. Bake in greased baking powder tins or pyrex loaf tin at 350 deg. Fahr. for 1 hour.

Bake Apple Special

Six Spy apples are good for this. Remove one inch of the skin from stem end. Place apples on pyrex pie plate after scooping out cores. Fill holes with corn syrup. Chop 2 tablespoons walnuts, mix with 2 each tablespoons raisins and dates and place on top of apples. Reserve a whole walnut for top of the mixture when baked. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 1 hour, or if this is to be baked alone or with foods that require hotter oven, the apples will break open and puff attractively if baked at 450 deg. Fahr.

Now I like sauerkraut—and like it with this meal, but if we had it we would not serve the cabbage salad of course.

See how you like this strictly German dish that proper Bostonians would not serve with baked beans or Boston brown bread.

Garny's Kraut

(In Garny's own words)

Kraut—2 pounds with 2 cups water, 2 tablespoons fat and 1 teaspoon caraway seeds. Cook for several hours—the last 20 minutes of cooking stir in one grated potato—a good sized one. Watch carefully or it will burn after potato is added. German people add onion too.

Isn't that a mouth-watering dish? I served it with a pheasant that was given to us, but even though I gave Garny all of the credit it bolstered my cooking reputation.

DOROTHY DIX

Prying Mother Makes Life Miserable for Her Daughter

DEAR MISS DIX: I have one of the best mothers on earth, but also one of the nosiest ones. Her curiosity has no bounds. I have no privacy whatever, as she snoops on everything I do. She listens in if I talk over the telephone. If I lay my purse down and leave it, upon my return she has turned it inside out. If I am not home at the minute, I have to go through an ordeal of questioning until I explain every detail of why I was detained. I have tried in vain to cure my mother of her inquisitiveness, and now it has got on my nerves so that it is affecting my health and my ability to work.

Dorothy Dix

I am 30 years old and make enough money to keep myself and live elsewhere, but not enough to support myself and help the family if I leave home. My parents need my help. So what can I do?

C. T. L.

ANSWER: Of course, if your parents were self-sustaining, the wise thing for you to do would be to leave home, since no child's duty to a parent involves having her life ruined by the vulgar curiosity of her mother. But the old people are dependent upon your earnings. You cannot leave them to starve even to save yourself, so about the only recourse left you is to try to bluff your mother into silence by holding the threat over her that unless she leaves you and your affairs alone, you will set up your own home where you can live in peace.

Won't Admit Faults

Perhaps that plan would work. The chances are, however, that it wouldn't, for I have yet to see a mother who corrected any of her faults, or indeed who ever admitted she had a fault where her children were concerned. She always justifies her vices and extols them into virtues.

When it comes to prying into her children's affairs, it isn't indecent curiosity which animates her. Oh, no. It is her desire to protect her darlings and she counts it unto herself for righteousness. And she weeps at the ingratitude of of a child who has so little sense of filial duty that it objects to having its privacy invaded.

Probably mothers' curiosity has driven more children away from home than any other half-dozen things in the world.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I have a daughter 21 years old who is very much in love with a young man 26. He has never worked in his life and is as spoiled as a baby and has no way in the world to support a family, yet my daughter insists on marrying him. She has a small job that doesn't pay very well. I disapprove of this marriage just because I don't see how they can live. My daughter says the young man has promised her that he will endeavor to get work as soon as they are married. We are not able to support them. What do you think of this marriage?

MOTHER.

ANSWER: I think a marriage such as this is worse than an exhibition of sheer insanity on the part of the contracting parties. It is an outrage against parents and a hold-up of them that they have no right to commit.

Children are always asserting that their mothers and fathers have no right to interfere with their marriages. This may be true if son and daughter are able to support their wife or husband, but certainly no one has a better right to a say-so on the subject than father and mother if they are going to be called on to finance the marriage. He who pays the piper has a right to call the tune.

A girl who believes that the man who has never worked before marriage will become a go-getter after marriage is, indeed, the world's greatest optimist. A man in love with a girl would go to work before marriage in order to make it possible for them to marry.

DEAR MISS DIX: My husband works days and on the side plays in an orchestra at night, sometimes two and three nights a week. When I think of his being out where things are gay while I am at home it makes me feel as if I am missing something. My husband can't understand why I should feel this way, for he says he only takes these extra jobs for the money. I have no children. What would you do if you were me?

MUSICIAN'S WIFE.

ANSWER: I would try to use some common sense in dealing with the situation and thank Heaven that I had a husband who was enough of a go-getter and industrious enough to be willing to work overtime to make more money for me.

The best thing for you to do is to have a baby. Then you would have something to do of an evening and you wouldn't have time to worry over nonsense.

Tomato Juice (6 oz. 28 cal.); Grilled Ground Beef Cakes (4 oz. 250 cal.); Grilled Ground Beef Cakes (4 oz. 250 cal.); Mashed Turnip with Potato (¾ cup with no butter 40 cal.); Waldorf Salad (minimum of dressing 6 oz. 75 cal.) (see notes); Fruit Cup: Grapefruit Sections, Seeded Grapes (no sugar 6 oz. 60 cal.); Clear Coffee (0 cal.).

High-Calorie Dinner

Farmers' Sausages and Waffles; Butter and Maple Syrup; Cole Slaw with Chopped Parsley and Boiled Dressing; Butterscotch Rice Puding (see notes); Coffee.

One-Burner Dinner

Tuna a la king on Toast (see note); Potato and Celery Salad with Mayonnaise; Peach Cream Cake (see note); Coffee.

Directions

Waldorf Salad is such a good winter salad I am recommending it today. I made it especially good during Christmas week by using freshly shelled-out walnuts instead of ready-shelled walnuts. The flavor was improved. Use equal parts choice dessert apples unpeeled but diced, and celry, and half as many broken walnuts as apples. Moisten with mayonnaise. Other nuts such as pecans or almonds are good instead of walnuts.

Butterscotch Rice Pudding

Cook ⅓ cup raw, washd rice with ½ teaspoon salt in 1¼ cup boiling water over boiling water in double boiler for 30 minutes. Mix together 2 tablespoons butter, ¾ cup dark brown sugar firmly packed in frying-pan and cook over low heat stirring, for 5 minutes. Add this, together with 1½ cups rich milk, to the rice and cook for 30 minutes longer or until rice is tender, in double boiler. Good served cold with cream. This may be baked after butter-sugar mix is added.

In some communities in some stores tuna fish is selling below the cost of salmon and since it is such a rich and firm fish a half-pound can will serve 4 to 6 people if it is prepared well.

Tuna a la King is made by melting 3 tablespoons butter and sauteeing in it 1 minced seeded green pepper, ¼ pound sliced fresh mushroms, 1 small onion minced, until transparent but not at all brown. (Do this in top of double boiler). Add 3 tablespoons flour, 1½ teaspoons salt, blend, then add 2 cups milk, the broken tuna and juice from can, 1 tablespoon minced parsley, and if desired, 3 tablespoons chopped canned pimientoes, and stir until thick. Pour a little of this over well-beaten egg, stirring, then turning egg mixture to hot mixture and stir. These amounts will serve 6. Shrimps may be substituted for the tuna or you may add 24 raw oysters. This is good served on toast points; or it is super served on freshly made crisp waffles.

When I suggest that you serve a peach cream cake this is what I mean: Bake 2-layer cake. Between layers put whipped cream and sliced fresh or canned peaches. Put on top, spread thickly with whipped, sweetened cream and garnish with slended crescents or canned or fresh peaches and sliced maraschino cherries. It was a Sunday Tea Special in our home in our youth.

QUESTION: Please send me the recipe for Lobster Bisque as referred to recently.—Mrs. M. L.

ANSWER:

Lobster Bisque

Five tablespoons butter, 3½ to 4 tablespoons flour, 1 teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon white pepper, 3 cups homogenized or whole milk, 1 can of chicken broth or consomme, 1 6-ounce tin lobster broken into flakes (this makes about 1⅓ cups), 1 small onion sliced thin, 1 sprig parsley, ½ cup cream.

In top of double boiler melt butter, stir in flour, salt and pepper, then stir in the milk and broth or consomme until thick. Place over boiling water, add the flaked lobster, onion and parsley and cover and let heat through over boiling water. Remove onion and parsley and add cream and heat through. Some people like to add as much as ½ cup sifted rolled cracker crumbs to this soup, which makes it more substantial and nourishing.

QUESTION: I am again calling for help. Could you send me a recipe for cranberry jellied. You notice I say jellied because I want to cook cranberries and by adding sugar have it all whole, and when cool it will be all jellied and may be turned out in that condition. We are all very fond of it and I seem to have lost the knack of doing it, as I used to. I could do it by putting through jelly bag but wish it all to be en masse. I thing it is much nicer.

—Mrs. W. W.

ANSWER:

Jellied Whole Cranberries

(This is the method I used this year and I know it works.)

Bring 2 cups water to boiling point. Add 1 pound cleaned and picked-over cranberries, cover and cook until skins just burst. Put to soak 1½ teaspoons gelatine in ¼ cup cold water. Add 1¾ cups sugar to the cranberries when they have burst open, bring to boiling point, stirring gently, and boil about 8 to 10 minutes or until juice "sheets" from spoon. Do not boil it longer than 10 minutes. Add the soaked gelatine, stir to dissolve, and pour into mould or individual moulds to chill and set.

Mayor's Inaugural

Council, and on its various boards and association. Some of these, whose achievements are best remembered, include: James Stevenson, Geo. A. Cox, James Kendry, T. H. G. Denne, and G. M. Roger.

"In 1905 Peterborough increased its status to that of a City, by peacefully annexing, after a great deal of discussion, the Village of Ashburnham. With the addition of the Scotch village, with its population of 1,781, the population of Peterborough was then 14,391. About this period Peterborough had its greatest growth in a long period, because new industries, including Quaker Oats Company, Canadian General Electric Company, Matthews-Blackwell Company (now Canada Packers Limited), Peterboro-Brinton Carpet Company, and others, had located expanding industrial operations in the community. The city's record for good municipal administration was continued and succeeding Councils were led by outstanding men in the community, who gave service as aldermen and mayors. To name but a few, there were: Henry Best, W. Geo. Morrow, Wm. H. Bradburn, Joseph J. Duffus, John J. Turner, and Roland Denne. In all, there have been during the past 100 years, 35 men who have served Peterborough as its Mayor. Unfortunately, but six of these men are still living; they are : Honourable J. J. Duffus, Mr. W. H. Taylor, Mr. A. A. McIntyre, Mr. Geo. A. Macdonald, Mr. James Hamilton and Mr. Wm. G. Ovens."

Centenary Events

"In memory of all this, it is only fitting then that one of the first tasks of this Council should be the planning of suitable muncipal functions to mark this Centenary Year of the city's history. The legal and reception committee last year held discussions on this matter, and it was decided that our celebrations should be free of Old Home Week and other festivities smacking of a circus nature. However, they should be no less marked by having community events which would be entertaining, more inspiring, and educational. We are blessed that many developments appear naturally on this year's civic agenda of events. These will include, we believe, the laying of the cornerstone of the new City Hall, which may properly be expected in the Spring. Another event of great significance will be the official opening, in early Summer, of the new Civic Hospital. There should be planned a number of other enterprises of social, entertainment and historical nature. We should try to assemble in the city this year, Canadian leaders, so that we can benefit from their acquaintance and show them one of Canada's best cities. I hope that the Council will give early consideration to detailed plans and the setting aside of sufficient funds to assure that Peterborough's Centenary Year will be suitably marked to leave something of a lasting impression, particularly on our youth.

"With these few words dealing with the city's history, I desire now to draw the attention of the citizens to the facts and problems touching civic progress. May I first welcome the attendance of all members of the audience here today. Your presence here shows you are interested in community affairs. I must emphasize my belief, in all seriousness, that the success of municipal government can be measured largely by the amount of real concern which the citizens take in the day-to-day conduct of the city's afafirs. I hope that some of you may accept a sincere and standing invitation to attend Council meeting through the year."

New Members Welcomed

"It is fitting to extend a most sincere official welcome to new members of the Council, Alderman John A. Dewart and Alderman Ernest C. Braund. The past training and wide experience of you gentlemen, and particularly your sincere interest in community enterprises, assure us that you will be most helpful to the Council.

"Personally, and on behalf of the citizens, it is a pleasure to welcome the return to the Council of Aldermen Anglesey, Doug. Miller and Waddell, who have merited their re-election at the polls.

"Housing, for a number of years, has been the chief community and social problem in the city. The City Council, for more than seven years, has been actively engaged in encouraging the erection of needed houses, and has spent considerable funds in assisting in the building by government agencies of rental houses. Building records show that within the past five years we are far ahead of most cities of our size in enlarging our housing facilities. I believe we have been successful in going a long way toward solving this problem and we have set a particularly fine record of giving prompt municipal services to new housing subdivisions. This work has proved a great strain on our Works Departments. We should continue every effort to encourage private capital under federal housing plans, to expand the city's housing accommodation, but I feel that the time has passed that we should use civic funds to assist in the construction of government housing."

New City Hall Plans

"Completed plans for the new City Hall should be received from the architects early in the New Year. Soon, too, the picture should be clear as to the exact cost of the land selected as the site for this building. Considerable progress has been made in securing agreements of sale with the owners of the individual properties. I hope that, as recommended by the architects, the Council will call for tenders for the erection of the new City Hall as soon as the completed plans are accepted.

"A major step in solving one of the city's sanitary problems was taken last year when, with the co-operation of the Utilities Commission, the sewer main was laid in the bed of Little Lake between Burnham's Point and Point St. Charles, to carry the sewage from Ashburnham into the city's main system. This relieves Little Lake of pollution. There still remains the connecting of this new sewer main along the west shore into the main Lock Street sewer. This job will be rather costly but must not be postponed beyond June of this year.

"Considerable additional road paving was laid last year. Much city work is not visible to the citizens, (since it is underground, but the road paving program done last year is seen and used, and from the remarks of citizens no work has been more appreciated. Certainly the road paving has improved appearance of many of our streets, aided in overcoming traffic bottle-necks, and will prove an economy over the years in reducing the cost of road maintenance. I would recommend that this permanent surfacing of our roads be continued. There are still many streets which should be permanently surfaced.

"Many new housing subdivisions have been established in recent years and the enjoyment of the occupants of these houses will be retarded until the city gives them sidewalks. A shortage of cement has interfered with the maximum effort in the laying of sidewalks but I hope that this year many sidewalks will be laid along these new street. Many sidewalks also require repairs."

Needs of South End

"The area south of Lansdowne Street, which is known as Claraday Ward, and which is becoming a fine residential area, has constantly received much attention from our Works Departments. All the older parts of the city are served by a splendid storm sewer system. Storm sewers must now be laid along most of the newer streets in Claraday, in order to prevent the flooding of cellars and the proper maintenance of road beds. The City Engineer is familiar with this situation and early in the New Year will present a recommendation of extensive laying of storm sewers, which I hope the Council will accept and implement.

"For some time it has been the Council's desire to enclose the Park Street open ditch. The covering of this water course would be definitely an improvement to the property owners whose property fronts on it, and under the Municipal Act and the Local Improvement Act, a charge for this work must be made against these property owners. This job has been delayed, unfortunately, because the owners of property fronting on the drain have not seen fit to petition for the work to be done, therefore, the Council could not proceed. It may be advisable for the Council to pass a construction by-law under the Local Improvement Act for this work, and seek the approval of the Ontario Municipal Board. I would suggest that serious thought be given to this matter by the Council this year.

"Succeeding Councils have felt a definite responsibility in the unfortunate delays which have impeded a start being made on the construction of the Memorial Centre building. At the present time a survey is being carried out to establish exactly the additional cost of the Memorial Centre building if it is erected on the city property on George Street, opposite Little Lake. When this information is available, it should definitely clear the way for selection of a suitable site for this building. In the meantime, the winter sports and athletics are being nicely accommodated in the Civic Arena. The activities in the Civic Arena are doing much to develop an interest in hockey and skating and is proving the need of much larger accommodation which can only be provided by the Memorial Centre building."

Industrial Outlook

"We all hope that Peterborough's industrial progress will continue during the year. Reports which I have received from the managers of local industries indicate that there will be no slackening in production during 1950. In fact, some of our companies are planning further programs of expansion. It is hoped that the enterprising efforts of the Industrial Commission will be successful in encouraging the establishment of additional suitable industries.

"It is possible that citizens are familiar with the fact that the City Council last year offered valuable city-owned property as the site of one of the new Ontario Mental Hospitals. The Council is pursuing its efforts to secure the establishment of this important provincial institution in the city, knowing that its services to the Kawartha area are much needed.

"In conclusion I should mention our civic officials and departments. Our decisions here could not be effective if it were not for the continued efficient and loyal work of the appointed officials and civic employees. The citizens should appreciate their services and the contributions these trained officials are making in providing Peterborough with excellent municipal administration and services.

'On the Council's part I feel confident that we each will perform our duties in a spirit of harmony and sincerity which will meet the demands of the citizens and prove satisfactory and beneficial to them. For many reasons 1950 should prove an exceptional year and will require exceptional efforts from this Council."

Canada Talks Up To US In 1949 As Policy Stiffens

By GEORGE KITCHEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—(CP).—Canada told the United States in 1949 that she is no "camp follower."

That declaration, made by L. B. Pearson, Canadian external affairs minister, in a foreign policy review before the Commons in Ottawa Nov. 16, is regarded in authoritative Washington quarters as one of the year's most significant developments in Canadian-American relations.

It indicated, they said, a freshening aggressiveness and a stiffening in Canadian policy towards her southern neighbor.

Mr. Pearson told the Commons the United States "must recognize that we wish to play our own part in international developments, make our own contributions and that we can do this effectively as a co-operating partner, but not as a camp follower."

It was noted here that Mr. Pearson's statement was followed by a trend towards plainer speaking by Canadian officials addressing U.S. audiences and by independent action by Canada's Air Transport Board.

The board, for example, summoned Colonial Air Lines of New York to show cause why its licence to fly into Montreal should not be cancelled. This was in retaliation for Colonial's fight here against a licence for Trans-Canada Air Lines to fly into New York.

Generally, Canadian - American relations moved ahead harmoniously in 1949. There was a continuing flow of officials and delegations from Ottawa. Discussions ranged into the fields of defence, customs, immigration, shipping, finance and economics.

Swap Soldiers

On the military front, there was increasing co-operation through the joint Canada - US Defence Board. Greater numbers of U.S. servicemen went to Canada to join in training and other exercises, while Canadian defence forces came south on similar missions.

The U.S. services announced plans to install radar stations in the Alaskan and Arctic regions. These presumably would dovetail with Canadian defence schemes. Negotiations aimed at the return to Canada of sovereignty over U.S. military bases leased during the war in Newfoundland continued in closed-door meetings.

As the year moved to a close, Britain, Canada and the U.S. announced progress in studies towards standardization of military training and equipment. At the same time, they continued secret talks to bring a fuller atomic partnership among them.

In the international field, the major development was the implementing of the North Atlantic Pact. Defence Minister Claxton came to Washington in October to join pact defence ministers in the task of establishing military and supply committees.

No progress was made in 1949 in the long-awaited St. Lawrence seaway and hydro development project. Congress still has not passed legislature to permit the US to join Canada in the $1,000,000,000 scheme.

Prime Minister St. Laurent visited President Truman early in the year to discuss mutual problems. US Defence Secretary Johnson made a trip to Ottawa for defence talks. Canada joined the United States and the United Kingdom here in September for financial and economic discussions which resulted in the setting up of machinery for continuing consultations on those problems.

Hopeful Signs In UN, Lie Says

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Jan. 3 (CP)—Trygve Lie, secretary-general of the United Nations, said Monday night the world must act through the UN to lessen world tension and prevent atomic destruction.

In an article in the magazine "Scientific American," Lie said the progress toward settling any of the east-west differences, either inside or outside the U N, would make it less difficult to settle major difficulties.

He said he believed the world enters the year 1950 with a somewhat better chance of making progress toward a settlement than has existed at any time since the first part of 1947.

"We should be careful not to place our hopes too high," he said "but in recent months there have been signs of a returning spirit of negotiation and of efforts at adjustment.

Lie said it is important that the east and west are resuming this year negotiations on the problem of atomic energy. But he cautioned that the world must not expect important immediate results.

Raping Of Child 8 Touches Off Manhunt

LYNN, Mass., Jan. 3 (AP) — The raping of an eight-year-old girl under circumstances which had some similarity to a fatal sex attack on a Lynn beauty eight years ago touched off an intensive manhunt today.

Police said the child, whose name was withheld was raped in woods in which Frances Cochran, 19, was slain in July, 1941.

After the attack Monday on the child, she was driven back to a spot near the former home of the Cochran girl.

Police quoted the youngster as saying "a man in a new car" offered her a ride to the home of a playmate but took her instead into woods near the Salem-Lynn line.

The child furnished police with a description of the man who left her out of his car a mile and a half from her home.

Wed 25 Years Pair Plan Enter Orders

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 3 (AP) — A 50-year-old state official and businessman wound up his affairs today so he may don the black robes of a monk.

He is Donald D. Foster, for 16 years a California state board of equalization officer and successful operator of a local hobby shop.

Foster, who last year observed his 25th wedding anniversary, will leave Saturday by train to enter St. John's Abbey, a benedictine monastery at Collegeville, Minn.

His devoted wife, May C. Foster, approves of his decision to enter the order. Her only worry is that the Minnesota weather may be too cold for her husband.

If he overcomes the rigors of climate and monasticism, she indicates she will enter a religious order.

It was no snap decision, Foster said. He and his wife had discussed the spiritual joys of religious seclusion when their daughter, Majorie Jean, was a toddler. She now is Sister Mary Matthew of the Presentation Order.

Foster will study a year before entering the Novitiate at the Abbey. That would take a dispensation from the Holy See, which the Abbott said would be granted if Mrs. Foster also enters a religious order.

CNR Head Never Learned How To Back Up On Job

MONTREAL, Jan. 3—(CP)—The man who took over the presidency of Canadian National Railways at New Year's can't drive a locomotive but he knows only one position of any given throttle. Long-time associates say he has never learned how to back up.

He is rugged, tough Donld Gordon, 49 years old, Scotfish born, the man who clapped on price ceilings in Canada during the war and made them stick.

From newsboy to banker to boss of the Wartime Prices Board, black-browed Donald Gordon has always pulled his own drag. He is big enough to do it, too. At 235 pounds and standing six feet, 3½ inches, he is a match for any hogger the C.N.R. can produce, with or without benefit of overalls.

He doesn't try to kid himself or the C.N.R.'s 112,000 employees about stepping into the position from which able R. C. Vaughan has retired.

No Overnight Change

"I am no miracle man," says Mr. Gordon, "and I hope Canadians are not expecting an overnight change in both the financial and operating policy of the railway. The Canadian National has its problems. They must be solved. I won't profess to be a railway expert 10 days after taking over the job."

Within a few weeks Donald Gordon will start a tour of the 24,000-mile system. There will be no fanfare or flourish. He will be far more likely to show up in a roundhouse, a signal tower or a tiny flag-station rather than in the offices of the big brass. He wants to meet and talk with the persons who literally make the wheels go round.

This man who came to a strange country 35 years ago and fought his own battles is a firm believer in hard competition.

"Honest competition is a healthy thing for any country, and this is true for Canada," he says. "I think the morale of Canadian National employees would skyrocket if they had definite aims to fight for. A good fight brings out the best in any man."

Soon after the outbreak of war it was Donald Gordon who carried out the organizational work for the government's new system of foreign exchange control.

It wasn't long before war-inflated prices gave the government new worries. A revolutionary idea was born—price control. Donald Gordon was released reluctantly by the Bank of Canada to boss the job. To Canadians in those wartime days his name became synonomous with price ceilings.

Hydro Increase To City To Cost $61,000

The increase in the price of electric power which the Hydro-Electric Commission has imposed upon Peterborough is from $29.40 per kilwatt to $32.80, a spread of $3.40. It is retroactive to Nov. 1, 1949, and will amount to about $61,000 on the basis of last year's peak of power consumption here.

The Utilities Commission has not yet received any definite information from Hydro about rates other than the reference to the increase in the interim price from $29.40 to $32.80.

The Hydro's price change is going to eliminate the "13th" bill, according to the news coming to the Utilities Commission.

This bill represented the difference between the actual cost of power bought and used by Peterborough on the one hand, and on the other the estimated cost based on the interim rate. Often this adjustment became a substantial refund from the Hydro. According to the recent information they say there will be no more 13th-bills. The inference is that the interim rate is likely to be so close to the actual cost of power bought for the city that there isn't going to be "any core".

The problem looming before the Utilities Commission at their meeting last Friday was an approaching necessity of increasing local rates to power consumers. Discussion indicated that there was scant hope of avoiding a boost, which, in effect, is passing on to the consumer the higher costs that are now to be charged by the Hydro-Electric Commission.

The sentiment of the Utilities members that it would be only a matter of weeks until some price action would have to be taken to meet the new cost.

Beat Watchman 5 Men Arrested

CHATHAM, Jan. 3 — (CP) — Five Chatham men are being held by police after two weekend break-ins at the old brewer's warehouse and the beating of the warehouse night watchman with a beer bottle.

The warehouse, gutted by fire three weeks ago, had been pressed into service again during the new year's rush.

Carl Zimmer, 28, the watchman is in hospital with severe head lacerations. He told police of the beating after staggering into an all-night restaurant.

Wilmer Legue and Reg Pilon have been charged with assault doing actual bodily harm and breaking and entering. Leo Legue is being held as a material witness.

City and provincial police earlier in the weekend teamed up to arrest Albert John Lehan and Don Hicks, on charges of stealing beer from the warehouse.

They were found with more than 100 bottles of beer and ale in their possession.

Father, Girl In Small Boat Get Across Irish Sea Safely

DUBLIN, Jan 3 (Reuters) — Saved from a jagged reef, a wave-battered 16-foot boat trying to reach South America was moored today in safety at Kilmore Quay, Republic of Ireland.

The crew of two, 63-year-old Paul Muller, German chemist, and his 18-year-old daughter, Aga, had not a square meal since Dec. 20, when they left Britain, until Sunday night.

For four days great waves had tossed the little boat and threatened Sunday to hurl it on the sharp rocks of a reef in the Irish Sea. Then they were rescued—for the eighth time since they began to make the voyage to South America. A trawler skipper sighted the boat, got a rope across to it and towed it into harbor.

The Mullers set out from Hamburg nearly two months ago. It is believed that never before has such a small boat crossed the Irish Sea in midwinter.

Their faces caked with dried salt, Muller and his daughter staggered as they stepped ashore from the latest ordeal. They were given hot drinks and a meal.

OBITUARIES

GEORGE HENRY SMITH

George Henry Smith of 474 Mark St., died in hospital Sunday in his 50th year after a lengthy illness. He was formerly employed in the machine shop at the CGE.

Mr. Smith was born in Toronto, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Smith. He came to Peterborough about 10 years ago after previously living in Belleville. He was born and educated in Toronto.

Until ill health forced him to give up his job, Mr. Smith worked in the machine shop at the CGE. He was employed there for six years.

Stock Exchange Opens

TORONTO, Jan. 3 (CP) — Prices opened the near year with slow decline on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Base metal stocks led the downtrend in early dealings, dipping on an almost solid front.

Volume for the first three hours was 422,000 shares.

Consolidated Smelters was down a full point at 102 in base metals and Noranda and Quemont slumped fractions. Pressure followed strong advances late last week.

Industrials were under pressure of profit-taking sales on the previous weeks' strong gains that carried the list to the highest average price level in more than three years. Utilities, papers, refining oils and steels were down fractions. Ontario loan moved on its own to a new high at 130, up 4½.

Senior golds eased fractions and losses ranged up five cents in a handful of key junior producers.

Western oils joined the decline at the half-way mark. Royalite and Pacific Petroleum slumped 10 cents and Federated Petroleum succumbed to heavy profit-taking for a loss of 16 cents at $2.09.

Elderly Farmer Shot In Posse Search

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Jan. 3 — (AP)—An elderly farmer was shot and killed and a state official was wounded in an exchange of shots between the farmer and members of a posse seeking three escaped felons Monday night.

The shooting occurred several hours after the capture of one of the fugitives.

The dead man was identified as Lee Burgis, about 60. Wounded was a deputy state fire marshal, Walter L. McLavey, a member of the posse.

State police headquarters said the posse drove into Burgis' yard. When somebody inside the house opened fire, posse members returned the shots. Burgis and McLavey fell.

Responsibility Stressed In Coming Year

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

There is a tendency to regard 1950 in terms of the simple query "will it be a good year or a bad year?"

And by that we mean, mostly, "will it be good or bad for me?"

That is looking at the year and the world in a personal sense; wondering how economic laws will work themselves out; whether or not there will be plenty of jobs.

That is certainly a concern to any one. But it may be overlooking the best way to ensure jobs in, say, Canada and the United States, is to do something to see that people have jobs elsewhere in the world.

For, as the most fortunate persons in the world today, North Americans need to give a great deal of thought to he well-being of peoples elsewhere.

Powerful Direction

It may be overlooking too, that economic laws have little chance to work themselves out, as they once did. They are powerfully directed by international polictical developmen's.

The year just past, despite continuance of the cold war and the Communist sweep in China, has had a tendency to make us forget that new and greater international political crises are building up.

It has seemed more like the continuance of an old crisis to which we have become accustomed.

Actually, it is more likely that the foundations have been laid for fresh crises; that the year 1949 has seen the laying of powder kegs which are likely to blow up; possibly in 1950; possibly later.

We have not yet seen any light which may show a pathway which we may tread between the kegs and reader them harmless one by one. So, perhaps the three questions of merit are:

What will happen in Asia, specifically China? What may happen in Yugoslavia? What, just possibly, may happen in Russia?

The questions are, of course, only part of one big question:

Can the western and Russian ways of life exist side by side without clashing?

Given some years of avoidance of actual clash, there may come a way to avoid a violent break; but it is difficult to see it right now.

Global Story

There seems to be a truly global story in the making. If the west, and especially North America, is to make its influence dominant in that story, it must not for one moment forget its responsibilities to the parts of the world which are still open to it. Which means that no person in North America should forget his or her responsibilities to others elsewhere.

What has this to do with business? As well ask what effect two world wars and the present cold war have had on business.

Business, of necessity, must operate under the shadow of world crisis; must make its plans on one hand a though things were relatively normal; and, on the other hand, with a thought that they may become suddenly abnormal to an extent which will be abnormal even to this abnormal age.

DR. HERMAN N. SANDER, 40, of Manchester, New Hampshire, above, freed in $25,000 bail in the mercy-slaying of a cancer patient, resumed his practice this week with the "complete confidence" of the dead woman's husband.

Only Slight Tonnage Decrease Reported In 1949 By CPR

By W. A. MATHER
President of C.P.R.

MONTREAL, Jan. 3 — During 1949 the Canadian Pacific again experienced a year of comparatively heavy traffic; tonnage handled decreased only slightly from the records established in the earlier post-war years.

Fortunately for the Canadian railways and our nation's economy, no severe dislocations to industry such as those which beset the United States were sustained. Consequently, while in some categories car loadings were down and there was a marked falling off in extremely long haul traffic which characterized the war years when supplies and equipment from all parts of the country were concentrated on the eastern seaboard, there was a consistence of the increase in production and car loadings which contributed to and are a result of Canada's industrial expansion. More noticeable amongst these are petroleum and petroleum products, cement for construction, ores and concentrates.

It continues to be disappointing however, that with such buoyant traffic, the ratio of net earnings to gross earnings remains at the lowest level in the company's history.

Faced with this situation, the Canadian Pacific has had to continue to practise the strictest economy in its operations in order to meet its immediate financial obligations. The company, however, has been able to undertake some notable improvements consistent with the ability to pay for them.

Placing Diesels

While our equipment situation is not all that we would desire, becaue of inadequate financial return and the high cost of replacements, we are embarked on an extensive program of dieselization of our motive power which it is expected will produce substantial savings in transportation costs, although the amount necessary to purchase this new equipment represents a heavy outlay which could not be justified except in terms of those savings.

The next big step to be taken in the Canadian Pacific's expanding dieselization program is indicated in orders recently placed with newly established Canadian manufacturers for 58 diesel locomotive units to be assigned to 517 miles of the company's main line on the Schreiber division. Fulfilment of these orders will bring to 190 the number of diesel locomotives operated by the Canadian Pacific in Canada.

Oil In West

Aside from the acquisition of diesels, the oil discoveries in Alberta and Saskatchewan have provided a major new source of fuel, and the company's Weston Shops at Winnipeg have been working on orders to convert more than 100 steam locomotives used on the prairies from coal to oil-burning.

In other directions, the Canadian Pacific is pursuing a progressive program. In July, Canadian Pacific Air Lines inaugurated service from Vancouver, by way of Honolulu, Canton Island and the Fiji Islands, to Australia, operating four-engined, pressurized Canadian-built aircraft, and in September, using the same kind of aircraft, added a weekly service linking Vancouver with Tokyo and Hong Kong. These constituted the first air services by a Canadian operator to either Australia or Japan and China.

Operations of Canadian Pacific Steamships on the North Atlantic proved satisfactory, with its fleet of nine ships, two Empresses, four fast Beaver cargo ships, two Beaver cargo-passenger ships and the immigrant ship Beaverbrae, carrying more freight and passengers in and out of Montreal than in any summer season since the war. Next May, the Empress of Scotland, which before the war operated as the Empress of Japan and was the largest and fastest passenger ship on the Pacific, will join the trans-Atlantic fleet and run between Liverpool and Quebec. This will enable the Canadian Pacific to provide a weekly service by Empress liners on the St. Lawrence route to the United Kingdom.

Two new 6,000-ton Clyde-built passenger vessels have joined the company's British Columbia Coast Service fleet in the last year. The Princess Marguerite and the Princess Patricia both arrived via the Panama Canal early this year and are now engaged in the popular 'Triangle Run' service between Vancouver, Victoria and Seattle. Both are capable of carrying 2,000 passengers per trip.

Another ship, a 6,000-ton car ferry destined for service between Vancouver and Nanaimo, on Vancouver Island, where the C.P.R. this summer opened a new $1,700,000 ship terminal, has been ordered for the B.C.C.S.

Overhaul Plant For Jet Engines

TORONTO, Jan. 3—(CP)— A jet engine overhaul plant, believed the first in Canada, has been opened at suburban Downsview.

Mechanics of deHavilland Aircraft Company already are stripping down the Goblin turbines which power Vampire fighters of R.C.A.F. regular and auxiliary squadrons.

Potential output of the de Havilland and overhaul plant is three engines a week. Under emergency conditions, six engines might be completed. The test house is so designed that an easy addition would double its capacity. Under supervisor Robert McIntyre, 30 experienced mechanics are servicing the Goblin engines. Most of the turbines are sent in for overhaul after 150 to 200 hours running. As R.C.A.F. jet experience increases, however, the operating period will be lengthened.

Food Prices Lower, To Offset Rents

OTTAWA, Jan. 3 (CP)—Lower food prices may be the answer to the housewife's prayer as she faces the rentals wolf at her door.

She'll know tomorrow whether the food-price decline which snipped the cost-of-living index from its all-time high in three successive clips will continue to do a job of lowering living costs.

Declines in prices for meats and dairy produce overpowered other advances, to shove the index down in August, September and October.

The index, calculated on the basis that 1935-39 prices equal 10, now touches 161.7—down from last July's peak of 162.8.

Tomorrow's standing to be published by the Bureau of Statistics will show the prices trend in November—including a new quarterly survey of rentals.

At All-Time High

While food prices appear to be going down steadily, rents are at an all-time high—and they appear to be going still higher.

A see-saw battle therefore appears to be developing between the foods and rents groups which make up 50 per cent of the costs compilation. Others include fuel and lighting, clothing, home furnishings and a miscellaneous group which covers transportation costs.

Food prices have come a long way down from last July's peak of 209.2. But even at 203.3—the level last October — prices are more than double what they were in pre-war days.

The rental index now stands at 123.9 after a quarterly survey in August sent up a half-point. Government control have been instrumental in keeping rents at the comparatively low level, but these now have been eased.

Welsh Educationist Honored By King

LONDON, Jan. 3—(CP)—Professor Olive Wheeler, Welsh educationist, is made a Dame of the Order of the British Empire —the feminine equivalent of a knighthood—in the King's 1950 New Year Honors List announced Monday.

The Honors List, the 27th of the King's reign, also includes Owen John Owen, 80-year-old Welsh printer noted as a lay preacher and conductor of Welsh National Eisteddfod. Mr. Owen, made an Officer of the Order of the British Empire, still preaches twice every Sunday.

A viscountcy for Defence Minister A. V. Alexander tops the list, expected to be the last of this parliament.

TORONTO, Jan. 3—(CP)—J. H. C. (Ike) Waite, president of the Mining Corporation of Canada, Ltd., and one of Canada's most prominent mining engineers, died Monday. He was 61.

Mr. Waite suffered a stroke Saturday.

He was president of the Quemont Mining Corporation, Normetal Mining Corporation and Base Metals Mining Corporation. Recently elected to the directorate of the Iron Ore Corporation, he was also a director of Waite Amulet Mines Ltd., Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting Company, Ltd., Kerr-Addison Gold Mines, Ltd., and Bankfield Consolidated Mines, Ltd.

Born in Port Hope, he was a graduate in mining engineering of the University of Toronto.

Nephew's Swift Action Saves Woman's Life

KINGSTON, Jan. 3 — (CP) — Quick thinking by her nephew saved Mrs. Kate Anderson from possible death Saturday night when fire broke out in their Cushendall home, about 30 miles north of here.

Smelling smoke as he retired, W. Connell, Jr., tried to get through to the side of the house occupied by Mrs. Anderson. Finding the doors blocked by flames, he rushed from the house and around to the window of his aunt's room, smashed the glass and after climbing into the flaming room carried the sleeping woman to safety.

Race 70 Miles On Icy Roads With Sick Baby

TORONTO, Jan. 3 — A young Kitchener couple gambled on the life of their 4½ months old baby Sunday night when they raced with a police escort over 70 miles of wet and slippery roads to the emergency door of the Hospital for Sick Children.

Their baby, after three weeks in hospital with pneumonia, had developed intestinal intoxication —the disease that doctors said caused the Mattawa baby deaths five months ago.

The baby was Elaine Book, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Book of Kitchener.

The crimson-faced youngster, wrapped in a pile of warm clothing and lulled in its mother's arms, was in critical condition when it reached the hospital.

Mr. Book said the trouble started three weeks ago when Elaine was put into hospital at Kitchener with pneumonia.

"She got steadily worse," he said. "She was given a blood transfusion, and was injected with the drug streptomycin.

"On Thursday last things got desperate. Elaine was given another transfusion. And the doctors gave her aureomycin.

Sunday, about 7 p.m. our family doctor came to the house and said: "I know it is a risk and the roads are awful, but I think you must take Elaine to the Sick Kids Hospital. And you must take her tonight."

The Books then started a 65-mile-an-hour drive to Toronto. They were escorted by provincial police to the Humber River, where the city police took over. The baby reached the hospital at 11 p.m., and doctors started an examination immediately.

One of the doctors said intestinal intoxication is a form of germ infection of the bowels. He said it could be serious, fatally so. He said treatment was given by intravenous injections of fluids.

Actor Dies Of Cancer

VIENNA, Austria, Jan. 3 (AP) —Emil Jannings, 62, one of Hollywood's brightest stars two decades ago, died of cancer at his home in Zinkenbach Monday night. He had been ill for several weeks. Jannings, who was the first actor to win Hollywood's Academy Award, died peacefully in his sleep, his wife said. He won the "Oscar" in 1928 for his performance in the "Way of All Flesh."

"SALADA" TEA

"Bob, do you know what Day this is?"

"This," said Betty to a momentarily flustered Bob, "is the beginning of a new year with a lot of wonderful possibilities for us.

*"The Bank Manager and I were chatting about the new year and he told me what the Bank President had said in his speech about our future.

"And, you know Bob, I never realized before what great possibilities there are for you and me and every Canadian."

* * * * * *

In the Bank President's words:
"The underlying trend for Canada is decidedly upward—we are still a young and growing country." There are immediate problems, to be sure. But Canada's unfolding resources and growing capacity to develop them can make the next fifty years a half century of realization of Laurier's famous quotation: "The twentieth century belongs to Canada."

Havelock Children Worry Over Reindeer

HAVELOCK, Jan. 3 (ENS)—Some of the local children were excited on Christmas Day because they thought Santa Claus had lost one of his reindeers when a young fawn appeared on the main street of the village early in the afternoon.

Mrs. Gavin Buchanan was the first to notice it at the intersection at William and George Streets. It jumped the fence into the garden plot of Mrs. A. Graham, going around her house and back on to George St. The children of that section were trying to capture it but the excited waving of hockey sticks frightened the animal and it made a quick getaway into the north woods between the homes of A. Curry and Mrs. E. Forbes.

Held In Robbery

TORONTO, Jan. 3 (CP)—Four young men were arrested Monday and two were charged with robbing the Paddock Tavern here of $3,000 last August. All four were charged with conspiring to commit a robbery. William Cassian, 23, and John Scott, 24, were charged with the Paddock Tavern theft. They, and Verni Sguigua, 22, and Roy Johnson, 21, were charged with conspiracy.

Looking Ahead In Ottawa

Scientists Study Proposals Next Step In Atomic Field

OTTAWA, Jan. 3 (CP)—Government scientists now are studying proposals for Canada's next step forward in the atomic field and there are signs that it will be a big one, quite possibly bigger than anything the country has yet done in its brief atomic history.

A large-scale development is under active study. It may involve, possibly starting in 1950, a big expansion of the Chalk River project 125 miles from Ottawa or a new development somewhere else.

The core of it would be construction of a new reactor or radioactive pile, an advance on the present heavy-water reactor used at Chalk River.

Although the present reactor is unique and allows Canada to make experiments that cannot be made elsewhere, there are two flaws in the setup. One is that if it breaks down the project will virtually grind to a halt. The other is that it is falling behind the times.

As one official put it, "if you're going into this atomic business, you've got to keep up . . . you can't hope to do that with outdated equipment."

Freight

It will be well into the new year before a decision is handed down by the Board of Transport Commissioners on the controversial issue of freight rates on farm implements.

Special low rates on implements going from Ontario to the west had been in effect for more than 25 years when the railways tried to cancel them a year ago and put in higher rates. The board suspended the proposed increases when western governments and farm interests protested. Later, it held a series of hearings on the questions.

A heavy agenda of other cases has prevented the board from bringing down a decision, and this situation will be continued for some weeks to come. Meanwhile, the lower rates on farm implements are remaining in effect.

Combines

A new report of Combines Commissioner F. A. McGregor, dealing with the rubber industry is expected to be made public about Jan. 10.

It will be the final report of the veteran combines investigator who resigned—effective Jan. 1—in a dispute with the government over its rejection of his report finding a combine existed in the flour-milling industry.

Last week, Mr. McGregor issued a report on the flat-glass industry, finding the existence of a combine involving nine jobbers in that product in Ontario and Quebec.

Need More Colleges Hall Tells Students

MONTREAL, Jan. 3 — (CP) — Establishment of more universities and junior colleges in Canada was called for Friday by Henry F. Hall, Dean of Sir George Williams College, in an address to Canadian university students attending a five-day conference of the Student Christian Movement here.

Dean Hall said that Canada's rapid growth of population and the extended nature of the country demanded more universities.

Canadian towns isolated from university areas needed junior colleges which would enable students to take at least two years of college work either as a two-year terminal program with junior college diploma or as advanced training leading to university studies and a degree.

Book Publisher Dead

TORONTO, Jan. 3 (C)P—Henry R. M. Clee, 44, prominent Canadian book publishers, died in hospital Sunday. He was president and general manager of the McGraw-Hill Company of Canada and president of Random House, Canada. Native of Russell, Man., he founded Ambassador Books, Ltd., in 1943.

Roland Tedford Elected Reeve Of Douro Twp.

Roland Tedford, member of the 1949 township of Douro, was elected reeve for 1950 at the municipal elections on Monday. He defeated J. J. Leahy, a former reeve, 469 to 219 for a majority of 250 votes.

Mr. Tedford had a substantial majority at three of the four polls in the township, polling his largest votes at Nassau and Pine Grove. Mr. Leahy had the lead at the poll in the township hall.

Bruce Dunford headed the polls for councillor in his first time to appear before the electors. Fegus Moher was second and Cletus Sullivan was the third councillors elected. Mr. Moher and Mr. Sullivan were both members of the 1949 council.

This year Douro has its first deputy reeve. Loyola Maloney was elected by acclamation deputy reeve.

Mr. Dunford, in heading the polls, polled 449 votes. Cletus Sullivan polled 359 and Fergus Moher 348. The two defeated candidates were Francis Condon 267 votes, and Ernest Davis, 217.

Omemee Branch Raise $243 For Bible Society

OMEMEE, Jan. 3 (ENS).—The Omemee branch of the Upper Canada Bible Society met Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Edith Curry.

Vice-president J. A. Bent was in the chair. Mr. Bent paid tribute to the late David Weir, president of the society, and thanked his fellow officers and the collectors for their ready co-operation.

The collectors reported that they were well received in the house-to-house canvass of Omemee and surrounding country. In some sections the canvass was not completed but the treasurer, E. Switzer, RR 1, Omemee, had sent $243 to headquarters. The remainder is to be secured as soon as possible and be forwarded. Some slight revisions were made in the division of territory for next year and it was agreed to make the canvass in October.

Secretary H. Hill announced that he had received a certificate of life membership in the Upper Canada Bible Society for Miss Curry, and called upon Rev. F. W. Pooley of Christ Anglican Church, Omemee, to make the presentation. Miss Curry, in her reply, said that she felt honored in being made a life member of a society doing such an important work. She also expressed much pleasure in having the local branch meet in her home.

The meeting was closed with prayer by Mr. Pooley, after which a cup of tea was served.

School Meeting

BONARLAW, Jan. 3 (ENS). — The annual school meeting of SS No. 14 was held in the schoolhouse Wednesday night. Charles Wellman was appointed chairman and Harold Stiles secretary.

The school will supply books again this coming year. The wood contract was awarded S. Mathers and Stanley McInroy.

Mrs. Jennie Wellman was appointed delegate to the OEA.

Tethering Elephants?

WINNIPEG, Jan. 3 (CP)—Perhaps the new year's celebrant thought he was tethering his pink elephants. A constable watched him, hatless, coatless and carless, romping down the main drag on New Year's Eve, and jauntily putting a nickel into each parking meter along the way. That done he boarded a bus.

Say Mercury To Nosedive 37 Degrees

Mild Weather Over As Cold Snap Sweeps Into Province

TORONTO, Jan. 4—(CP)—The mercury went into a nosedive today, and the weatherman said it won't come out of it until freezing temperatures are reached.

A 37-degree drop was forecast by nightfall for most parts of Ontario, putting an end to an unseasonably mild, rainy spell.

"As the temperature drops to freezing, the rain will change to snow," the weatherman said. In the Toronto area, the mercury was expected to drop to 15 degrees, with the cold snap continuing tomorrow.

By mid-day, the mercury had dropped from the day's high of 52 to 48, and was dropping fast with cold air moving in from Western Canada where the weather has been bitter cold.

Freeze-up Welcomed

Signs of a freeze-up were welcomed in areas threatened by flood from heavy rains.

Sixty families were reported virtually marooned at Highland Creek in York county where the creek, swelled by three days of continuous rain, flowed over and cut off the lone road entrance to the valley.

High-wheeled trucks made several trips through the washed-out road to bring in essential food supplies and take out some residents who work in the city. Most school children stayed home.

At Glencoe, 25 miles west of London, a Wabash Railway freight train bound for St. Thomas, was derailed and police said the accident apparently was due to heavy rains which undermined the roadbed. Seven cars left the track; three turned over.

The Hamilton weather bureau today reported a high temperature of 59 degrees in the last 24 hours.

Board Urges 4.7% Boost In Pay Rate

Affect 5,500 Workers If Both Parties Accept Suggestion

A reduction of the work week to 42 hours and a 4.7 per cent increase in wages to maintain take-home pay is the recommendation of the Conciliation Board seeking a solution to the contract dispute between Local 524 UE and CGE.

Should the majority findings be acceptable to both parties some 5,500 workers would be affected at CGE plants in Toronto, Peterboro and Cobourg.

Peterborough and Cobourg plant employees would receive the benefit of a reduction of three hours in their present work week while those in Toronto would receive two. This would leave all plants included under the master contract operating on a straight 42 hours.

Average increase would amount to about 5½ cents an hour, the Board estimates, but it is recommended that this wage boost be computed on a percentage basis.

Judge J. C. Reynolds and C. B. C. Scott, management's nominee, signed the majority report. A minority report was filed by J. L. Cohen, union's representative, asking for a general increase of five cents in addition to the maintenance of take-home pay.

Change In Date

The anniversary date of the continuing contract is June 30, but the Board recommends that the amendations be effective 10 weeks before the date of settlement not June 30.

On behalf of the union Mr. Cohen contends that it be retroactive to the anniversary date.

Though he thought the recommendations were more than the Company felt economically justified, K. J. Corkery, Vice-president of manufacturing for CGE said the proposed terms of the new agreement were being studied.

The relevant section of the report on wages and hours follows.

"That the regular hours of work be reduced from 44 to 42 hours per week, and that wages be increased a sufficient amount to maintain the same take-home pay of the reduced work week, or, according to our calculations, an increase of 4.77 per cent. In the result this will amount to about 5.5 cents per hour based on the average earnings at CGE of $1.129 cents an hour. It is to be understood, however that the Board recommends the increase be applied on the percentage basis detailed above and not as a flat increase across the board."

Fire Aboard Ship

HALIFAX, Jan. 4—(CP)—The 6,689-ton United States freighter Mormacreed is racing towards Halifax at full speed with fire in her hold. The fire department was notified to have equipment at the pier when the freighter reaches port late this afternoon. The ship was not believed in any immediate danger. The blaze broke out in a cargo of dried corn.

Canada Takes Steps To Tighten Export Controls

OTTAWA, Jan. 4 (CP)—Canada today took steps to tighten controls on the export of strategic materials by increasing the number of countries to which export permits are required from 46 to 64.

A trade department announcement extended the principle of export control from 46 European and Mediterranean countries to another 18 in the Mediterranean and the Far East.

Included in the 18 countries are Communist China, the new State of Israel, Borneo, Burma, Hong Kong, Indonesia, Japan, islands comparatively close to China such as Malaya, New Guinea and the Philippines.

Also in the new list are Singapore, Syria, Thailand and Timor as well as Korea, Luchu Islands and Macao.

Take No Chances

Hong Kong is a British possession. However, the controls were extended to that island because of its proximity to the China coast and because it normally is a trans-shipment point in the movement of goods from Canada to China.

The department at the same time streamlined export controls by removing 25 non-strategic items from its list and leaving only about 100 items for which an export permit still is required.

These 100 items include such things as chemicals, war material and other goods classified as strategic materials, primary steel and building supplies which still are scarce.

To prevent Canada being used as a "back door" to evade export regulations of other nations, the department said an export permit will be required on all goods originally imported into Canada and re-exported without further processing in this country.

An exception to this order covers the shipment of goods in bond or through a bill of lading which indicates clearly that the goods are for consignment to a third country and goods designated ultimately to the United States.

Truman Tells Congress It Should Pass Seaway Plan This Year

Lower Taxes, More Prosperity Hinted In Optimistic Message To Congress; Believes Free Lands Can Challenge Reds

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4—(AP)—President Truman told Congress today that it should pass—at this session—legislation to authorize the St. Lawrence Seaway and Power Project. Truman, in his State of the Union message, thus emphasized once again the importance he places on beginning and completing the huge international development. The proposal, first advanced more than 50 years ago, calls for making the St. Lawrence navigable to ocean-going ships from the head of the Great Lakes to the Atlantic Ocean.

Also, it provides for the creation of a 2,200,000 horsepower hydro-electric plant in the International rapids section of the river, near Massena, N.Y.

"We need to enlarge the production and transmission of public power," the President said.

Begin Study Soon

Legislation to authorize the St. Lawrence development has been introduced in the Senate and House of Representatives. A Senate Foreign Relations sub-committee is scheduled to begin shortly its consideration of the Bill.

Cost of the project, under the present proposal, would be borne more or less equally by the United States and Canada. The latest cost estimate, as arrived at by Army engineers, is between $750,000,000 and $1,000,000,0000.

Moderate Taxes

President Truman today advocated a "moderate amount" of new taxes for Americans in a glowingly optimistic "state of the Union message to the second session of the 81st Congress. He also voiced hope of an eventual trillion dollar economy for the United States.

If the United States keeps growing as it has in the last 50 years, he told Congress, the total national production 50 years hence will be nearly four times that it is now, or at the rate of more than $1,000,000,000,000 a year.

Pork Prices Drop In Local Shops Province-Wide

Pork is down in many Peterborough butcher shops, but the full impact of the tightening of the British market has not yet been felt, and some meat counters have not yet caught up with the decrease in wholesale prices because they still have stock bought or ordered at last week's prices. One merchant is selling bacon 10 cents cheaper than it was a month ago, and three cents less than last week.

Bulk dressed hog is down four cents a pound and in another shop pork chops are off five cents. Most butchers contacted say that the new price levels on pork will be general tomorrow when new stock is in and the wholesalers have had time to figure out their price ranges on various cuts.

Housewives have made no great rush to Peterborough butchers to take advantage of the week-end pork prices. It is expected that the market will be fluid until there is stabilizing in the stockyards.

In Toronto a general decrease in the price of pork was noticed today. One retailer reported side bacon was down 10 cents to 49 cents a pound. A chain store announced a drop of 12 cents for pork tenderloins to 73 cents a pound. Reductions of four to six cents a pound on other cuts were general.

The lower prices for pork may not continue, however. An official of the Dominion Livestock Branch at the Toronto stockyards said there have been no stockyard sales since Friday and if the price continues low it is doubtful that farmers will want to market their hogs.

At Hamilton, pork prices dropped from two to five cents in most stores and even 10 cents on loin chops in one store.

29 In U.S. Crew Ask State Dept. Break Contract

HONG KONG, Jan. 4.—(AP).—The United States' State Department today was asked by 29 American crew members to arrange naval protection for the Shanghai-bound freighter Flying Arrow or to authorize their release from contract.

The American asked also that the State Department arrange repatriation of any U. S. seaman who elects to leave the ship rather than sail for the mined Communist-held port. None of the ship's officers signed the crew statement.

The U.S. consulate informed the 29 men that the State Department already had authorized their signing off the Isbrandtsen Line ship which is scheduled to sail for Red Shanghai tomorrow. The consulate offered to arrange loans to finance the return of the men to the United States.

Captain David Jones, master of the Flying Arrow, charged that the State Department was making a last-minute effort to hinder the ship's departure. The Flying Arrow would risk the gunfire of Chinese Nationalist gunboats blockading Shanghai waters in addition to mines the Chinese claim to have laid in the Yangtze river estuary.

Hans Isbrandsten, head of the line in New York, has been feuding with the State Department over the sailing of his ships in to Communist held ports.

The State Department has warned that any American ship captain taking a vessel into Red Shanghai may lose his licence. The department also has declared Shanghai waters dangerous and advised American shipping to steer clear of them.

2 Flee in Howling Blizzard Police Nab One Convict

WINNIPEG, Jan. 4—(CP)—Police said today that one of two convicts who escaped Monday from nearby Headingley Jail has been recaptured. Walter Fayant, 31, was taken into custody by R.C.M.P. Tuesday night at Iberville, Man., about 30 miles west of Winnipeg. Paul Sportlak, 22, still is at large and is believed hiding in Winnipeg. The convicts, both trusties, walked off jail property Monday afternoon during a howling blizzard. Both were serving short terms, Fayant a six-month sentence for breaking, entering and theft and Sportlak a 12-month sentence on charges in connection with operation of a bootleg still.

Tending Stock

The escapees had been tending stock near the prison farm. Each was dressed warmly in a sheepskin coat, dark cloth cap and dark pants.

"Searchers were hampered by the weather," said jail governor E. G. Weeks. "Visibility was about two car lengths all afternoon."

Tracks left by Sportak and Fayant were followed south from prison property onto the Assiniboine River. Drifting snow wiped out the trail.

Headingley is about 12 miles west of Winnipeg and the direction of the tracks indicated that the men set out for the city.

Fire Destroys House, Store

BROCKVILLE, Jan. 4 (CP) — A fire of unknown origin destroyed a grocery store and a private home late Tuesday night and for a time threatened the entire village of Seeley's Bay, seven miles north of Gananoque.

Breaking out shortly after 11 p.m. in the upstairs of Kenneth Bolton's store, the largest in the village, the fire quickly engulfed the structure spreading to his home next door. Village and district residents rallied to fight the blaze with buckets, but were driven away by the intense heat.

They then concentrated their efforts on saving the home of Wella Willis which was in the path of the wind-fanned flames.

Fire departments from the nearby town of Gananoque and the neighboring villages of Athens and Delta arrived in response to appeals for aid. The three departments managed to confine the blaze to the two buildings, Mr Willis' house suffering smoke and water damage.

Mr. Bolton and his wife and three children were left homeless by the blaze, estimated to have caused some $20,000 worth of damage.

Grenade In Apartment

TORONTO, Jan. 4 — (CP) — Police said Tuesday that an empty hand grenade was thrown into an apartment below that of Charles Sims, a Communist who was defeated for alderman in Monday's Toronto elections. Mr. Sims said a note attached to the grenade said: "We're fed up with Sims. This one's empty; the next one won't be empty." No one was hurt.

Cable Trouble Halts Telegraph Service

TOONTO, Jan. 4 (CP)—Telegraph service was interrupted early today on Canadian Pacific circuits between Toronto and other communities in eastern Canada when trouble developed in a mainline cable running through the Don Valley just east of Toronto.

Cause of the difficulty was obscure. One theory was that, with rain continuing here, moisture had seeped into the cable.

Among services temporarily affected were some news wires of the Canadian Press, including those from New York to Ottawa and Montreal. At mid-morning, CP service from Toronto to Peterborough, Belleville and Oshawa still was cut off.

To Recognize China

LONDON, Jan. 4—(AP)—Britain has told the United States it will recognize Communist China on Friday or Saturday, an informed source said today. This source said Britain's decision actually was made weeks ago.

Only the question of times was in doubt—and that was settled before Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin left Dec. 27 for the Colombo Conference of Dominion foreign ministers.

New York World Takes Over Sun

NEW YORK, Jan. 4—(CP)—The New York World-Telegram today purchased the New York Sun. Both are afternoon papers.

Beginning tomorrow the combined newspaper will be known as "The World-Telegram and the Sun," it was announced by Roy W. Howard, President and Editor of the World-Telegram, and Thomas W. Dewart, President and Publisher of the Sun.

Dewart is a son of William T. Dewart, a native of Fenelon Falls, Ont., who was publisher of the Sun until his death in 1944. From 1944 until 1946 the paper was published by another of William Dewart's sons, William Jr. Upon his death, Thomas became publisher. He is related to Alderman John A. Dewart of Peterborough.

In a statement Dewart blamed union demands as a reason for the sale.

The merger leaves Manhattan with five morning and three afternoon newspapers of general circulation—the Compass, Daily News, Herald Tribune, Mirror and Times in the morning field, and the Journal-American, New York Post Home News and the World Telegram and the Sun in the evening field.

The Sun was established in 1883 and has a daily circulation of about 300,000 copies.

The World-Telegram's circulation is approximately 385,000.

Gun-Toting Woman Robs Taxi Driver

ALEXANDRIA, Ont., Jan. 4—(CP)—Two thugs and a gun-toting woman companion Tuesday held-up and robbed a Verdun Que., taxi driver of $75 and escaped with his cab.

The holdup occurred on the isolated Glen Robertson County road about two miles east of here early Tuesday and Ontario and Quebec provincial police immediately launched an intensive search for the wanted trio.

Taxi driver Jean Paul Lefebvre 24, of Verdun, said the trio hired his cab in Montreal late Monday night and asked to be driven to Cornwall. Near Alexandria, he said, the woman produced a gun and forced him to stop the cab, hand over his money, and then pushed him out of the vehicle.

Conduct Inquiry

TORONTO, Jan. 4 — (CP) — Ontario Liquor Control Board officials are conducting an inquiry into multiple ownership of liquor outlets in the province, it was reported Tuesday. The probe is to learn if any "chain ownership" of the outlets exists. Under the Liquor Control Act, the board can conduct an audit of the books of any individual or company engaged in the sale of liquor. Audits this year are said to be more searching than in the past.

Morris Resigns As Argo Coach

TORONTO, Jan. 4 — (CP) — Resignation of Teddy Morris as coach of Toronto Argonauts in the Interprovincial Rugby Football Union was announced here today by Club President Bob Moran.

Accepting the resignation of Morris, coach of the Scullers since 1945, the club executive insisted that he remain with the club in another full-time capacity. His new post has not yet been announced.

"We have no idea who will succeed Morris," Moran said. "We have sifted the list of men in Canada available and feel we'll have to go to the United States to get a replacement."

Mackenzie King Feeling Better

OTTAWA, Jan. 4—(CP)—Rt. Hon. W. L. MacKenzie King, former Prime Minister, today told The Canadian Press he was feeling better after a few days of rest made necessary by the strain of Christmas activities.

At the age of 75 and recovering from a serious heart ailment which revealed itself when he was in England more than a year ago and hastened his retirement from public life, Mr. MacKenzie King is forced to avoid any prolonged strain or excitement.

Failure to appear at the Governor General's New Year levee Monday gave rise to fears that Mr. King was seriously ill.

He said today that the exhilaration of receiving and making calls at Christmas, and handling a flood of mail, had so taxed him that he decided to take a few days rest in bed.

Doctor Up For Murder For Mercy Killing

MANCHESTER, N.H., Jan. 4—(AP)—A doctor who carefully noted in hospital records his actions in the mercy killing of a mortally-ill cancer patient was indicted Tuesday on a first-degree murder charge.

Dr. Hermann N. Sander, 40-year-old general practitioner, was accused by an all-male grand jury of murder by injecting air into the veins of 59-year-old Mrs. Abbie Borroto last Dec. 4.

The Hillsboro County grand jury indicted the physician after a day-long hearing.

Sander was charged with injecting "10 cubic centimetres of air four times in close succession . . . well knowing that the said air injection to be sufficient to cause death."

US Orders One-Third Cut In Rail Passenger Service

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4 (AP).—The Interstate Commerce Commission today ordered a general one-third cut in railroad passenger service on lines using coal as fuel. The reduction is effective at 11:59 p.m., local time, on Sunday, January 8.

The order applies to all rail lines having 25 or less days' supply of fuel coal for their passenger services "and not having available a dependable source of supply."

The ICC said the action was made necessary by the dwindling supplies of coal due to the recent disturbances and curtailments in the coal mining industry.

It was the second time in recent months that the ICC has taken such action as a result of the virtually deadlocked coal dispute between John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers and Mine Operators across the country.

The U. S. cut would mark the second time in recent months that the ICC has taken such action as a result of the virtually deadlocked coal dispute between John L. Lewis's United Mine Workers across the U. S.

Passenger service on trains drawn by coal-burning locomotives was cut by one-fourth last Oct. 26, during the UMW's 52-day strike, and was restored Nov. 15 when Lewis announced that the miners were returning to the pits.

The UMW members have been working only part of every week—a situation which has slowly eaten away at coal stocks above ground.

The ICC had previously taken note to the squeeze on U. S. railroads by giving those with less than a nine-day supply on hand a virtual priority on coal produced at the mines which usually supply them.

Britain Proposes Forming New Atomic Partnership

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—(CP).—The New York Times reports today that Britain has proposed creation of a new partnership among Britain, Canada and the United States on atomic weapon production.

In a dispatch to the Times from Washington, James Reston says a detailed series of proposals were contained in a British memorandum sent to Washington.

The dispatch adds that the proposals have been "well received at the State and Defence Departments and at the Atomic Energy Commission."

(In London, a foreign office spokesman said that Britain had presented new proposals for an Anglo-American-Canadian partnership agreement on atom weapon production but declined to give any details).

Reston's report says it was understood that the memorandum makes the following proposals:

1. Britain would agree not to produce atomic bombs, although it might wish to continue its explorations into the possibility of developing new atomic weapons.

2. Britain would agree, as Canada already has done, to allow its scientists to work with U.S. scientists on the development of atomic weapons in the United States.

3. The United States would supply, however, an "X" number of atomic bombs to be stored in Britain.

4. British scientists would be instructed to grant to the U.S. all information they possess that might be useful in promoting the unified atomic weapons project in the United States — but they would do so noly on basis of a complete exchange of atomic information by the United States.

Formal On Invitations Has Board In Dither

TORONTO, Jan. 4 (CP)—The word formal on the invitations to Friday's inaugural meeting of the Board of Education had members in a dither today.

Trustee Harold Menzies said so much comment had been aroused he asked that a poll of members be taken and he is pretty sure the wording will be changed.

Mr. Menzies, Mrs. May Robinson and Mrs. Edna Ryerson all said they didn't intend to dress formally for the occasion. The other members had not yet made their views known.

Water Main Bursts, Quebec Dry

Put All Fire Stations On Emergency Duty, Get Water In Tanks

QUEBEC, Jan. 4 —(CP)—The most precious and the scarcest commodity in Upper Town, Quebec Tuesday night was water.

The city's fussy old 40-inch water main, disturbed by unseasonably mild rainy weather, suffered the worst break ever Tuesday morning.

While Lower Town and Limoilou districts had their normal supply of water, the Upper Town districts last night were reduced to waiting for municipal deliveries of drinking water from tank trucks.

In some sections of the affected districts, partial water services were resumed late Tuesday.

The 40-inch main, which travels underground all the way from suburban Chateau d'Eau, at Lake St. Charles, to the big reservoir atop the plains of Abraham, broke at Charlesbourg about 10 miles from the city.

Within 10 minutes of the break, water pressure took a dive from 200 pounds to 80 pounds. Special equipment was rushed to four Upper Town fire stations where water pressure had dropped to nothing in some cases, and to 20 and 35 pounds in others.

In Conference

Fire Chief Rosaire Beaulieu went into a conference with city authorities to organize emergency measures in case fire broke out in waterless districts.

All fire stations in the city will be on call with full staffs in case of fire.

Meanwhile, annoyed Upper Town residents, who a few days ago suffered water shortages because the 40-inch main clogged with ice, are keeping waterworks personnel busy with demands for water.

Some housewives reported they made tea with soda water at suppertime.

Leon Faucher, superintendent of public works, asked the public "to show a little patience."

Car Out Of Control 2 Windsor Men Killed

WINDSOR, Jan. 4 (CP) — Two Windsor men were killed Tuesday when their auto went out of control at a downtown intersection, crashed into a store front and burst into flames. Dead are Wilfred J. Marion, 22, and Paul Mousseau, 21.

Police found their bodies lying in broken glass and blood between the demolished car and the shattered store front. Alcohol from a broken radiator had burst into flames before police arrived.

Damage to Berkendorf dry goods store was estimated at $1,000.

The accident, which happened about 2 a.m. Tuesday, was Windsor's first fatality of 1950 and brought holiday deaths to three.

The other, early New Year's Eve, was when Mrs. Joseph Hallo, 62, was struck by a car at another downtown intersection. Her body was dragged some feet and then flung in front of a truck.

The Weather

Peterborough Temperatures:

Today:
Night low 47 Noon 44
Noon barometer 29
Yesterday:
Highest 52 Lowest 36
One Year Ago:
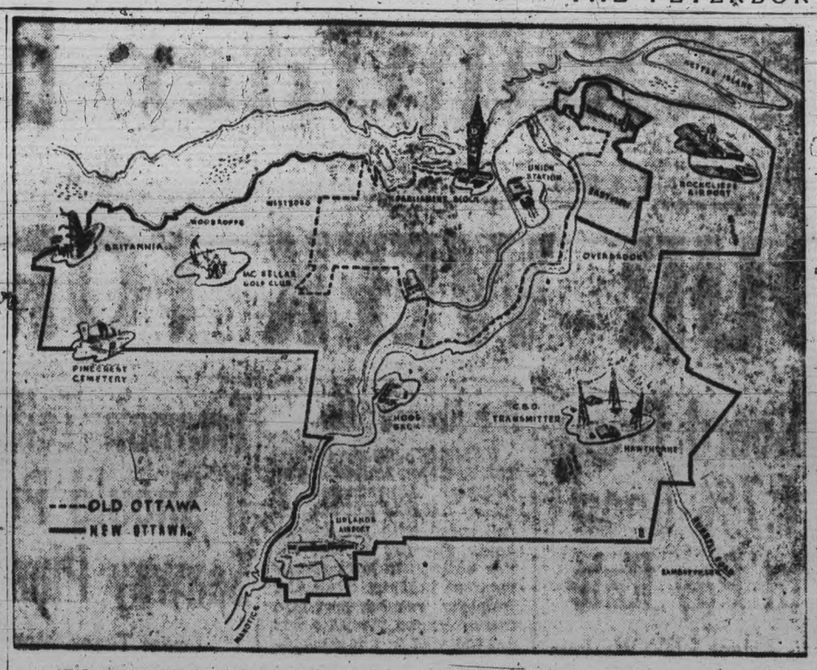
.51 inches rain.

Intensely cold air covers northwestern Ontario with temperatures ranging from 10 to 25 below zero. Over southern and eastern Ontario the air is warm and humid with temperatures in the 50s in most sections. The boundary between these air masses stretches from central Quebec across Lake Huron to Texas. A continuous procession of disturbances along the boundary between the warm and cold air is causing rain in the warm air and freezing rain and snow in the cold air.

The cold air is progressing slowly southeastward and will cover the entire province this evening.

Forecasts

Lake Ontario, Niagara, Haliburton regions, Toronto and Hamilton cities.



Mild with rain today, freezing rain changing to snow tonight. Thursday much colder with snowflurries. Winds west 15 today northwest 20 tonight and Thursday. Low tonight and high Thursday at Toronto, Hamilton, St. Catharines, Trenton and Killaloe 15 to 20.

Summary for Thursday—Much colder, snowflurries.

IT'S A BIG PLACE NOW—At midnight Dec. 31, Ottawa became nearly five times larger than its original 6,000 acres. The solid black line on this map indicates the new boundaries, the dotted line, the boundary before Jan. 1. The growth resulted from annexation of 22,000 acres of land in the adjoining townships of Nepean and Gloucester. The shaded portions, marked Rockcliffe and Eastview, are villages likely to be annexed in 1950.

Brooklin Woman Killed In Crash

BRAMPTON, Jan. 4 (CP)—One person was killed and five were injured, one seriously, Tuesday, when the side of a Grey Coach Lines bus was ripped off in a collision with a transport truck on the highway two miles south of here. The bus was en route to Kitchener.

Following the collision, the bus careened down a 13-foot embankment and ran 200 yards in a ditch before it could be stopped. Police said the presence of mind and coalness of bus driver George Gilchrist saved many more from being injured. He guided the vehicle to a stop although suffering cuts from flying glass.

Killed was Mrs. Helen Agar, of Brooklin, Ont. Injured in hospital are Mrs. Doris Kemp, Scarboro, fractured arm and face cuts; Mary Allen, Guelph, face bruises; Sheldon Rosen, Guelph, cut scalp; George Gilchrist, the driver, face bruises.

Thus the lower the hourly wage the lower the increase and vice versa.)

Supports 40-Hour Week

The minority report recommended the 40-hour week. One reason put forward was that Westinghouse, chief CGE competitor, is now working on that hourly basis. As a concession the report filed by Mr. Cohen proposes uniform 42-hour week with a general 5-cents-an-hour increase.

Other recommendations of the minority report include:

Equal pay for equal work regardless of sex.

That the practice of appropriate automatic progression of wage increase should apply up to the middle point of the wage range of a job.

"That as far as possible and calculable, an equality of rates for the same job or for jobs comparable in skill, effort and ability should be maintained, and that it be made clear in the agreement that a dispute on such a matter constitutes a grievance to be dealth with as provided by the grievance procedure."

Earning of employees engaged upon incentive bonus should be maintained.

Meet On Thursday

The UE-GE Joint Conference Board is meeting in Toronto, Thursday, to consider the Conciliation Board report. Representing Local 524 UE will be the following Peterborough members of the Negotiating Committee: T. P. Davies, George Wallace, Flo Farrance, Alex Seppala, Cecil Harvey, Raymond Peters, James Southgate, Roger Allshin, and Art Hunter.

Members of Local 524 IUE-CIO, some of whom were on the original negotiating committee before the split into left and right wing factions was precipitated, were not available for comment.

Seniority Clause

On the matter of seniority the majority report states:

"In all cases of layoffs or transfers subject to the remaining employees being able to meet the normal requirements of the work."

"In making transfers due to layoffs such will be done on the basis of skill and ability, and where these are equal seniority will govern."

The Company and the Union would be called upon to share equally payments on lost time due to grievances up to a maximum of five hours per week per steward. Stewards would have jurisdiction only within their own department and would have to receive the consent of the supervisor of their department before leaving it on union business.

There is a recommendation that the two parties get together in a joint committee to study the matter of group insurance.

Overime for statutory holidays should coincide with the shift hours for which the employee receives statutory holiday pay as expressed in the Company brief.

The handing down of the Conciliation Board's report comes at a time when the UE and IUE-CIO are locked in a bitter struggle to represent the majority of CGE workers. At the moment the UE is the legal bargaining agent.

Making Inroads

IUE union officials have weeks ago declared they had the signatures of the majority of employees at Peterborough and Cobourg and were making inroads in the Toronto plants.

An Ontario Labor Relations Board hearing has already been held to hear the Cobourg claim and it is expected an election date will be announced soon.

UE officials state that the IUE has not a majority and even if it should win an OLRB-supervised election and thus become the legal bargaining agent negotiations with the company would have to start over again.

The present master contract is with the UE.

In reply the IUE spokesmen say that should they become certified as the legal representative of the workers they could take over at this stage where the Board's recommendations have been made.

Or, say the IUE, they could give the Company two months' notice and start negotiations on a new contract all over again.

Today in Toronto the OLRB is holding a hearing into IUE claims to represent the majority of the CGE workers. The UE is also present to protest the claim.

Truman Tells

The President said: "Today, by the grace of God, we stand a free and prosperous nation with greater possibilities for the future than any people have ever had before."

The President's message was one in which he (1) looked far into the future—when, he said, the average family may make the equivalent of more than $12,000 a year—and (2) dwelled on what he called the present day needs for such things as continued federal rent controls and repeal of the controversial Taft-Hartley Labor Law.

The President did not disclose what existing taxes he would drop or lower to, as he put it, "reduce present inequities" and "stimulate business activity." His tax proposals will come later, in a special message.

Can Meet Communism

Truman told Congress he believes the free countries of the world can successfully meet the challenge of Communism and save the world from tyranny.

"In the world today," he said, "We are confronted with the danger that the rising demand of people everywhere for freedom and a better life may be corrupted and betrayed by the false promises of Communism."

Truman's 6,000-word message, comparable to the Speech from the Throne read before Canadian sessional openings, touched heavily on the international sphere while also detailing the govrnment's legislative program for 1950.

Looking abroad, he promised that the US would continue its efforts for world economic recovery because world prosperity is the "only sure foundation" for a permanent peace.

To this end, the US must continue its support of the European Recovery Program. The program had achieved great success, but had not yet been completed. To halt it now, or cripple it, would be to do "exactly what the enemies of democracy want us to do."

At the same time, world prosperity required that the US do all it could to expand world trade. As a major step in that direction, the US should promptly join the international trade organization, which aimed to establish a code of fair trade practices.

Support For UN

Promising continued support for the United Nations, he said the US is working toward the time when the United Nations will "control weapons of mass destruction and will have the forces to preserve international law and order." Until then, the US must maintain a strong and well-balanced defence organization."

Truman said the budget he will submit Monday, for the fiscal year starting July 1, holds spending to the lowest levels consistent with cold-war requirements and essential economic needs at home.

He declared that his fiscal policy offers "the quickest and the safest way of achieving balanced budget," but he did not hold out any hope that government spending can be held within income during the forthcoming fiscal year.

He recommended:

1. Repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act, despite last year's rejection of an administration repealer, and its replacement by a law that "is fair to all and in harmony with our democratic ideals."

2. Extension of rent control for another year from next June 30 to "prevent widespread hardship and sharp curtailment of the buying power of millions of consumers in metropolitan areas."

3. Enactment of the Brannan Plan and mandatory price support for major income crops not now covered by existing law. The brainchild of agriculture Secretary Charles Brannan, the plan was projected during the last year as a means of providing lower prices on some foods to consumers, while keeping up the farmer's income with "production payments." It got nowhere.

4. Legislation to "curb monopoly and provide independent business with the credit and capital" to compete in a system of "free enterprise."

5. Measures authorizing a "vigorous program to help co-operatives and other non-profit" groups build housing that "middle income" families can afford.

6. Completion of action on legislation to increase benefits and extend coverage of old-age and survivors' insurance.

7. Enactment of the health program embracing compulsory medical insurance.

He Wasn't Laughing

TORONTO, Jan. 4 (CP)—Gerry Velasco, pianist at a Toronto cocktail lounge, wasn't laughing when he sat down to play Tuesday night. He was concentrating as never before. Police said today that because Velasco couldn't remember the whole score of the German song, Liebestraum, Richard Whan, 31, threatened the pianist with a knife. Whan was charged with carrying a concealed weapon.

Farm Machinery Plays Big Role Juniors Told

KEMPTVILLE, Jan. 4 (CP) — Junior Farmers attending their fifth annual Eastern Ontario conference were told Tuesday of the increasing part farm machinery is playing in farming operations.

F. J. Parish of the Kemptville Agricultural School, the conference site, told 65 boy delegates that mechanical equipment has come to the fore since 1945 largely due to scarcity of farm labor.

Meanwhile some 30 girls heard Alice Grant of the educational department, Canadian Spool Cotton Co., Montreal, give hints on the use of dress accessories.

Mr. Parish said there had been a farm machinery volume increase in Ontario in the period 1938-48 of 240 per cent, equal to a value increase of 363 per cent. Mechanization had meant that now one man could handle 44 crop acres compared with 38 at the beginning of the 10-year period.

The investment increase in Southern Alberta averaged $1,000 a farm, rising from an average $4,000 in 1938 to $5,000 in 1948. About 50 per cent of farms in that district depended on horses for power in the 30's; now 95 per cent used tractors.

Use of Trucks Doubles

The use of trucks, both in the east and west, had more than doubled in the 10 year period and harvesting machinery also had increased.

Only 31 combines were in use in Eastern Canada in 1937. That figure had risen to 401 in 1939 and to 6,637 in 1948.

Other farm machinery had also increased in popularity, although prices generally were up 58 per cent since before the war, he said. Farm machinery was a vital part of farming today and practices changed because of new machinery introduced by manufacturers.

Dorothy Hicks of Wellington, Prince Edward County, was chairman of the girls' session. Mrs. Borden Perkins of Perth, Lanark County; Catharine Cassel man of Finch, Stormont County, and Grace Farlinger, Martintown, Glengarry County, took part in a discussion of chinaware. Mary Milburn of Peterborough demonstrated ways of serving a buffet lunch.

Two Junior Farmers from the United States are attending the conference Dee Hartnett of Cayuga County, New York State and Sherwood Steiner of Akron Ohio.

UK Dollar Reserve Jumps 263 Million

LONDON, Jan. 4 — (CP). — Sir Stafford Cripps announced today the sterling area's vital gold-dollar reserves jumped $263,000,000 in the last quarter of 1949.

This is $348,000,000 more than the dangerous low-point of last September, just before the pound was devalued from $4.03 to $2.80 in US funds.

The reserves now stand at $1,688,000,000, the Chancellor of the Exchequer told a press conference. This is still considerably less than what the Treasury considers a safe minimum—$2,000,000,000.

Sir Stafford cited three reasons for the increase:

1—A flow of dollars from importers of British goods who had held up payment until the pound was devalued.

2—Release of a backlog of orders from importers who had anticipated a devalued pound.

3—"An improvement in the basic sterling area balance of payments with the dollar area."

By point three, Sir Stafford explained, he referred to steps taken by Britain and some Commonwealth countries to cut their dollar imports by 25 per cent.

Burglar Killed

MONTREAL, Jan. 4 —(CP)— One man, said by police to have been a burglar making a getaway from a break-in at suburban Boucherville, was killed early today in a collision between two cars on Jacques Cartier bridge. Police identified the man as Fernand Boudreault, 24. His throat was cut when he was hurled through the windshield of a speeding taxi.

Goods Worth $15 Stolen From Car

Cartons of cigarets, cigars, tobacco and gum valued at $15 were reported stolen from a car being driven by Joseph Heffernan, Otonabee, which he parked behind Duffus garage Tuesday afternoon between 3 p.m. and 6 p.m.

Heffernan had picked up the order to deliver to his brother Frank Heffernan who operates a store in Otonabee. Joseph Heffernan said he put the cigarets and other articles under two bags of chop on the floor of his car.

When he arrived at his brother's store, he found the articles gone. He said he had not locked the car door.

Police warn that people must lock their car doors if they do not want their possessions stolen.

Judgment Reserved In Bootlegging Case

Judgment was reserved today by Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, in the trial of Frank Thompson, 531 Douglas Ave., a local taxi operator, charged with bootlegging.

Thompson was arrested Christmas night after police raided his house in which his mother, father and brother also live. Constable Sherman Keliele told the court he and Constables Victor McConnell and Douglas Stark seized 15 cases of beer, some of them only partly full and 22 bottles of liquor of various sizes, most of them full.

Constable Keliele testified that he had watched Thompson's house the evening of Dec. 25. About 11.45 p.m. he saw a car drive up and a man go into the house. A few minutes later the man returned followed by another man whom he thought was Thompson carrying a case of what turned out to be beer. The case was put in the back seat of the car.

He followed the car until it stopped in a lane. As the occupant, who was James Vincent Goselin, 30 Ware St. got out, he approached him and then took Goselin, his girl friend and the case of beer to the police station.

Called as a crown witness, Goselin said he had gone to Thompson's house to borrow a case of beer. He said he asked Thompson what the beer was worth and was given the answer $8. Goselin said the arrangement was that he could pay back the case of beer with another case later. He said he did not pay anything for the beer.

Defence counsel W. J. Arthur Fair, KC, called no defence witness. He said, no inference could be drawn from the quantity of beer and liquor that was found in the house.

"They are all apparently heavy drinkers in that house," he commented.

Rain Good For Farms Kennedy Says

Sees No Water Lying On Any Of Land Unworried Over Frost

TORONTO, Jan. 4—The unseasonably mild and wet weather will be more helpful than harmful to farmers throughout Ontario, agricultural officials predicted Tuesday night. The temperature yesterday rose to 52.4 degrees to top the previous high of 52 degrees established in 1897.

The prediction for today calls for a reading of 55 degrees before cold air from Northern Ontario pushes out the current mild spell. Record for Jan 4 is 58 set in 1874. Rain is due to fall until noon, when it will change to either sleet of snow.

The farmers are benefiting by wells and reservoirs which were running dry being replenished.

Agriculture Minister Tom Kennedy said he made a 100-mile swing throughout the countryside in the vicinity of No. 5 and 7 Highways Tuesday, and the general picture was good.

"There was no water lying on the land, which means it is being absorbed by the earth. In other words it is going down so that it hits the wells," he said. "There is no frost in the land, otherwise the water would not get below the surface."

Wheat Too Green

While he didn't like to see the fall wheat as green as it is at this time of the year, Mr. Kennedy said there was little if any germination, so the crop wouldn't be adversely affected.

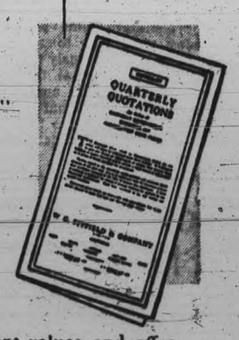
Asked if a sudden frost would hurt the fruit trees, he said it shouldn't do any serious damage. At least not anywhere near as much as a spring frost would do.

J. A. Garner, director of extension and of agricultural representatives, said the rural areas need the water on the whole and it shouldn't do any harm, particularly if it is followed by snow.

"Even if there is a spell of alternate freezing and thawing, the crops haven't advanced far enough for them to be materially affected," he said.

Report Some Progress In Watson Condition

SAULT STE. MARIE, Jan. 4—(CP)—Some progress was shown today in the condition of Stuart (Red) Watson, of Wiarton, severely injured Dec. 27 in a dynamite explosion at Michibishu Lake in the Thunder Bay district.



Dr. C. R. M. Eaid said the question of saving the man's left leg was still uncertain. Watson's left eye was removed in hospital here last Friday after a 400-mile mercy flight.

Dr. Eaid said that the man is not yet out of the "critical stage."

Central Mortgage Says Accident One In 40,000

COBOURG, Jan. 4 (ENS)—The recent accident in which Mrs. Harold Moore injured her leg when a stair tread gave way in one of the new wartime houses, was the first instance of its kind in 40,000 houses, stated Angus McClaskey, supervisor of the Ontario Region of Central Mortgage and Housing, to the Examiner.

"We never had a thing like that happen before in 40,000 houses. The steps' installation were manufactured in an out-of-town mill and the glue gave way in the winder, something that we never had happen before because these stairs are all well-made. To be on the safe side we now have had the winders all nailed," Mr. McClaskey explained.

Referring to a story of complaints from residents of some of the new wartime houses, which was published in a local weekly newspaper, Mr. McClaskey said that nobody had complained directly to his office.

Seventeen out of the 48 dwellings in the new housing unit were inspected and very little was found wrong. Any builder, he said, allows six to eight months as a "bedding down" period and it was the policy of the Central Mortgage and Housing corporation to make scheduled inspections of these houses at the end of the bedding down period.

Draughts at doors and windows were a common ailment in any new house during the first six to eight months. In the spring these windows will all be recaulked and metal weatherstripping put around the doors. In othern sections storm doors are provided but in central Ontario the weather stripping is considered sufficient.

Use Plastic Plumbing

Due to shortage of plumbing materials, a plastic goose neck is installed at the bottom of the toilet tank and these will be replaced by metal as they become available. Where a register is located near a toilet tank it is not unusual for the heat to cause the plastic goose neck elbow to leak, he said.

The cement work in the basements were above the average of local construction of new homes and the furnaces were bigger than necessary and on the average were cheaper to heat. In some houses, which had been hard to heat, it was found on inspection that cold air registers were closed off by rugs with the result that there was insufficient cold air In some instances the water reservoir in the furnace was not kept filled. On the whole the inspections showed things to be satisfactory, Mr McClaskey declared.

Sees No Sign Of Air Agreement

OTTAWA, Jan. 4 (CP)—The air agreement Canada and the United States signed seven months ago today still is a considerable distance from being fully implemented — a fact that has been largely obscured by the squabble over one route.

Further, an official hinted on Tuesday that no additional steps to implement at least Canada's share of the agreement are likely to be taken before the dispute over the Montreal-New York route is cleared up or on its way to being cleared up.

The agreement lays down certain route concessions. Each country then signifies the airline to take over the routes. The lines apply to the licensing authorities in the opposite country for the right to land, in the U. S. the Civil Aeronautics Board, in Canada the Air Transport Board.

The agreement has been in effect since June 4, 1949, but the formality of licensing is only one third complete.

"LEFT-OVERS" DELICIOUS WITH PRE-COOKED RICE

There's a new food product that's the talk of the town . . . it's that amazing pre-cooked Minute Rice, now on sale at your grocer's. What a sensation it has created! Women are discovering a whole new realm of quick-to-fix, exciting dishes that Minute Rice makes possible.

Minute Rice is wonderful with meats and fowl . . . and makes "left-overs" go a long way. Minute Rice is grand too in soups and stews . . . and of course, you won't forget how Minute Rice makes such popular and good rice puddings of all kinds!

Just Add to Water — Bring to the Boil

Rice cooking is now "quick cooking" with Minute Rice. Just add it to water and bring to the boil, then let stand for 10 minutes. Out comes the fluffiest, whitest, tenderest rice you ever did see!

There's no washing—no rinsing—no draining—no steaming —when you use Minute Rice.

Here's another cooking tip—try cooking Minute Rice in flavorful liquids like tomato juice, consommé and so on. Minute Rice absorbs all the liquid and flavor . . . and takes on exciting tempting color, too!

"'Left-overs' are no longer a problem now I've discovered Minute Rice", says this busy young housewife. "With Minute Rice I've found a host of appealing-looking, delicious-tasting, quick ways of using up left-over chicken, turkey and meats of all kinds."

New Life for "Left-overs" with Minute Rice

By Frances Barton

Would you like to know how unappetizing-looking "left-overs" can be transformed into wonderful new-looking dishes? It's simple and so very easy when you use Minute Rice, the amazing new pre-cooked rice that everyone is raving about! Here are a few suggestions I know you'll want to keep handy.

MINUTE RICE CHICKEN SALAD

¾ cup Minute Rice
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup water
1 cup mayonnaise
1½ tablespoons diced pimento (optional)
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1½ cups cooked peas
1½ cups cooked diced chicken
1½ cups diced celery

Combine Minute Rice, salt, and water in saucepan. Bring quickly to a boil. Cover, remove from heat, and let stand 10 minutes. Mix together mayonnaise, pimento, and seasonings. Add remaining ingredients and rice; toss together. Serve cold. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

VEGETABLE RICE RING

Prepare 1 package (1½ cups) Minute Rice as directed on package. Remove from heat, cover, let stand 10 minutes. Add 3 tablespoons butter, dash of pepper, 2 tablespoons finely chopped onion; blend. Add 2 cups cooked or canned peas. Shape into ring; fill centre with chicken or turkey à la king.

TAG-END TRIUMPH

Dice left-over chicken or turkey. Heat in gravy. Mix with cooked Minute Rice and serve in casserole.

Peterborough Begins Its Centennial Year

From the Mayor's inaugural address it is clear that Peterborough will not set aside any particular time during 1950 for the celebration of its centenary as a municipality; the celebrations, varying widely in kind, will be spread through the year. We feel that this is a wise decision. Old Home Weeks and similar beanfeasts have had their day; they are expensive to organize, and unless they are undertaken on a very big scale they are disappointing. Further, Peterborough is now a little too big for celebrations of that nature. It is safe to say that a majority of citizens today are not old-timers, with their roots in Peterborough; they are people who have come to the city within the past twenty-five years; an Old Home celebration would mean little to them.

* * *

The Council's decision to rest its Centenary celebrations on a solid foundation of work accomplished is a good one. The completion of the new Hospital; the beginning of the new City Hall; the completion of the long-awaited enlargement of the sewer plant; these will mark the centenary in a thoroughly practical way. Similarly the program of receptions, visits from prominent Canadians, and celebrations will carry the recognition of our Centenary right through the year, which is as it should be. We are particularly pleased that arrangements are in progress to bring government and other leaders to Peterborough as visitors; to great numbers of people who have not visited Peterborough this is still "a little town", to be spoken of with patronage; it is time that we brought representative Canadians here to see that Peterborough is not little, either physically or in spirit.

* * *

Of the decision to obtain a new coat-of-arms for the city we have already spoken in these columns. Such appurtenances give dignity to a community, and our old city crest had nothing to recommend it but the goodwill with which it was executed. The new crest will embody whatever was valuable in it in a permanently acceptable form.

* * *

Peterborough sets out on its second century as a municipality with an excellent record and excellent credit. It has a worthy Mayor and Council, and the Mayor's inaugural speech showed that they know exactly what they mean to do. The prospects for a good centenary year are excellent, and we are sure that every citizen will do whatever lies in his power to make the year a memorable one.

Toronto The Good vs. Toronto The Independent

There seems to be surprise in some circles that Toronto voters decided in favour of Sunday sport in their municipal elections on New Year's Day. We do not share that surprise. There were elements in the campaign on this particular question which made the affirmative decision appear likely. The first of these was the great size of Toronto itself; a city with over 680,000 people in it has needs which are not so pressing in smaller communities; the more people there are in one place, the less likely they are to conform to a single pattern of thought and behaviour, and the greater liberality there is in matters relating to sport and entertainment.

The second reason, in our opinion, why the vote favoured Sunday sport, was the powerful but not very subtle campaign which was waged against it by the churches and the three Toronto newspapers. Whatever the rights and wrongs of the matter may be, the forces against Sunday sport took a dog-in-the-manger attitude which irritated the voters. People do not like to have holiness thrust down their throats, and undoubtedly many people who were in doubt on the matter voted for Sunday sport in protest against the spongey arguments which were put up by the other side. Toronto the Good was taught a lesson by Toronto the Independent.

The Toronto vote means nothing, of course, unless the Provincial Legislature assents to special Sunday sport legislation for that city and for Windsor (which voted for Sunday sport 2 to 1). Such legislation will give some of the M.P.Ps from the rural districts (where Sabbath observance is strict) restless nights, if they vote to keep Toronto in line with the rural areas they will be damned by Toronto, and if they assent to Toronto's demands their constituents will be sure that they have been debauched by the wicked city. The outcome, however, is plain; the larger cities will have more Sunday entertainment, and in time this attitude will reach the smaller cities.

Much of the objection to Sunday entertainment is ill-founded. It will create some labour problems, but we are sure that the unions and the employers are capable of meeting them adequately. We cannot see that it will harm the pursuit of religion, which has flourished for many centuries in Europe, where Sunday entertainments of all kinds are, and always have been, common. (In this connection, it is amusing to recall that some of Toronto's opponents of Sunday sport said that it was "un-British"; Sundays in large cities in Britain are surprisingly open.) Sunday sport will, if it is properly handled, provide harmless entertainments for many thousands of people who, having no pleasant homes, no cars and no country clubs, have literally no way of passing the time on Sundays except for two hours in church, if they choose.

Toronto's "unco' guid" will grieve, no doubt, that their power has been flouted. But we think that they will find that the Toronto Sunday will suffer very little, even in their eyes, by the change.

The Late Frank Morris

Several people who are in a position to judge have told us that the late Frank Morris was the finest teacher ever to be on the staff of the P.C.V.S. He was a man who maintained, and exemplified in himself, ideals of education which are at present out of favour. It was better, he thought, for a pupil to pursue a line of study in which he was especially interested, than to attempt to gain a smattering of a variety of subjects without excelling in any of them. He was himself a fine teacher of English, and for those who showed a special aptitude for that branch of learning he was ready to take any pains to direct their reading, and to point out to them paths and byways which they might otherwise have overlooked. He had no liking for administrative work, and did not seek it; he preferred to devote himself entirely to fostering whatever spark he might find in those boys and girls who came under his influence. He was a man of uncommon abilities who was content to devote his great talents to the encouragement of beginners.

As a naturalist he possessed a reputation which extended far beyond this district. It was as a botanist and particularly as a specialist in orchids that his fame was won, but all aspects of Nature enchanted him, and in this respect also he was the inspiration of great numbers of Peterborough young people whose interest accorded with his own.

The influence of such men is impossible to calculate. So much of the effort of a fine teacher seems to be dissipated in classroom routine; so much that is spoken out of deep love and knowledge of his subject seems to fall on deaf ears. But the seeds which are planted by such a teacher as Frank Morris are often of slow growth, and the influence which he spreads through genefations of pupils may well last for half a century. Ten years may pass between a remark made in the classroom and the realization, by a former pupil, of what was the true meaning of what the teacher had said. The teaching of such a man as Frank Morris becomes a part of the fabric of the minds of his pupils, and thus an influence in the world from which he has departed.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A Toronto preacher, whooping it up for the Closed Sunday, said "Canada's best citizens live in Toronto". It is this sort of talk which makes Toronto the laughing-stock of the country.

A lawyer in the U.S. is divorcing his wife because she told their children that there is no Santa Claus. A lawyer who believes in some of his clients has no difficulty in swallowing St. Nick.

A naturalist says that it is characteristic of an ape to tire of a new thing a few days after he has achieved it. Now who says that men are not descended from apes?

A statistician says that now that airplanes can travel at 500 miles an hour, nobody in the world is more than 25 hours from anybody else. We still maintain, however, that some people are centuries ahead of others.

A poll of Canadian editors (we were not one of them) places Mr. St. Laurent as "man of the year", with Mike Pearson second, and the Taxpayer third. The Taxpayer, of course, is the man of every year—or else.

From The Critic's Notebook

THE NOVELS OF THOMAS LOVE PEACOCK edited by David Garnett (Rupert Hart-Davis).

IT is pleasant to have Peacock's seven novels well printed in a single handsome book. They are particularly suited to being bound together for they are, more than the work of any other English novelist of importance, very much of a piece and they read like one long conversation. I have just completed the 900-odd pages of this book, and already I find that characters and incidents from one are beginning to invade the pigeon-hole of memory which I have reserved for another.

Not that Peacock would have cared about such a criticism. He was wonderfully indifferent to plot and character. His plots are mere pegs for conversation, and his characters are himself and the ideas he wishes to support or to ridicule. He was, all his life through, a lover of opera, and his novels are rather like the opera of his day: plot is ridiculous and formless, and nothing interupts the flow of melody—melody in his case being the beauty of his prose.

It is for this beauty that we read Peacock now. When he wrote his examinations for entry into the service of the East India Company the comment of his examiners was "Nothing superfluous and nothing wanting". That perfectly describes the easy, graceful and sinewy style in which he wrote.

Two of the novels are romances: "The Misfortunes of Elphin" is a delightful excursion into Welsh History; "Maid Marian" is a tale of Robin Hood. The others — "Headlong Hall", "Melincourt", "Nightmare Abbey", "Crotchet Castle" and "Gryll Grange" follow an identical form: somehow — any pretext will do — he manoeuvres his characters into a fine house with plenty to eat and drink, and there he lets them talk, and argue and vaporize to his heart's content. The talk is among the best in English literature. Recently I read somewhere that Peacock "could not touch the heart of the average reader". He would have snorted at such a judgement: he sought only to touch the mind, and "average" was a term of contempt in his vocabulary.

It is odd that Peacock, who died in 1866 at the age of 81, should have such a very modern smack in 1950. All the folk he hated most—the systematizers, the socialists, the do-gooders, the nose-pokers and the minders-of-other-people's-business—are in the ascendant today. It is refreshing to read his brilliant refutations of them and all their abominable heresies.

The edition under review contains excellent notes by David Garnett, correcting some errors in the notes of Richard Garnett's edition of 1891, as well as short introductions to each novel. For anyone who has never tasted the quality of Peacock this volume offers an introduction under the best of auspices.

THE WOODEN HORSE by Eric Williams (Collins, London).

THIS is a fascinating and poignant account of a German prisoner-of-war camp in Silesia, of the plans which three Englishmen in it made to escape, and of their escape, in which their decoy was a wooden vaulting horse.

The tale gains its chief impact from its apparent authenticity; the unvarnished statement of the details, and the undercurrent of pathos. The fortitude and the stubborn will for life and liberty, no matter how remote the possibility, are shown with almost tender clarity.

Men who have been prisoners of war for years become a species apart. What they were like, how they lived and kept hope and sanity are revealed in this record which one takes up as a testament of man's endurance and stature above brute creation. It is a book of great power not created by novelistic imagination, but out of the sinews of hearts and the chaos of war.

JOHN FISHER REPORTS (Niagara Editorial Bureau).

JOHN Fisher is well-known in Canada for his radio stories transmitted over the C.B.C. These stories, or "Reports" have to do mostly with Canadians and Canadian incidents, which Fisher investigates and interprets. This well-printed, well-bound collection of his radio scripts is a good sampler. The stories are generally short—three to a dozen pages each—and range from accounts of Anticosti Island with the fabulous chateau which Henri Menier (the French chocolate multimillionaire of the last century) built after buying the island for $125,000, to simple sentimental tales of a young widow of an R.C.A.F. man. They are not all centred in Canada, for Fisher ranges around continents reporting Normandy Revisited, and a degree-giving at Boston's M.I.T., with Canadian eyes and accents.

John Fisher is a Maritimer (from Sackville, N.B.), born in 1912, a qualified lawyer, a newspaper reporter, and since 1943 a C.B.C. staff man.

There are thirty stories in this volume, which should make an excellent bed-time companion, a book to pick up and return to. Fisher is a booster for Canada. He is not an original thinker, but a good reporter with an emotional zeal for his native land and fellow citizens.

Despise It As I May

By WALTER DE LA MARE

Despise it as I may,
This old demoded heart will have its way;
Like a belated bee it still must flit
From shutting flower to flower, and find them sweet;
And even in shadow of a world in woe—
Like some frayed butterfly on an idle stone,
Once warmed by noonday's sun,
Poise, lost, alone;
And, though it soon must into darkness go,
Praise that sun's Heaven for his last afterglow.

Letters To The Editor

SCIENCE — STRENGTH AND WEAKNESS

Sir: It is not to be wondered at that at this time when a review of our past history seems to be in order, great emphasis should be placed upon our wonderful progress in recent years in scientific achievement.

Such advance has been truly phenomenal and most gratifying and enriching, and we cannot but be greatly impressed by it. Perhaps we can understand how even some people in consequence imagine that science will eventually be "a final cure for everything", and become a new religion for a new age. But in thinking of 'science' and 'religion' we must avoid confusion, for science and religion occupy their separate spheres of action and results. While science has opened up deep secrets of the earth and its powers, and increased vastly our knowledge and revolutionized our ways of living, it has not professed to explain 'beginnings'. As it has been said: "Of absolute origin science knows nothing". Neither does it claim to further man in the development of his personality and character. To quote G. R. Stevens, writing about the 'Half-Century': "Human knowledge has increased enormously without similar improvement in human judgements....through sheer irresponsibility someone drunk with knowledge may throw a switch and this planet will disintegrate into cosmic dust".

It is here that religion comes in, not to oppose but to explain science, telling us, as a revelation from God, the 'why' and 'wherefore' of life's meaning and high destiny, and further to furnish grace for man to conquer and win life's rich reward. In short, while science traces out the long story of evolution it cannot tell us about the power that works behind it and guides it,—that is for religion to tell. And the Christian religion, believing that, "In the beginning God created....God said, Let there be....and there was", and asserting that there has been a self-revelation of the one Father in Jesus Christ, furnishes the proven and experienced power which can fashion or change human life and all its capacities to their highest good. In the maze of bewildering confusions and opposing contentions today, no matter what 'popular belief' may be, only religion professes to promote that morality and produce that righteousness which can save a world "drunk with knowledge" and ignorant how to use it for its highest ends.

If the Christian religion has been and is at times misunderstood and wrongly presented, that cannot take away from its essential truth. Its dogmas, those verities of the faith, have not been touched by science not can be. They will undoubtedly come to be better understood, but their inner truths will ever abide, and be inspirations and helps to man in his onward march to the real values of life and to that righteousness which alone exalteth a people.

C. W. BALFOUR,
Archdeacon.

SCIENCE AND FAITH

Sir: Your New Year editorial entitled "Fifty Years of Changing Faith" is a very fair survey of world conditions in the past half century. It is true that church attendance has fallen off to an alarming degree especially in the United States. It is also true that many groping for the eternal verities have turned to science. This accounts for the wonderful growth of that sect founded by Mrs. Eddy called Christian Science. On the other hand, the atrocities of modern warfare made possible by the perverted use of scientific inventions are turning men's minds back to the religion that their forefathers had transmitted to them in happier days. Science has been tested and found wanting. It cannot bring happiness or peace to the soul.

While the discoveries of science may disturb the man of wavering faith, a man of firm faith, a fundamentalist if you like, knows that science cannot contradict religion since God is the Author of both. The marvels which the former has wrought in the past fifty years have rather strengthened his faith. If we can hear the voice of a man speaking many thousands of miles away, "a correspondence fix'd wi' Heav'n" as Burns put it, does not seem so difficult. If man can travel through space faster than sound it is easy to visualize the angels passing from heaven to earth without the aid of Jacob's ladder.

Many of the so-called dogmas of science have been rejected by scientists themselves, but the dogmas of faith remain and the first chapter of Genesis is still uncontradicted. There is no more talk about the missing link. The real missing link is the one between a grain of sand and a flower. No test tube can produce that. God alone can create it, for it is Life.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Then came to him the mother of Zebedee's children with her sons, worshipping him, and desiring a certain thing of him. And he said unto her, What wilt thou? She saith unto him, Grant that these my two sons may sit, the one on thy right hand, and the other on the left, in thy kingdom.

But Jesus answered and said, Ye know not what ye ask. Are ye able to drink of the cup that I shall drink of, and to be baptized with the baptism that I am baptized with? They say unto him, We are able. And he saith unto them, Ye shall drink indeed of my cup, and be baptized with the baptism that I am baptized with: but to sit on my right hand, and on my left, is not mine to give, but it shall be given to them for whom it is prepared of my Father. And when the ten heard it, they were moved with indignation against the two brethren.

But Jesus called them unto him, and said, Ye know that the princes of the Gentiles exercise dominion over them, and they that are great exercise authority upon them. But it shall not be so among you: but whosoever will be great among you, let him be your minister; and whosoever will be chief among you, let him be your servant....

And as they departed from Jericho, a great multitude followed him. And, behold two blind men sitting by the way side, when they heard that Jesus passed by, cried out, saying, Have mercy on us, O Lord, thou son of David ....So Jesus had compassion on them, and touched their eyes: and immediately their eyes received sight, and they followed him. (Matt. 20: 20-27, 29, 30, 34.)

Lot Of Crust

If members of the Waterloo County Council feel their ears burning, they needn't be surprised. For people there must be saying plenty about that council's action in voting a Christmas turkey to each member, out of public funds. Seldom has any public body shown greater disregard for the proprieties of its position, or greater nerve in the use of public monies. It's only fair to say eight of the 17 members were against voting themselves this Christmas present.

Often there are sneering remarks about those who "feed at the public trough." This is the first instance we recall of elected representatives of the people "feeding at the public Christmas table." At the least, they deserve a good dose of indigestion.

Labrador Opportunities

The fact appears to be overlooked that the Newfoundland border no longer ends at the Strait of Belle Isle, nor do our responsibilities, nor do our opportunities. It has long been advocated that in parts of the island where the fisheries are no longer able to provide the residents with the means to exist, they should be moved to places where they would be in a better position to make a living. It would prove to the advantage of such people if in what were formerly regarded as the waste lands of the Labrador peninsula they were ensured remunerative livelihoods on a permanent basis. They would still be residents of the Province of Newfoundland and they would be enabled to contribute on a greater scale to its revenue. From such development, the Province could better afford to provide Labrador with the ordinary amenities than it is at present.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC PERDUE, Sports Editor.

Towne Togs open their colleens' cage schedule this eve at 7.15 in the YWCA gym playing Cobourg. The Togs, made up of the outstanding feminine basketballers of the city, are in a lakeshore district loop this semester, with an LOBA affiliation. Some keen contests may be expected throughout the season, starting here tonight. The local YW league resumes play on Friday with a twin bill, Nurses seniors vs. Neill's, and Nurses juniors vs. Black's. They ought to be full of pep after the Christmas holidays. COSSA senior boys' schedule opens Friday, too, with Cobourg at Lindsay. Likely some action by Marines this week-end, as well.

You've heard of the "sleeper" in horse races, and all grid fans know what the sleeper play is—even Ottawa Rough Riders being caught on this hoary trick a year ago last fall. In fact, some of those ancient tricks still pay off in various sports. The sleeper in hockey — sometimes known as the floater—is a forward who floats around near his blue line or toward centre ice when play is going on around his team's goal. Especially when the opposing team is ganging up. It's risky but often has the approval of the player's coach. The floater isn't helping his side defend itself but, on the other hand, he is ready out there for a quick forward pass and a clear path to the other goal on a breakaway. Some of Kingston Nylons' veterans are adept at it.

Heated Hockey Action

Such a play might be a payoff tonight at Civic Arena for either the Petes or Legionnaires when they tangle at 8.30 in an OHA senior "B" fixture. You never know in advance. Kingston has now replaced the Petes in third place, back of Legion and Belleville, so the Foley fellows have to pull up their sox (and socks) and grab off a victory or two right shortly or they'll be well back in the hot scramble. They might just bore in there tonight and upset the speedy Legionnaires. It should be a fine sizzling scrap between the old ice enemies and this joust rates another full house, with streamlined action assured.

The trend certainly seems toward Sunday sports in Ontario. Provided they do not interfere with church activity in any way, nor prove a nuisance to folks wanting to rest that day, we see nothing wrong. In fact, we've enjoyed many a ball game on the Sabbath in places like Detroit, Montreal and Hull. And we've played ball, too, just beyond our city limits on a Sunday. Personally, we're not anxious to see sports come to Peterborough on Sunday for the simple reason that it would enlarge our working week to seven days—and the thought is unbearable. However, legislation will likely be passed by the province shortly paving the way for Sunday afternoon sports, following that vote in Toronto.

* * * * * *

Sports Play Big Part

Bobby Hewitson of the Tely writes: "What came out of the vote, and as yet has drawn little comment, is the fact sport plays such an important part in the life of a community; when faced with an issue sport can show its strength. The vote was the biggest in the history of Toronto. Why? For no other reason than the issue of Sunday sport. There is no other answer. The mayoralty race was cut and dried. The board of control fight drew some attention, and the same could be said for the vote for aldermen and board of education. But it was the vote on Sunday sport that brought the citizens out in the fog and mist to vote in clear-cut fashion on an issue, it must be admitted, which was not expected to carry." More voted on that issue than on the question of the next mayor.

Badminton here resumes play after the holiday season, and the Market Hall courts will be busy till the middle of April. The Strathgowan Club of Toronto will play a tournament here this week-end at 7.30 p.m. Saturday and spectators may see some of Toronto's top racquet-wielders against local talent. Grant Henry is playing for Toronto along with J. Noble, club prexy. Oshawa General Motors Club comes here the following Saturday and again spectators are invited, there being no admission charge. Entries close on Jan. 9 for men's and ladies' singles tourney matches, to be played before eight each evening. With a limit of 32 in each event, and there'll be a consolation round.

Dese, Dem And Dose

A Bermuda cricket team will play a match here next summer, local cricketers have been informed....Oshawa edged Kingston 6-5 in a junior "B" joust recently; IOOF goes to Kingston tonight and has the Vics here Friday....Petes play in Kingston on Friday as Legion treks to Gananoque....A PMHA tilt this eve at 5.45, Trojan midgets vs. Optimists....Friday, it's Optimist bantams vs. Trojans No. 2, and Marines midgets vs. St. Peter's....PMHA-ers are invited to the hockey film and entertainment at eight tonight at Queen Mary School and....Church Hockey League entries close at a meeting tonight at seven in the YMCA....Industrial puck loop frays tomorrow e'en Quakers vs. Brintons, and CGE vs. Westclox....Note: Just got word that the YW girls' games listed for Friday have been postponed.... Both the Petes and Legionnaires expect to be at full strength for their big battle here tonight....Outdoor puckists, the district squads and the skiers all join heartily in blasting this unseasonable weather

And that pretty well wraps up the Wednesday output.

Curling News

By Herb Martin

We were standing at the corner of George and Charlotte Streets the other day, just a few minutes before the noon hour. The traffic was heavy and we were waiting for the green light.

We noticed in the jam a little old lady, well over the allotted span of three score years and 10; she was neatly dressed, a nice little bonnet with ribbons under her chin, a shawl draped over her shoulders, and she was carrying a handbag. As the light came on she sort of hesitated, looked around as if she might be seeking assistance, then all of a sudden, from nowhere, a little miss of about eight summers came dashing up and taking the old lady by the arm said, "I'll help you across."

When we reached the other side of the street we saw the old lady say something to the little girl, opened her bag and offered a coin to the little miss. The latter, with as neat a curtsey as we ever saw, said, "No thank you, lady, some day I may need a helping hand."

I'd rather see a sermon than hear one any day;
I'd rather one should walk with me than merely tell the way.
The eye's a better pupil and more willing than the ear,
Fine counsel is confusing, but
example's always clear;
And the best of all the preachers are the men who live their creeds,
For to see good put in action is what everybody needs.

There was no curling last evening, and unless the weather tightens up considerable today, we doubt very much if there will be any curling this evening.

Douglas Holds 10-Point Lead

NEW YORK, Jan. 4 (AP) — Three members of the powerful Cleveland Barons dominate the individual scoring in the American Hockey League.

Les Douglas, with 58 points, holds a 10-point lead over teammate Bob Carse, who has netted 48 points in games through Sunday, Jan. 1.

Another Baron, Pete Leswick, is tied for third place with Providence's Johnny Chad. Each has scored 44 points.

Douglas' 37 assists top the league. Roy Kelly, still another Clevelander has tallied the most goals, 23.

Little Connie Dion, Buffalo's veteran netminder, has the best goal-tending average, yielding 84 goals in 33 games for a 2.55 mark.

Charlie (Bus) Gagnon of Cincinnati has taken over the penalty leadership, having spent 100 minutes in the box.

Bermuda Club In Cricket At Peterborough

By C. H. IRESON.

President Gordon Monkman of the Peterborough - Whitaker Cricket Club—he is also a member of the Ontario Cricket Association—has announced that a team from Bermuda in the West Indies will tour the United States and Canada next summer, and arrangements have been made to have the team play a match here on Aug. 9. The West Indians are keen cricketers and will field a strong side against the local club.

The Ontario Association sends out word that an English team will visit Canada in 1951 and there are prospects of a Canadian team going to the Old Country the following year. More support by clubs is asked by the Association to improve the standards and condition of the game in Canada.

Past Visits

There have been visits in the past by English teams to Canada and Canadian teams to England. The first to come to the Dominion was in 1858, with another in 1872, a team of English amateurs including that all-time champion, W. G. Grace. On Sept. 23-24, the visitors played against 22 of Toronto's players, the English having the usual 11. The result was an easy win for the English. Grace scored 142 of the 319 total to 87 and 118. Canadian teams have made the trip overseas with fair success.

Locally, the game has a long history. It was first organized here in the middle 1850's. It was operating well by 1858 on the ground in Ashburnham where part of Cricket Place now stands. The score book for 1863 is still in the public library. Except for a break during the First World War, games have been played here for nearly a century.

Griffith Remains Club President

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4 (UP)—The Washington Senators added a new member to their board of directors Tuesday, but President Clark Griffith managed to retain his controlling interest in the club stock dspite reports that John Jachym of Jamestown, NY, might try to wrest it from him.

Frederic K. Ball, a Washington attorney, was the new board member elected. He was named assistant secretary, and will be Jachym's representative in club dealings.

Jachym last month headed syndicate which purchased 40 per cent of the club stock and at the time it was reported he was negotiating for enough stock to gain majority control from the elderly Griffith as president.

However, at the meeting Tuesday, representatives of the club said that Griffith and Jachym were "in accord" on club policies and that no changes were in prospect.

Ted Kennedy Back In Action As Leafs Meet Chicago

By The Canadian Press.

Ted (Teeder) Kennedy, out of action for a month with an injured knee, returns tonight to his regular spot at centre for the Toronto Maple Leafs. That is the only cheery note for the Stanley Cup champions who clash with the Chicago Black Hawks.

The league-leading Detroit Red Wings play at New York Rangers in tonight's other National Hockey League game. The Wings are fresh from two walloping victories over Toronto last weekend, 5-1 and 5-0.

Those two defeats brought the Toronto record to five losses and one tie since they last won a game, over New York Rangers, on December 18. If the Leafs lose to Chicago tonight, they will be sharing the cellar position with the Hawks, and you have to go back some seasons to find the Leafs as low as that.

The loss of Kennedy and another fine centre, Cal Gardner, was mainly responsible for the plight of the Leafs. Kennedy said on Tuesday his knee appears to have healed completely, and it did not bother him during a workout.

The Toronto game promises to be a dramatic clash because the Hawks' coach, Charlie Conacher, in former years was a Maple Leaf hero.

Conacher has his own troubles. Veteran centre Doug Bentley suffered a groin injury against Montreal last week-end and whether he will play is doubtful. Ralph Nattrass, Chicago's tough defenceman, will play with a hand injury.

At the moment the Leafs are two points ahead of Chicago, and a Chicago victory would put both into a fifth-place tie.

Far ahead of the pack, Detroit Red Wings might have trouble with the Rangers, who have climbed into a second-place tie with Montreal. Rangers suffered a 6-0 whitewash at Boston Sunday, but before that they had scored four straight victories.

Coach Irvin Sets Goal Quota For Canadiens

MONTREAL, Jan. 4 —(UP)— Coach Dick Irvin of the Montreal Canadiens gave his National Hockey League squad a strict quota of goals Tuesday for the club's remaining 35 games.

Irvin told his players they must reach the quota or there will be some changes made. He thought the team should score 102 goals in 35 games to reach the Stanley Cup playoffs. The Canadiens had scored only 79 tallies since the start of the 1949-1950 season and are deadlocked with the New York Rangers for second place.

"All I am asking each and every one of you is to score an average of six goals per man from now until the end of March," Irvin said to his players. He figured it would be a tall order for his 17 men as for the first half of the season only five Canucks scored six goals or more.

Maurice Richard presently leads the Montreal scorers with 23 goals followed by Billy Reay who has eleven. Then comes Elmer Lach with eight, Leo Gravelle with seven, and Rip Riopelle with six.

Rangers Will Try Amateur Bill Kyle

NEW YORK, Jan. 4 — The New York Rangers announced on Tuesday that amateur Bill Kyle, a left wing, would report to the club today for a three-game tryout.

Kyle, who is 24, is a brother of Gus Kyle of the Rangers and has been playing this season with the Regina Caps in the Western Canadian Senior Hockey League. Last year he and his brother were teammates on the Regina team.

Coach Lyn Patrick said the newcomer would play against the Detroit Wings tonight.

Flinging Frankie Filchock Named Outstanding Athlete

By JACK MITCHELL.

TORONTO, Jan. 4 (CP) — Flinging Frankie Filchock, as competent a quarterback as ever won a Dominion football championship, today was named Canada's outstanding male athlete of the year.

The former United States professional star headed a year-end poll of Canadian sports editors as handily as he led Montreal Alouettes to the city's first Grey Cup title in 18 years.

The 40 sports editors, participating in the annual Canadian Press poll inaugurated 17 years ago, gave 26 first place votes to the 32-year-old native of Grindstone, Pa. Next, with five first place votes, came Bill Durnan, Montreal Canadiens' great goaltender.

Filchock also gained 10 second place votes and two thirds for a 90 point total on a 3-2-1 points system. The 34 year old Durnan, with seven seconds and five thirds racked up 34 points.

Henri Rochon, the Davis Cup tennis player from Montreal, was the only other athlete to get more than one first place vote. The wiry little court star, ranked No. 1 in Canada, placed third with 13 points—two firsts, three seconds and a third.

Fame Fleeting

How fleeting is fame? Buddy O'Connor, the 1948 winner for his hockey exploits with New York angers, didn't get a vote: nor did Joe Krol, Toronto Argonauts footballer who held the title the two previous years.

Filchock polled only five points in 1948. When his family Tigers were stopped short after winning the Ontario Rugby Football Union title.

Durnan won support by his performance in recapturing the Vezina Trophy, awarded to the National Hockey League netminder with the season's best goals-against average. The big native of Toronto has won the trophy in all but one of his six NHL seasons with Canadiens.

With Rochon taking third, Montreal swept the three top places. Another Montreal performer—Sam Jethroe, International League speed king with the baseball Royals who is ticketed for Boston Braves—tied for fourth with Bill Parnell of Vancouver. Olympic miler on Canada's team for the British Empire games in New Zealand next month. Each received one first place vote in their nine point totals.

Others Mentioned

Others mentioned, with point-totals in brackets:

Hockey—Goalie Turk Broda (7) and centre Ted Kennedy (5), both sparked Toronto Maple Leafs to their third successive Stanley Cup triumph; Maurice Richard (5), Montreal Canadiens high-scoring winger; Roy Conacher, (4), veteran winger won the NHL individual scoring championship with Chicago Black Hawks last season; Tommy Manastersky (2) and Gord Knutson (1), members of the Montreal Royals Memorial Cup champions; Russ Dertell (2), Calgary Stampeders goaltender; Ray Frederick (1), Brandon Wheat Kings goaltender.

Football — Bob Cunningham (5), fleet-footed Montreal Alouettes pass-receiver; Darrell Wardien (4), Regina Roughriders halfback who might have been higher up if he had clicked on the last minute placement that would have given his team the Western Canada title; Keith Spaith (3), Calgary Stampeders quarterback; Jack Parry (3), University of Western Ontario triple threat; Virgil Wagner (2), Alouettes import plunger who led all Eastern Canada individual scorers for the fourth successive season; Rocky Robillard (1), McGill University triple-threat.

Boxing—Li'l Arthur King (7), British Empire lightweight boxing champion from Toronto now campaigning in the United States; Tiger Warrington (1), of Kentville, N. S., No. 1 contender for the Canadian light heavyweight crown.

Golf—Laurie Roland (5), promising young Vancouver golfer; Nick Weslock (2) of Windsor, low amateur in the Canadian open; Gerry Kesselring (1) of Kitchener, second low amateur in the Canadian open; Bill Mawhinney (1), Vancouver golfer; Stan Leonard (1), Vancouver professional.

Softball—Charlie Justice (4), import pitcher who hurled a no-hit game as Toronto Tip Tops won the world championship tournament at Little Rock, Ark.

Curling—Ken Watson (4), curler who skipped his Winnipeg Strathcona rink to the Dominion title at Hamilton, and became the first skip ever to win the bonspiel three times.

Harness Racing Under Lights Toronto Plan

TORONTO, Jan. 4 (CP)—Night harness racing, under lights, will be introduced in Toronto this summer, F. S. Orpen, director of the Orpen race tracks, said today.

Application for dates for a meeting at suburban Long Branch race track has been made to the Canadian Trotting Association, the body which controls harness racing in Ontario. The dates will be released by the CTA.

Mr. Orpen now holds a winter harness meet at Dufferin race track in West Toronto from November to March and it will be continued.

The summer harness racing will be held on the half-mile track in the infield of the one-mile track where running horse races now are held in the spring and fall.

Football Club Asks Franchise From IRFU

OTTAWA, Jan. 4 (CP)—The newly-formed Toronto football club has applied to the Interprovincial Rugby Football Union for a franchise, it was announced Tuesday night.

Wes Brown, secretary of the Big Four, said he had received an application from the club and that it will be discussed at the annual meeting of the league in Toronto Jan. 21.

The application made no mention of players expected to be signed, but named Paul McGarry as team manager. McGarry, former Ottawa Rough Rider lineman, was team manager of Toronto Balmy Beaches in the Ontario Rugby Football Union last season.

Toronto already has one entry in the Big Four—Argonauts. Other members of the four-team loop are Montreal Alouettes, Hamilton Wildcats and Ottawa Rough Riders.

May Take Votes In Other Cities On Sunday Sports

TORONTO, Jan. 4 (CP)—Toronto and Windsor's civic vote for Sunday sports showed some signs today of starting action for a similar plebiscite elsewhere in the Dominion. But mainly other centres just hadn't considered the problem.

The two Ontario cities have voted to allow their munuicipal government to ask the Provincial Legislature for power to ban the sections of the Lord's Day Act relating to Sunday commercialized sport.

Vancouver and Ottawa officials expressed interest. Mayor Charles Thompson of Vancouver said on Tuesday that voters will have a chance to decide whether they want Sunday sport "if there is sufficient representation for it."

Commenting on Toronto's decision, the Mayor said: "The vote certainly shows a change in public thinking. I imagine we will be asked to allow a similar vote here and I don't see how we can refuse."

Ottawa Mayor, E. A. Borque, commented that Board of Control will discuss the question in the capital in the near future. He said he had been surprised at the result of the plebiscite in Toronto Monday.

From Halifax comes word from old-time sports fans that there has never been any movement for commercial Sunday sports They added that the issue was not likely to come up.

Irish Down Oshawa In 8-6 Victory

By The Canadian Press

The Ontario Hockey Association ushered in 1950 last night with two junior A teams the celebrants.

St. Michael's College majors lived up to their Irish nickname and thumped Oshawa Generals 8-6 to demonstrate the traditional Gaelic love of a celebration.

Leo Labine supplied the big scoring punch in the night's only game, banging in two overtime goals to push the host club all alone into fifth place in league standings while leaving Oshawa in seventh position. Will Marshall supplied most of the regular-time scoring, notching three counters

Waste No Time

Oshawa opened the scoring after only 35 seconds of playing time had elapsed, Marcel Clements pumping home the first tally. Willy Marshall, with his first counter, and Bob Sabourin gave the Collegians a 2-1 lead before the period ended.

The Generals came out strong for the middle frame scoring at the 10-second mark and adding two more before the 11-minute mark. Frank Hooper, Enso Zanatta and Moe Galand doing the honors. St. Michael's roared back with counters by Will Marshall and George Stanutz but the visitors retaliated with the last counter of the frame off the stick of George Samolenko.

Fred Sandford and Will Marshall sandwiched an Oshawa tally by Don Hall in the final frame to send the contest into overtime. Labine's two overtime markers salted away the Irish victory.

WORLD'S NEWEST—The latest in jet fighters, the CF-100 was unveiled this week for taxi tests at Malton, Ont., where it was built by A. V. Roe (Canada) Ltd. The long, sleek night-fighter and long-range intruder is designed to travel at more than 600 miles an hour. No date has been set for flight tests.

Predict Great Changes In Way Of Life When Year 2000 Reached

NEW YORK, Jan. 4 (AP) — Have a look at your life in the United States in the year 2000.

People live far longer than ever before. Cancer is controlled; the common cold licked; and other dread diseases like polio are on the run. People wear a wrist watch radio and carry pocket-sized television sets. They eat new foods, maybe artificially grown in factories. They have harnessed the atom for power, and also use the sun's rays for energy. As a matter of course, they see the latest feature movies daily in their homes through television. Their children attend a radically different kind of school.

These forecasts for the coming 50 years are made by nine United States leaders in fields ranging from science to entertainment.

Taking part in an Associated Press survey for the new half-century, they predict revolutionary changes more sweeping than in any similar period in history.

Here's what the experts see ahead:

By the year 2000, says Dr. Edward U. Condon, director of the National Bureau of Standards Americans are likely to learn much more about nuclear energy and cosmic rays and "the impact of science will be even more revolutionary" than during the last 50 years. He foresees "automatic control of industrial processes through semi-'thinking' electronic devices, automatic control of aircraft throughout the entire process of flight, and the production of fresh water from sea water for arid regions."

Fast Communications

The day is coming, says Brig.-Gen. David Sarnoff, chairman of the Board of the Radio Corporation of America, "when by radio man will speak to man and television will place them face to face in New York, London or Shanghai." He says mail will be whizzed around the world by radio, making present delivery systems seem as slow as the pony express. He also foresees miniature radio and television sets powered by a "mere speck of radioactive material."

"Before the century is over," says Leroy A. Wilson, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, "anyone will be able to dial his own call anywhere in the United States and service will be more accurate and more complete."

Dr. Morris Fishbein, former editor of the Journal of the American Medical Association, believes cancer may be "largely controllable" in 2000. The hopeful approach against it, he says, rests in chemical, physical and perhaps particularly glandular studies which control the cancer cell by interfering with its nutrition or delaying the rapidity of growth."

He reports increased studies to control infantile paralysis and other virus diseases of the nervous system, and to solve the common cold.

Dr. Edwin G. Nourse, former chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, says "economic progress" to "outpace anything in the past" is likely if war or paralyzing battles between "capitalism, laborism and aggrarianism" do not ensue.

Food Methods Obsolete

By 2000, predicts Charles F. Brannan, secretary of agriculture present methods of growing food may be obsolete. He foresees this if man can unlock the "secrets of nature" by which plants make food from water and carbon dioxide.

In education, "the collegiate trend toward Liberal education . . . . will compel reorganization all the way from the elementary school to the university," says Dr. Robert M. Hutchins, Chancellor of the University of Chicago.

Entertainment likewise faces a revolution, in the opinion of two veteran motion picture producers, Cecil B. DeMille and Samuel Goldwyn. "I bet that my grandson's children will have a sightless radio in their home," says DeMille. Goldwyn predicts a union of movies with television so that 100,000,000 Americans will be looking at films every day.

Marked Progress

In a statement prepared for The Associated Press, Dr. Condon said in part:

"In terms of our daily lives, it appears that every field of applied science will show marked progress as a result of basic knowledge made available in the last 50 years. Thus, our present knowledge of nuclear physics foresbadows the development of energy from atomic piles. Radioactive isotopes will prove invaluable in developments in the chemical and metallurgical industries as well as in medical therapy and biological research."

Gen. Sarnoff wrote:

"It may be expected that the moon and the planets will be used as radio sounding boards and reflectors, to bounce or relay broadcasts and to mirror television pictures . . .

"Ultrafax—capable of handling 1,000,000 words a minute—will enable a person to write a letter or message to be put on a moving belt that passes a television eye for swift delivery . . . in a far-away city the text will be automatically reproduced by a photographic process for delivery in a matter of minutes . . .

EGYPTIAN ASSASSINATION

Dr. Ahmed Maher Pasha, Prime Minister of Egypt, was assassinated in February, 1942, by a young lawyer of the nationalistic Young Egypt Society.

Miss Hannah Hubble Buried At Maple Grove

HAVELOCK, Jan. 4—(ENS)—The funeral of Miss Hannah Jane Hubble, South Lake, Monday at the Curtis Funeral Home, was conducted by the Rev. F. R. Vanderburgh.

Pallbearers, all neighbors of Miss Hubble, were: Levi Wrightly, Sherwood Gerow, Charles Hull, Clarence Pollock, Ray Pollock and Earl Gerow. Burial was in Maple Grove cemetery.

Miss Hubble's death Friday in a Peterborough Hospital, was the result of a fall on the floor of the dining room at her home the previous day, where she sufferd a broken hip. She was aged 76.

Born at South Lake, Miss Hubble has been a life-long resident of that district and was a daughter of the late Eleazer Hubble and Mary Eunice. She was a member of the United Church.

She leaves three sisters: Miss Lily Hubble, South Lake; Mrs Walter Davis and Mrs. O. Parcel of Havelock; five brothers, Charles of South Lake; Harry of Havelock, Ray of Toronto; Ross of Calgary, Alta., Bert of Kabowden, Man.

Congregations Unite For Week Of Prayer

MILLBROOK, Jan. (ENS) Holy Communion was celebrated in St. Andrew's United Church on New Year's Day.

The Rev. T. G. Husser announced the week of prayer, when congregations of all three churches will meet together in services held Tuesday night in St. Thomas Anglican Church, with Rev. Walter Patterson as the speaker, Wednesday night in St. Andrew's United Church when Mr. Percy Hamilton will speak; and Thursday night in Grace Presbyterian Church, when he will give the address.

Mr. Husser announced also that there will be a meeting of St. Andrew's Church Board Friday night to plan for the annual meeting.

The special New Year music included a tenor solo by Edward Dewitt.

Elders who assisted in dispensing sacrament were: P J Bentley, George E. Burnham, Walter Coombs, Wilfred Elson, B E. Ingham, Henry Gray, M. Mc Dowell and A R Payne.

PARTY PUNCH: "We are having a mid-January party for 50. Can you give me a recipe for a good non-alcoholic punch? My husband and I feel we should not serve anything which will contribute to the number of drunken drivers on the road."

The quickest party punch is made by combining ginger ale, grape juice and grapefruit juice in equal quantities. Most delicious punch we make is this. Make a syrup of 7 cups white sugar and 7 cups hot water; boil for 5 minutes. Cool slightly; pour over 4 tablespoons grated lemon rind and 1 cup lemon juice. Add 1 ounce citric acid and 1 ounce tartaric acid; stir till dissolved. Store in the refrigerator; dilute as required with ice cold water, using one part syrup to three parts water. This yields 3½ quarts syrup sufficient to make 2 gallons of beverage.

GREASE ON WALLPAPER: "We've just papered our dining room and kitchen with fresh wallpaper. Lo and behold the grease splattered on the fresh paper, is there anything that will take it off?"

Try our Climax Wallpaper Cleaner which rubs on and off like art gum. If the grease has penetrated so deeply that the cleaner will not remove it, try a paste of corn starch. Pat it on, let dry and then carefully brush off.

Marjorie Main Worst Dressed In Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS.

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 4 (AP). — Now that the 10 best-dressed women of the year have been named, Marjorie Main wants to head a list of the 10 worst-dressed.

"That is one honor I have coming to me," drawled the gravel-throated actress. "I don't give a hoot for clothes."

"When I was a little girl," she recalled, "my mother would give me a number of dresses. I would wear just one of them until it was worn out. My late husband tried to get me to buy a lot of dresses, but didn't have much success.

"I would not mind if I could go into a store, grab a dress off the rack and pay for it," she said.

Talking Salesgirls

"But the trouble is that the salesgirl always talks — bla bla bla bla—until her drivel drives me nuts. Finally, about two in the afternoon when she has shown me everything in the store, I say, 'Look, sister, my feet are killing me. I am just as anxious to buy a dress as you are to sell it to me. Now, let's quit fooling around.'"

Lately, Miss Main has avoided warfare with salespeople by hiring a dressmaker.

"I buy a buncha of material and take it to her and say, 'Here, whip me up something.' How many fittings do I have? I've had just one. She has got the measurements; now she can make the dresses all alike."

Miss Main, who was decked out in a frumpy farm dress for "Summer Stock," owns but one coat—a black, pre-war affair.

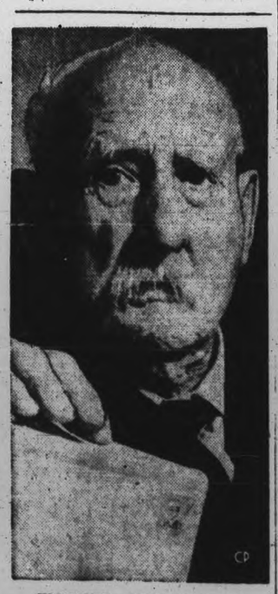
Havelock News

Mr. and Mrs. A. Bennett of Toronto spent the weekend and holiday with their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Bennett.



Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hubble have received work of the illness of their nephew, Cecil Hubble of Oshawa, son of Mrs. William Hubble and the late William Hubble of that city.

Mr. D. C. Yule of Hamilton is visting his sister, Mrs. W. G. Martin.

Miss Glenore Stevenson of Toronto spent the weekend and holiday with her grandmother, Mrs. W. Stevenson.

Child Breaks Arm.

MILLBROOK, Jan. 4—(ENS)—Gordon Gibson, four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Lavern Gibson, King St., fell on the cellar steps Monday morning at the home of his grandfather, Mr. Ed Thornton and broke his left arm.

WORKED WITH EDISON—John Lauder, of London, Ont., celebrating his 100th birthday anniversary, recalled that he was a conductor on the old Grand Trunk Western Railway out of Stratford, Ont., when Thomas Edison was a telegrapher there. "That fellow Edison," says Mr. Lauder, "could send messages over the wire faster than anyone I ever knew."

DISTANCE NO BARRIER—Tony Cianflone, 22, was in Canada and his 20-year-old bride, Nina, was in Italy when they were married—by proxy—five months ago. This photo was taken as they were re-united in Vancouver.

Randall Hubble Missing In North

HAVELOCK, Jan. 4 (ENS)—Bert Hubble, a retired CNR employee of Wabowden, Manitoba, and a native of South Lake, writing to relatives in this vicinity describes the efforts that have been made to locate his son Randall, 30-year-old trapper missing since October and for whom the search has been called off until spring.

Mr. Hubble's letter was to his brother Harry, of town. Other members of the family here are:: Charles Hubble and Miss Lily Hubble of South Lake; Mrs. Walter Davis and Mrs. O. Parcels of Havelock.

Mr. Hubble stated he was badly shaken up over the uncertainty of his son's fate although they now believe that he is dead despite the fact that they have been unable to find his body.

The missing man was at Churchill all summer, coming down to Wabowden in September from where he went to his camp with his dogs. He had a 165 miles of trap line and often used a seaplane to cover his route. He made three trips back to his home where he helped harvest the potato crop. The last timehe set out from Wabowden was on October 8, telling his family there was a possibility he might not return before December 1.

Hires Plane

His father wrote that when Randall did not return then, he hired a plane and flew to his son's camp where he found two of the dogs dead and the rest just about starved to death. Randall's rifle, shot gun and canoe were missing.

His father thinks that the last time his son was at the camp would be about October 9 or 10 as he had four loaves of bread with him when he left home and there were three of them left. He had written two words on the door of the camp and signed his initials but his father could not get any meaning out of them.

Mr. Hubble has made six trips by plane and he and three others have searched for a week and have been unable to find any trace of his son. There is a foot of ice and 15 inches of snow in that area so the search has been given up until spring.

BIG AND LITTLE

The manufacture of portland cement involves such diverse equipment as a 600-ton kiln and a balance which can weigh the dust from a butterfly wing.

NATURE UNSPOILED

YOURS TO ENJOY

The PURPLE FINCH has been called the most melodious of his family. He's small, with a soft, purplish-rose color. Look for him in orchards and hawthorn bushes. Protect this lovely singer—he feeds on wild fruits, weed seeds and evergreen seeds.

Steel Workers Of Four Plants Calling Strike

BUFFALO, N.Y., Jan. 4 (AP)—The United Steel Workers (CIO) Tuesday called a strike effective at midnight Sunday at four plants of the American Locomotive Company.

The plants, employing about 10,000 persons, are Schenectady, Auburn, and Dunkirk in New York State and Latrobe, Pa.

Joseph P. Maloney, Buffalo district director of the union and chairman of its committee negotiating with the company, said Tuesday he had notified R. B. McColl, company president, of the action in a telegram.

The telegram said in part: "Your company's denial of adequate pension and insurance plans, together with the company's insistence on a wage cut at some of its plants, persuades the union that genuine collective bargaining is not the purpose of your company."

The union seeks a minimum pension program of $100 a month, together with "adequate insurance."

The company said the firm had told the union it was not part of the basic steel industry and presented an "entirely different situation is that none of its major competitors were organized by the United Steelworkers and therefore were not controlled by wage or fringe benefit patterns established in the basic steel industry."

ALPINE TECHNIQUE — Capt. Guy d'Artois, seated on a wall of the Quebec Citadel, explains mountain-climbing methods as part of the preliminary paratroop training of the Royal 22nd Regiment. The idea is to get his men accustomed to height.

Bootlegging Ring

WINDSOR, Jan. 4 (CP)—Police said Tuesday they are investigating what they believe may be one of the largest bootlegging rings ever uncovered in Windsor and district. Combined city and Provincial Police raids on two houses in the city yielded 2,640 bottles of beer and some liquor. One suspect was arrested.

Overcome By Fumes

MONTREAL, Jan. 4 (CP)—Six members of one family were overcome by gas fumes Tuesday night, police reported. They were Mrs. Joseph Saint-Louis, 55, her 25-year-old son, Robert, and her four daughters, Denise, 16, Claire, 15, Aline, 3 and Louise, 2. In a similar accident in another house, Mrs. B. Champagne, 21, also was overcome by gas fumes.

Special Trains Rush Troops To Cold Zone

WAINWRIGHT, Alta., Jan. 4 (CP)—Special trains, convoys and regular passenger trains poured soldiers of the active army into Western Command's large training area here Tuesday for 18 days of intensive winter training.

The arrival of 10 active force units and sub-units from many parts of Canada will mark the start of the largest training program held in the 130,000-acre reserve since the end of the war. About 1,700 all ranks will be housed in the 76 buildings of the former German prisoner-of-war camp.

Monday night two special trains from Calgary brought about 650 men of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry airborne unit. A special train from Brandon, Man., Tuesday unloaded gunners from Shilo, Man. and special air liaison soldiers from Rivers, Man.

Today, another special train from Kingston, Ont., will pour special service personnel from many parts of Central Command into the camp area.

The weather is ideal for winter training. As the trainloads of parka-clad army men arrived, temperatures of 30 to 40 below gave them a taste of the severe conditions under which they will carry out a rigorous training schedule.

Between now and Jan. 22 infantrymen, gunners, signallers, engineers, medical men, drivers, and air observation men will carry out unit and combined training under Arctic conditions.

To direct the start of training, Maj.-Gen. M. H. S. Penhale, general officer commanding Western Command, will arrive by air. He will outline the scope and purpose of the training and also will tell something of Exercise Sweet Briar, to be held along the northern stretch of the Alaska Highway following the Wainwright activities.

Jeeps, trucks, weapons, aircraft and parachute equipment have been specially prepared for use under conditions of extreme wind and cold.

REPORTS "CURE"—Mother Savoie, Superior of a Roman Catholic hospital at St. Joseph, N.B., has reported for the first time what she describes as a miraculous cure more than 20 years ago. Mother Savoie says she was near death from tubercular peritonitis while at a convent at Tracadie, N.B., in 1926 and was cured after other nuns prayed to the Canadian Jesuit martyrs for her recovery. Her case was studied, she says, during investigations which led the canonization of the Jesuit martyrs in 1930.

Careless Driver Pays $10 Fine

Found guilty of careless driving, Albert McCaw, who lives near Lakefield, was fined $10 and $16.50 costs by Magistrate W. R. Philp, K.C., in police court Tuesday.

The charge resulted from an accident in Lakefield at Concession and Reid Sts. Both cars suffered considerable damage.

George Charlton, Lakefield, driver of the other car, said there was a clear view for 100 yards in both directions. He said he saw McCaw's car coming but expected it to stop for a stop sign. However, he said, McCaw failed to halt and the car struck him on the left front side and corner.

McCaw testified he had stopped at the sign. He saw no approaching traffic and started across. However, hard packed snow made it difficult for his tires to get traction and go more than five miles an hour before he crossed the intersection.

He said just before reaching the other side of the intersection, he heard a car coming and looked up to see it approaching "at a terrific speed." He said he tried to avoid the accident by turning to the left but the other car hit him.

Pork Prices Drop

MONTREAL, Jan. 4 (CP) — Trade sources said Tuesday pork prices on the retail market will drop as much as four cents a pound as a result of the lower British contract prices announced Tuesday in Ottawa.

"Satina makes starched clothes 3 times easier to iron!"

writes Mrs. Fred Gates, of Hamilton, Ont.

"When ironing, I prefer Satina," writes Mrs. Gates, "because when you press and fold clothes they seem just like new. Clothes don't crush like they do when starch alone is used. I also like the perfume Satina leaves on clothes. Satina certainly makes starched clothes 3 times as easy to do."

Satina in Starch Speeds Your Iron

Satina added to your regular starch creates a glossy, satin-smooth surface that prevents your iron from pulling or sticking — gives starched clothes the look you love to wear. Full instructions on package. At your grocer's. Get Satina today.

PARKHILL JUNIOR SCHOOL ADDITION on Wolsley St., held its first class on Tuesday. The modern building, of wood and composite covering construction, was started in August and will cost $28,000. Left photo shows the front elevation of the building which faces south on Wolsley St. Miss Vera Squire, centre photo, stands at the main entrance as her Grade I class leaves for home while Miss Elizabeth Wright, right photo, reads a story to her 27 pupils in the new Grade II classroom.—(Examiner Staff Photos)

Wants To Open Slaughter House On Erskine Ave.

With an agreement in his pocket to buy a vacant building on Erskine Ave., Nick Peconi applied to the council Tuesday night for permission to operate there a slaughter house and meat rending plant. His application through his solicitors, Elliott & Chandler, was referred to the Board of Health and City Engineer Chalmers for investigation and report. Pinned to it is to be a letter from H. L. Garner, chairman of the Industrial Commission, declaring their disapproval of the project either within the city or adjacent to it.

On the strength of that recommended rejection by the Industrial Commission, Ald. Herbert Young moved that the application be refused. He did not press his proposal beyond the motion by Aldermen Gillespie and Waddell sending the Peconi correspondence on to the Board of Health and Mr. Chalmers.

North of Tracks

The Peconi operations had been carried on in a big barn in Smith township, which was destroyed by fire last summer. The building which is now vacant and available to him was erected in 1947 by H. J. Keats. It is on the east side of Erskine Ave., north of the CNR to Port Hope and south of May's School, in an area which the city annexed from North Monaghan South of the CNR is a new housing subdivision. In the course of construction on the extension of McKellar St. west of Monaghan Road The Erskine Ave. district has been zoned for heavy industry by the city planning committee.

The application informed the council that Mr. Peconi intended to use the building as a slaughter house, with modern freezer for keeping fresh meat, boiler and cooking plant for manufacturing and canning dog food. He also plans to instal rending equipment for the manufacture of bone and meat meal.

FIVE DOZEN TICKETS

Sixty parking tickets were issued Tuesday to Peterborough drivers. Apparently the police department has made a new year's resolution to check all illegal parking in the city.

Colorful Mural

A COLORFUL mural depicting the immortal characters in Some Merry Adventures of Robin Hood is the latest addition to the children's section at the city's Public Library. Artist is Marlene Wright, 15-year-old third form Collegiate student.

The picture, measuring four feet by two and a half, covers a fan light over a door. Miss Lilian Wesley, librarian, has "commissioned" another to hang over the fan light of another door. Marlene's subject this time will be taken from Hawthorne's A Wonder Book and Tanglewood Tales.

City Council Buys Murray St. Manse

Payment of $15,000 for the manse of the Murray St. Baptist Church on Water St. was authorized by the council Tuesday night in the second parcel purchases of properties for the site of the new City hall. The house is at 491 Water St.

The report of the committee of the whole by Ald. H. F. Waddell recommended acceptance of a proposal from W. H. Bosley, supervising realty agent, and that the City Trust Commissioners be so informed, "in order that payment for the property may be made and the title of the property transferred, it being part of the arrangement that the board of Murray St. Church retains possession of the property, rent and taxes free, until May 1, 1950, but that payment of the purchase price will be made at as early a date as possible.

Council Refuses To Extend Fire Protection

Residents of Smith township across the northern border of the city wrote the city council Tuesday night asking for extension of its fire protection service for 30 days from Dec. 31 last until they buy their own equipment.

The letter from Orville Deyell, chairman of a suburban fire protection committee, failed to move the council from its decision terminating existing agreements for fire protection service across the borders of the townships adjoining the city. It was moved by Ald Doug Miller and seconded by Ald J. E. Gillespie.

This reply instructed City Clerk Outram to inform Mr. Deyell that the council was "sticking by its original decision."

"If they can produce a letter showing that they have ordered equipment," said Ald. Miller, "the council might extent fire protection until the equipment is placed in service."

2 Months Wasted

Nearly two months had been wasted by township residents, Ald Miller said, since the council first gave notice of its intention to cancel agreements with the townships and with any individuals residing outside the city.

"I doubt whether equipment is to be ordered," Ald. Miller remarked. "The Smith group have not the backing of their township council. If we extend our service for another month, it will be an indication of weakness, and at the end of that time they might come back asking for further extension. We made our stand to cut off the service a Dec. 31 and I think we should stand by it."

Four Break-Ins Reported To Police Since Saturday

The fourth break-in in the city since Saturday was discovered early today by an employee of Boorman's Beverages, 485 Reid St., when he arrived at work. Only $2 was found missing. Constables A. G. Edmison and Dennis M. Traynor reported that entry had been made by breaking a window pane on the west side of the building. A desk in the main office had been ransacked and $2 taken from a cash box.

The break-in was discovered by Roy Wood, 248 Munroe St. Since Saturday three other places of business have been broken into: Russelle's garage, McLeod's drug store, and Fanning's laundry.

Rochester Ferry Operates To April 30

ROCHESTER, N.Y., Jan. 4 (AP)—The ferry between here and Cobourg, Ont., probably will operate until April 30, says H. E. Simpson, traffic vice-president of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

Discontinuance of the ferry because of lack of traffic was scheduled for Dec. 31 and later postponed until March 31 It is operated jointly by the B. and O and the Canadian National Railways.

Would Use Niagara

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4 (AP)—Senator Herbert Lehman (Dem. N.Y.) would like to see a "greater utilization" of the Niagara River power potential. He told reporters Tuesday he believed power resources of the Niagara River could be developed to a point where the power energy would be greater than that estimated for the proposed St. Lawrence power project.

Hold 4 Youths In Garage Theft

Facing charges of breaking, entry and theft, four teen-aged youths elected trial by magistrate's court and pleaded guilty before Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, in police court Tuesday.

The four were: John Shannon, 16, of 14 Mill St.; Leonard Titus, 18 of 184 Hunter St.; Clinton Stockdale, 19, R.R. 4, Peterborough; and Roy Ellis, 19, R.R. 10, Peterborough.

They were arrested shortly after Constable Donald S. Mackay discovered about 1.30 a.m. Tuesday that Russelle's garage, north Water St. had been broken into Police allege that Shannon was suspected and when arrested, admitted taking part in the robbery. He named the three other accused as his companions in the robbery. Stockdale was alleged to be the one who removed a pane of glass from a rear window, went into the garage and brought out the money which was divided among the four.

Although John R. Russelle told police he thought about $65 had been taken, only about $55 was recovered from the four boys.

No evidence was heard and the youths were remanded until January 9.

Two-Room Addition Opens To City's Parkhill School

Twenty-seven Grade II children, residents of the Wolsely St. district, paddled delightedly through the rain Tuesday morning on their way to school. It was more than just the fun of getting back to the classroom with their friends after the Christmas holidays. They had a new classroom in what was to most of them a new school.

Two large, bright classrooms have been added to the Park Hill Junior School on Wolsley St., and one of them opened Tuesday morning for the Grade II pupils.

The $28,000 addition is part of the Board of Education's present building program to keep abreast of the rapidly-growing school population. Construction work began in August and finishing touches were being put on it as the children began their lessons.

It was decided against bringing in Grade III pupils from Queen Mary School as they would only have half a school year left and would have to leave the Junior School at the end of the term in any case and go back to Queen Mary. Meanwhile the fourth room is vacant.

Most striking feature from the outside of the two-room addition is the large area of window space facing south. The interior of the classroom is thus able to get maximum light. To complement the natural light there are blackboard "spot" lights which illuminate the board but are angled to prevent glare in the pupils' eyes.

Proper green boards for chalkwork have not yet arrived so the teachers are making do the old fashioned "black" variety. The green absorbs fewer of the light rays than the black and this improves visibility.

The ceiling is soundproofed and the floors are made of birch. Flooring must still be sanded in some parts and the whole waxed. Walls are painted apple green and silver grey.

Separate Entrance

In line with modern classroom construction each of the two has an independent entrance to the outside. A back entrance leading into the basement has also been built.

Children sit at tables with moveable chairs; there are no fixed desks. Within a couple of minutes the floor space can be cleared for games or exercises.

In addition each classroom has the modern-type concealed closet for hanging clothes, similar to those at Confederation and Queen Mary.

A new play room has been constructed in the basement, and at the back of the old wing the teachers' room has been enlarged.

Two oil furnaces—one of them new—provide the heat for the building.

Board officials are extremely satisfied with the new addition. They feel it has been constructed along modern lines and at a minimum expenditure.

Debentures for $28,000—about $3,000 over the original estimate—were issued this summer.

Gray and Banks of Bailieboro were the contractors and J. B. Parkin was the architect.

TRUCK CATCHES FIRE

A broken gas line is blamed for starting a small fire Tuesday night in the station wagon truck of Hilton Palmer, RR 1, Peterborough. The fire broke out while he was parked in front of 957 Aylmer St. It was not necessary to use an extinguisher.

Fog-Bound Road Three Injured

NORWOOD, Jan. 4 (ENS): — A Peterborough man and two companions are recovering in hospital after being injured in a car smashup Monday on Highway 28, 14 miles south of Bancroft.

Guy W. Romaine, of 360 Stewart Street, after being given first-aid at Bancroft Red Cross Hospital, was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital. His injuries included a broken leg and several broken ribs.

Roy Cromie, 35, of Alma Street, Norwood, and Stanley McManus, 39, also of Norwood, are in Bancroft Hospital.

Cromie, father of three children, received a cut on his neck and had some of his teeth loosened. He is also recovering from shock.

McManus, a neighbor of Cromie's living on Dummer Road, sustained a cut head requiring stitches to close. He is suffering from shock as well. He is the father of five.

Heavy Fog

The trio were travelling from Norwood to Whitney Camp near Bancroft when their car, driven by Cromie, collided head-on with another vehicle. A heavy fog that had lain over the highway was just lifting when the crash occurred.

Cromie and McManus were taken to Bancroft by Provincial Police and Romaine was dispatched by ambulance. Tuesday morning Romaine was brought to Peterborough.

Both cars involved were wrecked, but the occupants of the second vehicle were uninjured.

SELLS LOT FOR $300

Ald E. C. Braund's first motion in the council Tuesday night accepted the offer of Archie C. Greenwood of $300 for lot 1 on Caddy St., east of Ludgate St., on which he intends to build a house. Formerly of Cobourg, Mr. Greenwood has already built a house for his own use on Caddy St. The motion was seconded by Ald. H. Dodds.

Born In Original Area

The only citizen attending the inaugural meeting of the council Tuesday who was born within the bounds of the original townsite of Peterborough was George Benton, Sr.

"I wonder how many persons here today were born in that area marked out by Park Hill Road, Park St., Townsend St., and the river," Mr. Benton enquired, qualifying his question by applying an age of at least seventy-five years.

No one stood up with Mr. Benton, signifying that he had that distinction all to himself. The old Benton home with its flower and vegetable gardens was on Dalhousie St., between Stewart and Bethune Streets. It was the home of his parents, and Mr. Benton grew up there as a youth.

Gave His Home For Hospital, Engineer Dies

Funeral services were held today for James Henry Cecil (Ike) Waite, of Toronto, and brother of Dr. C. B. Waite, of Peterborough.

Well known as a philanthropist and engineer, Mr. Waite collapsed while backing his car out of the garage to attend a meeting of the Peel Memorial hospital board, of which he was chairman of the building committee. He had recently donated his 17-room Brampton home to the hospital.

Mr. Waite was president of the Mining Corp. of Canada and of Quemont and Normetal Mining corporations. He was a director of Hollinger Consolidated, Hudson Bay and Smelting, Waite Amulet, Kerr-Addison Gold, and Bankfield Consolidated Mines.

Born In Port Hope

Mr. Waite was born in Port Hope, a son of the late Charles and Charlotte (Williamson) Waite. After he was graduated in mining engineering from the University of Toronto, he spent some time in Northern Ontario and then worked in the southwestern United States, in South America, Quebec and Manitoba, before returning to the Ontario mining fields.

He married the former Edith Myrtle May Westlake, of Toronto, and settled in Brampton many years ago. His many years of work on behalf of Peel Memorial hospital were culminated recently in the completion of a $250,000 wing to the hospital. During the war years, he was chairman of the country's war finance committee and headed Red Cross drives.

Surviving besides his widow are two sons, Kenneth and Philip Waite; two daughters, Mrs. C. A. Kee and Mrs. Ray Dunster, all of Toronto; and a brother, Dr. C. B. Waite, Peterborough.

Colder Thursday

MOTHER Nature is expected to do an about-face in the Peterborough district on Thursday when the temperatures which have been hovering in the fifties start to recede. A cold wave is sweeping east from the prairies and is over northern Ontario today. Coldest point in the west in the past 24 hours was Regina where the mercury dipped to 36 below with a high of 22 below. At Winnipeg it was 17 below and at Port Arthur 10 below.

Appoint Three Men To Board Of Health

Aldermen Anglesey and Dewart and Mr. William Tinker were appointed members of the Board of Health in a bylaw passed by the city council, Tuesday night.

Another bylaw appointed Herbert I. Bradburn a member of the Public Library Board for three years, succeeding Wm. C. Ackerman who had asked that he be relieved of the position.

John D. Fitzpatrick and Vern A. Selkirk were re-appointed governors of Peterborough Civic Hospital, each for three years.

R. M. Glover was appointed a trustee of the distribution of the funds of the Almira Grover Foley estate which was a bequest years ago to the county and city for charitable purposes.

Rural Roads Impassable Heaving As In Early Spring

"It's no trouble getting stuck almost anywhere in the country," Reeve M. H. Johnston of North Monaghan said today in a reference to rural road conditions. And Reeve Ross Harrison of Smith: "If anybody is coming into Smith, especially on side roads, he'd be well advised to put it off a day or two."

Roads are heaving as in the early spring when winter is breaking up and the frost is releasing its hold on the ground.

"Even on one of our good county roads there are several places where the muck is coming up through the gravel," Reeve Johnston told the Examiner. "Roads generally are in bad shape, and they will get worse unless colder weather comes to freeze the ground."

Rain has been filling many a ditch. Temperature for days up around the 50-degree level has drawn the frost from the ground. School buses have had to come and go on the county and provincial roads, John Kitney said They can't take the side roads on their time and distance saving regular routes.

City Engineer Chalmers reported several of the new roads in the city as "quagmires". The worst stretches are west of Monaghan Road where some of the new houses have been occupied.

One of the men in that neighborhood said that traffic could move along the street roads, but from that line into the houses the walking is through heavy mud.

Similar spring-thaw conditions of rich mud and water have developed in several of the new housing sections of Ashburnham.

Frank Paterson, agricultural representative, called at a farm home Tuesday afternoon. He said he was "nearly stuck in several places." Fall wheat and grass appear to have taken on a fresh green of recent new growth. Several city householders have reported half an inch or more of growth on their lawns in the last ten days.

Peterborough municipalities have been saving money since their snow plows and graders have been tied up since early in December, but surface heaving is likely to involve considerable expense in unseasonable maintenance if the present mild and "soft spell" continues.

Catch Trio In Theatre

SUDBURY, Jan. 4 (CP) — Caught hiding in a theatre early this morning, three young men were charged with entering the premises with intent to commit an indictable offence. An attempt had been made to open the safe The three were identified as John Budge, 25, of no fixed address; Arthur Daniels, 25, of Silverwater, Ont., and Ben Spanish, 28, of Wikwemikong, Manitoulin Island.

Weather Range 59 Degrees During December

December weather ranged from 57 degrees maximum to 12 degrees below zero at the other end of the scale. The average was 22 degrees, James Harrison of the waterworks department informed the Examiner today.

Rainfall was 2.81 in. plus seven inches of snow, for a total of 3.51 inches rain.

Corresponding figures for Dec. 1948 were: maximum 53 deg., minimum 14 below on the 26th; average mein 26.2. Rainfall 49 of an inch, snow 12¾ inches; total 1.765 in. moisture.

Yearly comparisons are:

Maximum for 1949 was 92 deg on Aug. 9.

Maximum for 1948 was 96 deg Aug. 25.

Minimum for 1949 was 12 below Nov. 26.

Minimum for 1948 was 28 below on Feb. 10.

Average Mein for 1949 was 43.64 and for 1948 it was 43.24 deg. The average of the weather for the two years was almost identical.

"Pope Of Fleet Street" Legendary London Figure

By NORMAN CRIBBENS.

LONDON, Jan. 4 — (CP) — One of London's most legendary figures is a tall, sad-looking man of 70 with a halo of untidy white hair, an old-fashioned "chimney-pot" collar, and a long outmoded type of black bow tie known as a Disraeli cravat.

Newspaper men know him as Hannen Swaffer, the "Pope of Fleet Street." He has also been called the most conceited journalist in the world.

Reason for this is his complete and absolute faith in his own opinions, his constant use of the first pronoun personal—"I did," "I said," "I saw"—his bombastic manner of speech.

Paradoxically, however, Swaffer scorns a private office and writes his copy in pencil on a plain wooden table in the newsroom of The People—a Sunday edition of the Labor Daily Herald.

He smokes an unbroken chain of cigarettes and spills so much ash down his clothes that a colleague remarked recently: "I see Swiff is wearing Players again this season."

Surrounded by chattering typewriters and teletypes, the pencilling scribe looks like a relic of Dickens' day. Yet he is as vehement as even and when being interviewed by other reporters—as he frequently is—will punch them in the chest or stab them in the stomach with an argumentative forefinger every time he makes a point.

During his 54 years as a newspaper man—he became a junior reporter at 16—Swaffer claims to have met "everyone of note".

Some of Swaffer's detectors say he assumes familiarity with the famous in order to aggrandize himself.

"Piffle!" he shouted, punching and stabbing his interviewer. "The truth is I bring the big shots down to the level of my readers. I learned long ago that the best people do not always reach the top. Too often it is the selfish, the pushful, the arrogant, and the most blatant who get there.

"Almost faultless virtue often escapes notice and priceless talent may never be discovered."

Fervent Socialist

Though he is a fervent Socialist, full of praise for Labor Britain, Swaffer says regretfully that London today is less picturesque than the London of his youth and real characters have been "ironed out" by standardization.

"People are afraid to dress differently now," said the man whose strange and out-of-date clothes mark him out of all London. "Actors dress like bank clerks, artists look like civil servants, and newspaper men look like—well!"

A confirmed spiritualist, Swaffer holds seances at his Trafalgar Square apartment once a week. He claims to talk with the spirit of his old chief, Lord Northcliffe, for whom he worked for 17 years.

"Northcliffe tells me his 'hell' is to go to editorial conferences of the Daily Mail, which he created, and listen to their decisions.

"'Fools, fools!" he shouts—but nobody can hear him."

Stole Clothing From Store Jailed 7 Days

Glen Bedore, Norwood, was sentenced to seven days in jail Tuesday when convicted on a charge of shoplifting by Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, in police court.

A similar charge against James Lee, Havelock, was dismissed when Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw offered no evidence. Lee pleaded guilty to having liquor in a place other than his residence and was fined $15 and $7.90 costs.

It was alleged that Bedore stole some clothing from the store of Robert Sairs in Havelock Saturday night, Dec. 17.

Sairs testified he saw Bedore and Lee come into the store. He said he did not see them steal anything, but he thought they seemed suspicious. He asked them if they wanted anything. When they said "no," he stood behind them until they left.

Mrs. Sairs said she had seen Bedore take a pair of men's socks from a counter and put them in his pocket. She went to them and asked Bedore if he wanted anything. Mrs. Sairs commented that Bedore acted nervously and then bought a pair of socks from her. With Lee he left the store.

Village constable B. M. Bell said he picked up Bedore and Lee in answer to a complaint from another store where it was reported they had been acting suspiciously.

He said he phoned Sairs and had him come to the police station. Before was then searched and several articles of men's and women's clothing were taken unwrapped, from Bedore's overcoat and inside pockets. They all had Sair's store price tags on them.

Constable Bell said he found a part bottle of wine in the back of the car Lee was driving.

Bedore testified he had had a pre-Christmas party in his house in Norwood that evening. He said he went to Havelock to get some things for his wife with $10 she gave him. He said he did not remember how he got to Havelock or anything about being in Sairs store. However when he was locked up in the county jail, he had only 10 cents left.

Chewing Gum Saves Life Of Small Child

LONDON, Ont., Jan. 4 (CP)—Chewing gum which caused the accident also was rated the reason 3-year-old Frances Lawson, daughter of Col. Thomas Lawson, 191 Cheapside St., wasn't electrocuted when she put an electric plug in her mouth.

The child, who is the granddaughter of the Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, Hon. Ray Lawson, was taken to Toronto Tuesday morning where consultation was held with Dr. A. W. Farmer, over burns to the one side of the mouth and tongue. Plastic surgery may be required.

The accident happened when Frances went to turn on the lights on the Christmas tree in her home. An extension cord was used and the interlocking plugs were separated.

As she bent over to put the plugs together, the little girl dropped the gum she was chewing. It fell on the plug attached to the cord entering the wall socket.

Impulsively she put the plug up to her mouth to bite off the gum. The shock sent the little girl sprawling and when her mother found her she was just able to moan. The gum acted as an insulator and absorbed the main part of the shock.

The child's only injuries as a consequence were burns to one side of her mouth and tongue.

US Paper Finds Canada Land of Milk and Honey

NEW YORK, Jan. 4 — (CP) — Canada holds the world's leading claim as a land of promise, the World-Telegram said Tuesday.

The newspaper makes the statement in an article included in an annual review and forecast of trade, commerce and industry.

Current United States investments of $6,000,000,000 in the Dominion are expected to soar during the next five years, the World-Telegram says.

"This expectation will be reflected in particular in the oil development of Alberta and Saskatchewan, in which U.S. capital already is the basic incentive," it adds.

The newspaper says two items particularly in Canada's favor are friendliness of American business and industry, and the absence of fear of competition, "a factor which has restrained American capital from going to many other foreign shores."

If any spot on the globe could be called a land of promise in this age, the claim would be firmly tied to Canada.

One Woman On List Of KC's

TORONTO, Jan. 4—Appointment of 39 King's Counsel for Ontario was announced Monday by Attorney-General Porter. Of the 20 Toronto lawyers honored, one was Miss Margaret Elizabeth Perney, the only woman on the list.

Others from Toronto included Charles E. Smalley-Baker, dean of the Osgoode Hall Law School; Assistant Crown Attorneys Henry H. Bull and Arthur O. Klein; Joseph Hilley, formerly active in city playground boys' work and past president of the University Skating Club and Francis M. Kelly, brother of Mr. Justice Kelly.

Among the outside appointments were those of Richard (Dick) Bell, Ottawa, former national organizer of the Progressive Conservative party and City Solicitor Robert A. Pringle, Belleville.

The list includes John D. Arnup, Emerson T. Coatsworth, Henry A. Coon, Frank C. Forster, Rupert C. McMichael, Arthur S. Pattillo, William Skelcher Sewell, Terence Sheard, Arthur LaPierre Smoke, Russell N. Starr, David M. Symons, Charles H. Walker, Donald R. Walkinshaw and Russell A. Whitely, all from Toronto.

P. A. Ballachey, Brantford; William D. Conklin, Kingsville; George H. Crewe, Tilbury; J. A. B. Dummage, Smiths Falls; M. J. Grant, London; William C. Inch, Cobalt; Alan T. Lacey, Lindsay; Keith Laird, Windsor; Charles S. Lees, Hamilton; James A. Metcalfe, Woodbridge; J. A. E. Miller, Forest Hill village; Joseph N. Mulholland, Leaside; Charles C. McGibbon, Oshawa; Boris T. Parkinson, Orangeville; Christopher Robinson, Ottawa; William Schreiber, Hamilton, and Harry Waisbery, Sudbury.

Found Not Guilty Causing Disturbance

James Atkins, 21, 679 Aylmer St., was found not guilty on a charge of causing a disturbance on Brock St., Dec. 10 by Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, in police court Tuesday.

The charge arose from an alleged fight between Atkins and a man from Port Hope.

Atkins told the court he had been accused by the Port Hope man of stealing a bottle of liquor from him in the Brock St. Summer Gardens. The Port Hope man asked Atkins to go outside to be searched.

Just as they reached the street, said Atkins, the other man swung at him. He said he blocked the blow and pushed the man up against a wall. At that point Constable Claire McGillen came and stopped the fight. He said Constable McGillen told the Port Hope man he had been a nuisance all night and shook him a little.

Constable McGillen denied saying anything to the Port Hope man or touching him. He said, while on duty inside the dance hall, he was told a fight was in progress outside. When he went outside, he saw Atkins fighting with the Port Hope man.

A witness called by Atkins, Norman Howard, corroborated Atkins' story.

Set All-Time Record

OTTAWA, Jan. 4 (CP) — The Bureau of Statistics came up Tuesday with one of the reasons for the currently shrivelled bank accounts and thin pocketbooks of some Canadians. The bureau said in a report that Christmas shopping set an all-time record this year in purchases from department stores. Figures indicate that the sales in the week ended Dec. 24 were 10 per cent higher than in the corersponding week of 1948.

PM'S NEW HOME—Workmen are hard at work on renovations to the official residence of Canada's prime ministers at 24 Sussex Street, Ottawa, overlooking the Ottawa River. Scaffolding is up around the building in preparation for a general face-lifting of the old home, built in 1868 for a Conservative member of Parliament, the late Senator W. C. Edwards. The job will probably be finished by September.

Man Fractures Skull At Oshawa Plant

OSHAWA, Jan. 4—Cyrus Field, 42, of Eulalie Ave., was in a serious condition in Oshawa General Hospital Tuesday after fracturing his skull in an eight-foot fall.

An employee of General Motors parts department on Richmond St. E., Field was selecting a piece of stock from his position atop a ladder when he fell.

"He struck his head on the hard compound floor and lost a lot of blood," said Harold Bezzant, a fellow worker. "He was unconscious about a minute, and when he came to he didn't know what day it was. His left eye was completely closed."

A plant doctor gave first aid and Field was taken to hospital by ambulance.

Electrician Fined

QUEBEC, Jan. 4 (CP) — Superior Court Justice Leon Casgrain Tuesday awarded $1,260 to Richard Piche, nearby Cap Sante farmer who had taken action against Joseph Matte, Sap Sante electrician, after finding five of his cows electrocuted in his barn. Piche said that his cows had been killed through faulty installation of electricity on his farm. The work had been done by Matte.

No Final Settlement

THETFORD MINES, Que., Jan. 4 (CP)—A meeting of representatives of 2,000 asbestos miners and three companies Tuesday reached "no final understanding" on a proposed 1950 collective agreement, Jean Marchand, secretary of the Canadian Catholic Confederation of Labor said Tuesday night.

Outline Deficit During 1949 As Case For CPR Rate Boost

OTTAWA, Jan. 4 (CP)—An indicated 1949 revenue deficiency of $36,335,000 was cited by the Canadian Pacific Railway Tuesday in support of its claim for higher freight rates.

The figure was given in an exhibit presented to the Board of Transport Commissioners at a hearing preliminary to reopening Feb. 2 the 1948 railway application for a general 20 per cent rate increase.

It was accompanied by a financial table suggesting that to eliminate the deficiency would require a rate hoist of at least the 20 per cent sought by the railways originally and cut down by the board to 8 per cent last September.

The estimated shortage based on actual figures for most of 1949 was laid before the board as railway and provincial counsel argued over procedure for the February rehearings in the 20 per cent case.

Reopening of the case was directed by the Supreme Court of Canada Dec. 22 when it upheld a claim of the Canadian Pacific that the board had failed in its duty by deciding in September to defer final settlement of the 20 per cent application pending the outcome of the Royal Commission inquiry into transportation and certain rate studies of its own.

The chief commissioner indicated the evidence to be received in early February would cover only a few supplementary points, including 1949 operating results of the railways, which should be available then, and perhaps the question of labor costs.

Increased labor costs were the big factor in the 20 per cent application, and in September the board declared it would want more information on them before making a final decision.

Some provincial counsel Tuesday suggested they might want to go more fully into the supplementary rail submissions, but Mr. Justice Archibald said most of the issues fought out at 1948-49 hearings now could be regarded as closed. The board had ruled on them, one way or another.

Alberta counsel J. J. Frawley joined other provincial counsel in demanding of the railways a precise definition now of what they intend to submit at the February hearings.

Up To Date

C. F. H. Carson for the CPR, and Hugh O'Donnell, for the Canadian National Railways, said their intention at present was merely to bring the financial figures up to date with the results of 1949 operations.

While the CNR did not present new figures the CPR submitted estimates of 1949 operations based on 11 months' actual revenues and 10 months' actual expenditures. These showed net railway operating income of $25,262,000 before payment of taxes and debt interest and before provision for dividends and surplus. This compared with $27,083,000 in 1948 and $34,892,000 in 1947.

Use Formula

From the $25,262,000 figure, the CPR's estimated deficiency on rail operations was worked out through a formula laid down by the board in its September decision. This called for the allocation of part of the railway's debt charges against its non-rail income, and also a reduction — for freight-rate purposes—in the amount of depreciation charged against current income in the company's books.

Also, the company did not take out any funds this year for its deferred maintenance reserve. Instead, it reduced maintenance, expenses chargeable to the year's income by taking $7,500,000 out of the reserve.

The exhibits indicated the various adjustments worked out to a deficiency of $36,335,000 taking into account the three-months' operation of the eight per cent increase given in September. This compared with a 1948 deficiency figure of $34,398,000.

Elected President

MONTREAL, Jan. 4 (CP) — Professor Jules Brunel, director of the botanical institute at the University of Montreal, has been elected president of the Phycological Society of America, it was announced Tuesday night. Established in 1946, the society is made up of United States, Canadian and foreign botanists specializing in the study of marine and freshwater algae.

Dies From Injuries

AYLMER, Que., Jan. 4 (CP) — Adelard Emond, 58-year-old Aylmer blacksmith, died of injuries in an accidental fall downstairs early New Year's Day, Dr. Gerald Brisson, Hull district coroner, announced Tuesday. At first, foul play was suspected.

Blames Organization

TORONTO, Jan. 4 (CP)—The campaign against Sunday sports in Toronto was defeated because of weak church organization, the Rev. Robert Barr of Knox Church Tuesday told the Toronto East Presbytery of the Presbyterian Church.

Roving Commissions

MONTREAL, Jan. 4 (CP)—The Quebec Federation of Tenants announced Tuesday that a proposal will be made to Chief Justice Thibaudeau Rinfret of the Supreme Court of Canada for appointment of "roving commissions" to investigate the housing situation across Canada.

Premature Baby's Chances For Life Helped by Science

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE.

NEW YORK, Jan. 4 (AP) — When Susie was born, she weighed one pound, 7½ ounces. She was a seven months baby.

Now she is seven years old, and of normal size, health, weight and intelligence.

That makes her something of a medical miracle. She was the smallest successful premature baby ever cared for at the New York Hospital, one of the centres here with a special premature nursery.

Only rarely have lighter or earlier babies managed to live. The absolute medical records are hard to find. But babies born after six months, or even perhaps after 5½ months, have lived though the chances were astronomically high against them.

By premature, a doctor technically means a baby that weighs less than 5 ½pounds at birth. A nine-month baby could still be called premature.

The average unborn baby weighs about one pound four ounces at 5½ months of pregnancy. If born then, it will try to breathe but always dies within a short time, says one professor of obstetrics.

If born after six months, the average baby would weigh only about two pounds, and these are occasionally saved, he adds. After seven months, it weighs four pounds or less, and may live if properly cared for. After eight months, it weighs 5½ pounds and has a very good chance of pulling through. The average birth weight of a nine month baby is seven pounds.

25-Pound Boy

Pregnancy sometimes lasts longer than the normal 280 days and medical records cite cases of 330 to 336 days, or nearly 11 months. These postmature babies usually are heavier than average The heaviest weight reported by two authorities was 25 pounds.

Perhaps 10 per cent of infants are born prematurely, and about 30,000 dies each year in the United States. Half the deaths among babies in the first month of life occur among the prematurely born.

The premature infant's chances for life are generally better now than 20 years ago. A lot depends upon his weight, age, resistance, and how soon he gets special care.

The New York Hospital premature nursery is typical of the good care being provided in many cities. It cares for 20 to 22 prematures at a time. A baby may stay for three weeks or three months.

Babies weighing less than 3½ pounds are automatically put into an incubator with careful control over temperature, humidity, and oxygen supply. Babies weighing more than that go into an air-conditioned nursery, unless they need an incubator.

The infants are given injections of vitamin K to prevent hemorrhage. Adrenalin and caffeine are on hand for emergency use. There are special diets, precautions against spreading infections. Birth defects that would be fatal can sometimes be corrected by surgery. A baby only a day old, and weighing only a few pounds, can often stand operations surprisingly well, said Dr. Margaret Dann, associate attending pediatrician.

Good, prompt care after the birth is only part of the story. Much can be done to prevent premature birth by proper diet and pre-natal care of mothers. Researchers are seeking to learn more about preventing or handling infections during pregnancy, and how to avoid or handle complications during delivery.

IODE News

JEANETTE SCOTT CHAPTER

Members of Jeanette Scott Chapter, IODE, met Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Jack Comstock, Gordon Ave. The regent, Mrs. Harry Northrop, presided.

A letter from the board of governors of Civic Hospital acknowledged a donation of $500 to furnish a private room in the new hospital. Mrs. K. Robertson, post-war convener, reported on a recent shipment containing children's garments.

It was decided that the annual spring fashion show will be set aside for this year.

The nominating committee, composed of Mrs. F. C. Howard, Mrs. J. S. Munro and Mrs. D. W. Aiken will present a slate of officers to be elected at the annual meeting in February.

Plans are being made for a church service on February 12 to commemorate the 50th anniversary of the formation of IODE chapters.

Regular Spending Money Good for Train Children

DEAR MISS DIX: What do you think about giving children an allowance?

PARENTS.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I am strong for it. It is just as important to know how to spend money as it is to know how to make it, and the young cannot be too early instructed in this art which will affect their whole future lives.

Dorothy Dix

Half the waste and extravagance in the world is the direct result of people's never having been taught how to handle money.

One Family's Plan

I know a wise father who, it seems to me, has worked out the problem of allowances for children better than anyone else I know. Starting at 6, each of his children is given an allowance that is increased every year. This must cover certain specific things and all their little treats. Each child has it own savings bank and in this a certain percentage of the money must go as soon as it is paid the child. This is to teach it the habit of saving and that it must look out for the future.

The older children's allowance is increased to cover their clothes, and they are permitted to buy these under a certain direction from the mother, but if the fancy of one is caught by some inappropriate garment and it insists upon having it he or she is permitted to buy it, but is made to wear it, no matter how much he or she comes to hate it. Thus is inculcated a lesson in careful buying.

Ofter the children want more money than their allowance. This is never given them as a present, but they are permitted to earn it. Some task is always kept whereby the child can make money by working for it. John wants 50 cents. All right. He can sweep the sidewalk or bring in coal or scrub a floor or mend the something that is broken. Mary wants a dollar. She can wash the dishes or darn socks ar take care of the baby. Thus are the children made to realize that if you want more money you can get it by work. A salutary lesson that no youngster will ever forget.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: Why are people afraid that a divorced woman will not make a success of a second marriage? I see many married women with wonderful husbands, who give no thought to them, but take everything for granted as if marriage owed them men's affection and attentions. Yet men are afraid to marry a divorced woman. We, the divorcees, would love a good husband and show him how much we appreciate his efforts.

PUZZLED DIVORCEE.

ANSWER: There is no doubt that many a divorced woman would make a far better second wife than she ever did a first wife. As you say, most women feel as if marriage owed them a debt that their husbands cannot do enough to pay and they never marriage anything.

But most divorced women refeel that they themselves owe cognize that they were just as much to blame in their marital difficulties as their husbands were. They admit to themselves that if they had been better housekeepers, if they had dolled themselves up more and been more attractive, if they had been more interesting to talk to, if they had used more tact in dealing with their husbands, and if they had nagged less and been less selfish they could have made their marriages successes instead of failures.

The reason that people are doubtful of a divorcee making a good wife is for the same reason they are doubtful of any one succeeding who has been a failure. After all, men are like sheep so far as women are concerned, and they like some man's O.K. on a woman before they marry her.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a boy of 18 and do not go out with girls because my hearing is somewhat impaired. My friends tell me this will not make any difference if the girls are nice.

ALBERT.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Take your friends' advice and go about with the girls. Don't let your misfortune make you sensitive and turn you into a recluse. If you have difficulty in following a conversation, why do you not get one of the many artificial aids to hearing that help so much? There is no more reason why one should be ashamed of using one than why a lame man should be ashamed of using a cane.

McKENNEY Answers Your CANASTA Questions

Over 20 years ago, when I first started to write about bridge each community had its own variations on rules. Soon the bridge players of the nation found it desirable to adopt standard rules, and now the experts on Canasta are working along the same lines

The other day I met with John R. Crawford of Philadelphia, Pa., the outsanding Canasta player, whom I interview each week, and Oswald Jacoby, the recognized authority on the laws of Canasta. We discussed some of the most controversial problems that have come up in the game, and I plant to give you their interpretation of the laws on these points in this and succeeding articles.

Question: The other night we were playing two-handed Canasta (in which a player must have two canasta). My opponent had one canasta down on the table, also a number of melds. He had nine cards left in his hand, 3 kings, 3 queens and 3 jacks. He put them all down on the table and said, "I am out." I saw that he had only one canasta. We did not know what to do.

Answer: There are no penalty cards in two-handed canasta, for the reason that in showing your hand to your opponent, you do him no damage, but rather, you harm your own cause. Therefore, the player may pick up any or all of the 9 cards he laid down on that particular play. He may meld any of them or none of them, and make him discard. Some clubs do enforce the penalty law in two-handed canasta.

Question: I read in one of your articles that if I discard a card that can be added to an opponent's canasta, he has the right to pick it up and play it on his canasta if the pack is not frozen. I have been told that this rule is wrong or has been changed; that if I discard a card that hits my opponent's canasta, he cannot take the discard pile, that such a discard acts the same as a black trey. What is the situation here?

Answer: This misapprehension exists in many parts of the country, but it is wrong. If the top card of the discard pile hits your canasta, you have the right to pick up the pack and play the top card on your canasta, if the pack is not frozen. Some writers have said this could not be done, but this has been corrected

Probably the real reason that the misinterpretation gained a foothold is the opinion that a player should not meld more than 7 cards of a canasta unless he wants to go out. He should retain in his hand any additional cards matching the canasta, because they are practically as good as black treys to throw on top of the discard pile.

This is not because of any rule, but because if you have melded a canasta of six or seven five-spots, let us say, and you have an extra five-spot in your hand, you may discard it with little fear that your opponent will be able to pick up the pack.

Mr. Jacoby and Mr. Crawford pointed out that if you could not take a discard that hits your canasta, it would reduce the excitement of the game and your opportunity to get a pack to which you are entitled.

I am pleased to announce that Oswald Jacoby has accepted the suggestion of John R. Crawford and myself that a national laws commission for Canasta be formed. The commission consist of the following: Messrs. Oswald Jacoby chairman; William E. McKenney, John R. Crawford, Walter L. Richard, Charles H. Goren, Albert H. Morehead, Theodore Lightner Robert Lee Johnson (California) and Mrs. Ottilie Reilly.

At our last session I discussed with John R. Crawford of Philadelphia, with whom I confer each week before writing my columns on Canasta, the fact that you can legally talk across the table during the game. Do not misunderstand me—I do not mean that it can be done at any time during the game.

But you are allowed to ask your partner the question, "May I go out?" and your partner may answer yes or no. In order to get the benefit of this little conversation that is allowed in Canasta, you should understand when to ask your partner this qeustion and what his reply indicates.

When your partner asks you for permission to go out, do not say no unless you have a very definite reason for saying no. Suppose that you have in your hand 3 queens and 3 nines. It is true that if you can meld them you will gain 60 points; while if you get caught with them they will count 60 against you. That makes a difference of 120 points; but that is not a good enough reason for refusing to allow your partner to go out.

Always bear in mind that when your partner asks if he may go out he feels that it is best for your side that he should do so. His only reason for asking you for permission is to find out if by any chance you will gain more points by waiting a round or two.

Here is another situation You have 3, 4 or 5 cards in your hand. Your partner has just picked up the pack and has 18 or more cards in his hand. You know that if you ask your partner at this time for permission to go out he will say no; but do not let that disturb you. By asking the question you inform your partner that you are embarrassed for a discard. You literally say to him, "Partner, I want you to meld all the cards you possibly can because the next time it gets around to me I want to go out."

Following are a few basic points to remember in regard to asking for permission to go out:

1. You generally should ask your partner if you may go out, because Canasta is a partnership game.

2. If you can complete a canasta, that generally releases you from the obligation to ask for permission to go out.

3. If you ask your partner if you may go out, and he says no try to keep yourself in an outposition so that you may ask him again on the next round and on each succeeding round.

4. Your partner may refuse you permission to go out because he thinks he may be able to get the pack at his next turn to play. Maybe he will get the pack, or maybe the opponent will be able to make a safe discard. In either case, at your next turn to play, ask him again for permission to go out.

5. The most important point to remember is that if you can see no other course for your side, simply go out without asking your partner for permission. Do not place the burden of responsibility on him in such circumstances.

6—In Memoriams

DELAHEY—In loving memory of a dear father, Frederick Delahey, who passed away January 4, 1946.

Gone is the face we loved so dear,
Silent is the voice we loved to hear,
Too far away for sight or speech,
But not too far for thought to reach.
Sweet to remember him who once was here,
And who though absent is just as dear.
—Sadly missed by Helen and Wally.

DELAHEY—In loving memory of Frederick J. Delahey, who passed away January 4, 1946.

Dear eyes have passed dear father,
Since you were called away;
How well we do remember
That sad and weary day;
You suffered much, you murmured not,
We watched you day by day,
We prayed that your dear life
Would not be taken away.
—Ever remembered by Harold, Viola and family.

STEWART—In loving memory of William H. Stewart, Keene, who died January 5, 1945.

Gone int. that light that shines so fair,
Gone from the earth of sorrows and care;
Resting those hands that toiled their best—
Gone dear dad, gone to rest.
—Sadly missed by his loving wife and family.

YOUMANS—In affectionate remembrance of mother and dad who God called home to rest January 4th 1947 and March 8, 1947.

While you, dear parents, rest and sleep
Your loving memory we'll always keep.
—Ever remembered by daughter Edith.

7—Cards of Thanks

I wish to express my sincere thanks to all kind friends and neighbours for beautiful flowers, fruit, cards, Christmas gifts, letters, also sisters, doctors and nurses of St. Joseph's Hospital, Young's Point W. A. and minister for their kindness during my recent operations.—Mrs. Albert James Rowe.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Wood, 24 Stewart Street, wish to thank the attending doctors, Rev. F. W. Craik, neighbours and friends and all those who sent cards, flowers and baskets of fruit. Also the nurses of the Peterborough Civic Hospital during Mrs Wood's stay there.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Fairbairn and family wish to take this opportunity of expressing their sincere thanks to the nursing staff of Peterborough Civic Hospital, special nurses, attending doctors, Rev. B. F. Morwood and Rev. G. H. Douglas for kindness and care extended to Mrs. Fairbairn during her recent illness. Thanks is also extended to the many friends who sent cards, gifts and flowers.

To our neighbours and friends of the Westwood community: When sadness creeps into our homes, and loneliness fills our hearts, it is then we need our friends, the most to take the place of one we have lost. Please accept our sincerest thanks for every expression of sympathy in our loss. Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Morris.

Author, Teacher F. J. A. Morris Pt. Hope Funeral

Memorial service for Francis J. A. Morris, Peterborough naturalist and author, and retired English master of the Collegiate Institute, were held in Peterborough on Monday. Interment took place in Port Hope later in the day, the town in which he had been resident before the Great War and in which his wife, the former Elma Walker, has her parental home.

Frank Morris was born in 1869 near the Scottish town of Crieff, in Perthshire. He removed with his family to London upon the death of his father when he was a lad of 13. His fascination in natural phenomena and flora and fauna was already developed by that time (as related in his unpublished memoir, "My Hobby Horse"), and this hobby, to become a lifelong vocation, was continued through Dulwich College and Oxford, from which he was graduated with the degree of bachelor of arts.

He came out to Canada at the age of 25, and shortly afterwards adopted the profession of teaching, at Smith Falls, Perth, Upper Canada College, Toronto, and Trinity College School, Port Hope, where he was a master for 14 years. From there he came to the Peterborough Collegiate, after post-graduate work at the University of Toronto (MA). He was successively Classics and English Master, heading the department, from 1913 to 1936 when ill health forced his retirement.

"Our Wild Orchids"

Frank Morris' chief publication and most likely to give him a lasting name was "Our Wild Orchids" published in New York in 1928. In this book his hobby and his prose style combined most felicitous. The book established him as a foremost North American orchidologist.

No collection of his verse has been printed; from time to time essays and poems from his pen have appeared in Canadian and British journals. He was a favorite lecturer locally on Dickens and Scott, and some of these lectures have been distributed in pamphlet form.

Frank Morris and his wife made their summer home for many years in Algonquin Park, but many summer months were spent in excursions on foot through marshes and rough country extending from Lake Superior to Newfoundland, where they pursued orchids, birds and rare plant life.

Apsley Young People Enjoy Skating Party

APSLEY, Jan. 4—(ENS)—A skating party at the home of Mrs. B. Wagner during the holiday was attended by 23 young people. The glow from a huge bonfire illuminated the ice which was in excellent condition.

After three hours of skating, a lunch was served by Mrs. Wagner and her daughter Joan.

Last Rites Paid Mrs. J. E. McClavey

Requiem Mass was celebrated today at 9 a.m. by the Rev. P. P. Butler at St. Peter's Cathedral for Mrs. John Edward McClavey. The Rev. Raymond Garvey recited the graveside prayers. Pall-bearers were: Vincent Hotts, Robert Doris, Stewart Ferguson, George Noftall, Roland Craig and D'Arcy Whaley. Burial was in St. Peter's cemetery.

Leaders' Ideas Differ On Peace Promotion Plans

By The Associated Press

Chiang Kai-shek believes a Pacific pact is imperative to promote the cause of peace in 1950 Marshal Tito says aggressors must be shown they can't win. Two United Nations leaders say atomic agreements should be this year's first objectives.

These are among the highlights of answers received by The Associated Press in a symposium of the following questions:

1. Understanding. What in your opinion constitutes the chief gain or loss for the cause of better world understanding in 1949

2. Peace. What do you believe would contribute most to world peace and security in 1950

3. Recovery: What would contribute most to world economic recovery and stability

Several answering the questions expressed the view that President Truman's plan to help underdeveloped areas would be an important factor toward world economic stability.

Tito, Yugoslav Premier who has become one of Moscow's chief targets, sent a one-sentence response:

"The peace of the world can be preserved only if all peace-loving powers make it clear to all would-be aggressors that they count on no better fate than that of the aggressors of the Second World War."

Racial Equality

Chiang Kai-shek, leader of the Chinese Nationalists, said: "World peace and security should be based upon freedom for mankind, racial equality, freedom from discrimination and freedom from aggression. Thus, it is imperative to conclude immediately a Pacific pact similar to the Atlantic pact. Only by doing so can the spread of world domination instigated by the Communist International be called to a halt."

Two UN leaders — Brig.-Gen. Carlos P. Romulo and Trygve Lie —declared that progress toward agreements in the field of atomic energy would be the most important contributions 1950 could bring to peace.

Romulo, president of the UN Assembly, added:

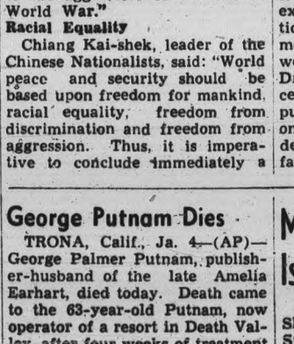
"The implements of President Truman's point four (help for underdeveloped areas) and the United Nations Technical Assistance program would contribute most to world economic recovery and stability."

A similar recommendation, along broader lines, came from Lie, UN secretary-general. He called for full participation by all nations in the United Nations Technical Assistance scheme and its gradual expansion.

Must Support UN

A former president of the UN Assembly, Herbert V. Evatt of Australia, said regional defensive and economic arrangements could often be of great importance—but that the primary hope of all peoples lay in support of the UN.

In Germany, John J. McCloy, United States high commissioner, saw a loss through Communist expansion, but a gain inn Atlantic pact unity. He called for removal of the Iron Curtains of the world and liberalization of trade. Dr. Franz Bluecker, vice-chancellor of the West German Republic, said firm relations among currencies of the western democracies could be a major factor in economic stability.



Commerce Degree Dropped At Aberdeen

ABERDEEN, Scotland, Jan. 4.—(CP).—Because British industry prefers "sloggers" to "fliers," Aberdeen University is doing away with its bachelor of commerce degree.

Principal Thomas Taylor told the university's general council the large business concerns don't want the "fliers," the men with commercial degrees and diplomas.

"They want men with a broad general education who are prepared to put their backs into it," he said.

"We in the north have not begun to realize the openings that exist in the business world, particularly in England . . . for the good pack horses that can slog along and take the burden of the day."

George Putnam Dies

TRONA, Calif., Ja. 4—(AP)—George Palmer Putnam, publisher-husband of the late Amelia Earhart, died today. Death came to the 63-year-old Putnam, now operator of a resort in Death Valley, after four weeks of treatment for urenic poisoning and internal haemorrhages. Miss Earhart, who vanished on a Pacific flight in 1937, was the second of his four wives.

JOHN McKEOWN

BONARLAW, Jan. 4. (ENS) — In the death of John McKeown early Monday morning in the Bellville General Hospital, Rawdon Township has lost one of its most respected citizens. He was in his 73rd year.

Born on the farm which he has occupied all his life, he was known as a successful farmer and took a deep interest in all the activities of the community. His parents were the late Thos. McKeown and Catherine Reid.

He was a member of St. Mark's Anglican Church where he taught Sunday School for a number of years. He was a member of Springbrook Oddfellows Lodge No. 429 and a past president of the Maple Leaf Cheese Co.

Surviving are his widow, the former Mrs. W. A. Bateman, whose maiden name was Florence Rupert, four sons, Cyril of Consecon; Kenneth of Bath; Ralph of Blind River, and Garland of Ottawa; also one daughter Mrs. Williard McDonald (Marion) of Windsor and one adopted daughter Mrs. Florence MacDonald of Saskatoon, Sask.

Mr. McKeown has been suffering for some time from anemia but his condition was not considered serious until he was admitted to hospital Saturday. His death came as a great shock to the entire community.

$500,000 Freight Shed Now At Standstill

LONDON, Ont., Jan. 4 (CP)—Construction of the new $500,000 freight shed by Canadian National Railways at Point Edward is at a standstill due to the shortage of structural steel, John A. Murphy, London superintendent said today.

The structure will replace one destroyed by fire in 1945 when the lake steamer Hamonic burned at its berth.

"We are not calling for tenders to start construction of the freight shed until we have all the necessary steel," Mr. Murphy stated. "As yet we have been unable to have our order filled."

Jailed For Week After Conviction Of Drunk Driving

Two men were sentenced to seven days in jail Tuesday when convicted of drunk driving by Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, in police court.

Charges of careless driving and having liquor in a place other than his residence against one of the convicted, Jack Metcalfe, Norwood, were dismissed when the Crown offered no evidence.

William Martin, 24, 202½ Charlotte St., pleaded guilty to a charge of drunk driving. He said the road was very slippery. Sergeant Leo Murphy told the court Martin had run into the curb on Charlotte St. near George St. damaging a front wheel on his car. He said Martin was unsteady on his feet and smelled strongly of alcohol.

Testifying against Metcalfe, provincial constable Arthur A. Kellogg said he first noticed him driving north on Highway 45 into Norwood. He said the car swung into the east ditch and then back again. Constable Kellogg followed and saw Metcalfe go over a hill on the east side of the highway, narrowly missing a collision with a car coming in the opposite direction.

The constable drove his cruiser alongside Metcalfe's which was travelling about 25 to 30 miles an hour and turned on his siren. He said Metcalfe continued driving a distance of 400 yards along the highway before he came to a stop.

Constable Kellogg testified Metcalfe's speech had been very thick and he smelt strongly of alcohol. He had been unable to walk the white centre line painted in the highway.

Defending counsel W. J. Arthur Fair, K.C., objected strongly to the fact that the drunk driving charge had been laid Jan. 3, although Metcalfe had been arraigned more than once since the incident, on charges of careless driving and having liquor in a place other than his residence.

He said the only reason the charge had not been laid previously was that there was some doubt in constable Kellogg's mind. Magistrate Philp commented that the court could come to no conclusion about why the charge had not been laid until Tuesday.

W. H. Leahey, 161 Clifton St., pleaded guilty to a charge of careless driving and was fined $10 and costs.

Dr. John Norvak Dies At His Buffalo Home

APSLEY, Jan. 4 (ENS)—Word was received of the sudden death Monday of Dr. John Norvak, ear, eye, nose and throat specialist, at his home in Buffalo, N.Y.

Dr. Norvak owned a summer home at Jack Lake and had been well known in the vicinity for a number of years. He made several visits yearly to his Jack Lake home. His last visit was for the deer hunting season. Dr. and Mrs. Norvak spent the hunting season with Herb Lean.

The doctor leaves his wife and family in Buffalo.

For Quick Cough Relief, Mix This Syrup, at Home

You'll be surprised how quickly a bad winter cough can be relieved, when you try this well known recipe. It is universally used throughout Canada because it gives such gratifying results. It's no trouble at all to mix, and costs but a trifle.

Into a 16 ounce bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then fill up with granulated sugar syrup to make 16 ounces. Syrup is easily made with 2 cups of sugar and 1 cup of water, stirred a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup. This makes four times as much cough medicine for your money. Never spoils and tastes fine.

Quickly you feel its penetrating effect. It loosens the phlegm, helps to clear the air passages, and soothes the irritated membranes. This explains why it brings such quick relief.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for its soothing effect on throat irritations. Money refunded if it does not please you in every way.

Pinex Is Dependable!

61.5 Percent Use Vote In Municipal Election

LINDSAY, Jan. 4 — Highest percentage of the electorate to record their votes in Lindsay municipal elections for many years went to the polls Monday. There was a 61.5 per cent turnout of eligible voters and 3,459 people cast votes in the mayoralty contest.

Last year there was a 58.9 per cent turnout with 3,125 voting for mayoralty candidates.

Funeral Service Held For Patrick Duffy

DOWNEYVILLE, Jan. 4 (ENS) —The funeral of the late Patrick Duffy was held from his late residence in the village to St. Luke's Church, Downeyville, where requiem high mass was said by the Rev. Father McFadden, who also said the prayers at the grave. The funeral was largely attended despite the icy condition of the roads and rainy weather on Monday morning at 10 o'clock. The large numbers who called at the house testified to the high esteem in which Mr. Duffy was held in the parish and community.

Pall-bearers were five nephews Stamz Shine, Parnell O'Neill, Joseph Duffy of Downeyville, William Blake of Detroit, Mich., Leo Shine of Peterborough, and Sydney Palmer of Toronto.

Patrick Duffy was born here 79 years ago, son of the late Patrick Duffy and his wife Catherine Begley, and lived all his life in this locality. He was a farmer, and 10 years ago sold his farm and moved to the village, where he resided until his death. Although not in the best of health for the past three years he was up and around all the time, and his sudden death came as a shock to his friends and neighbors. He died in his sleep of a heart attack.

His wife, the former Julia Collahan, survives, also one sister, Mrs. Parnell Blake of Detroit, Mich.; three brothers Daniel of Dakota, Leonard of Peterborough and John of Downeyville.

Ex-Havelock Man Drops Dead At Home

HAVELOCK, Jan. 4 (ENS).—Percy Burrel Dobson, 35, of Pontiac, Mich., a former Havelock boy, was found dead recently at his late home in that city. His death was caused by coronary thrombosis.

Born in Havelock, Mr. Dobson was a son of Mrs. Rhoe Dobson and the late William H. Dobson He graduated from High School and Western University, London, Ontario. He was a veteran of World War II, having served in the Aleutian Islands with the Sea Bees, and had been a resident of Pontiac for 12 years, where he was associated with the John Kinzler Real Estate Co. He was a member of the American Legion, Chief Pontiac Post No. 337, Moose Lodge, and Royal Neighbors of America.

Surviving besides has mother are his widow, formerly Nadine Dupont of Los Angeles, a son William H. Dobson of Philadelphia, three sisters Mrs. Alice Beddard, Mrs. Josephine Althouse of Pontiac, Mrs. Olive Cameron, New Rochelle, NY, three brothers William L. Dobson, John L. Dobson of Pontiac, and Glenn Dobson of Thamesville, Ontario.

Mr. Dobson was a grandson of Mrs. John Post and a nephew of Mr. D. O. Post of town. The latter attended the funeral in Pontiac.

Popular Miner Bows Out Of Westminster

LONDON, Jan. 4 — (CP) — John James Lawson, who once called himself a "kind of nobody's dog," bows out of Westminster this month with the best wishes of all parties.

There is no need now for self-disparagement. As far as personal popularity is concerned, nobody stand higher in the House of Commons than the 68-year old Durham miner who grew up "12 in a kitchen" and sold his cottage home to acquire the education that led so surprisingly to politics.

For 30 consercutive years Lawson has been Labor Member for Durham constituency of Chester-Le-Street.

The short, shrewed, grey-haired, man who became a pitboy at the age of 12, gives up his parliamentary seat to become vice-chairman of Britain's National Parks Commission under parliamentary law, those who hold offices of profit under the crown, must relinquish seats.

Otherwise, the new £1,000 ($3,100)-a-year post will mean little to Lawson. He will continue to live in his modest terrace house in Beamish, Durham, and his political motives will be the same.

Pay Tribute.

Word that Lawson was leaving the Commons brought these typical newspaper tributes.

Yorkshire Post, Conservative, "he is an extraordinary ordinary man, unpretentious and with a profound belief in the goodness of people he has represented."

Financial Times, Conservative "Like most miners, Lawson is possessed of courtesy dignity and kindliness . . . he is one of the best-liked members."

Manchester Guardian, Liberal: "He has been one of the best of Durham miner members, which is saying much for they have invariably been men of fine character.

Lawson thus has moved a long way from lean days in the Durham mines and the experiences which produced this boyhood self-portraint in one of the several books he has written.

The "nobody's dog" sold his home in 1905, went to Ruskin College and 15 years later was elected to parliament. He became War Minister late in the Second World War but had to quit the job becaues of illness.

600 Men At Packers Laid Off In Winnipeg

WINNIPEG, Jan. 4 (CP) — G. Stapleton, field representative for the United Packinghouse Workers (CIO), said Tuesday that about 600 packinghouse workers in the Greater Winnipeg area will be laid off this week and additional layoffs may follow.

He said the layoffs would involve: Canada Packers Ltd., 250; Burns and Company Ltd., 200; Swift Canadian Company Ltd., 75; Western Packers Company Ltd., 50; and the remainder in independent plants.

Company officials said the layoffs are largely seasonal but have been aggravated by blizzard conditions which have blocked country roads and halted deliveries to plants.

GIFTS AND GOOD WISHES went to Major Harry K. Major and Mrs. H. K. Clifton Honored Prior To Departure

Major Harry K. Clifton, MC, Medaille Militaire, and Mrs. Clifton were honored at a gathering on Tuesday evening prior to his departure from the city for Belleville. Although Major Clifton was promoted to electrical inspection superintendent of the eastern central region of the Ontario Hydro Commision more than a year ago, he was unable to move to his district headquarters due to housing difficulties.

Until his appointment he was area inspector in the Peterborough district and came here in 1920 following service with the 3rd Battalion in the First World War where he rose from the ranks to a majority. He served in the Veterans' Guard in Canada during the Second World War, chiefly at prisoners of war camps.

Married to Edna Allin of Peterborough, they have three children. Miss Catherine Clifton is in training in a Kingston hospital, Robert is with the Hydro Commission in St. Catharines and Terry attends school at PCVS. The family are members of Trinity United Church.

Donald Lamb acted as master of ceremonies at the gathering at which there were many electrical dealers, inspectors and contractors. Donald Loucks presented Major Clifton with a chair and table lighter and Mrs. Clifton with a coffee table.

Percy Stinson Distinguished Public Servant

The death of Percy Stinson, CNR agent at Millbrook, in a local hospital Monday will be deepy felt by all his friends in this district, particularly in the united counties of Northumberland and Durham of which he was Warden in 1935.

Mr. Stinson was seriously ill three weeks of a recurrent heart condition with which he was first stricken at a time of political opportunity in Durham county, preventing him from accepting then a Conservative nomination for which long experience in public service had notably equipped him. He had slowly recovered from that attack, and continued his usefulness not only as the representative of the CNR in Millbrook but also in municipal office.

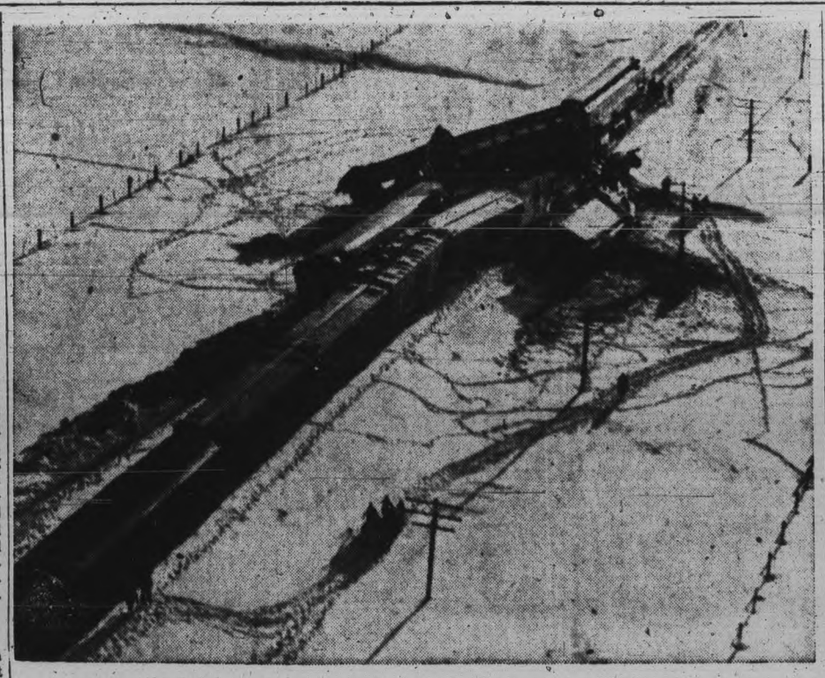
Born at Janetville

Francis Percy Stinson was born at Janetville, and was in his 61st year. He was CNR agent at Millbrook since 1915, following similar engagement first at Powasson and later at Keene. He was elected to the council of Millbrook in 1920, continuing for 17 years. He was reeve from 1930 to 1937, and in that office he was also a member of the council of the united counties of Northumberland and Durham during that period, attaining the wardenship in 1935.

Mr. Stinson followed in the reeveship the late Wm. C. Wood a retired banker at Millbrook, whom he used to regard as his municipal mentor when he first took up municipal work. One effect of that friendly relationship was the thorough grounding Mr. Stinson received in municipal finance. He had outstanding ability in his own right, was one of the most capable chairmen of the finance committee of the counties council, and a most successful Warden.

Offered Convention

His connection with the counties council extended his friendships and his reputation throughout Northumberland and Durham and particularly in his own county. Because of that enlarged recognition of his attractive personality and recognized abilities, he was nominated at a Conservative meeting at Orono at a culminating point in his life. His uncertain health forced him to decline it. His friends believed that his election was a certainty, and that the career he began in Millbrook council would have taken him to Ottawa.



After his service in the municipal council, Mr. Stinson was elected to the board of education of which he was chairman for years, and remained a trustee until his death. He had also been chairman of the old age pensions and mothers' allowance board of the united counties.

Member of United Church

A prominent churchman, Mr. Stinson was elder and also a member of the Board of Stewards of St. Andrew's United Church in Millbrook. He was a member of the IOOF, Lions Club, Royal Black Knights Preceptory LOL and a director of the Millbrook and Cavan Agricultural Society.

He leaves his wife, the former Alda Howman whom he met at Powasson where he was stationed only three weeks, one daughter, Mrs. Ken. Cooper, Jean, of Cobourg; and three sons, John of Ottawa, Edward of London Ont., and Conrad of Cobourg.

The body is resting at the funeral residence of G. T. MacPherson, King St., Millbrook until Thursday, Jan. 5 at noon. The service will be conducted by Rev. T. G. Husser at 2 p.m at St. Andrew's United Church. Burial will be at Gardiner's Cemetery, Cavan township.

ALBERTA TRAIN CRASH — Rescue workers tramped weird patterns in the deep snow which almost isolated the wreck of two Canadian Pacific Railway trains at remote Southesk, Alta., 95 miles southeast of Calgary. At the right of the tracks is the overturned locomotive of an eastbound baggage express which sideswiped a westbound passenger train, killing one man and injuring more than 60. Also in the pile-up are two derailed day coaches of the passenger train.

Farmer's Wife Hurt On Road After Market

BETHANY, Jan. 4—(ENS)—Mrs. George Chapman received concussion, cuts and multiple brusises Saturday night, when the station wagon her husband was driving to Bethany from Peterborough went into a ditch, careened through a fence and landed alongside the CPR track.

Icy condition of Highway 7A east of Bethany resulted in Mr. Chapman losing control of the vehicle, which was wrecked.

Mr. and Mrs. Chapman had been on their usual Saturday visit to Peterborough to sell their farm produce at the market.

Dr. G. M. Longfield attended Mrs. Chapman, who is reported to be resting comfortably at home. Mr. Chapman was uninjured.

The impact of the vehicle on the railway bent the track.

Toronto Group Tries Unseat Communist Trustee On Board Of Education

Two On Anti-Red Committee Challenge Mrs. Ryerson's Position On Technicality Her Husband Teacher

TORONTO, Jan. 5—(CP)—A move to unseat Communist school trustee Mrs. Edna Ryerson on a technicality was disclosed today. Two members of an organization called the Anti-Communist Committee have challenged Mrs. Ryerson's right to sign her declaration of office at tomorrow's inaugural on the grounds her husband is a school teacher at Parkdale Collegiate. The declaration states that an elected trustee has "not by myself or partner, either directly or indirectly, any interest in any contract with or on behalf of the Board."

George Ewing, organizing secretary of the A.C.C. said Mrs. Ryerson, first elected in 1945, had not been challenged in previous years because she, apparently, had earned her own living. Now she is listed as housewife and dependent on her husband.

Dr. J. P. F. Williams, former chairman of the Board of Education and now president of the Anti-Communist Committee, said because her husband is under the jurisdiction of the board, Mrs. Ryerson should not be permitted to discuss matters which "might possibly benefit him."

Trying For Years

Mrs. Ryerson, who said she had been a member of the Labor-Progressive Party since 1943, commented:

"They have been trying this sort of thing for years. Whether I am a housewife or journalist, or my husband is a school teacher has nothing to do with my being a member of the Board of Education.

"I have been on the board for five years and these things have not been brought up before. Why should they be brought up now?"

Mrs. Ryerson, who was born in Penetanguishene, said that the election campaign waged by persons who opposed her in Ward 5 only served to bring her more votes.

Secret Talk Held Tonight On Election Date

LONDON, Jan. 5 — (Reuters) —Prime Minister Attlee and Herbert S. Morrison, Deputy Prime Minister, will hald a secret talk tonight on the date of Britain's general election — February or June — usually well-informed quarters indicated.

Political sources think that the Prime Minister may make up his mind within the next week or so on the election date, which many, without any official encouragement, believe will be late next month.

Labor's chief election tactician, Morrison, spent Christmas with another key figure of the party, Maurice Webb, chairman of the Parliamentary Labor Party.

Economic Improvement

Government opponents think that the case for a February election is strengthened by Sir Stafford Cripps' announcement yesterday that the sterling area dollar-gap has been considerably reduced within the last three months.

They believe Labor will consider this economic improvement even if temporary, as providing a favorable atmosphere for an election.

Labor supporters reject this reasoning, some predicting that if the government runs its full course until summer it will be able to show a greater measure of economic recovery.

Opposition quarters say that local labor organizations now are booking halls in various parts of the country for dates in the next two months and consider this a pointer to an election probably February 23.

Ex-Police Chief Pleads Innocent

WHITBY, Jan. 5—(CP)—Provincial Constable Harold Quantrill, formerly police chief of Whitby for nine years and a policeman for 22 years, pleaded innocent Wednesday to charges of careless driving and failing to remain at the scene of an accident.

Quantrill, under suspension from the Ontario Provincial Police pending the outcome of the trial, allegedly sideswiped an automobile owned by Harold Hopkins of Whitby, causing $48 damage to the Hopkins vehicle. Magistrate Frank Ebbs reserved judgment to Jan. 10.

When approached by police, Quantrill denied knowledge of any accident but assumed responsibility for damages on viewing the scene of the mishap. He admitted having two drinks of rye whisky prior to driving.

New Union Threatens National Phone Strike

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5—(AP) — A country-wide telephone strike in the United States is planned by a newly-chartered CIO union for early next month.

The CIO's Communications Workers of America said it will call the walkout unless the Bell Telephone system yields to demands for a "substantial" wage increase, shorter apprentice periods, and a 35-hour week.

A. T. Jones, CWA's vice-president, said 100,000 workers are in a position to strike at any time now. Another wave of 150,000 workers, he said, will be ready to quit their jobs by the end of February.

A Busy Place

DURHAM, Ont., Jan. 5—(CP)—Two sets of twins—1949 boys and 1950 girls—were born at Memorial Hospital within three days. Mrs. Charles Buckner, of Durham, gave birth to sons Dec. 31. Twin daughters were born to Mr. and Mrs. Robert McIntyre of nearby Princeville, Jan. 2. In both cases the twins were the first births in the family.

Farmers Want To Organize Buyers' Strike

WALKERTON, Jan. 5 (CP)—A "buyers' strike" on the purchase of new equipment until the Dominion government establishes parity in agricultural prices was urged Wednesday by some 2,000 farmers who signed a petition at a mass meeting in this Bruce County town.

An estimated 3,000 men from Bruce, Grey and Huron County attended the meeting which overflowed from the town hall into the rain outside, and to the arena. It was sponsored by the Federation of Agriculture.

Other approved resolutions asked: (1) Floor prices for some commodities: bacon, 30 cents a pound at the packing plant, butter, 58 cents a pound; cheese, 30 cents a pound; eggs, pegged at the previous contract price.

(2) Continuance after July 1 of government support prices on all farm commodities.

(3) That the Ontario Hog Producers' Association set up a central selling agency.

"I think a boycott would educate them in a way they would understand," said another voice.

George Johnston, of Owen Sound, zone director of the Ontario Hog Producers' Association warned, "it is not our purpose to pull the other fellow down, but to pull ourselves up."

W. L. Bishop of Norwich, a director of the Ontario Hog Producers' Association, criticized the stand of the packing industry in connection with negotiations on the bacon price.

May Find Substitute

"If the packing industry in Ontario is not willing to play ball with the farmer, we must decide whether we will embark on our own co-operative enterprises to take their place," he said.

The resolution on floor prices for bacon, butter, cheese and eggs said that, in view of wartime controls and a government pledge that agriculture would be given adequate peacetime protection, farmers could not accept present prices.

The resolution was moved by George Bothwell of Owen Sound, and seconded by Cecil Daley, of Debbington.

An exchange of letters between Jim Powers, secretary of the Bruce Federation of Agriculture, and Agriculture Minister James Gardiner was read. In one letter, read by Mr. Jasper, Mr. Gardiner said the Bruce federation's recommendation on the bacon price was being followed.

Mr. Powers, in his reply to Mr. Gardiner asked: "Can you read?" He said the Bruce Federation had recommended a price of 30 cents at the packing plant, and not 32½ cents at seaboard.

Says Russia Trying 2nd Atomic Explosion

LONDON, Jan. 5—(AP)—The man who predicted Russia's first atomic explosion said today there will be another at midnight, Greenwich eMan Time (7 p.m., EST), Saturday.

Magazine editor Kenneth de Courcy also said there are indications that the Russians now are ahead of the United States "in some respects" in atomic development.

De Courcy told reporters he based his statement on private reports reaching him from behind the Iron Curtain. His forecast was made in a written statement to the press.

He predicted last January that the Russians would attempt an atom explosion during 1949. President Truman announced in September that they had succeeded.

Cold Strikes Second Blow At California Fruit Crop

CHICAGO, Jan. 5 — (CP) — Winter's elements dealt damaging blows over wide areas of the United States—from Southern California into Dixieland.

A blast of sub-freezing weather further endangered the multi-million dolar citrus and vegetable crops in Southern California.

In the rich Coachella Valley, the freeze of early December wiped out most of the tender vegetable crops. Tomatoes, the biggest crop left untouched by the earlier cold snap, suffered heavily Wednesday.

Scores of families were made homeless by floods in parts of Indiana, Illinois and Kentucky.

Bitter cold continued over most of the midwestern United States. The Arctic belt extended from Montana into Iowa as well as in some parts of the Rocky Mountain region.

A cold front, along with rain, sleet and some snow spread from the midwest eastward to the Appalachians. Temperatures tumbled from abnormal marks to below freezing over most of the Ohio Valley and southward to below Memphis in the Mississippi Valley.

It looked to be the end of the unseasonable mild weather for the middle and north Atlantic states. But no severe weather appeared in prospect for the Gulf states, Florida and the south Atlantic states.

Volunteer national guardsmen and the Red Cross rushed emergency aid to flooded areas in east central and southern Illinois. School in some communities were closed.

Washington and Norfolk, Va., had highs of 71. It was 67 at Philadelphia and 62.2 in New York city. Baltimore basked in a summery 70 and Huntington, W.Va., reported a record 75.

Truman Rules Hands Off China Policy

US Refuses To Give Any Aid To Chiang Fears New Revolution

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP)—President Truman today declared an American hands off policy toward the Chinese island of Formosa.

In a press conference statement he said the United States has no desire to use its armed forces there or become involved "in the civil conflict in China."

He made clear the only help Chiang Kai-shek's government in Formosa can expect from the United States is continuing economic aid.

"The United States has no desire to obtain special rights or privileges or to establish military bases on Formosa at this time. Nor does it have any intention of utilizing its armed forces to interfere in the present situation.

"The United States government will not pursue a course which will lead to involvement in the civil conflict in China.

No Military Aid

"The United States government will not provide military aid or advice to Chinese forces in Formosa. In the view of the United States government, the resources on Formosa are adequate to enable them to obtain the items which they might consider necessary for the defence of the land.

"The United States government proposes to continue under existing legislative authority the present ECA program of economic assistance."

Present United States economic aid to the Chinese on Formosa, which Truman mentioned, consists mainly of furnishing such basic materials as fertilizers to the Formosan people.

In the light of Truman's stand, about the only thing the Chinese can do if they want American arms and advice is to hire American military men on a personal basis and use their own funds to buy American arms.

Actually, State Department officials see very little chance that Chiang and his forces will be able to hold Formosa for long. They consider great the danger of an internal breakdown, opening the door to Communist conquest.

Republican senators have assailed Truman administration handling of far eastern affairs as "blundering." They have reinforced their criticism with demands for varying degrees of military force to help Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek keep the island out of Chinese Communist hands.

Would Bar Aid

Last week a meeting of the National Security Council under Truman's chairmanship was reported to have approved a policy which would bar American military aid to Chiang as things now stand.

The decision was said to have been based on several points.

One was that the joint U.S. chiefs-of-staff had ruled that Formosa, while important to American security, is not important enough to warrant using American military force to keep it out of Communist hands.

VC Winner At 18 Tommy Holmes Dies

TORONTO, Jan. 5 (CP)—Tommy Holmes, who at 18 became the youngest winner of the Victoria Cross in the First World War, died Wednesday in Sunnybrook Hospital. He was 50. He had been ill for a number of years.

A native of Owen Sound, he admitted to King George V at a Buckingham Palace investiture he had lied about his age to enter the army at 17. He suffered a tubercular infection shortly after the war.

It was in Oct. 1917 that he performed the feat which won him the Empire's highest award. He advanced ahead of his battalion, the 4th Canadian Mounted Rifles, and, armed only with two grenades, wiped out a machine gun nest and captured 12 Germans.

He is survived by a son and daughter.

HELLO, SON!—A. R. St. Louis, centre, of Ottawa, exchanges New Year's greetings with his son, Peter, 7,800 miles away on Deception Island in the Antarctic. The 26-year-old Canadian pilot, on leave from the RCAF, is preparing for a hazardous rescue flight to pick up 11 British scientists marooned on Stonington Island. With Mr. St. Louis are Lt.-Cmdr. J. M. Doull, left, an amateur radio fan whose set was used for the long-distance talk, and T. G. Holley, a friend of the St. Louis family.

Fractional Drop Noted In Index Of Living Costs

OTTAWA, Jan. 5 (CP)—Lower food prices caused a fractional drop in the cost-of-living index during November, the fourth successive month that a decline has been recorded.

The Bureau of Statistics reported Wednesday that the index dropped one-fifth of a point in November to 161.5 compared with 161.7 during October.

The bureau also said that a sharp drop in egg prices and lesser declines in meat was almost offset by a strong advance in rents.

The index still is 60.2 per cent higher than living costs in August, 1939, but is 1.3 points below the all-time high of 162.8 last July. It is calculated on the basis of 1935-39 equals 100.

Eggs lead a downward march in the food sub-index that slipped 1.4 points to 201.9. Coffee was the only food item noted by the bureau to make any considerable advance.

Home furnishings also dropped three-tenths of a point from 167.4 to 167.1.

Offset Decline

The miscellaneous section of the index exactly offset the home furnishings decline with a three-tenths of a point advance to an all-time high of 130.2. The section includes family spending for recreation, medical and personal care and transportation.

Fuel and light prices reflected the higher cost of imported U.S. coal by climbing one-tenth of a point to 135.2 and clothing prices remained unchanged at 183.7—two-fifths of a point from its September peak of 184.1.

4 Dancing Girls Pose Problem

CHICAGO, Jan. 5 (AP)—What would you do if you inherited four beautiful Egyptian dancing girls?

A married Chicago business man, who says he is in that fix, thinks he might have the answer.

"If worse comes to worse," said Christopher G. Janus, "I might bring them to Chicago to act as baby sitters."

Janus, 38, present owner of Adolf Hitler's armored car, gave this summary of his pleasant plight:

His uncle died in Egypt in 1944, leaving Janus' late mother one third of his estate. The estate included cotton plantations and, under Egyptian custom, 12 dancing girls, ranging from 16 to 22 years of age.

"My mother's share of the estate includes four of these girls, and it's a bit of a problem," said Janus.

"I don't think Mrs. Janus is very keen on the idea of bringing them over here."

Keep Four Pupils Home Quebec School Re-Opens

BRISTOL, Que., Jan. 5—(CP)—Classes resumed at Bristol's little schoolhouse today as the mother of four young girls acceded to requests that she keep them at home "for a few days" pending medical examination. Mrs. Mary Pitt, the teacher, dismissed classes Wednesday when the four girls—listed on Pontiac County medical records as once having suffered from venereal disease—returned to school after 14 months' absence.

First reports of the controversy in this village 35 miles west of Ottawa had been interpreted to mean the four sisters—ranging in age from seven to 14—suffered at one time from tuberculosis. The disease later was reported to have been syphilis.

In an interview, Mrs. Pitt said she dismissed pupils Wednesday when the girls appeared in school. She said she would do the same if they appeared for lessons today. At the suggestion of school board authorities, the mother kept the children home today.

Edward Edmonds, lay preacher at the Bristol Anglican Church, said two men were sentenced during the last two years for having carnal knowledge of the sisters. One man had died before going to jail; the other was still serving sentence. Another similar charge was pending.

Shocking Home

Mr. Edmonds said he has been trying in vain for many months to bring official attention to the plight of the four children whose family life has "shocked and appalled" him.

He said attempts are being made to reach Crown Attorney Avila Labelle in Hull, Que., to ask that action be taken against the 43-year-old mother.

(In Hull Mr. Labelle announced that the children would probably be removed today from their home and placed under the care of the province.

Passenger Ships Retired By CSL

TORONTO, Jan. 5 (CP)—Canada Steamship Lines announced Wednesday it is discontinuing its passenger service between Toronto and Montreal. Advanced age of the ships engaged in the service, and the high cost of replacing them was given as the reason for the move. Discontinuation of the service will send the 40-year-old SS Kingston into retirement along with the SS Toronto and SS Rapids Prince.

The Kingston, sister ship of the SS Toronto which was taken out of service four years ago, sailed twice weekly to Prescott, where passengers were transferred to the Rapids Prince for the remainder of the trip to Montreal.

Both ships were built in Toronto, the SS Kingston in 1901, and the SS Rapids Prince in 1910.

A company spokesman said: "The simple fact is that today's construction costs make it impossible to replace these ships and still make a profit during the very short season they can run."

Arrested At Gunpoint

TORONTO, Jan. 5 (CP)—One youth was arrested at gunpoint and two others escaped early today after they led police a 65-mile-an-hour chase through west-end streets in a stolen truck. Wallace Wilson, 18, was cornered in a lane after the truck crashed into a fence. He was charged with theft of the truck. His companions escaped.

Security Men Double Guard Against Spies At Parley

COLOMBO, Ceylon, Jan. 5 — (Reuters) — Security men here will take every precaution to foil "an interested foreign power" in its quest for confidential information of the Commonwealth Conference being held at Colombo next week, a usually reliable source said today.

The source said the foreign power was believed to have an 'agent" in Colombo who was prepared "to pay big sums for extracts from secret documents which ministers will be carrying."

Official sources here declined to comment beyond saying: "Every precaution is being taken naturally not only to protect delegates but also to prevent leakages."

Elaborate precautions have also been taken to deal with any Communist demonstrations here during the conference.

The Communist organizers of the all-Ceylon peace conference due to take place Jan. 14 and 15 are believed to have a "plan" which, according to usually reliable sources, would have "a considerable nuisance effect" if put into operation.

The Ceylon government does not propose to interfere with the Peace Conference unless the organizers defy the ban on the use of loudspeakers.

Large forces of police are being drafted into Colombo and will be kept at strategic points ready to deal with any emergency.

Most heavily-guarded Commonwealth Conference delegates will be Foreign Secretary Bevin of Britain, Prime Minister Nehru of India and Finance Minister Ghulam Mohammed of Pakistan, who is taking the place of Sir Mohammed Zafrullah Khan, Pakistan's Foreign Minister.

Will Oppose Aggression In Yugoslavia

Say Balkan Country Has Been Threatened; Policy Will Stand

LONDON, Jan. 5 (Reuters) — The United States will oppose any Russian aggression against Yugoslavia which is clearly threatened at the present time, George V. Allen, American Ambassador-designate to Yugoslavia, today told a press conference here.

Allen quoted a statement by President Truman made Dec. 22, 1948, that it was the policy of the United States to oppose aggression.

"That goes for Yugoslavia, which is clearly threatened if we are to listen not only to the words of Soviet propaganda but also to the official statements of high Soviet authorities such as Molotov," he said.

"Yugoslavia is threatened, and in that situation America's opposition to aggression is applicable. America is fully sympathetic to the efforts of Yugoslavia to maintain its independence and freedom."

Asked whether America's attitude towards Yugoslavia now was an extension of the Truman doctrine laid down in 1947, under which President Truman decided to fight Communism in Greece and Turkey, Allen said: "I don't think so."

Greek Coalition Gov't Hands In Resignation

ATHENS, Jan. 5 (AP) — Greece's coalition government, which presided over the rout of the Communist guerrilla rebellion, collapsed today in a pre-election dispute between Populist (Royalist) and Liberal cabinet ministers.

Premier Alexander Diomedes sent his cabinet resignation to King Paul.

At the same time Diomedes announced to reporters that Alexander Papagos, Greece's greatest living military hero, has resigned as command of the Greek armed forces.

There have been persistent reports that Generalissimo Papagos, leader of the final successful drive against the Communists, was about to enter the political arena and perhaps seek the premiership The 67-year-old generalissimo is the top favorite of those Greeks who are looking for a "strong man."

Gets 10 Years Aiding Convicts

KINGSTON, Jan. 5—(CP) — Harry Hancox, 21, of Toronto, Wednesday was sentenced to 10 years on a charge of armed robbery arising from an attempt to free two Portsmouth penetentiary convicts last month.

Hancox also drew concurrent sentences totailing seven years on two other charges. He got five years on a charge of intent to maim and two years for helping in the escape of the convicts.

Hancox and the convicts—Marvin Breaton and Joseph Parks—were trapped in an empty garage 30 minutes after their break for freedom Dec. 20.

4th Fire In 3 Weeks At Ottawa School

OTTAWA, Jan. 5 — (CP) — Police and fire officials today are conducting an intensive investigation into a fire Wednesday night in the Brebeuf separate school—the fourth time in less than three weeks that a fire has been discovered in the building. Police said they believed all four fires in the Anglesea Square building were set deliberately.

Separate school board officials also launched an investigation into Wednesday night's blaze and said every possible step would be taken to prevent any new attempt to "burn down the school."

A classroom, stairway and the rear wall of the school were damaged in Wednesday night's blaze. Little damage was caused by the three earlier fires, first of which occurred Dec. 14.

Will Consider Shipping To US Market

Some Officials Want Embargo Dropped Immediately on Bacon

OTTAWA, Jan. 5—(CP)—Government policy on shipment of bacon to the United States is expected to be developed within the next three days, a government trade source said Wednesday.

By that time the Trade Department likely will be in a position to consider shipment of a limited amount of bacon under export permit—if any shippers want to get into the U.S. market.

Announcement was made Tuesday that the government was prepared to issue export permits for bacon, but so far no bacon shipper has come forward to ask for a permit.

The department was glad because it will give the experts time to work out a firm policy.

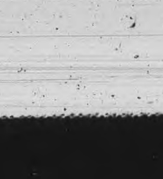
Biggest problem is whether the permit policy should cover the shipment of high-quality bacon only, or whether it should cover the entire field of pork products.

Easiest part of the job, of course, is granting permits for the shipment to other parts of the world, outside the U.S.

The U.S. problem is entangled by the fact that pork shipment embargoes have been operating in both countries since the Second World War, when Canada closed the border to provide a greater supply of bacon to fill the needs of the United Kingdom.

Lately, however, the embargo has been working for a different purpose. With large stocks of pork products on hand, the U.S. is prepared to ship pork into Canada at comparatively low prices.

The embargo against the shipments served as a price protection for the Canadian bacon industry. Nevertheless, the U.S. still was able to ship several million pounds of fat-back pork under special agreement to fill the Newfoundland market and the needs of some lumber camps in Ontario and Quebec.



Meanwhile, Canada was shipping all bacon surplus to the U.K. and sending no bacon to the U.S. Now with prices for bacon falling in Canada, there appears to be less reason why the embargo should be continued.

Some trade officials believe Canada should not wait until next July, but dispense with the embargoes now and let as much high quality bacon into the U.S. market as Canadian shippers want to send.

A U.S. agricultural official here believes there is a sound market for top quality Canadian bacon in the U.S., and he believes Canadian shippers would obtain much more than the 29 cents a pound Canada is getting from the U.K.

EYE TOPICS

LIGHT FOR LIVING

The light of many billions of lamps will illuminate the world tomorrow and will bring us entirely new concepts of lighting in homes, offices, and public places.

Most interesting of all will be the new ideas in lighting your home. It won't be a question merely of having light enough. Lighting is going to be an important part of decoration, too. The architect will use light as "material," just as he now uses wood, plastics and draperies. He will think of light not as a bright spot coming from one point in the room, but as whole surfaces glowing like the sky.

Outdoors, the light comes from all around us and gives us great beauty and color. To bring this same principle indoors will mean that we shall obtain emotional effects never before possible. Electric light used to be a soft yellow-white—that is, all colors combined into one. Tomorrow you can have strong illumination in any color you like or, in fact, in any combination of colors. The designer has had a vision of great beauty; he sees a room in the home of the future fitted with hidden lighting tubes which can be controlled from switches. By the touch of a button the whole lighting scheme of the room may be changed.

You will not enjoy the full advantage of these new miracles of indoor lighting if your eyes are not in good condition. Eyes, you see, were designed for use outdoors, in the brightest light. Our modern way of living and working that calls for so much close-seeing, can play havoc with the delicate mechanism of the eye. Then, too, all eyes become weaker with age, and if they are overworked, they break down all the sooner. Put these facts together and we find that seven people out of ten have faulty vision.

Keep Four Pupils

(He said that following representations from Bristol residents, he had communicated with the Quebec Provincial Secretary and had been assured that immediate steps would be taken.)

Mr. Edmonds said he had visited the small log cabin home of the children on two occasions and found conditions which he could describe only as "unbelievable."

Cut Off Allowance

Two months ago an investigator from Quebec City had said family allowance being drawn by the mother would be cut off because of the conditions in the home and because the children were not attending school.

Most recent medical tests indicated the children no longer suffer from the disease.

Town authorities said blood tests taken in November, 1948, showed the four sisters to be suffering from a social disease. These made in November, 1949, proved negative for each child.

Can't Force Issue

School authorities said they could only request the mother to keep the girls away from classes. They lacked authority to issue a direct order to that effect since all four now held medical certificates showing them to be fit to attend school.

The board sent the request following a meeting with a three-man delegation representing the parents of other students in the school. The delegation presented the board with a petition protesting presence of the four girls in the school and signed by about 100 ratepayers in this village of 350 persons across the Ottawa river from Renfrew.

Fourteen months ago school authorities, on the advice of health officer Dr. S. E. McDowell who examined the girls in 1948 and again last November, instructed Mrs. Pitt to keep the four girls away from class. They had not been back at school until Wednesday and during their absence they had been given medical treatment.

Mrs. Pitt said that she would go to the school today as usual and if the four girls remained away, classes would go on normally.

Last month Bristol residents, headed by Edward Edmonds, Anglican lay preacher, made formal application to the courts to have the children removed from the mother's care and placed in an institution.

New Treatment Great Success For Mental Cases

NORTH BATTLEFORD, Sask. (CP)—Another ray of hope has been cast on the steadily-brightening picture for Saskatchewan's mentally ill with the large-scale adoption of a new treatment for patients once considered incurable.

The treatment, instituted in the mental hospital here by Superintendent Dr. F. S. Lawson, has offered new hope to a group of 200 patients whom doctors had long ago believed to be so seriously maladjusted they could never be expected again to take up the job of living.

Basically, the treatment consisted of choosing 130 of the less serious cases and distributing them among several other wards throughout the hospital.

This was done to separate the patients from those either as ill as, or worse than themselves.

Nearly all of the original 130 have been absorbed among the healthier and more stable occupants of the hospital. Several among the group, once considered incapable of any response, have been released and allowed to return to their places in society.

Interests Stimulated

Results were just as gratifying among the remaining 70 patients. They were moved to better wards and placed under the special care of an expert team of psychiatrists and psychiatric aides. Every effort was made to stimulate their interest in crafts, trades or the pursuit of knowledge.

Almost without exception the group responded to the program of intensive supervision and direction. Two have been released. Marked improvement has been noted in the others to the extent they are able once again to show interest in the community and social life of the institution.

Mental hospitals here and at Weyburn now house 4,600 patients.

Dr. Donald G. McKerracher, 40-year-old Ontario-born psychiatrist, came here in 1946 as commissioner of Saskatchewan's mental service.

He faced the problems of training staff, keeping abreast of changing techniques and combatting the pall of ignorance and fear with which the general public has surrounded mental institutions.

Public Misinformed

He has been successful in meeting every challenge but the last. For the public still regards a mental institution as some limbo to which the insane are committed when society has given up all hope of ever knowing them again.

"Actually, nothing could be further from the truth," says Dr. McKerracher. "A person first goes to a mental hospital because he is either too confused, frightened or depressed to adapt himself to our society."

Give these people homes away from home where they can feel secure from the pace of civilization and they have a better than 75 per cent chance of being able to return to their old lives before long, Dr. McKerracher says.

"The whole job is to provide for a patient an environment free from fear or worry, and to rekindle the spark of hope that is in all of them."

Estimate Reds Able For A-War In Year

LONDON, Jan. 5 —(AP)—The Atomic Scientific Association of Britain predicted today Russia will have enough A-bombs within a year or two to fight an atomic war.

"Hence in a war in which atom bombs are used at all, they will be used by both sides," the group said in its monthly bulletin.

"The resulting havoc, particularly in a densely-populated area such as Western Europe, will in all probability entail a complete collapse of civilization in this area."

The bulletin said this threat "serves to focus attention on the real problem," which it defined as follows:

"We must find some means of preventing recourse to war as a method of settling international disputes. Mankind must learn to submit itself to the rule of law in international affairs or our civilization will perish."

LONG TRIP HOME—Mrs. David Brown, in New York, holds a picture of her son, Ira, third engineer aboard the Shanghai-bound freighter, Flying Arrow, now in Hong Kong. Mrs. Brown also holds a cable from her son, in which he requested enough money for passage from Hong Kong home. She said he wanted to leave the ship before it reached the mined waters around Shanghai. The State Department is aiding all crewmen of the vessel who want to return home.

Will Ratify UEW Suspension

OTTAWA, Jan. 5 (CP)—Suspension of the left-wing United Electrical Workers Union likely will be ratified by the Canadian Congress of Labor's national council at a meeting here Jan. 19.

The union, at odds with the Congress leadership for a long time over its leftist policies, was suspended from the CCL late last year on the basis of a mail vote of the council members. Immediate reason given was non-payment of dues.

The council, comprising heads of major CCL unions, will be called on to ratify the action at its regular sitting this month and is virtually certain to do so. It was not known here if the UEW planned an appeal from the suspension.

In Toronto C. S. Jackson, head of the UEW in Canada, said the union plans an appeal. It will ask that the appeal be considered at the Ottawa meeting.

Industrials Climbing Onto Higher Ground

TORONTO, Jan. 5 (CP)—Industrials climbed into new high ground for the second successive session in early trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange today.

Prices climbed strongly Wednesday on gains ranging up to more than $1 but today's advances were held to small amounts. The advance was enough to carry the group to a record high level as measured by the exchange's index of 20 representative stocks—first compiled in 1934.

The break-through into new high ground followed an almost uninterrupted advance in prices that began in mid-June, 1949.

Utility and steel stocks were leaders in today's market and paper issues were mixed following a strong advance Wednesday. Golds, base metals and western oil stocks gained slowly.

Toronto Livestock

TORONTO, Jan. 5 (CP)—Cattle moved slowly at slightly easier prices at the Toronto livestock market this morning. Receipts reported by the Dominion Marketing Service were: Cattle, 90; calves, 10; hogs, 100; sheep and lambs, none. Left from Wednesday were 400 cattle.

Medium quality light steers $19-$20.25; medium to good heifers $18.75-$20.75; good cows $16-$15.50; good export bulls $16-18.25

Calves steady at $27-$29 for choice vealers.

Hog prices not established Previous close $25.50 for grade A and $15 for dressed sows.

No offerings of sheep or lambs.

Crops Disappointing

OTTAWA, Jan. 5—(CP)—First estimate of production of principal vegetable crops for 1949 show it was a disappointing year compared with 1948. The Bureau of Statistics, reported Wednesday that of the 14 major crops in Canada, only five—asparagus, beets, celery, corn and lettuce—showed improvement. Production of other vegetables, particularly cabbage, onions, peas and tomatoes, did not come up to expectations.

Makes Innocent Plea In Mercy Killing

MANCHESTER, N.H., Jan. 5—(AP)—Dr. Hermann N. Sander today pleaded innocent in a loud voice to an indictment charging first degree murder in the so-called mercy slaying of an incurable cancer patient.

The state agreed to his freedom pending trial under a continuance of his $25,000 bond with the stipulation that he refrain from medical practice until disposition of the case.

Dr. Sander's lawyer, Louis E. Wyman, said the stipulation about refraining from practice was over the protest of defence counsel because of the presumption of innocence at this time.

Dr. Sander stood erect and showed no emotion while court clerk Arthur S. Healy read the indictment charging the country doctor:

"Feloniously, wilfully and of his malice aforethought did inject 10 cubic centimetres of air four times in close succession into the veins of Mrs. Abbie Borroto, 33," his cancer patient.

Chinese Ambassador Requested To Call

LONDON, Jan. 5 (Reuters) — The Chinese Ambassador in London, Dr. Chien Tien-hs, has been asked to call on Hector McNeil, British Minister of State, late this evening.

A usually reliable source said it is understood McNeil will tell him Britain has decided to break off relations with the Chinese Natonalist Government and to recognize the Chinese Communists.

Britain is expected to recognize the Communist Government tomorrow in a note delivered by the British Consul-General in Peking.

Two-Year Sentence

WOODSTOCK, Ont., Jan 5 — (CP)—Anna Kozob, 25, Wednesday was sentenced to two years less a day in Mercer Reformatory for attempting to conceal the birth of a baby by disposing of its body. Mrs. Kozob, who arrived in Canada from Poland, in October, pleaded guilty through an interpreter and elected summary trial.

Tax On Soft Drinks?

TORONTO, Jan. 5 (CP) — A government tax on soft drinks to supply revenue for free distribution of milk in Ontario schools is recommended in a resolution up for discussion today by the Ontario Whole Milk Producers' League, now in convention. The resolution is sponsored by the Lincoln Milk Producers' Association.

Urges Price Holdout

TORONTO, Jan. 5 (CP)—John H. Ballantyne of Atwood, president of the Ontario Cheese Producers' Association, today urged producers to hold out for a 30-cent base price in the new British cheese contract.

Baby Saves Families

TORONTO, Jan. 5 (CP)—The crying of a sick baby, which kept her parents awake most of the night, was credited today with saving two families when fire, believed caused by defective wiring, gutted their suburban East York home. Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Reest, kept awake by their two-year-old daughter, Margaret Ann, escaped from the smoke-filled home along with Mrs. William Reesby and her daughter, Doris May, 9. Damage has not been estimated.

Cold Wave Sure Today Experts Say

Temperatures Set Record High For Month of January

By The Canadian Press

King Winter, blowing his head off in Western Canada, is having another go at it in eastern sections of the Dominion today. He may succeed this time, the weatherman predicts.

The ol' man has been gripping most western points with sub-zero temperatures, but went haywire in the east, where half a dozen one-day heat records went by the boards on Wednesday.

However, he's expected to make headway in those parts today. Weather officials said colder air is sweeping eastward and will replace warm air over points as far as Southern Quebec. They also predicted intermittent snow flurries.

All eastern North America experienced near-record temperatures Wednesday. Montreal had its warmest January day in history when the mercury hit 60 degrees. The St. Lawrence River was free of ice all the way to the Atlantic and weather officials said it was the greatest January warm spell in 75 years.

A Different Story

However, residents in British Columbia, already shivering and virtually blanketed in snow, are in store for another blizzard.

It was six degrees above zero at Vancouver Wednesday, 32 below at Prince George, B.C.; and 20 below or colder at Winnipeg, Saskatoon and Regina.

Coldest weather of the winter still gripped the lower mainland of Vancouver where 2,000 mill workers are out of work after ice forced more than a dozen sawmills to close down. In the same area, and on Vancouver Island, dozens of schools are closed.

More than 6,000 loggers are still stranded in Vancouver, unable to return to snow-bound camps.

In Ontario flowers bloomed in Midland gardens because of the spring-like weather and heavy rains. Residents had no recollection of garden flowers at this season in the Midland area before. Both pansy and crocus beds were blooming in one garden.

TURNING POINT

The battle of the Plains of Abraham, in 1759, and the subsequent Treaty of Paris, in 1763, ended the French regime and the colony became a British possession.

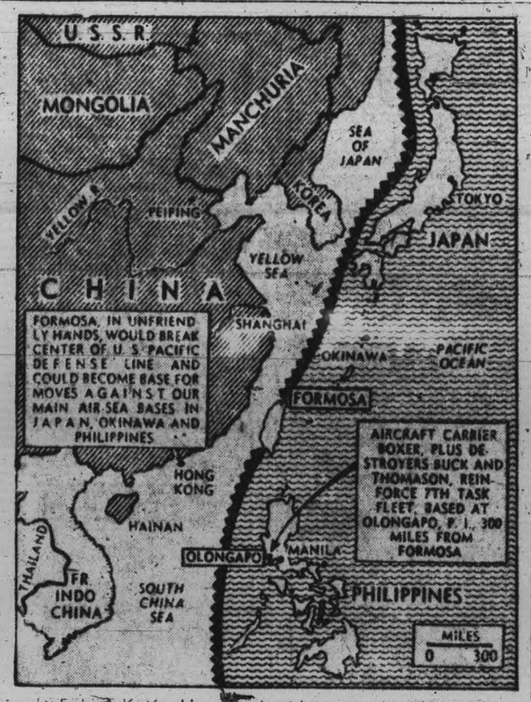
Canada Praised For Contract

LONDON, Jan. 5 —(CP)—The Conservative Evening News today praises Canada for her "uncommon generosity" in selling Britain 60,000,000 pounds of bacon at a price lower than she pays her producers.

Commenting in an editorial on the recently-announced 1950 bacon deal, the Evening News says:

"This means that the government of Canada will be subsidizing British purchasers of bacon to the tune of more than $2,000,000."



The News says government ministers "may hail this as an unrivalled piece of statesmanship, prudent bargaining, good housekeeping and the rest of it. The bacon ration will probably remain at its level.

"Let is pass. What is worth remembering and emphasizing is the real magnanimity of Canada's action.

"Like the other great old established dominions, again and again and again Canada has come with boundless generosity to Britain's aid throughout the perilous and lean years since the war. Canada has strained her own currency resources to the limit in order to be meticulously loyal to her Commonwealth connections and obligations."

FLAT-TOP INDIANS

Flatheads was the name given to a tribe of South American Indians—the name originating from an ancient custom of flattening the skulls of children during infancy.

DEFENSE KEY—How much aid to give the Chinese Nationalists on Formosa is the top problem confronting US diplomats. Map spots Formosa as a key in the western Pacific Japan-Okinawa-Philippines defense system. Some leading Republicans are advocating the use of American forces to defend the island against Chinese Communists.

Month In Jail For Man Found With Stolen Bag

Victor Fontaine, 799 Morphet St., was sentenced to one month in jail Wednesday on a charge of receiving stolen goods. He was convicted by Magistrate W. R. Philp, K.C., in city police court.

Another charge of stealing an electric razor from Warne's jewellery store was dismissed when Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw offered no evidence.

A similar charge against Joseph (Bud) Redmond, 70 Hunter St., was also dismissed when the the crown attorney moved for dismissal after some evidence was heard.

Constable Reg. McMillan testified he, together with Constable William G. Scott, had arrested Fontaine in a downtown restaurant the night of Saturday, Dec. 3, on the theft charge. He said a waitress called after them as they were walking out of the restaurant, saying that Fontaine had left his shopping bag behind.

Constable McMillan said he picked up the bag and asked Fontaine if it were his. Fontaine said it was. Under questioning by defence attorney W. J. Arthur Fair, KC, Constable McMillan said Fontaine had been drinking, but was not drunk.

Mrs. Jeanette Fife, an Indian River school teacher, testified she had left her shopping bag with two or three of her mother's in a drug store about 3 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 3. She said when she returned to pick up her bag about 5 p.m., it had disappeared.

She identified the contents of the shopping bag taken from Fontaine as some of the articles she had lost. About three pair of nylons and 12 packages of crepe paper were missing she said. Mrs. Fife estimated the value of the contents recovered by police at about $14.

Takes Winter Swim

ROSENEATH, Jan. 5 (ENS) —A bull frog enjoying a swim in the creek at Alderville was one of the phenomenal sights which this week's unseasonable warm weather brought to Alderville.

Thomas Marsden, one of the older residents on the reserve, was walking home after cutting wood in the bush, when he saw the bull frog.

Although most of his life has been spent in the county, where he has spent a great deal of time trapping and hunting, he cannot recall having seen a frog braving the water in January before.

Jessup Making Asian Survey

TOKYO, Jan. 5 (AP)—Philip C. Jessup, roving U.S. ambassador, arrived today in Japan, first stop on an Asian survey trip that will take him to Formosa—new focal point of American controversy on Far Eastern policy.

The tall, lanky envoy said he will confer with Gen. MacArthur on the matter of the big island. Formosa is the last-stand bastion of Chiang Kai-shek's Chinese Nationalist government.

There is increasing Republican pressure on the United States for American action—armed or otherwise—to keep Formosa from falling to the Chinese Communists.

Jessup would not comment on reports that the state department expects the island to be taken by the Reds who have overrun China's mainland.

These reports have been attributed to a state department memorandum of Dec. 23 advising its spokesmen to put the soft-pedal on Formosa's strategic importance.

Baby Deaths Low

LONDON, Jan. 5 (Reuters). — Infant mortality reached a record low in England and Wales during the third quarter of last year, the government announced Wednesday. Deaths of children under one numbered 4,883, representing a motality rate of 26 for each 1,000 children, compared with 28 per 1,000 in the same period last year.

Rev. A. A. Chote New Cavan Rector

MILLBROOK, Jan. 5 (ENS)—The Rev. A. A. Chote of Port Whitby, has been appointed by the Bishop of Toronto, to succeed the Rev. C. M. MacLean as rector of the parish as Cavan. He takes charge next Sunday, when he will preach at all three churches in the parish, namely St. John's, Ida, at 11 a.m., Christ Church, Bailieboro, at 3 p.m. and St. Thomas' Church, Millbrook, at 7 p.m.

Mr. and Mrs. MacLean left last week for Niagara Falls, N.Y., and Mr. and Mrs. Chote and two-year-old son Paul, arrived here Wednesday.

Testing Machinery For Making Of Ice

COBOURG, Jan. 5 (ENS). — The test of the new artificial ice equipment made last night and this morning on the recently-constructed recreational centre revealed only nine leaks. In, the more than nine miles of piping, three times that number is regarded as average. It had been hoped to open the rink for hockey and skating on Friday night of this week, but some mechanical difficulties cropped up yesterday and this may mean a delay until early next week. The seats and backstop screen have yet to be completed, and considerable work in the auditorium, dressing rooms, and canteen remains to be done before the official opening.

Roseneath News

Guests the first part of the week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Sherwin were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Shearer, Messrs. Neil, Stuart and Maurice Shearer, Harwood; Miss Betty Wright, Norwood; Mr. and Mrs. Bert Mortlock and son Bill of Peterborough.

Mr. Roy Smith suffered a stroke the early part of the week.

Mr. William Chandler of Kindersley, Sask., and Mr. John Chandler, Toronto, were weekend guests of their sister, Mrs. Mervin Smith, Mr. Smith and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Willis Timlin, Ronald and Cheryl were recent guests of the former's sister, Mrs. Henry Haynes, Mr. Haynes and family, Port Hope.

Miss Mae Thompson and parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Thompson are in Picton this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Robins and family have returned to their home at Dartford, after spending the past week with the former's mother and brothers, Mrs. John Robins and Messrs. Joseph and John Robins Jr.

Held For Assault

PORTLAND, Me., Jan. 5 (AP) —A Montreal man was held today on a charge of assault with intent to kill his widowed mother. Mrs. Bertha O. Johnston, 66, was in serious condition. A pistol bullet plowed through her thigh and lodged in her abdomen. Police quoted Irving L. Field, 43, as saying he intended to kill Mrs. Johnston and himself because he was tired of "struggling — going up and down." Police said Field had been drinking.

Gadgets Too Good

BURBANK, Calif., Jan. 5 — (AP) — Terry Hupp, 3, went for a ride Wednesday in his daddy's new car. It has an automatic starter working from the ignition switch. Mrs. Hoyle Hupp told police Terry apparently took the key from her purse. Inserting it carefully, he stood on the gas pedal. In the next few moments, Terry and the car ran over a bicycle, damaged an auto trailer, knocked down a couple of small trees, tore up a flower garden, and ripped out two lengths of fence, one for 100 feet. When it was all over, there was Terry, unhurt, in the back seat. He couldn't tell how he got there. But the car didn't fare so well, and one neighbor required treatment for shock.

A Legitimate Protest

There has been sharp protest on the part of the Kingston Public Utilities Commission against the increased cost of hydro-electric power. This increase, as our readers will recall, was made recently by the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission, and has been communicated by letter to local Utilities Commissions; the new interim rate is to be more closely related to the actual cost of power than before, and in all probability this will mean an increased cost to consumers.

• • •

An increased rate for hydro will not be popular under any circumstances. Nevertheless, consumers would make little protest against it if they felt that it was the result of an uncontrollable rise in the cost of labour and materials. But there has been no statement to this effect by the Ontario Hydro and it looks very much as if the increase were to pay for the cost of converting the twenty-five cycle power area in Western Ontario to the sixty-cycle plan long in use in Eastern Ontario. If that is so, the protest is a legitimate one.

• • •

Sixty-cycle power was installed in Eastern Ontario without any help from Western Ontario, and it has proved its superiority. Why, then, should we who are in the sixty-cycle area help to pay for the conversion of the twenty-five cycle area, from which we will gain nothing?

• • •

There have been vaguely worded hints that great things will result when all of Ontario is on sixty-cycle power, but none of these hints have justified a levy on Eastern Ontario. Districts which already have sixty-cycle power (which they paid for themselves) including both Peterborough and Kingston, require a more detailed explanation of the financing of the conversion, and a more specific explanation of its benefits, if they are to accept a heavy increase in rates with a good grace. We feel that the representatives of Eastern Ontario should ask for such an explanation in the Ontario Legislature. There is no good reason why we should lie down under an imposition which looks very much as though we were being squeezed to benefit that part of the province which never fails to let it be known that it is the wealthiest and most densely populated section of Ontario.

Luminous Peterborough

Peterborough hides its light under its seven hills, but its aura is seen afar. From Rice Lake or from Pidgeon Lake, when cloud and sky conditions are favourable for it, can be seen a luminous pall hanging over the city, cast up by the thousands of lights. A minor Toronto or Montreal! A night-time indication of the city's growth in the last decade is the extent of that pendant cover of light and the distance from which it can be seen.

Most spectacular, and really very pleasing, is the sudden twinkle of street, home and factory lights spread out before the eyes as one drives over the crest of the Water-trough Hill, coming into the city from Highway 28. It is an impressive sight, and a stranger approaching the city for the first time on a winter's evening must be quite amazed, not only at the sudden burst of light lying before and below him after 28 miles of northern driving through the darkness, but also at the extent of the lights.

It even amazes us, used as we are to the city and cognizant of its growth, for that spectacle of lights seen from the Water-trough hill covers only the southern third of the city. Round the bend by the golf club, and lo! the major part of the city comes into bright view. It looks like a big city, and really it is not the small, dim place it was twenty years ago.

It is rather remarkable that the city, viewed from its western approach, is bounded by red lights—virtuous lights, however. To the south are the lights of C.H.E.X. transmitting station, to the north the Provincial Police broadcasting station.

Teapot Lids And Oboe Playing

We are always keenly interested in the list of those whom H. M. the King has chosen to honour on New Year's Day. It is a polite fiction, of course, that His Majesty has very much to say in the matter; he may squeeze in one or two people whom he particularly admires, but it is his Government which makes up the list, and it is the favourites of his Government who get the big prizes. Therefore it is at the bottom of the list that we look with real anticipation, for it is there that the surprises are found. And it is there, we may add, that the people whom we personally like best get whatever is coming to them, if they get it at all.

This year, for instance, we are delighted to see that Leon Goossens was given the O.B.E. He is probably the finest oboe player in the world and has given great pleasure to music-lovers everywhere. The oboe has been facetiously described as "an ill wood-wind that nobody blows good"; but Leon Goossens blows it good and he has taught a great many other fine orchestral players to blow it good too. Lionel Tertis, who plays that wonderful but underprized instrument the viola, gets an O.B.E., as well. So does Leslie Banks, a very good actor, and Donald Wolfit, an actor who is not so good but who has courageously taken great plays to people who would not ordinarily have a chance to see them.

Among this goodly company we also find Miss Elizabeth Hulme, whose claim to the British Empire Medal is that she has made 16,000,000 teapot lids during the past 53 years. We notice also the name of Mr. James Jackson, who has been a mule spinner in a cotton mill since he was 9; he is now 80. It is rather odd to find a Labour Government honouring a woman who has worked harder than unions approve of, and a man who has worked longer than statisticians think proper; perhaps this is in keeping with the Russian custom of decorating workers who serve the state nobly, whether in the making of teapot lids, or whatever.

We feel that it would be a good thing if a special decoration were established for people who distinguish themselves in the arts. The O.B.E. is an honourable decoration, of course, but it has been stretched over a rather wide field of effort. Possibly something called The Stuart Cross (commemorating King Charles I, who was a great patron of painters and musicians) would fill the bill.

Mr. McGregor's Helpful Appointment

F. A. McGregor, who resigned last month as combines investigation commissioner, did not need to go job-hunting. Many offers came to this highly qualified, sincere public servant. The most important post he could have taken, in the interests of Canadian letters and historical record, was offered him, and he has accepted. He will be a special assistant to Mr. Mackenzie King in the preparation of his memoirs.

Mr. King is 75 and not in the best of health. Without specially qualified assistance he could not hope to complete a personal record of his thirty years in public office. His papers are too voluminous, and scattered, the affairs they touch on need amplification and clarification by Mr. King himself. It seemed impossible that this most important work could ever be got through. True, trained historians and research workers, clerks and stenographers are available, but a man as intimately connected with the papers and events as Mr. King was needed. Mr. McGregor is that man.

He has known and served the former Prime Minister ever since Mr. King entered public life. He has been private secretary to him, a confidant and personal friend. If any man other than Mr. King could steer a way through that vast accumulation of records and memories, Mr. McGregor should be that man. There is the further advantage that Mr. McGregor knows Mr. King's ways as well as his public life, and can be of extraordinary help to him in this task of leaving to the Canadian people the most essential record of the last forty years.

We hazard a guess that of all the years of Mr. McGregor's public service, none could be as potentially valuable as the period he is now beginning as special assistant for the King memoirs.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A woman recently gave birth while in a movie theatre in New York. The Whig-Standard of Kingston blames this on trying to sit out a double feature.

Russian archaeologists say that they have found the oldest rugs known to mankind. We refuse to believe this until we learn whether they investigated the boarding-house where we lived during 1937-38.

The dogs of the famous Hospice of St. Bernard no longer carry liquor in those little barrels under their chins, we read. All right, when we set out to find a lost dog in future we shall neglect to take a nice restorative bone with us.

Holy Year And Papal Influence

By CECIL SPRIGGE
(Airmail from Rome)

ALTHOUGH the Holy Year officially opened on Christmas Eve, the atmosphere of special religious solemnity had already begun to settle upon Rome when a fortnight earlier a preparatory procession crossed the centre of the city, accompanying an ancient image of "Mary, Salvation of the Roman People" from the church of Santa Maria Maggiore to Saint Peter's where the Pope with ten Cardinals received it at a floodlit open-air altar.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE four-hour procession of priests, monks, friars and tertiaries conducted the sacred image in a forest of candles and flowers along trafficless main streets. Almost every house had found a tapestry or carpet to hang from the window, and one remembered that until 1870, the route had borne the name Via Papale (Papal Way). Then it had been changed by the secularizing Italian Kingdom to Corso Vittorio Emmanuele. This later monarch's name now sounds far more antiquated than that which it supplanted.

✧ ✧ ✧

SINCE the momentous summer of 1944, the sovereignty of the Pope (he was a Sovereign according to the law of the Italian Kingdom even before Italy ceded to him the parks and palaces of the Vatican as his "State") has increasingly outshone the other factors in the atmosphere of this city which is now ten times as populous as when, in 1870, its rule passed from the Papacy to the new Kingdom of Italy. The Holy Year—although its recurrence each quarter century is automatic—seems like the climax of a gradual reconquest, but in a new form, of the glory which passed in 1870.

✧ ✧ ✧

THOUGH it lost temporal power in Rome, the Holy See retained its position in the world after 1870. When Pope Leo XIII, aged ninety, frail, alert, and graciously majestic, celebrated the first Holy Year of the new century in 1900, the Papacy seemed in fact far stronger than fifty years before. A civil war between the Pope and the Roman Democrats had prevented any celebration in 1850. But since then Leo XIII, backed by lieutenants like Cardinal Manning in England, had proclaimed the Roman Church's championship of oppressed and exploited working people. Political Christian Democracy was on the horizon.

✧ ✧ ✧

BUT in Rome the Pope remained by his own decision "Prisoner of the Vatican", and Roman Mayors were dismissed by Italian Ministries for offering him congratulations. The gorgeous ceremonial of Pontiff's court continued inside the Palace and the annexed Basilica of St. Peter. There was a change when Pius XI opened and closed the Holy Door in 1925 to the accompaniment of an officious cordiality on the part of the Fascist regime. Formal peace between the Italian State and the Holy See followed in 1929, and when Pius XI celebrated in 1934 an extraordinary Holy Year, outside the normal quarter-century rhythm of recurrence, he had gained and accepted Italian recognition as both a spiritual and a temporal Sovereign.

✧ ✧ ✧

YET with Victor Emmanuel III enthroned in the old papal castle of the Quirinal and above all with Mussolini conducting his autocratic pageantry from the balcony of the Palazzo Venezia, the Roman Pontiff was perhaps further than ever from regaining civil influence in Rome. This was shown when Neville Chamberlain visited Rome in 1939. After a week of futile banquets, receptions and deliberately curtailed but still blatant Fascist display, the then British Prime Minister passed to the Vatican. It was as if he had entered a different world where ceremony wore the colours chosen by Michelangelo, or many centuries earlier, and Italian minds reasoned in completely different terms from those of official Italy. At the Vatican threshold Rome seemed to stop.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE Italian Republic which in 1949 shares its capital with the Roman Church maintains at the Quirinal a President, who combines with his uprightness and learning the shrewdness and toughness of a Piedmontese farmer. The chief politicians of the Republic are men of important standing on their chosen sides of the Iron Curtain. The Italy which has developed between 1944 and 1949 is however, the product of what an American high official shrewdly diagnosed as "the juxtaposition of an Italian national state which has broken up in defeat, and of an international Church with its headquarters in Italy, which has the status of a victor". There is, of course, a third factor: there is Italian Communism which has attempted, but provisionally failed, to create a new Italy divorced from both the religious and the political traditions of the nation.

✧ ✧ ✧

NON-Communist political Italy has perhaps inevitably, since the defeat, been overshadowed by the Church. With the fervently Catholic Premier De Gasperi, now beginning his sixth year of office, with 305 parliamentary Deputies (an absolute majority) adhering to a specifically Catholic party, with a nominee of the same party in the mayor's seat on the Capitol, Church predominance in Rome has taken on aspects such as the anti-clericals of 1850 and 1870, probably never feared, and Pope Pius IX, perhaps, dared not hope. Time and again in 1948 and 1949 the Piazza of St. Peter's has held gigantic crowds to receive the Pope's blessing.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE note of the present Holy Year is that of the Church militant withstanding in all countries the threats and infiltrations of Communism — a doctrine and a movement which it considers implacably hostile to its own mission and existence. In several traditionally Catholic countries of Eastern Europe the local Primate is in reality a prisoner and pilgrims thence will come at their peril.

✧ ✧ ✧

BUT Romans and Italians weigh the strength of the super-national Church in terms of their own situation. Italy's burning problem is whether social and economic progress can be combined with the defeat of the Communist exploitation of the appalling misery in large parts of their country. Land seizures by the peasants have occurred almost under the walls of Rome, and could doubtless be worked up into a movement as spectacular as the Holy Year. Leadership in the attempt at peaceful progress lies for the moment at least with the Christian Democrats, whose general approach cannot greatly diverge from that of the Pope himself.

"WELL, HERE WE ARE. OPEN UP!"

F. J. A. Morris

AN APPRECIATION BY T. J. ALLEN

FRANK MORRIS matriculated at Oxford fifty years before I, his pupil in Peterborough, first went up. His observations—and anecdotes on Balliol (being a Scot, he naturally sought out that college) were to me, his pupil who matriculated in 1938, a grand source of wonder and a hallowed link which I cherish. He talked of the famous Master of Balliol, Benjamin Jowett, a legend to me, and of his high-pitched voice. And was Swinburne sitting in the room off the Master's study when Frank Morris was being given a 'don-rag' by Jowett, in those far-off 1880's? Jowett, of whom the limerick survives:

"First come I, my name is Jowett;
There's no knowledge but I know it.
I am the Master of this College:
What I don't know—is not knowledge."

Frank Morris lent me some books for my studies at Oxford which he had used there fifty years earlier.

I never called him "Frank" of course. He was always "Mr. Morris", at P.C.I., and, out of his earshot, "Bobby" Morris. In "Shorter Poems", Professor Alexander's useful and good anthology which saw a whole generation of Ontario High School students through English and Canadian poets, he was "F. J. A. Morris", the author of the last two poems in the book: "The First Hepatica" and the sonnet "Life", whose sestet occurs from memory:

"And in this life of ours we too must pore
Over the immediate task with straining sight;
And shall not we, the long day's toil who bore,
Rising from work to meet the enfolding night,
Ah, shall not we, with steadfast look before,
Catch some faint glimmer of a far-off light?"

Even as a school-boy in his classes I caught a glimmer of his meaning.

His "long day's toil" has ended, and he did bear it steadfastly. Before coming to Peterborough, he taught in private schools in this province but it was at P.C.I. that he had his longest tenure. What a trial we young boors must have been to him! I remember his coming into our Fifth Form classroom, laden with books, before the 1:30 bell. He was waiting to give us Dickens or Wordsworth, and we were raising Cain. The bell would go, and we would gradually take our seats, and become quiet enough for his voice to be heard. In retrospect, I see him as a great teacher, not a good teacher. He had, fortunately for his better pupils, no pedagogical methods. He was not learned in the craft of teaching, but he was a learned man, the first many of us had contact with.

Somehow he got us through our examinations, but it was not examinations that mattered to him; it was Wordsworth, Scott, Dickens, Stevenson. What exciting readings he gave us! Even if only half the class gave heed, that half glowed. He was a rare teacher in the provincial system: he was a scholar and an enthusiast.

He has related that his bible was Wordsworth, especially Tintern Abbey, and Richard Jefferies' "Story of My Heart" (1883). He was an early disciple of Darwinism, and brought this enthusiasm to Ontario when Darwin was still considered a dangerous heretic.

As I heard after my student days, the Provincial schools nearly lost his services. For one reason or another, he wanted to teach in the state, not the private schools. He, a graduate of Oxford, with more Latin than many professors, was required to take a teacher's course in Latin. After teaching in the system for a while, his contemporaries recognized his flair for literature. He was urged to teach English. But he could not be a so-called "specialist" in English, and head a Collegiate department, without a "Specialist's Certificate". So again he was forced to take a College of Education course.

Since a teacher of English was also required to be a "specialist" in history (a study in which he had no interest), he slaved through a course in history, and in the methods of teaching history. Of course, he was never called upon to teach history, but he had to have the certificate. In my thinking, the College of Education in Toronto has been as retrogressive an influence in general cultural education as it has been a progressive force in the science of pedagogy. Frank Morris is, or was, an example of the drudgery it forces on teachers for the sake of standardization.

I could write of Mr. Morris as a naturalist, but it would be from vicarious knowledge. I have read his book "Our Wild Orchids", but I appreciate it more for its prose style, its gentle wit and its folklore, than for its contribution to science and natural lore of which I am ill-equipped to write.

I must speak of him as a poet. He was in the nineteenth century tradition; he wrote from the heart, and many of his verses (mostly unpublished) speak to the heart. There is a sequence "The Master Mind" of which he gave me the manuscript fifteen years ago. It is a tribute to a brother-naturalist, and some of the quatrains express what many of his former pupils must feel of this man who was buried in Port Hope on Monday:

In mind and will maturest man,
A boy at heart; his eager quest
Of Nature's ways the boy confessed,
And through it all endurance ran;

Bend as they might the sturdy frame
And quell the lustre of the eye,
Not years could daunt the purpose high
Or quench the ardent spirit's flame.

It may be said that teaching of such young barbarians as I did "quell the lustre of the eye". It is certainly true that the classroom did cause a premature exhaustion more than a decade ago, which made necessary his retirement. But I treasure the memory of many an hour in his study among his books, when the retired teacher spoke wisely, ripely, and even affectionately, to his former pupil.

Frank Morris gave to more than a generation of his pupils, to such as would heed, an original taste for scholarship and letters.

I cannot let this appreciation of a revered Magister close without a deep-felt tribute to his wife, who especially in these last long years of his distressing illness, has ministered faithfully and affectionately, to a man of learning, wit and fine sensibility.

F. J. A. Morris, who died last Friday in his 81st year, was the only scholar of the humanities in our midst in Peterborough in the first forty years of this century.

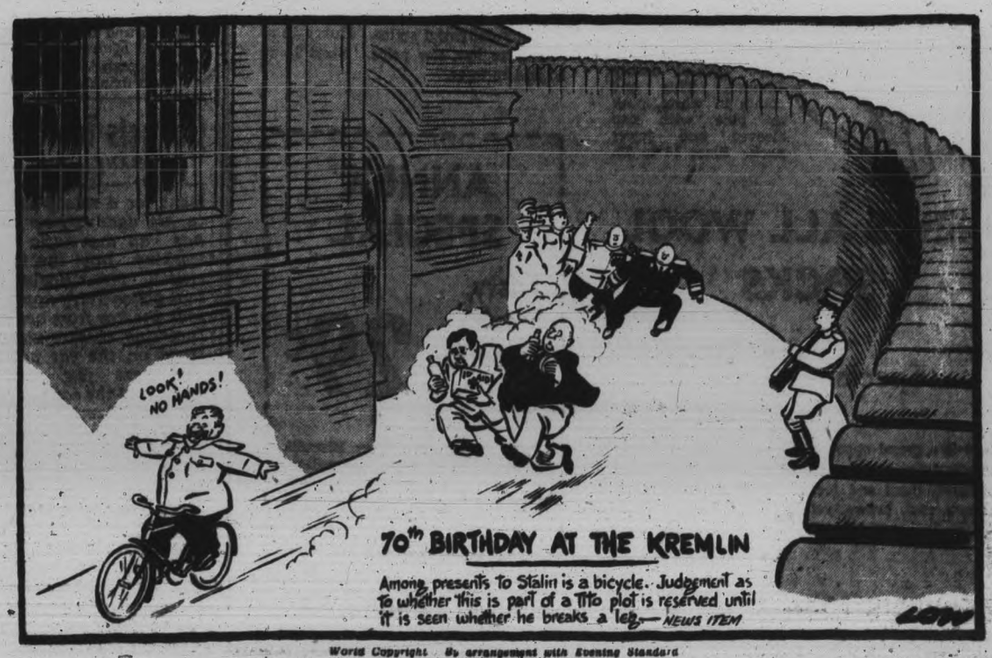
Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Then cometh Jesus with them unto a place called Gethsemane, and saith unto the disciples, Sit ye here, while I go and pray yonder. And he took with him Peter and the two sons of Zebedee, and began to be sorrowful and very heavy.



Then saith he unto them, My soul is exceeding sorrowful, even unto death: tarry ye here, and watch with me. And he went a little farther, and fell on his face, and prayed, saying, O my Father, if it be possible, let this cup pass from me: nevertheless not as I will, but as thou wilt. And he cometh unto the disciples, and findeth them asleep, and saith unto Peter, What, could ye not watch with me one hour?

He went away again the second time, and prayed, saying, O my Father, if this cup may not pass away from me, except I drink it, thy will be done. . . Then cometh he to his disciples, and saith unto them, Sleep on now, and take your rest: behold, the hour is at hand, and the Son of man is betrayed into the hands of sinners. (Matt. 26: 36-40, 42, 45.)

When the morning was come, all the chief priests and elders of the people took counsel against Jesus to put him to death. (Matt. 27: 1.)

DWINDLING STOCK-PILES OF COAL have Montreal dealers worried as United States miners continue to work a two and three-day week under orders from union president John L. Lewis. Above, at Bickerdike Pier on Montreal Harbor, is shown one of the stock-piles which will keep Montreal supplied for some time. Coal from the US is now shipped in weekly allotments by rail.

Toronto Assizes 9 Major Trials

TORONTO, Jan. 5 (CP)—Nine major trials are listed for the Toronto Assizes opening Jan. 9 under Chief Justice J. C. McRuer. They include three charges of attempted murder, four motor manslaughter cases, one charge of rape and another of attempted rape.

John McCullock, 48, of Cherry Valley, Ont., is charged with the attempted murder of Mrs. Edna Blachfield, who was shot in her Toronto apartment last October. Donald Grey, 40, is charged with attempted murder of his wife, Jean, who testified at a preliminary hearing that he locked her in their garage and turned on the car engine.

Mrs. Ruby Smith is charged with attempted murder of her five-year-old daughter Wendy, who was stabbed in the throat.

One manslaughter charge is against Adam Balandy, 37, of Kettleby, Ont., driver of a truck that collided with a motorcar near Schomberg, Ont., last July, when five persons were killed.

Won't Make A-Bombs For 5 Years–Paper

LONDON, Jan. 5—(CP)—No atomic bombs will be produced in Britain or Canada for "at least five years," Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express said today in a front-page story.

Carrying the banner line "Britain gives up the bomb," the paper expressed dissatisfaction with reports that Britain does not intend to produce atomic bombs, but will store a number of American-made bombs.

"Britain and the Empire are entirely dependent on America for atomic weapons," the Express said.

Britain Sends Troops To Quiet Eritrea

LONDON, Jan. 5 — (AP) — Britain announced today she is sending troops and a warship to stop "repeated acts of murder and violence" in Italy's former Red Sea colony of Eritrea.

She also has told Italy and Ethiopia she will take "a serious view of any actions on the part of their representatives of a kind likely to provoke disturbance of the peace in the territory," a Foreign Office statement said.

Italians in Eritrea have been subjected to attacks and ambushes from the natives for months.

A Good Racket

TORONTO, Jan. 5 (CP) — A thief who posed as a telephone-repairman stole $1,000 in a series of pre-Christmas purse snatching in small Toronto stores, police said Wednesday. A suspect, Melville Warren, faces 21 theft charges. Police said he comes from Ottawa.

No Excuse For Ill Children Says Royal Bank Report

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor.

The statement has been made that the loss to employed Canadians through illness is $135,000,000 a year says the monthly letter of the Royal Bank of Canada.

And the cost of sickness, untimely death, and accident in Canada has been estimated at $1,000,000,000 a year.

Research into industrial absenteeism, adds the letter, led to many measures to reduce sickness.

"Now we have turned to research in the schools, and the first report of its kind anywhere in the world was published last year under the National Committee for School Health Research.

"Here is the startling disclosure: On the basis of Canada's school population of approximately 2,250,000, the loss of education was 28,000,000 pupil-days in the year....

Can Be Prevented

"There really is no excuse for much of the disease that afflicts children. Such good progress has been made in recent years against the common ailments of childhood that many of them can be prevented and all of them can be made less dangerous.

For instance, in 1924 there were 9,033 cases of diphtheria in Canada and 1,281 deaths; while in 1948 there were only 898 cases and 85 deaths. In 1943 there were 19,082 cases of whooping cough and 416 deaths; in 1948 there were 7,084 cases and 155 deaths.

These figures, says the letter, show dramatically how many children's lives have been saved by their parents' care and foresight in taking their children to be immunized.

However, the figures for some other diseases of both adults and children are on the way up. For instance, deaths in Canada from heart disease in 1931-1935 averaged 15,393 per year; while in 1948 they were 33,786.

"Why do so many Canadians die every year of heart disease?

"Prevention is most important, and it consists mainly in doing what the doctor orders. Many new drugs, surgery, nutrition, rest of body and mind, all of these are important; but the biggest factor is in the hands of the individual: Controlled living.

Police Capture Three Convicts

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Jan. 5—(AP)—Police wound up the five-day manhunt for the fugitive Arkansas convicts Wednesday night by capturing the three remaining escapees in North Little Rock. Two of them were shot in a gun battle.

State police said the wounded men were James Perry Williams and Jack Rheuark.

They were captured shortly after David Dyer was taken without resistance in North Little Rock.

The fourth convict, Odus Eaton, was captured near Scott, Ark., Monday, also without a fight.

YPU Presents Four-Act Play

OMEMEE, Jan. 5 — (ENS) — "Seventeen," a four act play by Booth Tarkington, was presented Monday to a full house in Coronation Hall by the Young People's Union of Trinity United Church.

Most of the players were teenagers, several making their first appearance in a stage play.

The cast included: Glen Sandy, Beverly Deyell, Marion Zufelt, Cyril Pogue, John Maunders, Joan Zufelt, Frances McPhee, Rev V. E. R Zufelt, Laverne McKee, Garnet Pogue, Don Sandy, Dorothy Smith, Orma Brooks and Glen Corneil.

Marion Rea directed the production.

Legionnaires Defeat Petes By One Goal In Hot Tussle

Legionnaires further lengthened their lead in first place of their OHA senior "B" grouping here last night when they edged the Petes 4-3 before a big crowd. It was a tight tilt all the way, with Legion coming from behind late in the first frame to gain a 2-2 tie, both sides scoring in the second, and the victors getting the big one late in the third.

Play was fast and rugged, but fairly clean for these bitter opponents, the Petes drawing 11 of the 19 penalties passed out. A few fights threatened and enmity lurked near the surface all the way but it didn't erupt into a free-for-all. The game was held up once when some moron threw a hand full of nails on the ice after a goal was scored. A few players were booed at times by the rabid crowd, which sounded fairly evenly divided.

Goalies Good

Both goalies shone, neither Harding nor Nicholls giving away anything. Leonard was steadiest on defence for the Petes and Godfrey was brilliant at the blue line for the Legion. Up front, Rochetta, Fryia and Doug Mortimer led the way for the winners, with Hill Crowley and Montomery also good. Fife was always a real threat for the Petes, he, Coughlin and Horton getting their goals, with Garvey Conlin, Leonard and Collins having an assist each. Tompkins wasn't on hand for the Foley flock, nor Coombs or Vitarelli for the Ellis outfit.

West had a good try esrly as the Petes pressed from the start. Fife banged in the first goal from Collins on a nice play in close at 3.43, and Coughlin followed it with another shortly from Leonard and Conlin as they waltzed around defence to go right in Horton went off for interference and drew a misconduct for roughing the referee briefly. The Petes were at full strength when a West-Leonard drive came close, but with Jopling off for kneeing, Doug Mortimer slapped one home in a close-in scramble, Hill and Fryia aiding. With all back, Rochetta got the equalizer with Doug Mortimer's forward pass and a flip shot that gave Harding no chance.

Each Got One

Fred Mortimer went off to open the second for cross-checking but he was back when Doug Mortimer got it for slashing. Fryia promptly scored with Rochetta's pass on a partial breakaway as the Petes ganged up. Time was taken out to pick up nails on the ice and then Horton drew the finger for hooking. He was back in the hot going when Burns got the nod for interference, and Horton scored a nice one on Garvey's return pass inside. Fife was gated for holding and Conlin followed for holding, but the Petes managed to survive the pounding till all were back. Greenlaw was robbed once. Jopling and Doug Mortimer hit the sin bin next for roughing and Godfrey had a good try. Legion were pressing at the finish.

SAVED DAY—Johnny Godfrey, veteran captain defenceman for Legion, saved the day for the Legionaires last night with some great work back of the blue line as they eked out a 4-3 decision over the Petes in a fine fray.

The Big One

Hill came within an ace to start the third and play was fast and even most of this chukker. Montgomery hurt his back in a collision but returned later. Garvey tested Nicholls and, with Parnell off for hooking, the Petes pressed hard. West being thetted on a great try. Collins got it next for holding and Griffin nearly tallied. Horton went away for holding and Rochetta scored the winning goal on a passout and in a scramble on Harding's doorstep, Crowley and Montgomery helping. Jopling and Montgomery were sent off for roughing and a rush by Fred Mortimer and Parnell nearly paid off. The latter got another sentence for slashing and then Fryia and Creighton were chased for high-sticking. The Petes tried hard to sew it up near the finish but time ran out.

Petes: Goal, Harding; defence, Horton and Leonard; centre, West; wings, Creighton and Garvey; alternates, McMasters, Jopling, Fife, Collins, Griffin, Coughlin, J. Mortimer and Conlin. Legion. Goal, Nicholls; defence, Godfrey and Burns; centre, Rochetta; wings, Crowley and Montgomery; alternates, Parnell, Greenlaw, Hill, D. Mortimer, Fryia, F. Mortimer, Stewart and Green.

Referees, L. Heffering and R. Oulmet.

Trips Trip Vics Four In Sinbin Sink Four Goals

Penalties played the major role in the Junior B game between Kingston Vics and the Triplelinks Wednesday night in Kingston. After the hefty road trip the locals brought home their third win in five starts taking the Vics 8-6.

In a fast rugged first period the Limestone City boys hemmed the Trips into their defensive zone throughout as the locals were poor on breaks allowing the Vics to pass neatly around the net. Red Wasson came through in the close moments to hold the Kingston squad to a 3-2 score.

The Oddfellows cut loose in the second with a barrage of goals as the play became rougher and tended to become out of hand at times. They scored four goals to the Vics one. Tuckered by the strong pace of the first two periods, both teams played slow hockey in the third with the Vics outscoring the O's 2-1.

Four of Peterborough's eight goals came with the Kingston team shorthanded. Three came in the second period with the other in the first period. Kingston only managed to score one goal while both teams had offenders in the sinbin. Don Floyd scored Peterborough's first goal while the Trips' defenceman Dean Wasson was in the penalty box for the only backfire on a penalty.

Thirteen penalties were handed out by referee Bill Hastie, of Gananoque, during the game. Some of these were of the cheap variety while he missed deliberate rough play throughout. Once a Kingston player broke his stick as Lefty Doris broke into the clear. The player without his stick skated after Doris and managed to trip him just as the shot on goal was being taken. No penalty was given the player although the referee couldn't have helped seeing it.

Pat Patterson, of Kingston, was criticized by the teams and the fairly large crowd for his work at the bluelines. Several times players skipped across the line in advance of the puck without a peep from the whistle of Patterson. Even referee Hastie called several offsides which were not blown by the linesman.

Anson, Montgomery and Shepherd provided the best passing attacks of the night while exhibits of individualism were provided by Left Doris, Tom Birch and Bob Wyatt of the Triplelinks.

In the scoring parade Montgomery, of Kingston, led with one goal and two assists while two pointers were Benny Mason, two goals, Ron Turner, two goals, Jerry Desjardin two assists and Bob Wyatt two assists. Singles for Peterborough were scored by Dean Wasson, Ross Mason, Tom Birch, Don Floyd. Goals for Kingston were scored by Montgomery, Anson, Tinkess, Compeau, Bender, and Gommer.

Both teams will renew their battle Friday night in the Civic Arena in the return engagement.

The lineups:

Triplelinks — Goal, Red Wasson; defence, D. Wasson and Richlark; centre, Desjardin; wings B. Mason and R. Mason; alternates Birch, Baker, Doris, Wyatt, Floyd, Turner, Miliar, Fennell, Casey.

Kingston Vics — Goal, Anderson; defence, Latimer and Wiskin; centre, McGaughey; wings, White and Aitken; alternates, Bender, Montgomery, Shepherd, Bailey, Tinkess, Gommer, Anson, Compeau.

The summary:

First Period

Kingston—Anson (Montgomery) 5:25
Kingston—Tinkess 7:45
Triplelinks—Floyd 12:25
Kingston—Compeau 14:00
Triplelinks—B. Mason 16:55
Penalties—D. Wasson 2, Tinkess, Bailey
Triplelinks—B. Mason (Desjardin)

Second Period

Triplelinks—Birch (Doris) 6:37
Kingston—Montgomery 8:21
Triplelinks—Turner (Wyatt) 8:50
Triplelinks—D. Wasson 15:10
Triplelinks—R. Mason (Desjardin) 17:45
Penalties—Gommer, Wiskin, Shepherd.

Third Period

Triplelinks—Turner (Wyatt) 3:15

Penalties—D. Wasson, Gommer, R. Mason, B. Mason, White, McGaughey, Richlark.

TORONTO, Jan. 5 (CP)—Racing dates in Ontario next summer were in doubt Wednesday night as a new dispute flared between the track owners and the Horsemen's Protective Association representing horse owners and trainers.

The HBPA demanded 50 per cent representation on the board of the Canadian Incorporated Racing Associations with an independent chairman. Instead of complying, the ICRA rescinded a rule which bars harness racing on their tracks while the running horses are in action, from May to November. This was followed by announcement of Fred Orpen that he intends to hold night harness racing meets at the open tracks next summer.

James Heffering, chairman of the ICRA, said Wednesday night that the tracks "will not back down" or accede to the HBPA demands. "The track operators are not going to let anybody point a gun at their heads," he said.

Heffering said other track owners might follow Orpen in turning to harness racing. He mentioned Stamford Park at Niagara Falls in particular.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC PERDUE, Sports Editor.

If and when Sunday sports are legalized in Ontario, it will not mean a wide-open Sunday by any means. Athletics will be confined to the afternoons only, and then only in places some distance from rows of residences where folks resting won't be disturbed. The morning and evening will be kept free for church services. That's the way it looks now, and sports clubs feeling differently shouldn't fool themselves. As a matter of fact there's no reason for games Sunday morning, nor yet in the evening. We're sure the local lacrossers, ballsters, gridders and puckists will agree. In fact, six days a week should be enough for sports.

* * * * * *

As Ted Reeve points out: "You sports followers all know how week-end athletics have changed in Toronto. Saturday used to be the great sports day. Now, with the summer resorts the big pull, and our own lake ruined for bathing, you stand on north Yonge St. or the Kingston Road on a Friday night or Saturday morning and watch the thousands and thousands of potential customers heading for the lakes and woods. Night games saved what summer sports we have left." Isn't it the truth? The whole Saturday picture has changed over the years, especially since the shops went on the five-day week. No, Sunday sports aren't so important, and things won't change much in that respect.

Kingston And IOOF

There's an OHA junior "B" joust tomorrow night at 8.30 in Civic Arena, a schedlued game between Kingston Vics and the local Oddfellows. Don't pass it up, hockey fans, if you like speedy action by the young fellows. They turn it on from start to finish and don't mind roughing it up when the going gets hot, either. Present-day hockey is sustained speed and action, with frequent changes in the lineup to maintain the pace. The juniors step faster and in more reckless fashion than most of their senior brethren, expending excess energy in scandalous style. They're worth watching in a game that counts.

* * * * * *

Spotting the Vics a 3-2 first period lead in Kingston last eve, the Triple Links roared back to hold a 7-4 margin to end the second stanza and an 8-6 victory at the finish in their junior "B" fixture. The large ice surface didn't bother Bun Kingdon's fast-stepping squad, who also cashed in nicely on Kingston penalties in the middle heat. Referee Bill Hastie of Gananoque let quite a bit go, and the boys will be feuding some, we imagine, in this return go tomorrow. Lefty Doris turned in a fine all-around effort for the winners, with Tommy Birch and Bob Wyatt also effective. A close enough contest and a neat number to grab.

A Mighty Close Fit

Petes were peeved late last p.m. that they didn't beat the Legionnaires, and the latter were sore because they barely won 4-3. Both teams would like to humiliate the other by maybe 10 goals or so. But a flock of fans were happy at seeing a swell puck scrap, there being a hefty crowd on deck. Naturally, about half weren't happy when the Petes lost, but it was a dandy duel all the way and just a tossup till that deciding goal went in. Petes were minus Tompkins, who isn't in top shape yet (and wants to drop back to defence), while Legion were without Dootch Vitarelli, laid up with pneumonia, and Sixty Coombs who has a sprained ankle. Yet both sides served up speedy, even, rugged and exciting hockey.

* * * * * *

Fights could easily have broken out, and we spotted a lot of sly stuff like butt ends, elbows to the face, etc. The referees did well in keeping it under control and they must have been good as both teams were peeved at them before the finish. It was the kind of keen contest that brings back the customers; no loafing or friendliness being shown in these Petes-Legion frays. We hear Baldy Cotton, Boston Bruins' scout, dropped around to have a look at a few, someone mentioning Murray Fife and Chum Fryia in particular. Could be. Some sap held up play by throwing a dozen nails on the ice, trying to injure players on both sides. Some booing, too, at players, as this crowd was hot and pretty evenly divided betwixt Petes and Legion. Ah, well, a lot of fun.

Irish Boxers Barred From British Titles

LONDON,—(CP)—Boxers born in the Republic of Ireland are not eligible to hold British Empire or British championships, the British Boxing Board of Control has ruled.

The ruling does not debar subjects of the Republic of Ireland from holding licences to box in British rings; but the issuance of licences to Irish-born promoters, managers and referees will be "the subject of further discussion."

MINOR HOCKEY

Only one game was played at the Arena last night due to the meeting at Queen Mary Auditorium, a Midget encounter in which Trojans defeated Habegail Optimists 10-6.

It was a fast game all the way with Driscoll and Holland standing out for the losers. Hooper of Trojans looked best; however all Trojan lines were strong until the last period when they let the Optimists through to score four goals. They picked up five themselves to make up for these. It was 4-1 for Trojans at the end of the first with one more goal to each team in the second period. Goals for Trojans were scored by Johnson, Seabrooke, Bloom, Griffin, Dunn, Goodson, one each and Doris and Hooper getting two each. Optimists' goals were by Mullen, Green, Holland, one each with Driscoll getting three. Watch this paper tomorrow for a listing of the top scorers in each section including leading goalers.

Curling News

By Herb Martin

Well, it looks as if everything will be OK for this evening, and after reading this morning's "probs" we are mighty sure of it.

That being the case, Group No. will play at 7 o'clock and Group No. 5 at 9 o'clock.

Saturday's program — Men's bonspiel 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Room for a few more entries, but make it snappy. Fee $4.00. In the evening at 7.45 o'clock sharp, the weekend mixed rink bonspiel. Draw from the board. Please note the time.

It is most likely that the games' committee will make some announcement regarding the games that were cancelled last evening.

Franklin P. Jones says: The trouble with being punctual is that nobody's there to appreciate it.

Towne Togs Get First Win From Cobourg

Towne Togs yanked out a 24-19 verdict over Cobourg in overtime last night in the YWCA here to open their Lakeshore basketball schedule. Due to a slippery floor, play was ragged the first half with a lot of spills taking place. Togs trailed by 5-4 this low-scoring session, and it was tied at 16-all at the end of regulation time. Cobourg led 15-6 at three-quarter time but the local lasses, led by Jean Vass, sewed it up.

In overtime, J. Dufton, of Cobourg, tossed in a field goal but R. Hewitt tied it up once more and Joan Dunk followed with a field goal, and they went on to win by a fair extra-inning margin. Cobourg sank seven of 14 foul tries while Togs got one in six. All the winners looked good, with J. Vass, R. Hewitt sparkling up front and D. Saunders shining on defence. J. Dufton, H. Omerod and M. Fisher went good for the visitors. Teams:

Cobourg—J. Dufton 9, E. Jamieson, D. Allan 1, H. Omerod 5, L. Charlton, E. Smith, J. Jones 2, M. Fisher 2, I. Waite, M. Lane.

Towne Togs—J. Vass 12, D. Callan 2, M. Freeman, J. Dunk 6, E. Whittaker, D. Saunders, R. Hewitt 4, M. Stewart, M. McNeely.

City Carpetball

The schedule for the week of January 9 is:

Legion No. 6 vs. Big Bens No. 1; Treasurer's No. 9 vs. Quakers No. 4; LOL No. 8 vs. SOE No. 3; Legion No. 5 vs. Glens No. 10; Legion No. 7 vs. St. George's No. 2.

The games to finish up the old year were not in keeping with the season as four teams ran away with all the points while the other one split the points. There was one match downright shameful.

The Anglicans entertained the Posties at the washrack and went down to 8-15 defeat in the first game but by finishing strong in the last four frames of the second were successful in pulling it from the fire by a score of 11-8.

Those Bakers went for a visit last week at the Fire Hall and the Firemen had their high-powered jets in play and swept to a 17-7 victory in the first encounter. Lo and behold, with so much water around when the second match started, the Bakers thought their balls were covered with so much dough that they could not get them down to the kitty. Their hosts were leading them 23-0. Their skip crashed through in the final end to score once, so his team mates wouldn't have a skunk hanging over their heads in the New Year.

King Billie and his merry men were squeezed dry when they were the guests of the Big Bens. The Bens' springs were really taut as Billie found out to the tune of 9-10 and 7-16.

The Old Sweats had better take a tip from those Quaker Men and use some of their famous products for pep as they need it after suffering two smashing defeats at their hands by scores of 9-14 and 9-16.

Glens, after being called a hot team, have been suffering defeat after defeat. They have been jinxed! On their visit to the Old Citadel, which is a tough proposition any time, they were leading by 2 points at the 10th end but the Sons finished strongly to defeat them 13-9 and kept on going at that pace to run up another victory 13-4.

There will be a meeting at 7.20 sharp at the Legion Hall on Wednesday, Jan. 11, re the financial returns of the draw and plans for repeating the cups and etc.

The Gracie's Memorial Doubles draw will be in this column next week.

Standing up to January 2:

Vancouver's Irene Strong Chosen Outstanding Athlete

By JACK SULLIVAN.

TORONTO, Jan. 5 (CP)—Irene Strong, 20-year-old Vancouver swimmer who owns 19 Canadian records, collects prize winning dogs and is "crazy" about horses, today was named Canada's outstanding female athlete of 1949. Choice of the shapely mermaid broke the three-year-hold on the award by Ottawa's Barbara Ann Scott.

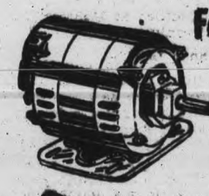
Dark-haired Rene, now en route to the British Empire games in Auckland, N. Z., headed the annual year end poll conducted by The Canadian Press. Forty-three sports editors across the country participated in the five-question ballot, but only 25 named their best female athlete selections.

Irene's choice was close. Track star Eleanor McKenzie of Vancouver, also on her way to the Feb. 4-11 BE games, took the runner-up position, just seven points behind. The poll, operated on a 3-2-1 point basis, gave swimmer Irene 32 points.

Barbara Ann, whose figure skating is the nearest thing to perfection in the ice sport, ended third with 15 points. She topped the poll in 1946-47-48 when she took every amateur figure skating title in the world and then turned professional.

Viola Myers, blonde Toronto track star who is scheduled to leave by air for the BE games Jan. 17, was fourth with nine points. Kay Miles, London, Ont., swimmer, placed fifth with five, one point up on Rhona Wurtele, Montreal skier, and Toronto's Suzanne Morrow, Canadian figure skating champion who succeeded to Barbara Ann Scott's title nearly a year ago.

Lindsay Flyers Hand Bowmanville Lacing



LINDSAY, Jan. 5.—Lindsay Flyers came through with a last minute goal in overtime to edge a shoot-handed Bowmanville Imperial team, 10-9, in the OHA Intermediate A League opener here.

Doc Gleeson, Lew McTaggart and Ralph Wakelin led the Lindsay scorers with two goals each. Doug Furey and Bob Bird fired three each for the losers, while 14-year-old Don Masters notched a pair.

Kingston Edges Electrics 6-5

BELLEVILLE, Jan. 5.—Kingston Nylons edged the Belleville Diesel Electrics, 6-5, here Wednesday night in a wide-open OHA senior "B" fixture in the Belleville Arena.

The defeat was the first suffered by the locals on home ice this season.

The winners took a 3-2 advantage in the first period. Each team tallied twice in the middle stanza and once in the final 20 minutes. Johnny Armstrong, with three goals and two assists, was the top marksman for the winners while Bud Aitken netted a pair. Ken Partis also scored.

Al Meagher, Tom Schrieder, Leo Goyer, Tim Williams and Pete Jones were the Belleville marksmen.

Rangers Edge Detroit 2-1 Hawks Hold Leafs To Tie

By HARRY ECCLES
Canadian Press Staff Writer:

While the New York Rangers were edging Detroit Red Wings by 2-1 Wednesday night, the Toronto Maple Leafs were held to a 4-4 tie by the Chicago Black Hawks.

The rampaging Rangers climbed into undisputed possession of second place in the National Hockey League, 11 points behind the powerful Detroit pack.

But the Maple Leafs, three-time winners of the Stanley Cup, still could not break their winless streak. They were playing two men short when Gaye Stewart of Chicago scored the tying goal in the third frame, and that made two ties and five losses for the Leafs since they last won a game December 18 over the New York Rangers.

The standing today shows Detroit with 48 points, New York 37, Montreal 35, Boston 32, Toronto 31, and Chicago 29. Montreal and Boston, idle last night, are scheduled at Montreal in tonight's only game.

Get Snap Goal

A crowd of 13,385 at Madison Square Garden saw the Rangers take the lead on a snap goal at 29 seconds after the first face-off, when Pentti Lund drove Eddie Slowinski's pass between the legs of Detroit goalie Harry Lumley. With one Ranger in the cooler, the Wings tied it up seven minutes later, Joe Carveth scoring after a face-off on assists from Sid Abel and Gordie Howe.

The Rangers carried the attack most of the way after that and it paid off when Tony Leswick scored early in the third period after snaffling a bullet pass from Edgar Laprade.

At Toronto a crowd of 12,998 saw the Leafs ahead until Stewart tied it up. Ted Kennedy, returning to centre after a month's layoff with an injured knee, scored one of the Toronto goals. Rudy Migay, Vic Lynn and Howie Meeker got the others. Besides Stewart, Chicago's goal-getters were Metro Prystai, Red Hamill and Gus Bodnar.

After a 2-2 deadlock in the first frame, Toronto took the offensive and led 4-3 going into the final. Stewart's typing goal came after 5.55 minutes while Thomson and Ezinicki of the Leafs were serving penalties, Thomson for hooking and Ezinicki because he stepped on the ice too soon during a player change.

Spitfires Dump Marlboros In 6-3 Contest

By The Canadian Press.

With their top threesome of Reibel-Skov-Stankiewicz leading the attack, Windsor Spitfires last night dumped the league-leading Toronto Marlboros 6-3 in a four-point contest to advance two rungs on the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A ladder.

Last night's contest was the first of eight extra-point games the Spitfires must play as the result of an OHA executive ruling that eight games they had won earlier in the season while using ineligible players were "no contest." The ruling pushed the Spitfires from a close second down to seventh place, but last night's win had them all the way up to the fourth slot, breathing down the necks of St. Catharines Teepees.

Two other junior games last night ended in ties. St. Michael's College and Oshawa Generals battled to a 5-5 overtime stalemate while Stratford Kroehlers were holding St. Catharines Teepees to a 6-6 draw. That left St. Michael's in a fifth-place tie with Barrie, who lost 5-4 to Guelph. Stratford's one point was not enough to lift them out of the cellar, the position they have occupied for the main portion of the season.

Last night's only senior contest was at Waterloo where the Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen blasted cellar-place Hamilton Tigers 7-1. Standings were not affected.

Never On Top

At Windsor, Marlboros were never on top, the Spitfires taking a 2-1 lead in the first frame, staying one up at 4-3 in the second, and closing out with two unanswered tallies in the final session.

Glen Skov was the big gun for the winners, potting a trio of markers. Earl Reibel, leading scorer in the league, copped a pair and Vic Howe added a singleton. George Armstrong, Danny Lewicki and George Aitken clicked for the Toronto club.

At the Oshawa Arena, Bob Sabourin sank a counter with one minute to play to give the St. Michael's crew a split in points.

The clubs split a pair of tallies in the opening session, but St. Michael's went ahead in the second, outscoring the homesters 2-1. The third frame saw a reversal of procedure, the Gens pumping home three markers to the Collegians' two.

Fred Sandford and Will Marshall each picked up a pair of markers in the Irish cause, Sabourin counting the other tally.

Count In Overtime

St. Catharines and Stratford both counted once in the overtime period of their game for the 6-6 tie.

After equally dividing four markers in the initial period, Stratford went into a 3-2 lead with the only score of the middle frame only to have the visitors outscore them 3-2 in the third.

Obie O'Brien and Tom Buck each sniped two goals for Teepees with Jack White and Norm Corcoran counting singles.

Aurry Dunnette was the only two-goal man for the Kroehlers, Doug French, Jim Pernfuss, Bibber O'Hearn, and Dinny Flanagan dividing the other four Stratford counters.

Guelph were never behind the Barrie Flyers in tightening their grip on second place. Taking a 1-0 lead in the first period, they increased it to 3-1 in the second and staved off a desperate Flyer rally in the finale to emerge on the long end of a 5-4 count.

Hockey's Big Seven

By The Canadian Press.

National Hockey League activity Wednesday night saw Sid Abel of Detroit Red Wings gain one point on teammate Ted Lindsay who leads the individual scoring race with 42 points.

Abel picked up an assist to boost his total to 37 while Lindsay failed to muster a point as Detroit lost to New York Rangers.

Chicago's Roy Conacher broke out of four-player deadlock for fourth place to move into a 34-point third place tie with Doug Bentley also of Chicago. Conacher assisted in two goals as Hawks tied Toronto Maple Leafs.

Still tied for the next position with 32 points each are Maurice Richard, Montreal, John Peirson and Paul Ronty, Boston.

The leaders:	G	A	Pts
Lindsay, Detroit	16	26	42
Abel, Detroit	16	21	37
D. Bentley, Chicago	7	27	34
R. Conacher, Chicago	15	19	34
Richard, Montreal ..	23	9	32
Peirson, Boston	16	16	32
Ronty, Boston	14	18	32

Village Of Coldwater Produces Thhree Big Stars

COLDWATER, Ont.,—(CP) — This village of some 640 souls frequently looks back fondly on the days when it outstripped larger centres in production of athletic stars.

There were three big stars: the late George R. Gray, who set a world record for the shot putt and later became a leader in Canadian industry; Walter Knox, sprinter and pole vaulter, who later became a track and field coach and got into mining ventures; and Henry Gill, a decathlon star who afterwards was field coach at the University of Illinois for 30 years.

A traveller from Toronto who watched the then 30-year-old husky practise in front of his father's store started George Gray on an athletic career. He got Gray to go to Toronto for an international competition in 1895. And the unknown youth from this community, some 80 miles north of Toronto, tossed the 16-pound shot 41 feet, 6½ inches to set a world record and beat champions from England, Ireland and the United States.

Two years later Gray joined the New York Athletic Club. He won shot-putt events in Ireland and at the Chicago World's Fair. Records he established stood until 1902.

Later he won success in the business world, becoming president of the Spanish River Pulp and Paper Company. When it merged with the Abitibi Power and Paper Company he became an Abitibi official. He died in 1933 at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

Decathlon Star

Henry Gill, about 10 years younger than Gray, got inspiration from the older man's example. In 1900, representing West End Y. M. C. A. of Toronto he won the American decathlon championship at New York. In 1902 at Boston he won the world professional decathlon title. Then he took up the coaching work at Illinois. Now he lives in retirement at Atherley, near Orillia, where he lives in a house once owned by the late Jake Gaudaur, who won the world sculling championship for Canada.

Knox, now 71, had his best year in 1903 when he won 12 first prizes in an open meet at Sault Ste. Marie, putting 12-pound shot 55 feet, five inches, one inch short of the then world record.

In 1907 at Toronto he won five Canadian championships in one meet—the 100-yard dash, pole vault, 16-pound shot putt, running broad jump and discus throw. In 1911 he went to Scotland and set a Scottish pole vault record of 12.5 feet at Inverness.

In the early 1920s, Knox became known to schoolboys all over Ontario when he served as a travelling track and field coach for provincial high schools.

Marlies Lead Scoring Parade

TORONTO, Jan. 5 (CP)—Toronto Marlboros, red hot leaders of the Ontario Hockey Association senior league, continue to dominate both win and scoring columns.

Scoring statistics released Wednesday show the top four scoring leaders are red and white sweatered Marlies.

Johnny McCormack is the leader with 50 points—17 goals and 33 assists. Trailing by five points is wingmate Scotty Mair, with 29 goals and 16 assists. Al Buchanan third member of the Duke's top line, is next with 38 points, 17 goals and 21 assists. In fourth place is Bill Johnson, with 34 points.

Marlies' Pat Boehmer, is top man in the goalie division with a 2.48 goals a game average.

Earl Reibel, of Windsor Spitfires, heads the junior A group in scoring honors with 68 points—27 goals and 41 assists. Con Switzer of St. Catharines Teepees is second with 62 points, 19 goals and 43 assists. Marlboro's George Armstrong is in third spot with 59 points, on 33 goals and 26 assists.

Don Lockhart of Marlboros, is the league's top goalie with a 2.32 goals a game average against him.

Mother Dies

Mrs. Beatrice Sheratt Stewart, 67, mother of defenceman Jack Stewart of Detroit Red Wings, of the NHL, died Wednesday night at her home at Pilot Mound, 85 miles southwest of Winnipeg. Born at Perth, Ont., in 1883, she went west with her sister in 1907 settling in Pilot Mound. In 1910 she returned to Perth and married John Calvin Stewart, then both returned to Pilot Mound.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Joltin' Joe DiMaggio, the fellow who got up from a sick bed to lead New York Yankees to the American League pennant, made sports' greatest comeback in 1949.

Twenty of 93 sports writers who answered the Associated Press" annual year-end poll, voted for DiMaggio, who did not even get into a league game until June 28.

The jolter barely nosed out the Yankee team as a whole, which clinched the pennant on the last day of the season after trailing Boston Red Sox by a full game two days before the end of the campaign.

Nineteen writers nodded toward the Yanks, but in the process many of them noted that they were voting for the team with a big assist to DiMaggio. To make the Yankee comeback monopoly almost complete, manager Casey Stengel received six votes to tie for third place with the Louisiana State football team.

A young Swedish runner who came to the United States for a college education has served notice on America's top milers he is ready to give them some stiff competition.

Alf Holmberg, a slight, 20-year-old blond from Stockholm, won his American outdoor track debut in the Sugar Bowl mile at New Orleans last Sunday. This Saturday he will make his first start indoors in the Knights of Columbus meet at Brooklyn.

Holmberg's time in the Sugar Bowl race was a comparatively slow 4:18.4, but it was the first time he had ever run the mile competitively.

It was learned unofficially on Wednesday at Galt that the winner of the Ontario schoolboy curling matches will not represent Ontario in the Dominion championships to be held in Quebec this year. The Ontario event is slated for Feb. 2 and 3. Last year the Ontario Association declined to send a rink west because of the expenses involved.

Mayor Hiram McCallum of Toronto said Wednesday he expects that provincial legislation will be passed in time for Toronto to have Sunday baseball games next summer. Toronto voters at the civic elections Monday approved the question of permitting amateur, professional "and other forms of commercialized sport" on Sundays.

At Scunthorpe, Lincolnshire, Eng., George Chenier of Toronto Canadian snooker champion, on Wednesday night led Peter Mans, South African champion, 22-14 at the half-way mark in their quarter final heat in the world professional snooker championship tournament.

Lee Oma, heavyweight contender from Newark, N. J., chalked up his 12th straight victory on Wednesday night with a narrow 10-round decision over Freddie Beshore of Oakland, Calif., before 7,200 fans in Buffalo Memorial Auditorium.

Oshawa Nips Lindsay 8-7

LINDSAY, Jan. 5 (CP)—The league leading Oshawa Bees remained on top of the Central Ontario OHA Junior B League by eking out an 8-7 win over Lindsay Kinsmen in a fast game on Wednesday night.

Paced by the three goal effort of Gord Myles, the Bees buzzed to a 2-1 lead in the first, outscored Lindsay 3-2 in the second and earned the victory with five minutes to go when Lindsay defenceman shoved the puck in his own net.

Arn Kanys starred for Lindsay with two goals and two assists. Dave Lucas, Bob Lewis, Hank Debois, Orlin Crawford and Jerry Nicholls added singletons. Ted Degray shot two for the Bees while Frank Etcher, Jedd Wilson and Grant Dodd were the other marksmen.

Question Time In House Believed Without Parallel

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON, Jan. 5 (CP)—Question time in the House of Commons, an institution as distinctively British as crumpets, cricket and afternoon tea, is probably without parallel among the parliaments of the world.

Other debating chambers, including the Canadian Commons, allow time for urgent questions. But Britain beats them all for formalities.

For Westminster has put the parliamentary quiz game on a pedestal; question time is a ritual respected by all parties and surrounded by its own rules and precedents.

History's Ear

On every working day except Friday, as soon as prayers are over, the Commons settles down to nearly an hour of verbal third degree on subjects ranging from African peanuts to Algerian wine.

The original queries may be innocent enough. The really trying time comes with the tricky "supplementary" questions, fired by any member and answered on the spur of the moment.

Sometimes befuddled ministers, fumbling through sheafs of notes, fall into miscues which leave the government front bench red-faced and exasperated.

Accidental humor may be recorded for posterity, as in the recent exchange between Ernest Marples, Conservative member for Wallasey, and Works Minister Charles Key:

Slow Enough Already

Marples: "Can the minister assure the House that there has been no official hint from his department to the working party to delay its report on the building industry?"

Key: "There is absolutely no necessity for me to do that."

Questions must be submitted at least two days in advance, allowing time for departmental "homework" if statistics are involved. Sometimes queries are refused. In December, a member tried to get a question down on a play named "A Streetcar Named Desire," now playing to standing-room-only audiences in London's west end.

Off The Trolley

The question was rejected, so the story goes, because "the naming of passenger vehicles is a matter of day-to-day administration for which the transport commission, and not the minister, is responsible."

The passion for parliamentary question-and-answer started in 1835, when notice of a question was printed for the first time. In 1849, questions were honored by a regular place on the order paper and averaged about one a day.

Today, 100 years later, the daily average is more than 100, occupying several pages of the order paper.

Two Brothers Charged With Belleville Theft

FREDERICTON, Jan. 5 (CP)—Theft charges against two Toronto brothers, William Larue, 21, and Stanley Larue, 24, were laid Wednesday following their arrest Sunday near St. Stephen. They were remanded.

Police reported recovery of a car stolen at Belleville, Ont., and discovery near Saint John of a cache containing goods stolen in the Federation area last week. Thefts also had been reported at Hampstead and New River.

Find Figures Up

OTTAWA, Jan. 5 (CP)—Both the number of unemployed and those at work increased in Canada in the year up to last Oct. 29, the Bureau of Statistics reported Wednesday. The figures included the new Province of Newfoundland for the first time since the DBS started taking its quarterly "sample survey" of the labor force, based on questioning of 30,000 households.

Make Weather Flight

BOURNEMOUTH, Eng., Jan. 5 (CP)—A picked aircrew will soon be making flights in a Viking airliner—looking for the first weather they can find. The flights will be made from the nearby British Overseas Airways Corporation development centre at Hurns to test special radar equipment developed by a British company.

Hold Funeral Service For William Fleming

TORONTO, Jan. 5 — (CP) — Funeral services will be held today for William R. Fleming, 66, associated for the last 50 years with investment business in Toronto and Oshawa. He died Tuesday night at his daughter's home in suburban Lansing.

He was head of the W. R. Fleming Company in Oshawa for 12 years and was appointed manager of the Oshawa branch of the J. H. Crang and Company, brokers, last year.

Besides a daughter, his widow and two sons survive.

Find Beer Heading List As Drinking Increases

OTTAWA, Jan. 5 (CP)—Consumption of beer and liquor in Canada is more than double what it was 10 years ago.

And more people turned to beer instead of wine and liquor during the last fiscal year.

Consumption of beer reached a record—175,465,092 gallons—during the year ended March 31, 1949, the Bureau of Statistics reported today.

Liquor consumption was lower than the previous year. But it still was higher than in any year except the record 1947-48 fiscal year.

It was a big year, too, for the federal tax collector. He got $141,734,386 from taxes on alcoholic beverages. Provincial governments got more, but provincial revenues for the fiscal year were not available.

The bureau said no exact figures on consumption were kept. It based its calculations on production, storage, import and export of the beverages.

The big beer consumption brought in $59,693,000 in federal taxes. The year before, beer consumption was 165,743,000 gallons. In the 1939-40 fiscal year it was only 66,290,000 gallons.

Consumption of spirits was 6,833,255 proof gallons, compared with 7,320,000 the year before. In 1940, consumption was 3,818,400 proof gallons.

Federal taxes on spirits amounted to $79,400,000 during the year.

Wine consumption was 4,711,000 gallons, compared with 5,213,000. In 1940 it was 4,012,000.

During the 1948-49 fiscal year Canada imported $15,178,000 worth of spirits, $169,450 worth of beer and $2,082,000 worth of wine.

Exports during the same period were $29,600,000 worth of spirits, $1,687,000 worth of beer and $20,570 worth of wine.

Open Play Tour

LONDON, Ont., Jan. 5 (CP)—A Canadian enterprise, the New World Theatre Company, presented "Arsenic and Old Lace" before a near capacity and responsive audience at the Grand Theatre Wednesday night, opening a five weeks' tour of eastern cities.

Approve Suspensions

MONTREAL, Jan. 5 (CP)—The town council of suburban Ville St. Michel Wednesday night unanimously approved the suspension of its police chief and 12 employees of the police and fire departments following reports of alleged corruption and lack of discipline.

Falls Through Ice Girl 9 Drowns

CHESTERVILLE, Ont., Jan. 5 (CP) — Nine-year-old Shirley Cross, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Cross, was drowned in the Nation River Wednesday when she fell through ice weakened by the unusual weather. A companion, nine-year-old Ann Wong, was saved.

The girls were crossing the river on their way home from school when the ice gave way. Both were pulled from the icy water by Ed. Lynch, a local insurance agent, who used a plank to reach the girls.

Chesterville is 35 miles southeast of Ottawa.

Aiding Wrong People

TORONTO, Jan. 5 (CP) — Labor representatives said on Wednesday at an inquiry into the workings of the Ontario Workmen's Compensation Act, that accident prevention associations were used to save employers' money instead of preventing accidents. They suggested to Mr. Justice W. D. Roach, conducting the hearing, that "safety work be under the supervision of the board.

1628 Union Cards IUE Submission, Board Undecided

Another round was fought Wednesday between the UE and the IUE-CIO for the right to be the bargaining agent for the more than 3,000 production workers at the CGE plant. The Ontario Labor Relations Board at a hearing in Toronto reserved judgment on an application of the IUE to supplant the UE.

To substantiate their claim the IUE submitted 1,628 cards which they said were signed by paid up members, 29 cards signed but on which the membership fee of $1 had not been paid, and a number of statements by workers "whose religious convictions prevented them from joining any organization."

Company figures indicate there were 3,047 eligible workers in the plant on December 30.

UE Reply

In reply, the UE, which intervened strongly in the hearing filed 1,371 cards signed by workers indicating they had not joined the right-wing union.

C. L. Dubin, counsel for the UE, asked the Board to check carefully the signatures on the two sets of cards for duplication. Such duplication could indicate a fraud, he pointed out.

Mr. Dubin challenged the right of one of the Board members to sit in on the hearing. Mr. Archer is secretary of the Toronto Labor Council, and the UE counsel stated he had disqualified himself by participating in the union campaign against the UE.

Several leaflets were produced as evidence by Mr. Dubin. He contended Mr. Archer had helped to distribute them to CGE workers at Toronto.

UE Request Rejected

After retiring for some time to consider the question the Board reconvened and rejected the UE request for disqualification. Chairman P. M. Draper said there were no alternate members and the division between employer and employee representation on the Board could not be changed.

(In a leaflet issued to the Peterborough workers today the IUE charged the UE-ers with attempting to stall proceedings by demanding the services of a court stenographer. The request was withdrawn only when they realized a week's adjournment would be too obvious a stall, the IUE leaflet charged.

Mr. Dubin claimed also that the yellow cards submitted by the IUE were not evidence of membership but actually cards for membership in the CCL. He asked for the application to be dismissed on these grounds.

E. B. Jolliffe, counsel for the IUE said the cards had an IUE stamp on them and those signing it knew it was for membership in the CIO-CCL-afilliated union.

The UE stated that when the cards were first distributed the UE was still a CCL union, and added that in any case the CCL did not have the authority to charter an international union.

NEWLY-APPOINTED RECREATIONAL DIRECTOR, Alex Sinclair of Moose Jaw, Right, met chairman of the Peterborough Recreation Commission, Col. R. J. Bolton on Wednesday. Like all citizens, Mr. Sinclair was bewildered at the warm weather and said he had experienced usual low temperatures in Winnipeg on his trip from the West. Examiner Staff Photo

New Director Of Recreation Assumes Duties

Alex Sinclair, Peterborough's new recreation director, assumed his duties on Tuesday and today expressed himself as well satisfied with the present layout. Peterborough is well organized recreationally, he said.

Armar Butcher, superintendent of parks, took Mr. Sinclair on a tour of the city's playgrounds, parks and rinks Wednesday afternoon to acquaint him with some of the recreational program.

Recreation was defined by Mr. Sinclair as some worth-while use of leisure time. Sports, as well as the arts and crafts, he said, are worth-while uses for leisure time. Minor sports in the city will be given all the assistance possible, he added.

As a start, Mr. Sinclair plans to make a survey of the city to find out the over-lapping of recreation or the need for certain types of recreation. This survey will be similar to a survey taken in Moose Jaw when he first started as director there. It will be made immediately and should be finished in two months. A long range plan will then be developed to fill the needs of the city.

The survey, said Mr. Sinclair, will list all the facilities available, both commercial and non-commercial. The number of people using these recreational facilities will also be determined as well as the areas they serve. The recreational program for the next five years will be based on the results of the survey.

At the present time Mr. Sinclair is living at the YMCA until suitable accommodation can be acquired for Mrs. Sinclair and their two children.

Last of 226 New Homes Be Completed In One Week

Reynolds Construction Company are completing in another week the last of the 226 houses they are building under contract for Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation. The company will then begin work on probably the last of the Peterborough projects, the building of 100 houses for rental to war veterans and their families as obtained by agreement last year with Central Mortgage.

The contractors finished 215 houses of the No. 10 project in 1949. It is understood that they have all been rented by Central Mortgage and Housing, and that the remaining houses of the project may be wound up in another ten days or thereabouts.

These houses are located in the south end of the city and along the eastern edge of Ashburnham. Some of them are in the neighborhood of the Peterborough Lock, south of Lansdowne St., and in the Morrow-Shelbourne locality. Others are grouped on O'Connell, Rose, McKellar and other streets in the new south end.

Foundations Taken Out

The foundations for the 100 houses in the final project have already been poured on streets west of Monaghan Road, extending to the vicinity of the C.N.R. and Erskine Ave.

Central Mortgage informed the council and the country last year that they were not extending this year their construction of houses for rental. That decision probably affects the Hatton project at the west end of Charlotte St.

Some day, not in the immediate future, the Hatton block is to be removed. Several members of the council have expressed the opinion that replacement in another location should be considered by Central Mortgage because virtually they were partners in the original housing scheme for the wartime emergency. There has been no suggestion as to when these houses may be gathered up and moved away. If it were to occur at present, other housing accommodation would have to be found for the 126 tenants of that block.

None of these houses has been sold by Central Mortgage, who were restricted to rental terms by the Corporation's agreement with the city.

Cottage Thefts Solved By Police

LINDSAY, Jan. 5.—Convicted of breaking into three cottages in the Grace Lake area of Haliburton county, two Toronto youths, Robert Avery, 21, and Douglas Small, 18, were sentenced to reformatory terms here on Wednesday.

Avery, who pleaded guilty to the charges, was sentenced to 18 months definite and nine months indefinite. Small's sentence was four months.

Police said the two broke into cottages owned by Toronto men, Dr. Harris Grey, Albert Weighman and Harold G. Powles early in December. The loot was listed as two outboard motors, a .22 calibre German rifle, a motor rug, trolling rods and reels, some liquor, a windbreaker, a lantern and canned goods.

The cottages had been ransacked but little damage done. The outboard motors were recovered in Toronto by a York township detective. Avery said he sold the rifle in a Toronto Queen St. pool room, but did not know which one.

Four New Faces On 1950 County Council

Four newcomers will be on the 1950 Peterborough County Council when it assembles on January 17 for the statutory meeting.

One of them, Gordon Fitzgerald, newly-elected deputy-reeve of Smith, served as deputy some years ago, but the other three will take their seats in the council chamber for the first time.

Two of the newcomers are from Douro. Roland Tedford will take the place of Jeremiah Mahoney, who was reeve for the past eight years and warden of the county in 1945. Mr. Mahoney declined to stand this year.

Mr. Tedford defeated John J. Leahy, a former reeve, by 250 votes (469 to 219).

Has Deputy-Reeve

This year Douro will have a deputy-reeve, which means for first time that township will have two votes in Council. For municipal purposes the population of Douro is now considered more than 1,000, and this automatically gives the right to have a deputy.

Loyola Maloney, a former councillor, was acclaimed to the new office.

Unlike the elections of 1949 when there was a high mortality rate among the encumbent reeves, this year not one was defeated at the polls.

Most interesting battle was in Smith where Reeve Ross Harrison defeated Deputy-Reeve Robert Tully for the reeveship by 199 votes (603 to 404). This was the first election for both of them since they succeeded to their respective offices after the death of Gilbert McIlmoyl early in 1948.

In 1949 both were returned by acclamation. This year, however, Mr. Tully tried to move up, but failed in his initial bid, capturing only two of seven polls.

Gordon Fitzgerald, who once before was deputy-reeve of Smith, was defeated by Milton Clark, 642 to 388. Mr. Fitzgerald had retired from the Township Council some years ago, but then returned, and will give Smith its third vote (the reeve having two votes, as there are more than 2,000 in the township) in the County Council.

Senior Member

Senior member of the Council will be James Gifford, reeve of Ennismore. He has been in municipal politics for more than 20 years, and is beginning his 17th consecutive term as reeve. He was returned by acclamation.

Glen Nichols of Chandos is returning for his second term after defeating Gerald Ayotte 141 votes to 52. In 1949 he succeeded Albert Hall who had served six previous terms.

FOUR NEW FACES

1,642 Births In City In 1949

Births in Peterborough in 1949 totalled 1,642 more than tripling the number of deaths. In 1948 the births totalled 1,631 which shows that the high birthrate in Peterborough for the past few years is continuing. Deaths in 1949 were 518 and in 1948 they totalled 503.

Births last December totalled 119 against 114 in the same month in 1948 while 44 residents died being six more than the December of 1948.

Architects Call For Tenders To Build Memorial Centre George-Rink Site In View

Tenders for the building of the Memorial Centre at George and Rink Streets are being invited by the local firm of architects, W. and W. R. L. Blackwell & Craig, as directed some weeks ago. Responding contractors are also asked to quote a sum for the building of the Centre on a normal site, which would not require the concrete piling which has generally been decided as necessary at Rink St. The contractors were instructed to ask for alternate bids indicating the amount by which their estimate for Rink St. would be reduced providing the conditions for footings were normal.

This action has been taken by the council for several reasons. The property is owned by the city. The site is close to the business centre, affording an advantage in location which should be reflected in prospective income. It overlooks Little Lake now in the process of being reclaimed from pollution, and is regarded as scenically desirable.

Site Considerations

It is understood that if bids for the Centre at Rink St. are favorable in comparison with the cost of the same work on a normal site, the question of location will be finally determined.

City council offered the property to the Centre committee, and proposed the alternate tenders for the purpose of obtaining complete information of cost to settle the question of use or abandonment.

That is the substance of the report of the architects to the council at its regular meeting.

2 Badly Hurt In Car Smash

COMBER, Ont., Jan. 5 (CP)—Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mummery of Tilbury were seriously injured and two other passengers were shaken up early today when their automobile crashed into the rear of an auto transport on the highway near this Essex County town 20 miles east of Windsor.

The Mummerys were taken to hospital in Chatham. Mr. Mummery suffered a collapsed lung, fractured left leg, chest injuries, and shock, and his condition is reported serious. His wife, Marion, received a dislocated hip, fractured leg and ribs and facial abrasions when she was thrown through the car's windshield.

Claire and Clint Chevalier of Tilbury received bruises, but were not seriously injured.

Police said the transport, driven by William Macafee of Pickering, stopped to aid a motorist in trouble. They said the oncoming Mummery car apparently could not stop or swerve past the truck because of other traffic.

Burnt Out Generator Damages Stationery

About $400 damage was caused to an electric generator when it overheated and burned out at Elliott Stationery on George St., Wednesday night.

Firemen were called but the damage had been done by the time they arrived and an extinguisher was not used.

Smoke was observed pouring from a generator house at the rear of the main building at 8:25 p.m. by Police Constable Douglas Farthing. When he investigated he found it was the generator. The fan belt had broken and the motor became overheated.

Prices Of Pork Remain Firm For Rest Of Week

No change in price of pork and bacon has been reported since the drop of between five and ten cents a pound in most Peterborough meat stores during the early part of this week. Retail butchers are expecting to be selling at the same prices during the remainder of the week. Forecasts for next week's prices vary. Some expect the price to drop lower and others, perhaps more optimistically, prophesy an upward trend.

The reduction in prices of hogs is widespread and attributed directly to the new contract with Britain, which is far less favorable to Canada than was last year's contract.

Reductions in Toronto have been more drastic than in Peterborough. Loin chops are down in Peterborough from approximately 68 cents to 63 a pound, a leg of pork selling here for 49 cents last week, is now 45 and shoulder is down from 37 to 35 cents. Bacon is five and six cents cheaper than last week's price.

Canada Packers report the price of hogs down $2.50 a hundred dressed weight in comparison with prices two weeks ago.

Boy Knocked Off Bike Motorist Doesn't Stop

Eleven-year-old Johnny McCarthy was knocked off his bicycle when hit by a car, which did not stop, at Aylmer and Hunter Streets Tuesday night. He received a gash under his chin, which required five stitches, and a small cut on his left hand.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. D. Frank McCarthy, 582 Aylmer Street, he was on his way home from Powers' grocery store.

He was riding east on Hunter Street. At Aylmer Street, a car travelling south on Aylmer Street made a left turn into Hunter Street, cutting against the northeast corner. At the curb on the corner the car struck the bicycle and threw young McCarthy to the sidewalk.

A woman who had been passing, helped the boy to a doctor. Constable W. S. Fife investigated.

Name Medical Board For New Hospital

TORONTO, Jan. 5 — (CP). — Health Minister Kelley said today a medical advisory board for the treatment of alcoholism will be set up soon at the new Provincial Hospital in suburban Erindale. The Government recently appointed a board of eight businessmen to supervise business administration.

The medical board, consisting of four members, will have general supervision of treatment of patients and will recommend young doctors to act on the staff.

The minister said he expected the hospital would be opened on January 16 with a brief ceremony "at which no liquor would be served."

Army Squad Learns Ice Rescue Methods

WINNIPEG —(CP)— The first Army "Ice Rescue" team in manitoba went through its paces recently on an artificial lake near here.

Composed of nine instructor-candidates from Prairie Command, the team is pioneering in organized use of ice-rescue equipment and methods, as part of a course in water safety instruction.

In the recent exercise, the men carried on in near-zero temperatures—crawling along the frozen surface o. the lake handling ropes, boards, and other equipment, forming human chains and practising methods of revival. Most emphasized drill was the "snake crawl," used in crossing dangerously thin ice.

On completion of the course, the men will instruct army personnel, and their families from Fort Osborne Barracks here, in latest methods of ice-rescue.

Girl Runs Away As Dutch Family Starts Back Home

ROSENEATH, Jan. 5.—A 13-year-old Dutch girl, Agnes Smeenk, ran away from her family in Roseneath and was missing overnight because, she said, she did not want to return to Holland with her family who came to Canada six months ago.

The girl crept into the home of Edward Noonan in Roseneath at 7:30 this morning tired, cold and hungry after her night of hiding in various places about the village.

She had disappeared at six p.m. Wednesday night, one hour before a car was to arrive and take the family to Peterborough, the first lap on the 4,000 mile journey to the Netherlands.

Her disappearance was reported to Provincial Constable Arthur A. Kellogg, stationed at Hastings. This morning he picked her up at the Noonan home, and drove her to Toronto.

Parents To Peterborough

In the meantime, the girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Smeenk and their six other children, all younger than Agnes, had been driven to Peterborough. After staying the night in a hotel they left for Toronto on the 7:10 a.m. train. Agnes, when found, was to be sent to them in Toronto.

All of the family liked their new life in the Roseneath district except Mrs. Smeenk. She said she could not learn the Canadian language and was very lonely, although a sister, Mrs. Beernink lived in Alnwick township only three miles from Roseneath.

The family had lived in a farm house rented from Harry Doxtator on Concession 1, Alnwick Township. Mr. Smeenk worked for farmers in the district and was considered a very able worker. By the first of December, when farm work was scarce, the family moved into Roseneath and Mr. Smeenk worked for Reeve O. J. Robbins, who has a grocery store and freezing plant in the village.

At school, both in the township and in Roseneath, the children of school age did very well and seemed to have little trouble in picking up the language. They were all excellent singers and took part in the school Christmas concert.

The family as a whole were well liked and considered a credit to the community.

The other six children, all girls except the youngest, were: Meemie 12, Mary 10, Adell 9, Annie 4, Henrietta 3, and Harry 16 months.

Cruising On Scugog

Cruising down an Ontario river in early January would sound unreasonable — if it weren't for the unseasonable June in January weather. Boat enthusiast "Puffer" Eaves of Lindsay, said Wednesday it was "just delightful" cruising in his outboard motor craft on the Scugog River.

Town Faces Action

PRESTON, Jan. 5 (CP)—This Waterloo county town faces civil action by its six-member police association unless it recognizes by the end of February a working agreement reached last November between the police commission and association.

Car Driver Fined $3 For Failing To Stop

Found guilty of failing to stop at a stop street, Louis Latour, 36 Stewart St. was fined $3 and $10.95 costs by Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, in police court Wednesday.

The charge arose from an accident at Perry and Aylmer Sts., Saturday, Nov. 12 about 11 p.m.

One of the cars in the accident owned by Albert Platt, RR 11, Peterborough, smashed head on against a hydro pole at the northeast corner. Platt, with his wife as a passenger, had been driving north on Aylmer St.

Driver of the other car, Latour, was travelling on Perry St. which is a stop street. Latour said he stopped at Aylmer St. before starting across.

Anglicans Plan Campaign for $500,000

Money Will Be Used As A Loan Fund For New Church Buildings

Peterborough is among 27 communities in and around Toronto for which the Bishop of Toronto, the Rt. Rev. A. R. Beverley, will launch a campaign Sunday to raise $500,000 for extension of the Anglican church. The $500,000 is required as a loan fund for new church buildings which are needed, mostly in communities which have sprung up in the large area of the Toronto diocese, since the post war growth of cities and towns.

Of the 27 building projects planned for the next three years, 14 are in the city of Toronto and ten are in an area between Toronto and Oshawa, including Malton. St. Alban's, the Anglican church on the Howden Ave. district in the south of the city, which opened last summer, is to benefit from funds raised during the campaign.

A church site has been donated to the Anglican community of Jersey on the south shore of Lake Simcoe and removal of a building to the site, will be paid for from the campaign fund. Another Anglican community for whose benefit the campaign is being launched is at Wasaga Beach, where a site has already been purchased.

The need for more churches is a natural outcome of the great expansion of eastern Ontario communities during the past ten years. New housing projects have extended the urban population of Toronto in all directions, new schools have been built and more are in the planning stages. The Anglican church, in launching the $500,000 campaign, is striving to keep pace with the growing communities.

The drive for dollars will be inaugurated Sunday by the Bishop in a radio broadcast address from St. James' Cathedral. Every parish in the diocese is to be asked to contribute allocations equal to 30 percent of their previous givings for the Anglican advance appeal which concluded in 1948.

In charge of church extension for the diocese is Archdeacon F. J. Sawers, whose committee endeavours to provide places of worship where congregations have only community halls and public auditoriums, and to improve churches where facilities are inadequate.

22 Sites Ready

Already 22 sites have been purchased or donated for church building purposes. Typical of the parishes where an extended population has created a problem the church extension committee will solve, is St. Columba's in East York. Services are being held in a community hall erected by war veteran tenants of a Wartime Housing subdivision.

During the week the hall serves as a public school and the rector, the Rev. W. J. Lennox, holds some of the services in his own home.

The church extension fund will make a loan of $20,000 or more to the St. Columba congregation and no interest will have to be paid during the first five years. During the second five years, no interest will be required if repayment of the principal has begun by that time. If the payments on principal have not started, a four percent interest will be charged.

Main Street Topics

MUNICIPAL GUESTS

City Council has accepted the invitation of Rotary Club to their luncheon next Monday. Utilities Commission and Board of Education members have also been invited.

WORMS NEAR SURFACE

Peterborough worms apparently aren't impressed with today's drop in temperature. T. W. Sexsmith, 438 Roger St., discovered several next to surface about noon today while digging up some parsnips in his garden.

CAR STOLEN BRIEFLY

A thief who stole a car from in front of the home of A. J. Arnott, Strickland St., Lakefield, had a very short time to enjoy the fruits of his daring. When Mr. Arnott left the house he found his car missing and promptly phoned the provincial police. Constable Earl Berwick found it 10 minutes later just north of Lakefield on Highway 28. It had a flat tire.

BANK CLEARINGS

Bank clearings for the past week ending today amounted to $2,544,769 as reported by the secretary of the Peterborough Clearing House.

SEEKING A FRIEND

Writing from Philadelphia, Patrick Jordan, 5622 Belmar St., is seeking a long lost friend, whom he knew in Peterborough many years ago. Mr. Jordan is endeavoring to contact James Johnson, who emigrated from Manchester, England, to Canada in 1920 and was at one time employed as a draftsman at the CGE.

INAUGURAL MEETING

The Board of Education meets this evening at 7.30 in its first meeting of the year when a chairman, vice-chairman and standing committees will be named. Rural Dean the Rev. Walter Gilling of St. Luke's Anglican Church has accepted the invitation to open the meeting.

4 Nuns Volunteer To Make Journey To Japan

TORONTO, Jan. 5 — (CP) — Four nuns of the Precious Blood Convent left Toronto Wednesday on the first leg of their trip to Japan. For two it was their first journey on a train.

The longest trip any of them has taken previously is from Montreal to Toronto, yet the four volunteered readily to join 12 sisters in Chigasaki "to win souls for God through prayer." They will once again enter cloisters at Chigasaki.

Sister Veronica of North Bay, and Sister Mary Teresa, Sister Mary of the Sacred Heart and Sister Marie Ange of the Sacred Eucharist, all of Toronto, have spent from five to 40 years in the Order.

Poster Battle Raging In Rome Streets

By PHILIP CLARKE

ROME, Jan. 5 (AP)—Scantily-clad Hollywood beauties blossom periodically in movie poster plastered over ancient Roman walls.

Next day, like as not, the poster pin-up gals will have prim paper patches over their feminine charms.

This sly "battle of the posters" is generally waged at night by rival gangs of billboard boys: one for the movie outfits and the other for the government's morals department.

Once, the eagle-eyed M-men (M for morals) spotted the naked bust of Venus on an art exhibit poster.

"Away with this indecency," cried the M-men.

But they hadn't reckoned on art-loving Italians who rose in wrath.

"Back with the bust," they chorused—and back it came.

With holy year here, the government appears to be tightening its moral censorship a bit.

An Italian film comedy of Adam and Eve was banned the day it was due to open in Rome. The Roman Catholic Press had attacked it as "irreverent parody of the Old Testament."

Cracking Down

A grandmotherly socialist senator, Angelina Merlin, recently won a year-long parliamentary battle to padlock Italy's houses of prostitution. Police had usually winked at the Clandestine Houses before that.

Now, police wagons roam about nightly in search of streetwalkers, picking up known prostitutes in bars and cafes. They are hustled to a medical centre for examination. If suffering from venereal disease, they are cured in government camps. If not, they are lectured, listed and set free.

Interior Minister Mario Scelba also plagues Italy's sensation-loving press. Last summer the word went out that a Milan Magazine must not print a photograph of vacationing Winston Churchill — in a bathing suit. "An invasion of privacy," said the police.

Down at the beaches the M-men are busy keeping bare midriffs covered and shorts longer.

Protest Rail Cut

BRAMPTON, Ont., Jan. 5 — (CP)—A telegram of protest over proposed curtailment in Canadian National Railways service between Toronto and London was sent Wednesday to CNR president Donald Gordon and to Federal authorities by Gordon Graydon, Progressive Conservative member of Parliament for Peel. Mr. Graydon said the cut would bring "great inconvenience" to hundreds of residents of Guelph, Acton, Georgetown, Brampton and Malton.

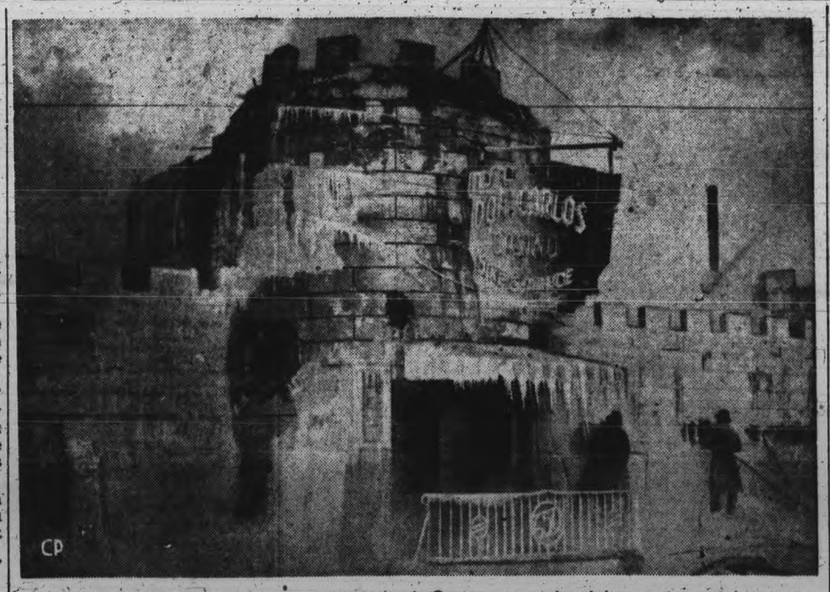
May Have Record

MONTREAL, Jan. 5 (CP)—Airline officials Wednesday were checking records to see if Capt. J. Michie and his Royal Dutch Airlines plane had set a record for the west-bound Prestwick, Scotland to Montreal flight. Michie touched down at nearby Dorval Airport Wednesday 11 hours and eight minutes out of Prestwick.

Gets 'Special Labor'

MUNICH, Jan. 5 — (Reuters) —Frau Mathilde Ludendorff, 72-year-old widow of former Field-Marshal Erich Ludendorff, today was sentenced to two years' "special labor" by a German denazification court which classified her as a "major Nazi offender." She was charged with having supported the Nazi regime in anti-semitic and anti-religious publications.

Recount of Ballots



BROCKVILLE, Jan. 5 (CP) — A recount of ballots for a school board seat in the township of Kitley will be held Friday morning before Judge Donald E Lewis. The recount is being made necessary by a tie vote of 263 polled by Robert Bruce and Clifford Foster. If the recount still results in a tie it will be up to returning officer Roy Gardiner to cast the deciding vote.

Change Medical Terms

MOSCOW, Jan. 5 (Reuters) — Foreign medical terms borrowed without change—such as "tumor" "palpition," and "resorption" — are to be expunged from Russian medical literature, the Literary Gazette reported Wednesday. Their change was necessary to "restore the priority of Russian scientists in Medicine."

New Smoke Law

TORONTO, Jan. 5 (CP)—This smoky city has a brand new smoke abatement law which is expected during the next few months to clear the air. It provides for fines for industrial plants, steamship companies and apartment house owners responsible for permitting dense smoke to be discharged from chimneys.

ICY RUINS—Firemen "mop up" after bringing under control a $100,000 fire which gutted the castle-like Don Carlos Casino, a night-club on the outskirts of Winnipeg. The temperature was 23 degrees below zero. Ice several inches thick formed on the ruined building.

Funeral Service For Ship Victims

TORONTO, Jan. 5 (CP)—Chief Coroner Dr. Smirle Larwson announced Wednesday night that a semi-private funeral service will be held Jan. 17 at Mount Pleasant Cemetery here for victims of the Noronic steamship fire Sept. 17.

All of the 119 victims of the disaster have been identified, but the remains of three have not been individually identified. Severity of burns made it impossible to attach names to these remains. These three and some others will be interred, but the announcement did not give the number. Most of the bodies have previously been released for burial in home-towns of the victims, many of whom were from Cleveland and Detroit.

Won't Run Again

TORONTO, Jan. 5 (CP) — Mayor Hiram McCallum announced Wednesday he would not stand for re-election again in 1951. He was re-elected Monday for his third year. "I believe that I have given my share of time and energy in the public service," said Mayor McCallum. "I would like a little more time with my family and to look after my business affairs."

Has Arm Amputated

WELLAND, Jan. 5 (CP)—Margaret Robertson, 21-year-old baby sitter, Wednesday had her left arm amputated because of severe burns suffered in a nearby home Dec. 16. Police believe the girl was overcome by fumes in a bathroom and dropped unconscious across a heater. She was rescued when the occupants returned home.

Drive Against Sport

VICTORIA, B. C., Jan. 5 (CP) —A campaign against commercialization of Sunday and Sunday sports is under way in Victoria. The move followed a large public meeting Tuesday in Christ Church Memorial Hall at which most of the churches in the city were represented.

A WEEKLY INFORMATION SERVICE

MONTREAL, Jan. 5th — The great thing about saving, I've always found, is knowing how much I can afford to put away and doing it. I try to plan my savings like a day's shopping, to make sure that I can do things comfortably, in easy stages — so I won't have to give up half way through. And this is the time of year I work out just how much I can afford to put regularly into my BANK OF MONTREAL Savings Account. For I'm one of more than a million who bank at the B of M. Canadians, you know, keep one billion dollars in savings in "My Bank"—more than any other bank in Canada.

Here's To Your Good Health! ... and here's one good way to help keep it that way! Drink the juice of one lemon in a glass of water first thing on arising ... for this natural fruit drink helps you keep regular the healthful way! That's because lemon-in-water doesn't "tie you up in knots" as harsh laxatives do ... just gently helps your system regulate itself! Lemons help get rid of colds, too. You just pour the juice of one lemon in a half-glass of water. Then add — slowly — half teaspoon baking soda, and drink as foaming quiets. A glass every 2 or 3 hours helps alkalize. Try hot lemonade, too, at bedtime! Always ask for SUNKIST CALIFORNIA LEMONS ... the finest, juiciest of all.

Last Chance to send for this special SPECIAL offer! The folks at Heinz have invented some very handy plastic cap covers specially designed to fit over the tops of HEINZ BABY FOOD tins! When your baby doesn't eat a full tin of Heinz Baby Food at one mealtime, simply leave the balance in the tin, cover it with one of these plastic caps and store it in your refrigerator. Mothers who've used these caps tell me they're useful as can be — they save food, money, time and bother! Write to me — Barbara Brent, 1411 Crescent St., Montreal, P.Q. — enclosing 10c in coin or postage stamps and 3 labels from Heinz Baby Food tins and you'll receive THREE plastic cap covers and TWO plastic Baby Food Savers (for scooping out the last good morsels of Heinz Baby Food from every tin)! Be sure to tell me whether your baby is a boy or a girl so I'll know whether to send these five "food-'n'-money-savers" in pink or blue.

Simple Enough For Everyday ... grand enough for company-best ... here's a dessert to tempt the fancy of the whole family! So fresh-tasting, so sparkling and gay, JELL-O's seven glorious "locked-in" flavors are popular anytime! Serve Jell-O often.

JELL-O BANANA BAVARIAN CREAM

1 package Lemon Jell-O
2 cups hot water
1/4 teaspoon salt
2/3 cup sugar
1/3 cup heavy cream
3 bananas

Dissolve Jell-O in hot water. Add salt and sugar. Chill. When slightly thickened, fold in cream, whipped only until thick and shiny, but not stiff. Crush bananas to pulp with silver fork and mould at once into Jell-O mixture. Chill until slightly thickened. Turn into mould. Chill until firm. Unmould. Serves 8.

For A New You This Happy New Year ... here's something new in beauty! It's PENATEN — now found in the new WOODBURY DRY SKIN CREAM! Wonderful Penaten helps Woodbury Dry Skin Cream go deeper into pore openings ... gives your skin an extra lanolin beauty-dividend! Just 10 minutes a day with this miraculous, new-formula cream can make even the driest of skins look velvet-soft! Yes, if you make a daily beauty habit of Woodbury Dry Skin Cream — beginning now ... you'll look so much younger — so much lovelier in 1950!

"I Can't Remember When my family have been as enthusiastic about a breakfast food as they were when I served 'Cream of Wheat'!", writes a reader. "They all said at once, 'THIS is good! Let's have this every morning'!". Yes, 5 Minute "CREAM OF WHEAT" is, truly, a family "favourite" ... a delicious way to wake up early-morning sleepyheads! Cooks to satin-smooth digestibility in just 5 minutes of boiling! It's so good—and so good for you ... for 5 Minute "Cream of Wheat" provides Iron, Calcium and Phosphorus for diets deficient in these elements — and for less than 1c a bowl! Particularly good, I find, topped with brown sugar, raisins and cream!

Do You Keep Your Angora Sweaters On Ice? It's not as silly as it sounds, for a saleswoman I know tells me that keeping angora in the refrigerator between wearings will prevent its shedding! So, if one of your favourite Christmas presents was something gorgeous of angora ... wrap it up in wax paper or put it in a plastic bag and keep it in your refrigerator! And when you wash it—be sure to wash it with VEL! "Vel" is ideal for all woollens! You see, wool is made up of fluffy fibres that will catch and cling together if pressed together while wet. "Vel" helps avoid this "matting" because it penetrates so deep (loosening every last bit of dirt) that no rubbing is necessary. "Vel" also works perfectly in the lukewarm water best for washing wool and it leaves no residue to coarsen the fibres or dull the colours. All good reasons why I always, always use "Vel" to wash my woollens!

Large Turnout Of Boys At PMHA Show

Under the chairmanship of secretary Walter Bent, over 150 boys of the minor hockey league, officials and guests, attended the meeting at the Queen Mary Auditorium. Officials of the PMHA were introduced to the boys. President Les Mountney expressed through Walter Bent his apologies for not being at the meeting, however pressing business had called him out of town. Guests present included Colonel Bolton, chairman of the Peterborough Recreation Commission; the newly arrived recreational director, Bert Sinclair; Dit Clapper, Wilf Langan, Claire Collins and representatives of the Industrial Hockey League.

Starting out with a sing-song, the program got underway, after which the various guests were introduced. Dit Clapper, in his short address to the boys stressed the importance of sport as a mind and body builder and a team developer. He said it helped the boys get along with one another better.

Colonel Bolton in his talk told the boys they should appreciate the efforts of the men who devoted the time willingly for the betterment of the sport.

Bert Sinclair, the new Recreational Director, said he was happy to be able to meet some of the younger sportsmen and was pleased to see that the boys were organized for hockey properly. He stated that anything that he can do to help will be gladly done and that his office will extend the fullest co-operation.

Meeting Held

After these talks some films were shown, the adults adjourning to another room to carry on the business end of the meeting. The Industrial League through their spokesman Mr. McMasters, requested that because of three boys playing PMHA hockey one of the local firm's team was handicapped because of a PMHA rule which prohibits boys from playing industrial hockey. He asked that the rule be changed or amended. After quite a lengthy discussion in which all points were brought out, the league voted in favor of leaving the rule stand as it is. The Industrial League was informed of the decision by Al Watkins who chaired the business meeting.

Discussion was also centred on an incident that happened last week where a bantam player had played in a midget game in defiance of rule seven of the PMHA. After a lengthy discussion it was observed that the coach of the team acted in ignorance of the rules and had interpreted them wrong. A motion was carried that the boy in question not be penalized and because of the team in default having lost the game in question the discussion was dropped. It was pointed out that the managers and coaches should acquaint themselves more fully with the rules to avoid misunderstandings in future. The members of the Recreation Commission were informed of the needs of the PMHA as to outside ice. At present there are 15 minor teams and six Peewee teams that will be needing ice.

Moscow Weather Coldest Since '42

MOSCOW, Jan. 5 — (AP). — Moscow, with temperatures dropping under 30 degrees below zero, was gripped today in its sharpest cold wave since the grim winter of 1941-1942 when the Germans were driven back from the Soviet capital.

This morning the thermometer registered 31 degrees below zero. The coldest recorded temperature for Moscow was chalkd up January 17, 1940, with a low of 43.6 degrees below zero.

Moscow's favorite cold wave story this year is about Osman Kumukov, who took a 10-minute dip through a hole in the ice of Moscow River on New Year's Eve. He said he just wanted to prove a human being can swim the year round if properly trained. The temperature was 29 below zero.

Top Entertainers Give Joy, Health To Sick Veterans

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK — (AP) — Jean Tennyson runs one of the world's biggest concert bureaux—and is quite happy although it is losing money.

Some 300 top singers and musicians work for nothing on her programs, which are arranged to entertain disabled ex-servicemen in 130 veterans hospitals across the country.

Her list of artists includes Lily Pons, Margaret Truman, Ezio Pinza, Arthur Rubenstein, and Gladys Swarthout.

"We started out with strictly long-haired performers," she said "But now we have Benny Goodman, choral groups — even a magician."

Like many another American woman at war's end, Miss Tennyson, a former Vanities star and operatic soprano, was grateful to the men who had fought. She wanted to do something to show her gratitude—but what?

"I was told that musical therapy was helpful to the 1,000,000 veterans in hospitals," she recalled, 'so I decided that was the field I could help in best."

Visit 90 Hospitals

With symphony conductor Leo Stokowski and a few other friends she organized the Artists Veteran Hospital Programs in 1947. By the end of this season this organization will have arranged for more than 350 concerts in some 90 veterans hospitals.

"Eventually we hope to reach all the hospitals, particularly those in out-of-the-way places," she said.

Miss Tennyson, helped only by a secretary, schedules the concerts herself and pays all expenses of the operation. Whenever the seasonal tour of one of the artists on her list brings him near a veterans' hospital, she arranges in advance for him to appear there.

And he's better not plead weariness or laryngitis when she gets on the long distance phone. For a cheerful blonde she can be mightily stubborn with lazy singers.

Most Artists Help

"But most of the artists have been very co-operative," she said. "Only two out of more than 300 have turned us down—and I'd rather not talk about them Once an artist sees the effect he has on these shutin vets he usually wants to com back and entertain them again."

When one singer was forced to cancel an engagement at a Chicago hospital, Jean flew out herself and kept the date.

Her office files are full of letters from doctors praising the programs for their therapeutic value to patients, some of whom are mentally as well as physically, sick.

"After Claudio Arrau finished one of his piano numbers a vet sighed 'That's Beautiful,'" said Miss Tennyson. "We learned later they were the first words that boy had spoken in months."

Miss Tennyson expects to operate her concerts bureau indefinitely.

"People don't realize," she said soberly, "that we aren't going to have fewer veterans in our hospitals as time goes on. There will be more—and more."

Horror Chamber Doesn't Scare Her

TORONTO, Jan. 5 — (CP) — Petite Verda Vincent has soft blue eyes that crinkle at the corners when her bright smile flashes but she works in a chamber of horrors that would cause many a stalwart male to blanch.

Miss Vincent, criminologist, is head of the medico-legal department of the Ontario government.

Born and educated in London, Ont., the lady crime detector entered her highly-specialized profession rather unwillingly and tried, at least once, to leave it. Now, she is glad she stayed and wouldn't like to change.

After graduation from the University of Western Ontario at London, Miss Vincent took a post-graduate blood chemistry course at the University of Toronto. Here she did work occasionally for Dr. E. R. Frankish. When he became head of the new medico-legal department of the Ontario government 15 years ago, he asked Miss Vincent to become his assistant. She accepted the position.

When Dr. Frankish died in 1941 Miss Vincent took charge of the laboratory.

Chapter News

OTONABEE CHAPTER

With Mrs. A. R. McWilliams, regent, in the chair, Otonabee Chapter, IODE, met Wednesday in the YWCA Green Room. Two minutes' silence was observed in memory of the late provincial secretary, Mrs. McCulloch.

Mrs. C. Sherwood read letters from England thanking the chapter for food parcels; also from the adopted schools in Ontario expressing appreciation of Christmas tree parcels.

Donations were made to the Civic Hospital, IODE Endowment fund, Provincial War Service workroom, Empire workroom in India, and the Hospital for Sick Children. The regent read a speech recently given by the endowment fund national convener.

The 50th anniversary service at St. Paul's Church on February 12 was discussed. Nominations conveners, Mrs. D. J. Hall and Mrs. J. Vallery presented a slate of officers which will be elected at the next meeting. Next sewing meeting is to be at the home of Mrs. W. Burrell on January 9.

During a social half hour a dainty lunch was served by Mrs. Hall and Mrs. Vallery.

PETER ROBINSON CHAPTER

Dedication of a new flag, purchased by Peter Robinson Chapter, IODE, took place Wednesday evening at the monthly meeting held in the YWCA Green Room. The ceremony was performed by Mrs. W. G. Hall, regent of Municipal Chapter. Mrs. L. Carlyle standard bearer, carried the new flag, followed by Mrs. H. I. Keefer with the former flag.

Regent Miss Mary Green was in charge of the meeting. Silence was observed in memory of Mrs. McCulloch, provincial secretary, who died in December. Mrs Hall expressed appreciation of the support given by the Chapter and commented on its progressiveness.

Mrs. C. S. Browne reported records, books, candy and nuts were sent to the adopted school for Christmas. Miss D. Burgess said Christmas boxes were distributed to some families of First World War veterans in the city. Thirty boxes of food and clothing had been packed and shipped to Britain, Mrs. N. Gell repoted.

A donation of $50 was made to the Sick Children's Hospital, Toronto.

New member, Mrs W. B Lang, was brought into the chapter.

Most pleasing entertainment, arranged for by Mrs. Keefer, was the showing of a colored film called "Glacier Park and the Rockies."

Refreshments were served by Mrs. J. Hill and her group.

DOROTHY DIX

Loveless Marriage Can Bring Pair Happiness

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a business woman of 30. I am alone in the world. I earn a salary that enables me to live comfortably, but not to lay up much for the future. A man whom I respect and admire very much but with whom I am not in love wants to marry me. We have much the same background and for many years have been congenial friends. He can offer me the things I can never get for myself. Do you think that a marriage without thrills and without any deep feeling would bring me happiness?

ARLINE.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Being of a romantic and sentimental nature, I always feel that nothing but love can make marriage worth while. But all of us have seen boys and girls marry on a tidal wave of passion that broke against the rocks of matrimony and receded, leaving them stranded on the shores of the divorce court. Even love cannot stand a basic lack of congeniality nor common purpose. Nor can it survive coldness, nor neglect, nor unkindness, nor selfishness. Nor always does it survive poverty.

May Be Safer Bet

It is because love does not guarantee the happiness of a marriage that the marriage of convenience often seems a safer bet. In that, at least, one makes one's choice with one's head instead of one's heart and one is guided by reason instead of emotion. Financial considerations that seem so trifling in romantic courting days and that are so all-important when household bills come in have their appointed place in the marriage of convenience, and help to make the domestic machine run on oiled wheels.

Another factor in the success of the marriage of convenience is that the woman who is not blinded by infatuation is better capable of estimating a man's real worth and deciding if he measures up to her standards and suits her tastes. She knows really how much they have in common. Furthermore, she is less critical and faultfinding with the man whom she merely likes than she is of the one whom she loves, because it is the curse of love that it demands perfection of its god. And she is saved from all the pangs of jealousy that tear at the heart of the woman who is crazy about her husband.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: Do you think that the mother who works out can be as efficient a worker and as efficient a mother as the woman who devotes herself entirely to her job or her children?

TRUTH.

ANSWER: No, for the very conclusive reason that no person can occupy two spaces at the same time, or do two different things simultaneously. It is a physical and mental impossibility.

Holding down a job is a career in itself. Being a mother and rearing a family is also a career in itself. Each of them takes all of the ability, physical and mental, that any woman has, and she cannot divide herself between them and make the success of either one that she could if she had been able to concentrate on that alone.

Of course, many women who have children do follow gainful occupations outside of the home and they do succeed to a degree. But if they reach the top of the ladder they are bound to do it at the price of the children. For success in any career is won by unremitting work, and the individual must give to it not only the best that is in her but her very heart and soul.

Any woman who works outside of the home must of necessity leave her children's rearing in the hands of hirelings. She cannot establish the intimacy with them that the mother has who is always with her youngsters.

And no woman can be of real worth to her employer if one lobe of her brain is on her work and the remainder of it is worrying over how Johnny's cough is, and whether the nurse will remember to feed the baby, and if the cook ordered the dinner.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Will you settle this argument: Is experience the best teacher in ALL things?

THE GANG.

ANSWER: The trouble with experience is that it generally comes after we have made our decisions and it is too late to do us any good.

Nor do we always learn from experience. The burnt child does not always dread the fire, for we see people go on making the same mistakes time after time, although their experience has given them bitter warning. If we could learn from other people's experiences, it would be the ideal thing, but we never do. We always think that somehow we will escape.

Asthma Coughs Fought Easy Way

Fluttering Wings Fill Sussex Home Of "Bird Woman"

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

DITCHLING, Sussex, Eng. — (CP)—The post office knows her as Miss Len Howard of Bird Cottage. But the people of this old-world Sussex village call her the Bird Woman.

Birds follow her about the house and gardens. Some roost by night on the picture rail above her bed. Others arrive at dawn and hammer on the window with their beaks until she lets them in.

To visitors who stay until dusk, Miss Howard says: "You must go now. It is the birds' bedtime."

At all hours of the day her rustic cottage is lively with the rustle of wings. The bed room and living room walls are hung with cardboard sugar boxes and cereal cartons where birds nestle. Every fruit tree in the garden has a wide-mouthed gasoline can or nestling box to tempt them to build or roost.

Bolder than Miss Howard herself, who is shy and hard to lure into conversation, the birds fly in through her windows and help themselves to nuts, cheese and crumbs in coconut shells and boxes.

Tired of City Life

Until 10 years ago the Bird Woman played the viola in a London symphony orchestra. Then, tiring of city life, she moved, into the country and began a systematic observation of wild birds.

Many visitors have been to Bird Cottage to watch the birds flash through a narrow, fanlight into the house, perch on Miss Howard's shoulder and take food from her fingers.

To test the birds' intelligence she puts nuts and cheese in boxes which her pets quickly learn to open with their beaks. When she fills her fountain pen, a great tit snaps up the lid of the ink bottle and flies off with it.

Play With Matches

Another popular toy for the tits is a box of matches. They hold it with their claws, open it with their beaks and scatter the matches on the floor.

"The birds have their individual tastes," she said. "One great tit takes all the cheese, including the mousetrap variety but refuses Dutch. An eccentric blackbird will not touch worms.

"I can't get on with typing my book on birds because the Tits perch on the roller and play with the typewriter keys."

Miss Howard gives all her time and much of her food to the birds.

"If I don't pay them enough attention, they pull at my dress or my hair to force me to notice them," she says.

NZ Government Plans New Deal For Housewives

By J. C. GRAHAM

AUCKLAND, N. Z. — (CP) — An innovation by New Zealand's new government—formation of a department for the welfare of women and children—is thought by some observers to be an experiment which will eventually be widely adopted overseas.

The ministry is a novel idea—it could be valuable in winning votes. And to maintain the appeal to the feminine side of the voters' list, the government has appointed a woman to head the department—Mrs. Hilda Ross.

But the job will be no sinecure and observers think the government has chosen the right woman for it.

The exact duties of Mrs. Ross whose vigor belies the fact she is a grandmother, have not been defined. They may eventually extend to touch on many aspects of government.

"After all, women and children comprise more than half the population," she points out.

During 14 years of Labor rule hours and working conditions for most workers were eased, but the government found no way of reducing working hours of housewives. Critics even claimed the five-day week had worked a hardship on women, and pointed to the heavy shopping program faced by housewives on Friday since shops were closed Saturday and Sunday.

The new cabinet minister has a long background of social service work which she will apply to carrying out the plans of her department.

Plan Of Action

Her announced aims include kindergartens, day nurseries, improvement of the status of domestic help provision of more and cheaper home labor-saving devices, restoration of household delivery services and improvement of nursing conditions.

A music teacher before her marriage in 1904, Mrs. Ross has two sons and four grandchildren.

She was a tireless worker in the depression of the '30s, and was co-founder and guiding spirit of a health camp for underprivileged children which has since become the model for many others in New Zealand. She was for many years president of the local nursing division of the St. John Ambulance Association and was wartime commandant of the Women's Volunteer Auxiliary Corps.

Take Larger Part

Since her election in 1945, she has talked to women in a language they can understand, telling them they must take a larger part in running the country so it will be governed in their interests.

"When it comes to voting," says Mrs. Ross, "many women say 'Bill, tell me what to do.'

"Don't be such fools as to depend on Bill. We women must think for ourselves and vote as we think. Women can no longer be regarded merely as people who bring a plate of cakes to a meeting and wash the dishes afterwards. They are able to think intelligently and can do a lot in the future to put New Zealand on a more even keel."

What's Right

A man stands up and offers you a seat on a bus or street car.

WRONG WAY: Refuse it by saying something like: "I'm not going very far any way."

RIGHT WAY: Accept it. It is embarrassing to a man to offer a courtesy and have it refused.

Needs to Hear!

A serious accident was averted only by a mother's quick response to her young son's cries of fear. "Without my Western Electric Hearing Aid I probably wouldn't have heard him at all" she said. Thousands of deafened people are avoiding unnecessary risks by wearing Western Electric Hearing Aids, now nationally distributed by Audivox, Inc. At no obligation, drop in today at Henry Putnam & Son, 349 George St., or phone 3322 to find out how you, too, may be helped.—(Advt.)

6—In Memoriams

LEE—In fond and loving memory of our dear father, Mr. G. A. Lee, who passed away January 5, 1945.
To think we could not say good-bye,
Will always bring regret,
But the ones who love you dearly
Are the ones that loved you best.
—Sadly missed by Dorothy, Ken, Allan and Gordon.

McBAIN—In loving memory of George Malcolm McBain, killed in action Jan. 5, 1944, Ortona, Italy.
—Ever remembered by mother, Harry and Norman.

PRICE— In memory of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Price who died January 5, 1941, January 8, 1943.
Looking back with tenderness,
O'er years we trod
We bless the years we spent with them
And leave the rest to God.
—Sadly missed by daughters and grand-daughters.

ROOKE—In loving memory of Sarah Elizabeth Rooke, who passed away January 5, 1947.
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweetly tender, fond and true;
There is not a day, dear mother,
That we do not think of you.
—Ever remembered by the family.

7—Cards of Thanks

I wish to extend thanks to all my neighbours and friends who sent cards and fruit, also smokes during my stay in Peterborough hospital.—Wm. Baker.

Mrs. George Smith and family wish to express their thanks to the sisters and nurses of St. Joseph's Hospital, attending doctor, Major Cyril Everitt, Salvation Army, CGE, and all kind friends and neighbours that were so kind during Mr. George Henry Smith's illness and death.

Mrs. Wm. Nill and family wish to thank the attending doctors, nurses, also friends and relatives who in any way contributed their kindness and sympathy during their sad bereavement of a kind husband and father.

The family of the late Muriel Russell Clarke, Havelock, wish to express their deep gratitude to their many friends, relatives and neighbors for their expressions of sympathy, acts of kindness and floral tributes extended to them during their recent bereavement with thanks to Rev. Vanderburgh for his consoling words. Also for fruit, flowers and other gifts sent during her stay in the Toronto Western Hospital and Peterborough Civic Hospital.

The family of the late Frances Louise Brown wishes to thank most sincerely all their friends for their many acts of kindness during their recent bereavement.

The Sisters and children of St. Vincent's Orphanage wish publicly to express their thanks to His Excellency, Bishop Berry, the clergy, the Catholic clubs, the many service clubs, stores and the very many individuals who donated money, clothing, toys, gifts of every kind or entertainment to add to the joy and happiness of this Christmas season. They wish all their generous benefactors a very happy and prosperous New Year, and assure them of a prayerful remembrance each day of the year.

Norwood Bids Farewell To Mrs. S. Fennell

NORWOOD, Jan. 5 (ENS) — A farewell party for Mrs. Stan Fennell, who is leaving the community to live in Peterborough, after having lived in Norwood 21 years, was held Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Arthur Carberry, Dummer Road.

Mrs. L. H. Edmunds read an address on behalf of neighbors on the Dummer Road and Mrs. O. Ferguson and Mrs. J. Osborne presented a tri-light lamp to Mrs. Fennell, a student lamp for Gordon and a figurine for Helen Marie.

Mr. and Mrs. Fennell and family will live at Montrose Ave., Peterborough. Their bungalow on the Dummer Road has been bought by Mr. and Mrs. M. B. McClelland.

Before the presentation euchre was played when Mrs. Wilson Small was awarded a prize for top score and Mrs. Harold Eason, the consolation prize. Mrs. J. Osborne won a lucky draw.

Those present were: Mrs. Archie Aldred, Mrs. Jack Andrews, Mrs. Richard Baker, Mrs. L. Bongard, Mrs. T. Borland, Mrs. Baxter, Mrs. Hubert Carbrey, Mrs. H. Eason, Mrs. L. H. Edmunds, Mrs. O. Ferguson, Mrs. L. Freeburn, Mrs. J. Graham, Mrs. M. Kirk, Mrs. G. D. McMillan, Miss Isabel MacMillan, Mrs. J. Osborne, Mrs. George Ross, Mrs. Keith Ross, Mrs. Art Richardson, Mrs. W. A. Scott, Mrs. Wilson Small and Mrs. Thair.

Another second-year man returned to Council is Gale Elliott of Harvey. In 1949 he defeated the encumbent Charles Flynn.

Beginning his 11th term of office as reeve of North Monaghan is Melville Johnston. He was returned to office by acclamation. Next to Mr. Gifford he is the senior member of Council. He is the County appointee on several city organizations in which the County has interest. In 1949 he was chairman of standing committees on education and equalization and assessment.

Another veteran county councillor returned by acclamation is James Humphries of Asphodel, chairman of the standing committe on Finance. He is beginning his sixth consecutive year as reeve.

Ross Barrons of Cordova Mines who last year defeated the veteran W. E. Griffith for the reeveship of Belmont-Methuen was re-elected this year by acclamation. In 1949 he was chairman of appointments, a member of the committee on Reforestation along with Peter Pearson of Galway-Cavendish, and also a member of the Roads committee.

Mr. Pearson was acclaimed again this year to begin his sixth consecutive term of office. In 1949 he was chairman of the standing committees on Legal and Legislative and Fish, Game and Tourist.

William Darling after serving as reeve of Dummer for five years and becoming warden in 1949 declined to stand this year. He was succeeded by Stewart Clysdale, a former councillor.

Both Harry Reid and Richard Stewart were returned unopposed this year to begin their second terms as reeve and deputy reeve respectively. Mr. Reid defeated W. W. Dawson in 1949 for the reeveship after being similarly defeated the previous year. Mr. Stewart won decisively from Percy Davidson.

Village Reeves Re-elected

All three village reeves were re-elected. The veteran Rork Ferguson of Norwood—back in the council in 1949 after a previous defeat by W. E. Packenham—and William Grant beginning his fifth term, both by acclamation.

Ernest J. Leeson defeated his opponent, Fred Pollock, by 278 votes to 131 to again become reeve of Havelock. Last year he was the only sitting Council member to successfully hold a contested office. This year the margin over his rival was even more pronounced—a majority of 153 votes compared to 48 in 1949.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Jan. 5 (AP) — Grains opened firm on the Board of Trade today. Dealings were only moderately active despite the strength. Wheat started ¼-½ cent higher, March $2.17⅞-2.16; corn was ⅛-¼ higher, March $1.32⅛, and oats were ⅛ lower to ¼ higher, May 70½. Soybeans were ¼ to one cent higher, March $2.32¾.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Jan. 5—(CP)— Trading turned dull after an active start today as Winnipeg coarse grains prices levelled off, somewhat higher than Wednesday's closing figures.

Slight gains were scored across the board on early demand and light offerings. Shippers and processors were good buyers of feed grains, and American buying orders also came into oats.

Rye was well taken by United States buyers. Flax was listless.

Prices:

Oats—May ⅜ higher at 79¼-B; July ⅜ higher at 76¾-B.

Barley — May ¾ higher at $1.28⅛B; July ⅞ higher at $1.22⅛A.

Rye — May 2⅜ higher at $1.56¼A; July 2⅞ higher at $1.52½A.

Flax—Not open.

Youth Faces Charge Drug Store Thefts

A 19-year-old youth, Frank Thomas, was charged in police court today with breaking, entry and theft in McLeod's drug store.

The breaking was reported to police early New Year's Day by William Rooney, who, with his family, occupies an apartment above the store.

About $50 in quarters and three pen and pencil sets were reported missing.

Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, was not available for today, and Thomas was remanded without bail by James J. Fleming, JP, until Friday.

Mr. McConnell, husband of the former Lillian Magee, died January 2 in hospital, and the funeral was on Wednesday from the Belleghem funeral home to Emily. The Rev. F. W. Pooley of St. John's Anglican Church, Emily, officiated.

Burial was in Emily Cemetery.

OBITUARIES

MRS. JACK DAWSON

Word was received in the city today of the death in Orlando, Florida, of Mrs. Effie Dawson, beloved wife of Jack Dawson. Born in Warsaw, 71 years ago, Mrs. Dawson was the daughter of John and Eliza Hughes, pioneer settlers of the district. On her marriage to Jack Dawson they went to Detroit, where for over 40 years they have resided. Four years ago Mr. and Mrs. Dawson went to Orlando to live.

There survives her husband, one son Paul of Detroit, one daughter Mrs. Alice Allaison of Orlando, Florida, two brothers Chris and Frank Hughes of Peterborough, and three sisters Mrs. Bert Hunter of Peterborough, Mrs. Dora Ross of Chicago, and Mrs. Mary Robertson of Moose Jaw. The funeral will be held on Monday in Chicago.

MRS. HARRIET JANE BRADLEY

After a short illness Mrs. Harriet Jane Bradley of 299 Sherbrooke St., died Wednesday at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Harold B. Ball, 85 Princess St. She was in her 81st year.

Mrs. Bradley was the former Harriet Jane Woodcock, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Woodcock. She was born and educated in Tweed and lived in that town before coming to Peterborough 37 years ago.

She was a member of Knox United Church, the LOBA (Vimy Ridge), and the Legion Women's Auxiliary.

She leaves three sons: Bruce R. and Angus W. of Peterborough, and Herbert E. of Norwood; three daughters, Mrs. Gordon Pearson (Myrtle), Mrs. Harold Ball (Loretta), Mrs. Albert Pearcy (Elda), all of Peterborough; three sisters, Mrs. H. Martin of Peterborough, Mrs. Louisa Bradley of Tweed, and Mrs. J. Vilneff of Oshawa.

Her husband Albert Bradley died 38 years ago.

The funeral will be at the Belleghem Funeral Home on Saturday at 2 p.m., the Rev. H. G. Douglas of Knox United Church officiating, assisted by the Rev. F. W. Craik of St. James United Church.

Burial will be in Little Lake cemetery.

Rescued After Storm

CALGARY, Jan. 5 — (CP). — Weak and emaciated and described by hospital officials as "very sick," Harmond Adams, 39, Wednesday night was brought to hospital from his isolated home five miles west of Calgary. Suffering from pneumonia, Adams had lain in bed for the last week. His wife and six young children were unable to make their way over snow-blocked roads for help.

Three Cars Involved In Traffic Accident

Three cars, one of them parked were involved in an accident on George St. north of Dublin, about 12:40 a.m. today.

Wilf Gedge, taxi driver, 548 McKellar St., told police he had been driving north on George St. when he started to turn into the east curb in front of 610, he heard tires squeal. He looked in his rear vision mirror and saw a car which seemed to him to be weaving. He pulled to a stop to let the other car go by. As he did, his car met in collision with the other car, driven by George Faiers, 176 Prince St.

Faiers' car apparently careened off the Gedge car and collided with a car parked on the west side of George St. owned by William Davidson, 611 George St.

The left rear fender of the Faiers' car was damaged and the back bumper partly pulled off. The left front door of the Gedge car was slightly damaged.

Change System In Quebec Criminal Courts

MONTREAL — (CP)—Quebec's legal procedure of voluntary statement—little known to most persons outside the province and a puzzle to many within—is undergoing a change designed to speed the work of criminal courts.

Formerly the voluntary-statement stage followed preliminary hearing by one week and in itself was a full-scale piece of court business. But almost invariably it developed into a brief formality because the defence waives the privilege of introducing evidence.

Now, through co-opration of judges and lawyers, voluntary statements are often held immediately after preliminary hearing —and are usually waived as in the past.

Voluntary statement allows an accused person to place his defence before the court and attack crown evidence adduced at preliminary hearing.

Must Be Sure

But he must be sure his defence is iron-clad, particularly in view of his failure to get a quick dismissal at preliminary hearing. If he proceeds with his voluntary-statment privilege, he not only tips his hand to the crown but runs the risk of having any declarations he then makes used against him at his trial.

Rarely will a defence lawyer take advantage of this stage of procedure. But under the law the privilege must remain and there is no indication voluntary statement will be eliminated.

Under the old system of a week between preliminary hearing and voluntary statement, the record had to be transferred to another court, defendant and his lawyer had to appear, an entry had to be made. The entry usually showed voluntary statement had been waived.

Now practically the only extra work is that of the court clerk and involves no separate sitting of court. He must read the "mise en garde"—warning—check with the defence lawyer to be sure the hearing is waived and then make an entry in the record.

Bethany News

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bigelow and family and Mr. James McKinnon attended the funeral service for Mr. Cecil Waite in Toronto on Tuesday. Mr. Waite, a prominent mining engineer, was well known in Bethany, having married the former Myrtle Westlake, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Westlake and sister of Mrs. Frank Bigelow of this village.

Mrs. Ona Thorndyke has returned home from an extended visit in Toronto, Weston and Islington. Her granddaughter, Miss Shirley Thorndyke of Mimico accompanied her, remaining until Monday.

Mr. Alex McMaster spent the past week in Toronto.

Miss Gayle Bristow broke her collar bone last week while holidaying in Eldorado with her aunt, Mrs. Lloyd Davis. She slipped on some ice and fell.

Do You Suffer FROM A "Weak" Back?

Does sitting in a draft or in a damp, chilly room sometimes bring on an aching back? Many people say they get "cold" in the back—or in the kidneys—so easily. At such times it's good to know about the quick relief of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Remember, both kidneys and liver must filter out impurities from your bloodstream. So if you feel tired, worn-out, headachy — with painful joints and aching back—look to both your kidneys and liver. That's why Canadians have been relying on Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills for over half a century.

Give your system a chance to work properly. Always keep Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills handy—especially during damp chilly weather. The name "Dr. Chase" is your assurance.

Committee Of 9 Investigates Faults Of BBC

By DON GILBERT.

LONDON, Jan. 5 — (CP). — Nine men and two women trying to find out "What's wrong with the BBC" are believed to be cooking up a report that will shake the dignified calm of Broadcasting House.

Explosive findings are expected because Lord Beveridge, author of the 1942 "Beveridge Report" on social security, is presiding at an inquiry into the future of broadcasting and television.

The 70-year-old economist's recommendations will guide government policy when the BBC charter comes up for renewal in 1951.

Hearings have been going on for months behind curtained windows and barred doors. Elaborate precautions have been taken to plug possible leaks to the press. But proposals reported before the committee include:

1—Private-enterprise stations to compete, on the Canadian pattern, with the state-charered organization.

2—Sponsored television.

3—Removal of television from BC control.

4—Creation of an "Overseas Broadcasting Corporation," financed from public funds instead of from licence revenue.

5—Ditching of the BBC's controversial, high-brow "third program," which attracts few listeners.

No hint has come from the inquisitors that any of these points will find a place in the committee's final recommendations.

Cleveland Mauls St. Louis Flyers 11-2

By The Canadian Press.

Cleveland Barons came back with a vengeance Wednesday night as they mauled St. Louis Flyers 11-2 to move 15 points ahead of the rest of the pack atop the western division of the American Hockey League.

The Flyers were no match for the goal hungry Bisons Wednesday night, especially after their star netminder Red Almas pulled a thigh muscle early in the game and finally had to be yanked in the middle period with the score 7-0. Almas was replaced in the St. Louis cage by defenceman George Milligan who stopped 14 shots in the final stanza but allowed four others to get past him.

Tod Sloan, Ken Schultz and Pete Leswick led the Cleveland onslaught with two goals apiece while Harry Taylor, Roy Kelly, Fred Thurier, Ray Ceresino and Bobby Care fired one each.

Meanwhile Indianapolis Capitals took over sole possession of second place in the league's western loop by battling to a 3-3 deadlock with Cincinnati Mohawks.

Decide Ailing Bevin Carried At Conference

COLOMBO, Ceylon, Jan. 5 — (Reuters)—Special arrangements are being made to carry ailing Foreign Minister Bevin of Britain up and down stairs at the Commonwealth foreign ministers' meeting here which starts next Monday.

Four Ceylonese "bearers" will carry Bevin up and down stairs of the conference building to save him strain in view of his heart condition. The conference building has no elevator.

A special chair, supported by poles passed through loops in the front and back, is being made by a Colombo firm.

Coal Shortage Won't Affect CPR

MONTREAL, Jan. 5 —(CP)— President Donald Gordon of the Canadian National Railways announced Wednesday night that the C.N.R. would not go beyond the 25 per cent reduction in passenger service although United States lines had been ordered a general one-third cut by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

At the same time the Canadian Pacific Railway said that its trains will not be affected by the ICC order effecting railroad passenger service on lines using coal as fuel. The CPR said that its coal supplies were in order and it planned no curtailment.

Mr. Gordon said that the action of the I.C.C. indicates the far-reaching effect on rail transportation of the labor situation in the mines in the U.S.

He said the company's coal reserves had been seriously depleted by U.S. mines strikes and the following short work weeks in those mines.

Trying To Substitute

At the same time, Mr. Gordon announced that the Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation — principal supplier of coal for the railroad in the Maritime provinces—had undertaken to supply the C.N.R. with an additional 20,000 tons of locomotive coal during January at the rate of 5,000 tons a week.

"This action," he said, "is particularly timely as it is directed to relieving the inevitable apprehension we have felt as coal supplies dwindled that still a further cut in train service might be necessary. We will be able to continue both a day and night train between Montreal and Halifax.

Bowmanville Paper Wins Editorial Trophy

VANCOUVER, Jan. 5—(CP)— The Canadian Statesman, Bowmanville, has been awarded the Canadian Weekly Editorial Trophy as winner of the Dominion-wide editorial competition.

The competition, sponsored by the Canadian Weekly Editor, trade journal published here, is open to Canadian weekly newspapers.

Second place went to the Richmond Hill, Ont., Liberal, and third to the Powell River, B.C., News.

The subject of the winning editorial was the role of municipal government in Canadian affairs.

It is the second victory for the Canadian Statesman. It won the award in 1947 and placed second in 1948.

Beecham Shocks London With Hat

SOUTHAMPTON, England, Jan. 5 (AP)—Sir Thomas Beecham cooked up a shocker Wednesday for staid London.

The millionaire orchestra conductor stepped down the gangplank of the liner Queen Elizabeth wearing a giant 10-gallon hat straight from Texas.

"I'm going to walk down Bond Street with it to show the English what a real hat is," he said.

Sir Thomas, returning from a tour of Canada and the United States, picked up his pure white and beribboned lid in what he called "that other country," Texas.

"In other parts of the United States they have 10-gallon hats," he said, "but this is a 15-gallon hat at least—probably a 20-gallon hat."

Married 48 Years

HASTINGS, Jan. 5 (ENS). — Mr. and Mrs. W. H. McMillian celebrated their 48th wedding anniversary on Christmas Day. Their first great-grandchild Mary Ann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Richardson, was christened at the morning service at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church by the Rev. J, M. Ritchie.

8 Patients Discharged

CALGARY, Jan. 5 — (CP). — Eight of the 32 persons taken to hospital last Thursday from the wreck of two Canadian Pacific Railway trains at Southesk, Alta., now have been discharged. Only three remain on the danger list.

Offer To Build Car For $1,000 If Any Demand

NEW YORK, Jan. 5 — (AP)— Nash Motors will build an automobile to sell for $1,000 or less if there is sufficient demand for it. It would be a small car — 12 feet 1 inch long on an 84-inch wheelbase— and would use low horse-power, foreign-made engines.

Nash showed one of the cars, a hand-built model, at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel Wednesday and plans additional showings.

George W. Mason, Nash president, emphasized his company is not now equipped to build the car and probably could not get it to the assembly lines in less than a year.

The demonstration model is a two-door, two-passenger convertible. It is powered with a four-cylinder, 18 horse-power Italian engine. Mason said it would give 45 to 50 miles to a gallon of gasoline and have a top speed of 60 to 65 miles an hour. It weighs 1,350 pounds.

Built Two Ways

The vehicle could be built as a sports roadster or as a two-door all-steel coupe. It could be built also with a 36 horse-power Fiat engine, to yield 35 to 40 miles a gallon of gas and a top speed of 65 to 70 miles an hour.

With that change it would weigh 1,450 pounds. Nash estimated the price of the car with an 18 horse-power engine at about $950; with the larger engine the price was put at about $1,000.

Nash emphasizes the new car is wholly an experimental one so far.

The demonstration car is sleek and streamlined in styling. Its front grille and bumper are combined into a single unit. A one-piece windshield conforms to the curving lines of fender and engine hood.

Suggest Date For Vote

COBOURG, Jan. 5 (ENS). — The local right wing branch of the UE workers at the CGE plastics plant here, has suggested a date to the management for a vote to select whether the right or left wing group will be the bargaining agency of the workers. The company is in accord with the date proposed, but it will have to meet the approval of the Provincial Labor Relations Board before it is final.

Hollywood Life Doesn't Lure Albuquerque Girl

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 5—(AP)—Jackie Lee Barnes, winner of a free trip to Hollywood, has returned to her Albuquerque home with no regrets.

Contest winners appear on the Hollywood scene as often as new Ava Gardner dates. But Jackie was different. Selected to celebrate the 15th anniversary of the radio theatre, she was treated to a whirl-wind fortnight of Hollywood glamor. Here is her reaction:

"I wouldn't particularly like to be a movie star. I had a screen test, which took almost a whole day. If anything should come of it, I might accept a contract. But I don't expect one and I wouldn't be disappointed."

The winsome 15-year-old said she expected to be nervous when she met the stars.

"But I wasn't at all," she commented. "It was just like talking to anybody else. The stars are really much nicer than the newspapers lead you to believe.

"Most of the stars look as they do on the screen. A few who look young on the screen look much older in person. That was my only disappointment in Hollywood."

Mama's Shape Best

Hollywood's best figures belong to mothers.

This cheering word comes from Hollywood fashion designer Helen Rose, who has first-hand knowledge of what she speaks. Having clothed a sizable number of filmdom's famous forms, she has selected these as the 10 best figures in Hollywood:

Esther Williams, Lana Turner, Betty Grable, Betty Hutton, Gene Tierney, Kathryn Grayson, Susan Hayward, Maureen O'Sullivan, Jane Greer, Joan Crawford, Elizabeth Taylor.

You will note that this first eight are mothers, and Miss O'Sullivan a mother six times!

"Every Hollywood glamor girl who has had a baby has emerged just as glamorous as ever," said Miss Rose. "And in most cases motherhood has improved their appearance. Even though measurements are the same, there is an added softness and feminity."

New Appointments Likely In Cabinet

OTTAWA, Jan 5 (CP)—Some political observers predicted today that new appointments to the Cabinet will be made following this week's meeting of Prime Minister St. Laurent and his ministers.

No date or time has been fixed for the next meeting of the Cabinet, but one government source said he believed a meeting will be called for tomorrow.

Rumors in unofficial circles said Mr. St. Laurent will announce the appointment of George Prudham, Liberal member for Edmonton West, to the Cabinet. It was possible that J. Watson MacNaught Liberal member for the Prince Edward Island constituency of Prince and Parliamentary assistant to Fisheries Minister Mayhew, would be promoted to Cabinet rank.

Will Question 2 Witnesses In OWCB Rulings

TORONTO, Jan. 5 (CP)—In a Toronto lawyer's fight to enable Ontario Workmen's Compensation Board rulings to be appealed, two witnesses are to be questioned at the public inquiry now in progress into board operations. Under present provisions, board decisions are final.

Mr. Justice W. D. Roach of the Ontario Supreme Court, the inquiry commissioner, agreed Tuesday to question two witnesses named by the lawyer, Kenneth V. Stratton. The witnesses are Dr. D. E. Bell, chief medical officer of the board, and S. R. Johnston, board secretary. Date of the questioning has still to be set.

In a brief submitted last month to the commissioner, Mr. Stratton urged that, in cases where medical opinion conflicts concerning the origin of an injury, the workman should be given the benefit of the doubt. When applications are rejected, the applicants should be told why they were refused, he said.

Mr. Stratton referred in his submission to the case of Michael McLaren, whose leg was amputated in 1935 and whose application for compensation was turned down. McLaren claimed in his application that the injury to his leg was caused by a blow suffered in 1929 while he was working for a contracting firm at Blenheim, Ont. Five pathologists disagreed about the cause of the malady leading to the amputation and the board ruled that McLaren had failed to prove his case.

Dollar, Gold Reserves Up Abbott Says

Pass Billion Mark From 1947 Low, Restrictions Help

OTTAWA, Jan. 6 (CP)—Finance Minister Abbott disclosed today in a statement that Canada's reserves of gold and United States dollars have climbed to $1,117,000,000 from a low of $500,000,000 in November, 1947.

Mr. Abbott said that during 1949 the reserves fluctuated, hitting a low of $973,000,000 in July and climbing to the peak of $1,117,000,000 by the end of December.

When the reserves fell sharply following the war and reached a low of some $500,000,000 in November, 1947, the government imposed import and travel restrictions to conserve United States dollars. Some of the restrictions still are in force, although many have been removed and relaxed as the situation improved.

5 Mine Companies Sue Lewis For $8,000,000

CAMBRIDGE, O., Jan. 6—(CP)—Five Ohio coal mining companies today filed five suits in common pleas court asking nearly $8,000,000 damages from John L. Lewis and other United Mine Workers Union leaders individually, and the union treasury.

The same companies filed companion suits against the members of the union asking court injunctions to bar them from abiding by Lewis' three-day work week.

The firms asked damages on the basis of tonnage lost by various mine strikes and work stoppages. They estimated the loss in 1949 at 7,000,000 tons.

Six similar suits are expected to be filed later today by the three other companies. These suits said coal operators, will raise the damages asked to a total of $10,000,000.

Supreme Court Justices Named

OTTAWA, Jan. 6—(CP)—The justice department announced the appointment of Wishart Flett Spence and R. I. Ferguson as justices of the Supreme Court of Ontario and members of the high court of justice for Ontario.

They fill two of four new posts created to help the court handle an increased volume of work facing it. Two appointments remain to be made in the appellate division of the court.

Mr. Spence came to Ottawa during the war and served on the legal division of the Prices Board. He has been serving as deputy rentals administrator.

Mr. Ferguson is a law partner in Toronto of Arthur Slaght, former Liberal member of the Commons for the Ontario constituency of Parry Sound.

Victim's Son Obstructs Sydney Police Inquiry

SYDNEY, N.S., Jan. 6—(CP)—Dan Jack MacLean, former mayor of this Cape Breton steel city, appears for preliminary hearing today on a charge of murder.

A new development came in the case Thursday when Allan MacKinnon, 27-year-old son of the slain city registrar of voters, was charged with obstructing police. He was remanded to Jan. 11 and later freed on $500 bail.

RCMP said that Allan MacKinnon, one of the Crown's star witnesses, burst into a room Thursday while they were questioning another member of the family. They quoted him as saying: "Don't talk, it was all an accident."

RCMP said MacKinnon had asked members of his family not to co-operate in police questioning.

Bail was provided by two uncles, Frank and Thomas MacKinnon, brothers of the dead man.

Great Britain Recognizes Chinese Reds

LONDON, Jan. 6 (CP)—Britain today extended full diplomatic recognition to the Chinese Communist government.

The first major Western power to recognize Mao Tze-tung's Red regime as China's legal government, Britain severed relations with Chiang Kai-shek's hard-pressed Nationalist administration.

The Nationalists promptly replied from Chiang's Formosa headquarters with a note breaking off diplomatic relations with Britain.

Other Western European powers were expected to follow quickly Britain's lead. Authoritative Danish sources said Norway, Sweden and Denmark probably would announce joint action soon, simultaneously in the three Scandinavian capitals.

Britain was the fourth non-Communist country to recognize the Peiping government. Ceylon became the fifth shortly afterwards by announcing the establishment of diplomatic relations with the Chinese Reds. India and Pakistan, both members of the British Commonwealth, and Burma are the other non-Communist countries to recognize the Communists.

Blow From Friends

The Chinese Nationalist Ambassador in London, Dr. Cheng Tien-hsi, today termed the British action "equivalent to burying us whilst we are still very much alive." History, he said, "will say that China has received a knock-out blow, not from her foes but from her friends and former allies."

Edgar Hunt of Lakehurst Drowns When Ice Breaks

Treacherously thin ice caused by the unseasonal wave of warm weather was responsible for the death Thursday afternoon of Edgar (Ted) Hunt, 24, of Lakehurst. The youth, an agricultural expert, dropped through the ice and drowned. Hunt had started out across the narrows between Pigeon and Bald Lakes to go to Snare Island, situated in the middle of the thin neck of water, a quarter of a mile away.

The ice is usually firm at this time of year and the youth, who had just recently returned to his farm home from Guelph OAC, apparently thought it safe to cross. While firm along most of the south shore line the half-mile stretch in the narrows is soft, local residents say.

Wearing heavy rubber boots and bushman's clothing he started across the three quarter mile stretch chipping away periodically at the ice to test its thickness. A search party was able to follow his trail of footprints and occasional test holes from the shoreline to the scene of the drowning.

The trail reached a point about 150 feet from the island where there was a large hole in the ice with a cap, rubber boot and the axe lying beside it. A large section of broken ice indicated he fought hard for his life.

Overcome By Fatigue

Apparently overcome by fatigue and cold, and with nobody to witness his struggle or hear his cries for aid, Hunt sank into the open water and drowned.

Provincial Constable Albert Poulter of the Peterborough Detachment arrived later and organized dragging operations. Three boats — a flat bottomed craft, a punt and a canoe—were hauled over the ice to the open water by Harvey residents who volunteered to help in the search.

The body was located and brought to the surface after about 30 minutes of dragging. At that

Geographer Bowman Dies

BALTIMORE, Jan. 6 — (AP) — Dr. Isaiah Bowman, president Emeritus of Johns Hopkins University and one of the world's foremost geographers, died at Johns Hopkins hospital early today. A native of Waterloo township, Ont., he was 71.

Dr. Bowman retired as president of Johns Hopkins University January 1, 1949. He had celebrated his 71st birthday Dec. 26.

He died at 8:20 a.m. of a heart attack. He was stricken at his home late Thursday afternoon and taken to the hospital about midnight.

Dr. Bowman was a close adviser to President Wilson when the First World War president of the United States advanced his League of Nations plan.

The famed educationist gave similar help to President Roosevelt throughout the Second World War and the preliminary work on the United Nations.

The one-time Michigan school teacher had not been idle since his retirement from the presidency of John Hopkins. In recent months one of his main tasks was heading a commission that tried to find out what to do about restoring seafood resources in Chesapeake Bay.

This was an example of his many public services to Maryland while he was president of the university and while he also was sitting in higher councils on world problems. Ten years ago he headed another commission which blueprinted a sweeping reorganization of the state's government.

They're Hunting Mastodons Along Toronto's Main Drag

TORONTO, Jan. 6.—(CP). — They're hunting mastodons along Toronto's main drag.

The hunt for remains of the prehistoric elephants is going on in the wet, heavy clay under Yonge street. There, where steam shovels rattle and hiss and street cars rumble overhead on a temporary roadway, geologists are combing the excavation for the city's new subway.

They're finding odd relics of an ancient glacier and evidence that Toronto once had a much warmer climate.

W. R. Shriever of the National Research Council, is enthusiastic over the opportunity the opening of the city's underpinnings presents to geologists.

A lanky young man with an engaging grin, he told a reporter Thursday of some of his findings. Daily he skids over wet clay banks in pursuit of elusive hunks of rock that cause a geologist's eyes to light up—even in the dank darkness of the subway diggings.

He showed one Thursday, a piece of granite striped with quartz. It's a piece usually found far north of here, evidence of a glacier's movement in the distant past.

It's part of the accumulating material that will show the paths of the ancient masses of ice and enable reconstruction of a map of the area as it existed thousands of years ago.

As for the mastodons—

"Maybe, just maybe," said Shriever wistfully, "we will find something like that."

He has something to go on. Some years ago excavators working on a downtown department store foundation found some of the remains of a mastodon.

Tasted All Best Wines Now Turns Over Leaf

CARSHALTON, Surrey, England, Jan. 6—(CP)—A man who has tasted all the world's best wines and liquers and who holds the secrets of more than 200 cocktails has begun a new life—drinking water.

Sixty-five-year-old William Grisdale, chief bartender aboard the Queen Mary, has left the liner's 14 bars for a country villa here.

In 52 years at sea he has been everywhere in the world except the north and south poles and has tasted "almost every wine and spirit there is."

"But from now on my drink will be water out of the tap," Grisdale said. "I've had enough."

"Americans are the most fabulous spenders," he said. "Englishmen the most knowledgeable and aristocrats the best people to serve."

Doctors Keep Treatment Top Secret

Rare Drug Used Here For First Time, Warn It's Experiment

TORONTO, Jan. 6 (CP)—Gordon Wyatt, 29-year-old Canadian army veteran from Sudbury grinned broadly as he stepped from his wheelchair in Sunnybrook Hospital today to demonstrate for newspaper interviewers what treatment with acth has done for his arthritis.

Hospital officials said Wyatt was the first patient treated at the hospital with the rare drug, unreleased yet by medical science for general use. They emphasized the drug was used only as an experiment.

Wyatt's case is the first reported test of acth treatment for arthritis in Canada. The experiment was a "top secret" venture in Sunnybrook after Wyatt agreed to the treatment early in December.

Doctors "swore me to secrecy," he said. "They gave me strict orders not to tell anyone I was getting acth. I didn't even tell my sweetheart, although she does know I am undergoing a special type of treatment."

May Get Married

If the treatment cures him, the tall, gaunt veteran who was born in New Liskeard, plans to get married.

Wyatt first complained of an ailment later diagnosed as rehumatoid and anothe allied disease, reiters, while serving overseas in 1943. He was returned to Canada in the fall of that year.

Since then he has been in and out of veterans hospitals, both Christie Stree and Sunnybrook here. He has been in Sunnybrook since last September.

When Wyatt consented to the acth experiment about the middle of December, doctors started giving him injections of the new drug every six hours for 14 days. The injections then were discontinued.

Pain Vanishes

After two or three days, Wyatt reported the pain had "pretty well" left him and he experienced a feeling of well-being. He was able to get up without assistance and walk about, something he had not been able to do without great pain for a long time.

"It now is approximately two weeks since the injections were stopped and I still feel pretty well," said Wyatt.

Hospital authorities hastened to add: "This is definitely not a treatment—just an experiment. The drug is not released for general use; it is very difficult to get, and if the public got the idea it was a treatment we would be getting calls from all over Canada."

Holdup Immunity Being Investigated

MONTREAL, Jan. 6—(CP)—Marcel Gaboury, Montreal lawyer, said Thursday night he has been retained by banking interests in connection with reports that provincial police had guaranteed immunity to an alleged holdup man.

Mr. Gaboury did not further identify his client and said he could not comment on the case because he still is not fully familiar with it.

His statement followed reports in Montreal Thursday that banking authorities had retained a lawyer to press for a full-scale inquiry into an arrested man's claims that two Provincial Police detectives engineered a bank holdup.

The arrested man was named by Deputy Director Hilaire Beauregard of the Provincial Police earlier in the week as Charles-Emile Poliquin, 28.

Poliquin, arrested in connection with the $4,010 holdup of the Banque Canadienne Nationale branch at St. Hugues, Que., last month was quoted by Beauregard as saying he was immune from arrest because he paid "protection money" not only to Provincial Police but to city police and RCMP.

EDGAR HUNT OF LAKEHURST drowned Thursday afternoon when he crashed through the ice in the narrows between Pigeon and Bald Lakes. A graduate of the Guelph Agricultural College, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Hunt.

Charge Laborer With Murder Of Taxi Driver

WELLAND, Jan. 6 — (CP).—Michael Palechuk, 19, today was charged with murder in the December 23 bludgeon-slaying of cab driver Arthur Gough, 27, of St. Catharines. He was arraigned before W. P. Marshall, Justice of the Peace, in the Welland County Jail Office, and remanded for court appearance January 10.

Palechuk, described as an unemployed laborer from Grantham Township near St. Catharines, was taken into custody in St. Catharines late Thursday by Inspector Wilford Franks and Constable Frank Cooney of the Ontario Provincial Police. After eight hours' questioning, he was brought to Welland at 12:50 a.m. today. He is unmarried.

Gough's body, the skull crushed in, was found in a Crowland Township ditch near the outskirts of Welland the morning after the cab driver disappeared. Gough's employers said he had gone to a beverage room in midtown Welland to pick up a passenger about 8 p.m., December 22.

Train Rams Freight Two Railmen Killed

CRANBROOK, B.C., Jan. 6 (CP) — An engineer and a brakeman were killed five miles west of here early today when an eastbound Canadian Pacific Railway passenger train rammed head-on into a westbound freight train. The accident occurred about 5 a.m. at the little junction of the Fassiferne.

The dead: Peter Linton of Cranbrook, engineer on the freight train; and James W. Myles of Cranbrook, brakeman on the freight.

Ambulance drivers who were on the scene said the locomotives and passenger and freight cars were "strewn all over the place." Unofficial reports said the freight was stationary in the siding at Fassiferne waiting for the passenger, No. 12, to go through. The switch was reported to have been "open" and No. 12 collided with the freight.

Truman Pledges Wipe Out Poverty Completely In U.S. Within Five Years

Way Lies Open For National Income Of Nearly $1,000 A Year For Every Family In Country By 1954

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6—(AP)—President Truman said today the United States can offer its people 61,000,000 jobs this year, 64,000,000 in five years and, in, the end, "the complete elimination of poverty." In his annual economic message to Congress, Truman said the country's economy has emerged strong and stable from its post-war crisis. The way lies open, he said, for a rise in national income equal to nearly $1,000 a year for every family by 1954. His statement seemed to mean an average American family income of more than $5,000 four years hence.

The President added two points to his legislative wait-list: standby powers to control credit; more liberal loan terms for little business. He again asked a "moderate" tax increase.

Prices — with some "outstanding" exceptions — are generally close to the level where they should stay. "The basic economic problem facing the country now is not inflation."

As for wages, the administration hopes to keep hands off. "These adjustments," Truman said, "are now in the hands of management and labor. That is where they should remain."

The President hammered at a single theme—the need for business expansion to absorb a constantly growing labor force in well-paid jobs.

Major Hazard

Almost as often, he stressed a major hazard to prosperity—the slackening, already perceptible, in business investment. If it should continue, Truman said, "our prospects for full recovery and continued expansion would be seriously endangered."

"Within five years we can achieve an annual output in excess of $300,000,000,000," said Truman. He compared this to the 1949 output of $259,000,000,000 and added:

"The gain in national income would be equal to an average of nearly $1,000 for every family in the United States.

The 17-page message was backed up by an economic review, ex-

400 Snow-Bound

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., Jan. 6 — (CP) — Four-hundred children were blizzard-bound Thursday at schools in district villages. The children arrived at the school but buses which normally return them to their farm homes were unable to make their runs due to snow-blocked roads. Three hundred children were at Coaldale, 10 miles east of here, and another 100 at Readymade and Picture Butte. They were billeted with families in the villages. Radio and telephone informed parents of their children's plight.

UAW Watchman Kidnapped On Detroit Street

DETROIT, Jan. 6 — (AP). — The watchman who found a dynamite charge planted last month at the United Automobile Workers (CIO) headquarters was abducted early today and dumped beside the River Rouge.

He was found this morning, trussed up and suffering from exposure.

The watchman, George Thomas, 58, told police two men grabbed him at 5 a.m. and drove away with him in a car.

Doctors said he was temporarily in serious condition.

Thomas said he was walking on a downtown street when he was seized. The abductors tied his hands and feet and placed a loop of rope around his neck, he said.

Thomas was night watchman at the UAW's three-storey international headquarters here the night of December 20 when an unknown plotter placed 39 sticks of dynamite outside the building. The charge did not explode.

He spotted the dynamite in a little-used stair well leading to the basement.

Police believe the dynamite attempt was part of a plot against the UAW connected with the shootings of Walter and Victor Reuther, UAW top officials.

Canada Delays Mao Recognition

KARACHI, Pakistan, Jan. 6 — (Reuters)—L. B. Pearson, Canadian Minister for External Affairs, said on his arrival here today that he did not expect Canada to recognize Communist China until his return from the British Commonwealth Foreign Ministers' conference in Colombo about Feb. 10.

"I suppose the United States is also unlikely to recognize Communist China for the time being," he said.

"Our position concerning recognition is not too rigid and if there are fresh developments it may change.

"But recognition taken by other countries does not necessarily alter our position."

Pearson said he believed recognition of Communist China might still be one of the subjects to be discussed at the Commonwealth Foreign Ministers' conference in Colombo even through four of the participating countries had already recognized the new regime.

He said he had no reason to believe that the question of a Pacific pact would be discussed at the conference but it was a possible subject.

Canada Asks 2 Countries To Name Men For Inquiry

OTTAWA, Jan. 6 (CP)—Canada has asked Hungary and Rumania to name their representatives to commissions to investigate Canadian allegations that the two Communist led countries have broken their peace treaties by denying fundamental civil rights to many of their citizens.

In identical notes delivered on Thursday to the Hungarian and Rumanian governments Canada named Mr. Justice J. L. Ilsley as Canadian representative on the commissions to investigate disputes over the implementation of the peace treaties.

Mr. Justice Ilsley was wartime finance minister and justice minister. He resigned from the Cabinet to return to private law practice and served as commission counsel for the Royal Commission on transportation. He was appointed a justice of the Nova Scotia Supreme Court last fall.

Similar notes were sent the two countries by the United Kingdom and the United States, the External Affairs Department said in a statement.

The note followed Canadian notes last Aug. 1 in which Canada accused the two Cominform countries of religious and political persecution.

The US and UK have made similar accusations against Bulgaria. Canada did not sign the peace treaty with Bulgaria but is understood to support the US and UK.

The Canadian notes were delivered by the British ministers in Bucharest and Budapest.

$30,000 Fire Sweeps Kirkland Lake Store

KIRKLAND LAKE, Jan. 6 — (CP). — A $30,000 fire in 24-below-zero weather today swept a frame building containing a grocery store and four apartments, and drove four children and six adults to the street. Fire firemen were overcome by smoke.

Hampered by frozen hoselines and by smoke so thick that they had to use masks, firemen still were fighting the blaze at noon. A scarcity of smoke masks forced them to work in relays.

Every available fireman on this Northern Ontario goldmining community's brigade was called out.

Ask Subsidy To Bolster Farm Prices

Says Prompt Action Needed To Prevent Complete Collapse

TORONTO, Jan. 6 — (CP) — Government subsidies on farm prices are needed to prevent "a major crisis in Canadian agriculture," H. H. Hannam, president of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, declared Thursday night.

He told the 17th annual convention of the Ontario Cheese Producers' Association:

"If farm prices are now to be allowed to decline, as eggs have done and as hogs may do several months from now, while the rest of Canada is enjoying peak prosperity, then there is only one conclusion to draw and that is that the government of Canada is breaking faith with its farmers."

From another speaker came a different plea. Sir Edward Jones, member of the British Food Ministry, said that the disparity in price between Canadian and soft currency area cheese would have to be brought down to win the British market for the Canadian product.

Urges Hold Out

But John H. Ballantyne, president of the Producers' Group, urged them to hold out for a 30-cent basic price in the new British cheese contract.

Mr. Hannam said prompt action was needed by the Federal Government "to prevent a collapse in our agricultural industry."

"It has the authority under the Agricultural Prices Support Act. It has the funds, $200,000,000 voted in 1944 when the act was passed.

He said it would be folly for farmers to accept "ruinous prices" for farm products in an attempt to try to subsidize low-income city families.

Sir Edward, speaking at the afternoon session, said Canadian cheese cost the British government about 31 cents a pound, whereas Australian cheese came to 19 cents a pound and New Zealand cheese about 19½.

"The margin between these costs must be appreciably narrowed if the British government is going to continue to purchase North American cheese," he said. Means must be found to reduce the British subsidy which brings cheese to the United Kingdom consumer at 18 cents a pound.

UE Asks Negotiations Resumed With Firm

TORONTO, Jan. 6 (CP) — A resumption of contract negotiations between the Canadian General Electric Company and the United Electrical Workers Union was requested Thursday by a joint conference board of the U.E. locals at the company's three plants.

A union statement said 35 delegates representing 6,000 workers in CGE plants at Cobourg, Peterborough and Toronto, called on the company to resume negotiations with the joint union committee in the light of findings of a conciliation board released last Tuesday.

The board recommended a reduction in the work week to 42 hours and a 4.7-per-cent increase in wages. At present, workers in the Toronto plant work 44 hours while employees in Cobourg and Peterborough work 45 hours.

actly 10 times as long, by the President's council of economic advisers.

The review made clear the surprising nature of Truman's forecast of a $1,000-a-family rise in national income.

Deep in the council's statistical data was a table, hitherto unpublished, which showed that the average U.S. family income had reached $4,231 in 1948, a 59-percent increase since 1935-36.

Adding $1,000 to that by 1954 would bring the average family income well over $5,000.

LindsayMerchant Dies In Toronto

LINDSAY, Jan. 6.—The death occurred in Toronto East General Hospital Wednesday of Mr. C. M. Murdoff, a resident of Lindsay for some 20 years. Manager of the Dominion Store, he had worked until Christmas Eve, leaving to spend the holiday with his daughter in Toronto, where he became seriously ill. He had not been in the best of health for some time, and passed away following a brief stay in the hospital. He was in his 60th year.

The son of Mrs. Charles Murdoff and the late Mr. Murdoff of Bowmanville, he was born and educated in that town, coming to Lindsay about 20 years ago. He was a member of Cambridge Street United Church and of the Masonic Order.

Left to mourn his loss are his mother in Bowmanville, one daughter, Mrs. Cecil Elliott (Borea), in Toronto, and one grandson, Paul. His wife, the former Florence Allen predeceased him about four years ago.

Selling Pressure Noted On Exchange

TORONTO, Jan. 6 (CP)—Selling pressure replaced early demand as the session progressed on the Toronto Stock Exchange today, pushing prices slightly lower. The market opened on a continuation of Thursday's advance but losses replaced many gains by mid-session.

Key issues were on the downside on the industrial board. Refining oils, foods, liquors and papers were easier. A few issues went against the trend for moderate advances. Almost all changes were held to fractions. Brazilian Traction featured a firmer utility list with a gain of ⅝ at 20⅜. This was the first decline in three days for industrials.

Losses outnumbered gains four to one in base metals. Golden Manitou, Thursday's strong gainer, was quiet and under pressure of some profit taking. The group showed signs of steadying as the session continued.

Senior golds were strong while junior producers slumped. A handful of small prospects provided most of the action.

point the narrows are 30 feet deep. The remains were taken to the Hendren Funeral Home, Lakefield.

It is believed his mission across the icy narrows to Snake Island was to do a favor for a United States' resident, Ben Wright, who has a summer home there. Hunt was to clean up the shore of driftwood and refuse and burn some of the brush.

Father Alarmed

The fatality was discovered shortly before 6 p.m. when his father, Percy Hunt, alarmed over him not returning got a search party together. Claude Fawcett, a local resident, is credited with being the first to spy the axe and clothing on the ice beside the hole.

Provincial Police estimate that nearly 50 neighbors and friends from the Lakehurst district helped in some way in the search and dragging operations. And their co-operation is credited with the speedy recovery of the body in that difficult location.

The body had been in the water many hours when located by dragging operations.

He graduated from Guelph last Spring and being a clever student was employed by the provincial department of agriculture at Guelph. As his services were not required during the winter months he was allowed to return to his farm home a mile and a half north of Lakehurst.

(In its Christmas issue the Examiner selected the Hunt family as typical of the change during the past 50 years in farm life. At that time Ted, as he is nicknamed, was expected home and the family was anticipating a happy Christmas and New Year's season.)

He leaves, beside his parents, a brother Gordon who is scheduled to graduate from OAC this coming spring, and two sisters—Grace, married and living in Peterborough, and Fay, working in Kingston.

Warsaw Driver Not Guilty In Fatal Crash

John S. Kidd, RR 1, Warsaw, charged with careless driving after an accident Oct. 28 which ended in the death of Thaine Barker, 47, of Hastings, was found not guilty by Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC in a judgment anounced in police court today.

The accident occurred on Highway 7, about eight miles east of Peterborough while Kidd was attempting to pass Barker. The two cars collided and both apparently went out of control. Barker's panel truck smashed head on into a tree in a shallow ditch beside the road and Kidd's car sideswiped another tree a short distance farther along the ditch. Barker died a few minutes after the crash.

Weaving Car

A report from the Attorney General's department of an analysis of Barker's urine and blood indicated that Barker was intoxicated. It was pointed out, however, that there was nothing to indicate how the intoxication affected Barker except Kidd's testimony.

Kidd said Barker had been weaving about the road while he following him about three miles before the accident. As he was passing Barker, said Kidd, Barker's car came across the highway toward him. The right rear fender of Kidd's car and the left front fender of Barker's car apparently collided throwing the cars out of control.

Nurses Get TB Province To Pay

TORONTO, Jan. 6—At an estimated cost of $200,000 a year, the Ontario Government has arranged for the payment of compensation to all hospital or sanatoria employees, including nurses, who catch tuberculosis through contact with patients.

In making this announcement Thursday, Premier Frost said the matter had been under consideration by the government for two years.

The Compensation Board, which will make the payments, has estimated that to provide the extra protection the assessment now paid by hospitals would have to be increased from 50 cents per $100 of payroll to $1.50.

Reluctant to ask the hospitals to accept this greater financial burden, the province decided to pay the extra assessment.

All employees with more than three months' service will be covered immediately. New employees will have to wait three months before they are protected. However, they will be protected for three months after they leave the hospital's employ.

"These people are performing a vital service and the government feels they are entitled to this protection," Mr. Frost said.

With a system of compulsory X-ray of patients being instituted as quickly as the necessary equipment can be obtained, Mr. Frost said the danger of nurses and other employees contracting TB will be reduced considerably.

2 Brothers Convicted On Liquor Counts

Two Lakefield bachelor brothers, Leo and John McManus, were convicted on liquor charges in police court today. John was sentenced to seven days on a plea of guilty to a charge of drunk driving and Leo was fined $10 and costs for being drunk.

Provincial Constable Bert Howden testified that Wednesday afternoon he was driving north on the Lakefield highway. At the waterworks he came upon a long string of cars driving very slowly north.

He pulled out to see what was holding up the traffic and saw a truck about 400 yards north weaving back and forth on the highway from side to side.

Because of approaching traffic, the procession reached the Nassau turn before Constable Howden could get to the truck. He had trouble pulling in front of the truck, but finally stopped it.

He said when the driver, John McManus climbed out of the truck he almost fell flat on his face in the path of an oncoming car. He said John was unable to walk without help and he smelled strongly of alcohol.

The truck which the brothers were driving was impounded for three months.

Atlantic Council Discusses Secret Defence

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6—(AP)—The 12-country Atlantic Pact council was called together today to give final approval to a secret defence plan for protecting western Europe against possible aggression.

State Secretary Dean Acheson, representing the United States, was to preside over the session in the state department.

The meeting marks the third time the council has convened since the 12 western governments banded together in a formal defence alliance last April.

Government officials forecast quick approval for the defence plan, which was to be the main order of business. Top military leaders of the Allied government gave it their approval last Dec. 3 in Paris.

Plan Secret

Details of the plan are secret. Generally, however, it is reported to call for all pact governments to pool their defence forces to fight off any Russian attacks against the North Atlantic area.

The French army, the biggest of the western land forces on the continent, is reported assigned the primary defence role in the initial stages of any possible conflict. The British and American navies are to control the sea lanes and to join in strategic and tactical bombing support.

As soon as the council gives its final approval to the document, it will be sent to the White House for President Truman's consideration.

Congress provided that $900,000,000 of the $1,000,000,000 it appropriated to rearm Western Europe is to be frozen until the Atlantic Pact governments formally promise to pool their fighting strength on a co-ordinated scale.

Soaring Wages Dangerous-CCC

OTTAWA, Jan. 6 (CP) — A warning against pushing wages too high was voiced by the Canadian Chamber of Commerce today in its annual submission to the Federal Cabinet.

Declaring present economic conditions call for the exercise of "restraint" the Chamber said "no economy can support a continuing upward spiral of wages or other factors which will result in a top-heavy cost structure leading to inevitable collapse."

The Chamber, representing 640 Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce, said it was opposed to the principle of industry-wide bargaining as advocated by some unions, notably those of the Canadian Congress of Labor.

It said it was against this principle because it opposed giving either employers or trade unions a "coercive monopoly" over either group or the public.

hew, said recognition of Red China was "an acknowledgment of fact and not a mark of approbation." The official note of recognition said Britain has observed that the Mao regime "is now in effective control of by far the greater part of the territory of China."

It was expected that the British government would leave a Consul in Formosa on a de facto basis to look after local British interests in the same way that British Consuls were left in parts of China under Communist control before Britain severed relations with the Nationalist government.

The British Consul would not be accredited to the Nationalist government but would maintain de facto relations with authorities actually administering Formosa.

The long-anticipated move, taken primarily in an effort to protect Britain's billion-dollar investment in China, brought a split in Anglo-American foreign policy co-operation. State Secretary Dean Acheson of the United States said in Washington yesterday the question of American recognition of the Chinese Communists was premature.

The announcement by the foreign office said British recognition is on a "de jure" basis. That is, Britain accepts the Peiping "People's Republic" as the government of China in law as well as in fact.

The Nationalist ambassador to London, Dr. Cheng Tien-hsi, was notified in advance last night that, as a result of the British action, he and other diplomatic representatives of Chiang Kai-shek no longer are recognized in London.

Would Establish Relations

The British foreign office said it had formally advised Communist China's minister of foreign affairs, Chou En-lai, of its desire to establish diplomatic relations.

The foreign office announcement said a note handed Chou-En-lai by the British consul-general in Peiping offered to exchange diplomatic representatives with the Peiping government.

Bandit Nabbed In One Minute

MONTREAL, Jan. 6 (CP) — A holdup man was caught Thursday a minute after taking a $100 bill from a teller of La Banque Canadienne Nationale on St. Catherine St. E.

Jacques Metayer, 18-year-old teller, told police the man came up to his cage, hand in pocket as if carrying a gun.

"Just hand me the money and don't say a word or I'll shoot," said the man.

Metayer said he handed over the $100 bill and the man walked quickly from the bank.

"Then I wondered if he really had a gun, so I ran after him," said Metayer.

He caught the bandit at the street corner, dragged him back into the bank and telephoned the police.

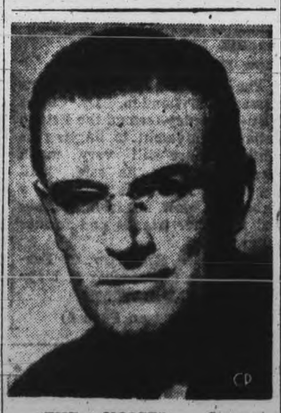
Shake-up Rumored In Police Department



MONTREAL, Jan. 6 (CP) — Det.-Lt. Donat Mayer, head of the provincial police detachment in the Abitibi, Que., district, arrived Thursday and touched off rumors of an important shake-up at provincial headquarters here in the wake of bribery charges recently made by a man arrested on a charge of robbing a bank.

An inquiry into the charges levelled by Charles Emile Poliquin, 28, of Montreal, was ordered earlier in the week on orders from Premier Duplessis in his capacity as attorney-general.

Soil Deficiency Farm Problem, Watch Drainage

KEMPTVILLE, Jan. 6 (CP)—Tests have shown soil in eastern Ontario to be deficient in chemicals necessary to good growth, W. B. George of the Kemptville Agricultural School said Thursday at the Eastern Ontario Crop Improvement Association's regional conference.

Soil fertility and methods of improvement occupied most of the gathering's opening sessions Thursday. N. Richards of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, described soil as "a great national bank about which little is known."

Representatives of some 100 county associations are attending the two-day conference.

Mr. George said that of 1,948 soil samples from 14 eastern Ontario counties tested in 1949, 47 per cent were deficient in nitrate content, 66 per cent in phosphates and 81 per cent in potash. The 1949 tests showed a marked loss in soil value from the previous year.

Need Better Drainage

To improve soil conditions, he said, attention would have to be paid to drainage, chemical reactions, fertility and organic matter. These would have to be balanced and blended to give best results.

Mr. Richards said tests revealed 38 different types of soil in Grenville County. Drainage was an important problem because crops varied in drainage requirements. In Essex and Kent Counties, where soil texture was heavy, $80 an acre was being spent on drainage.

Approves Demonstrations

Delegates were urged to continue crop demonstrations to bring the latest form of development to farmers.

A. H. Martin of the Ontario Agriculture Department, told representatives to try any demonstration that would increase the number of cash crops in eastern Ontario.

He also suggested they:

1. Continue pasture studies with the hope of finding a more perfect hay-pasture program.
2. Demonstrate the value of soy bean production.
3. Strive for a better corn yield.
4. Increase attention given to soil management.
5. Encourage every means of weed control.

The days when timothy hay and cheese were the main sources of farm income were gone, he said, and farm income can be derived from many sources.

Better hay pastures would cut farm cost by increasing pasture production of better cheese, fluid and manufactured milk.

Soy bean crops could be the substituted source of farm income. It was a high protein crop and varieties were being produced that would grow anywhere in Ontario.

Church Filled At Funeral Of Percy Stinson

MILLBROOK, Jan. 6 (ENS) — St. Andrew's Church was filled to capacity Thursday with many standing outside, waiting to pay final tribute to Percy Stinson, for 35 years CNR agent at Millbrook, who died on Monday.

The funeral service was conducted by Mr. Stinson's pastor, the Rev. T. G. Husser, assisted by the Rev. A. L. Sisco of Tweed, who was a close friend of Mr. Stinson.

There were many floral tributes from societies, boards and lodges, as well as from individual friends.

Active pallbearers were: John McKnight, Hildon Johnston, George F. Harrington, Louis H. Winslow, A. R. Payne and Ted Swanson.

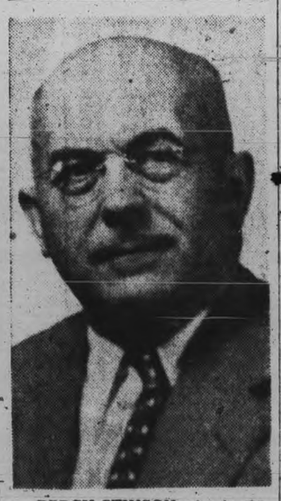
Honorary pallbearers were: Rev. John Foote, VC, MPP, of Port Hope; John James MP, Bowmanville; Charles Stephenson, former Conservative member, Port Hope; Dr. H. A. Turner, P. I. Bentley, George E. Burnham, Walter Coombe and W. F. Fallis.

Reeve Dr. J. W. Wright represented the town council and other representatives were: Dr. M. E. Hobbs, chairman of the School Board; J. A. Thompson, principal of the Continuation School; Margaret Aiken, George Smith and Bennett Handley, representing the student body; Miss Jean Burnham, teacher of the intermediate room, representing the Public School.

Public Man

Mr. Stinson had been prominent in council work where he served from 1920-1937, for seven years as reeve, and for a term as Warden of the United Counties. He was a member of the official board of the United Church, a trustee of the school board, where he had served for ten years, part of the time as chairman, a member of the Black Knights of the Preceptory LOL, of the IOOF, of the Lions' Club and director of the Millbrook and Cavan Agricultural Society.

He took a keen interest in politics, being a staunch Conservative. He had attended party conventions for many years, and although his health prevented his accepting the nominations, it is believed his warm personality and his outstanding ability might easily have made him the representative of the riding in Ottawa. He was also interested in sport, having been past president of Durham Baseball League and of the curling club.



He was born in Janetville in 1889, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Albert Stinson. He is survived by his wife, the former Alda Hawman, one daughter, Mrs. Kenneth Cooper of Cobourg, and three sons, Jack of Ottawa, Edward of London, and Conrad of Cobourg.

Travel Long Distances

Among those attending the funeral from a distance were: A. J. Runnells of Welcome, warden of the United Counties; the following former wardens: M. Elliott, C. Carveth, Wm. Prouse, Norman Green, Mel. Johnston; Mrs. Penner, in charge of mothers' allowances and old age pensions, Robert Armstrong, reeve of Cavan; H. Campbell, Lorne Giddy, E. B. Lingard, Mrs. John Foote, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bigelow, and Mr. H. Hunter of Port Hope; J. C. Cumminsky of Bethany.

Former county councillors: H. Cathcart, J. Whittington and T. G. Shields; Fred Horner of Toronto; Judge and Mrs. L. F. Clarry, E. N. Granger, Dr. Clifford Laidley, Norman Ryckman, Mr. and Mrs. Cleve Dayman, and Mr. B. Wainman of Lindsay; Mr. and Mrs. Lowes and Charles Lytle of Omemee; Mr. and Mrs. Mowat of Stouffville; Mrs. Hildon Johnston, Mrs. Robert Elson, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Casey, Mrs. Wilfred Leslie and Mrs. Mary Grandy of Janetville.

Reeve George Walton, Fred Lovekin, Rev. Wm. Patterson, and Mr. and Mrs. Golsby Goldie of Newcastle; Mr. and Mrs. Bill Dean, Garden Hill; Police Chief Wm. Duncan, Rev. and Mrs.

PERCY STINSON who for 35 years was CNR agent at Millbrook. Mr. Stinson lived an unusually active public life, being councillor and reeve of the village for many years and later Warden of United Counties.

Dies While On Visit With Fiancee In U.S.

COBOURG, Jan. 6—(ENS)—While on a visit to his fiancee in Beckley, West Virginia, Peter Swan, 50, Cobourg, died Thursday. He was taken to Charleston Hospital, West Virginia, for an emergency operation, and died Thursday shortly after midnight.

The body is being brought to Cobourg for burial.

He leaves two sisters, Mrs. Leo Williams, Detroit and Mrs. Allen Church, Orillia; two brothers, John of Vancouver and James in England. A niece, Mrs. Erwin Hie, lives in Cobourg.

Mr. Swan was a veteran of both wars and in the last war was a sergeant-major. He was a member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church and belonged to the local Lgion. By trade he was a radio technician.

Daughter Of Man Who Named Campbellford Dies In Vancouver

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 6 — (ENS)—A link with the past was severed on Dec. 28 when Miss Jane Boland, formerly of Campbellford, died in Vancouver at the age of 96. Twenty-two years ago the three Boland sisters, Olivia, Mary and Jane, moved to Vancouver to be with a fourth, the late Mrs. Eliza Regan. For many years they operated a sewing and tailoring business.

Miss Olivia died at 96, Miss Mary at 101. Two other sisters, Mrs. Regan and Miss Bridget, and three brothers, John, Michael and James, predeceased her.

Miss Jane Boland was still tailoring at 84 and in 1936 cut and designed the vestments used in the High Mass at Stanley Park to celebrate Vancouver's Golden Jubilee.

She was a member of the Catholic Women's League and did much sewing for charity.

Miss Boland was the last survivor of the family of Mr. and Mrs. James Boland, who were married in Ireland in 1839. They came to Kingston in 1842 where Mr. Boland found employment as a bookkeeper.

In 1844 Mr. and Mrs. Boland moved to the Trent River district where Mr. Boland became bookkeeper for the Board of Works. Later he received the position of post master at Ranney Falls, known in those days as The Patch.

When Mr. and Mrs. Boland moved into Seymour, the site on which Campbellford now stands was a forest. Mr. Boland was asked to suggest a name for the struggling community and he suggested Campbellford after a Mr. Campbell who lived near the ford.

Jane, Olivia and Eliza were in the millinery and dressmaking business on Front St. for many years before going to Vancouver.

Survivors are nieces: Miss Olivia Regan, Vancouver; Miss Ann Boland, Los Angeles; nephews: J. P. Regan, Vancouver; Emmett Boland, Los Angeles; and Hugh Boland, Port Wayne, Ind.

Requiem mass was sung by Rev. Father Brown in Holy Rosary Cathedral on Friday, Dec. 30, followed by burial in Ocean View Cemetery.

Woodger, Mr. and Mrs. William Walker, Mr. and Mrs. D. Bell, William and Ralph Carey, Wm. Brown, Ted Moulton and Mr. Gummer of Cobourg; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Howson, Mr. and Mrs. Dawson Rutherford, Geo. H. Fletcher and James Roddy of Ballieboro.

Harry Tinney, Mr. and Mrs. A. Tinney, Fraser Carr, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Carr, Mr. and Mrs. S. Richards, Mrs. Pearl Tyler, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Byers of Cavan; D. E. Bell, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Edworthy and Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Edworthy of Peterborough; Delbert Armstrong and Mrs. Ira Lowes of Mount Pleasant; and Mrs. John James of Bowmanville.

Burial was in Gardiner's cemetery.

Fails To Get Respite

CHICAGO, Jan. 6 (AP)—Sigmund Engel, the silver-haired wooer of wealthy widows, failed Thursday to win a respite from a prison term. Judge George M. Fisher ruled the 74-year-old swindler must begin a two-to 10 year sentence Monday. Engel was convicted No. 11 of fleecing a Chicago widow of $8,700. Police say that during a 50-year career Engel has reaped a $1,000,000 profit from his romances.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Hart 45 Years Married

MARMORA, Jan. 6—(ENS)—Mr. and Mrs. John Hart celebrated the 45th anniversary of their wedding on Saturday. They went to Toronto to celebrate the event at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Maxwell Moran and Mr. Moran, and have been spending the week with members of their family in the city.

Sued For Divorce

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 6 (AP)—Film actor Kirk Douglas was sued for divorce Thursday after almost a year's separation from his wife. Mrs. Douglas, the former Diana Dill, alleged cruelty. She is the daughter of the late Thomas Dill, former attorney-general of Bermuda.

Hog Producers Ask Dominion Maintain Prices

COBOURG, Jan. 6 (ENS) — Northumberland Hog Producers' Association, meeting at Brighton, passed a resolution asking the federal government to maintain the price level of hogs at 30 cents to the producer.

Charles McInnis, president of the Ontario Hog Producers, summed up the situation in his remarks to the meeting at Brighton. He said it was regrettable that many people did not consider food as a national problem. He pointed out that, while there was a population of less than 12 million people, Canada was the third largest trading country.

The record of the hog producers was shown to be excellent, with the British requirements over-supplied on the huge contracts of 1940-44. Only when hog producers could not have a fair chance did the supply drop below the promised contract. It was pointed out that Britain was paying more than 30 cents a pound for bacon from other countries but devaluation of the pound brought the Canadian offer to 29 cents.

A subsidy on the ten per cent. of bacon exported was not a gift to farmers but the usual assistance to trade in every line, he said.

The present suggested price of 32½ cents by the Bacon Board promised farmers about 25½ cents delivered to the plants. Farmers asked only the cost of production and a provincial survey showed that 786 pounds of feed were necessary to feed a hog and that the average coss twere shown to be $43.26, which left the farmer a profit of 34 cents a pig. No other business, the speaker said, would carry on without a profit and it meant that their buying power would be greatly diminished.

The following resolution was passed:

"That the Northumberland Hog Producers respectfully point out to the Dominion Government that the bacon business is a national one and in view of production costs and the desirability of supplies of pork products to feed the world being maintained at its present level; the Dominion officials take steps to assist the marketing problem in such a way that the warm dressed weight of bacon hogs be maintained at 30c a pound to the producer."

Russia And Her Chinese Problem

The Communist victory in China has been rather widely accepted as a victory for Russia; we are by no means sure that this is the proper interpretation of the facts. It must be kept in mind that the Chinese Communists won their victory with remarkably little Russian help. Russia, indeed, appears to have been interested in the matter only so far as it would serve to recover the dominance which Russia once exercised over North Eastern China. When Mao Tse-Tung was in the worst of the fighting, he needed airplanes more than anything else; Russia could have given him those planes, and it is significant that Russia did not do so. Understandably, the Chinese Communists feel that their victory is entirely their own. It was not by any accident that Mao spoke of Stalin at the latter's birthday celebrations as his "teacher and friend"; he did not say "teacher and leader". China appears to have been conquered by Communism, but it has not therefore become a Russian satellite. It could even be a nuisance to Russia.

• • •

When we look at Russian policy since the war we see that it has undergone a striking change. As soon as the war was over, Russia made a dead set at Europe, apparently thinking that very great gains could be made in a short time, because of the disorganization and discontent which was everywhere. Up until 1948 there was good reason to hold this view, and the Russians were somewhat romantically buoyed by the fact that it was the centenary of the great revolutions of 1848, which had brought such startling changes to Europe. Russia apparently hoped that the Allies could be forced out of Berlin, and that Russian armies would reach to the Rhine. Berlin was blockaded. Czechoslovakia was seized. The Communists in Greece were given means to intensify the civil war there. And in France and Italy the Communists did their best to overthrow those countries from within.

• • •

By the end of 1949 the picture had changed. The Berlin blockade had proved ineffective (because of the "air-lift") and the civil war in Greece had ended without a Communist victory. The Communist offensives in France and Italy had failed, and dwindled in power. Russia has relaxed her "war of nerves" somewhat, and talks of peace, and her fear of "Western Imperialists".

• • •

Europe, instead of collapsing, has drawn together. The Atlantic Pact has been more effective than was foreseen, and Europe has made it clear that there will be no appeasement of Russia. This strong stand has, of course, been made possible by the American declaration that the U.S.A. would spare nothing in any future war.

• • •

In addition, Russia has had embarrassing relations with Tito of Yugoslavia, and has had to put a Soviet Marshal in charge of the armed forces in Poland. The old bugaboo of nationalism is troubling Russia; Communism in other countries is of little use to Russia unless it involves Russian domination, and many of the new Communist states refuse to be dominated. They will not be satellites.

• • •

It may be said, therefore, that the Russian bid for immense power which followed the war has failed. It is true that Communism is more widespread than before—meaning the type of authoritarian rule which passes as Communism but which has not much to do with the theories of Marx or Trotsky. Yugoslavia has made it clear that she will not take orders, and it is significant that much of Russia's new territory in Europe has to be held by military force. And now, quietly but firmly, Communist China has made it clear that she will paddle her own canoe.

• • •

In the face of this, it is impossible to say what Russia's new attitude in world affairs will be, but it seems unlikely that it will continue to be as aggressive as it has been during the past four years.

Decisions On China

Britain has decided to recognize the Communist-Mao regime in China; it is a decision by default of the Chiang Kai-shek-Nationalist government and its almost complete defeat by Mao's armies. Mao is now in control of the whole mainland. Chiang Kai-shek's tattered army of twelve divisions and a navy and air force is beleaguered in Formosa, a mountainous island 100 miles off the south-east coast. While the inhabitants of Formosa, some six million of them, would not welcome Mao, they are unlikely to rally fully to Chiang Kai-shek: They are nationalists in their own sense, and distrustful of foreigners, including Chinese from the mainland.

The United States, as the western world power, and chief antagonist to imperial communism, has now two questions to decide: Will it support Chiang Kai-shek, and make an attempt to prevent Mao from securing Formosa; and will it continue to recognize the Nationalist Government of China, and withhold recognition from Mao? These are difficult questions. The first is military as well as political. To hold Formosa might take American lives, and involve the United States in larger military operations than it wants at this stage of international affairs. To withhold recognition from Mao would be counter to the British decision, and might result in trade losses.

President Truman has announced his Government's decision on Formosa. It will continue for the time to support Chiang Kai-shek with materials and money, but it will not lift a military hand to save Formosa from Mao. This is contrary to the policy which the conservative ex-President Herbert Hoover has advocated, which many American journals and many leaders in Congress approved. Nevertheless, a decision had to be made, and to have promised full and active support against the Mao communists should they attempt to invade Formosa, might have been biting off more than the U.S.A. can chew now with its limited armies and its large commitments in Europe. The fact is that Mao has, within a year and with vast armies, gained government over 450 million people. His is not a force to be toyed with. The Chiang-Kai-shek type of nationalism in the Far East is a proven lost cause; on the other hand, Communism in the East menaces more strongly than ever.

If the U.S.A. withholds recognition from Mao's government, it will be at least a gesture against the rising red star in the Far East. Is it an unrealistic gesture? England's course may be the wiser, for Mao is not yet under the thumb of Stalin. British recognition may strengthen his Titoesque independence.

Twelfth Night

This is Twelfth Night, the anniversary of the gift-bearing Magi's journey to the infant child in Bethlehem. It is the end of the Christmas season. Trees come down, the turkey should be consumed, by now (how big and long-lasting some of them were), and we should all be back to our normal selves after the strenuous joys of Christmas and New Year's. It is the twelfth day from Christmas.

It was a good season while it lasted, despite the rains and the lack of snow; but we heave a private sigh of relief that Christmas comes but once a year.

This Newsy Age

Yesterday afternoon we learned that Prime Minister Attlee and the Deputy P.M., Herbert Morrison, were going to hold a "secret talk" in the evening about the British general election date. The cabled report came from "usually well-informed sources". We are amused to be let into the secret of a secret talk twelve hours before it takes place, and presume that before many hours have passed we shall also know—from the same "usually well-informed sources" what was decided in the secret talk. What is the point of having an unshared secret? There's no fun and gossip in a close secret not imparted.

The "usually well-informed sources" are usually reporters with an ear to the ground, an elbow bent over a club table, and a dead-line to meet with no good story to meet it. These reporters and columnists are bright fellows who have been around, and can sometimes guess the news before it occurs.

Last month Viscount Montgomery was visiting Washington. Closed conferences were held at high military and governmental levels. Next day an American columnist reported what Montgomery had said at a conference, even though it had been closed to newsmen. The General was later asked what he had to say of the truth of the columnist's report. A columnist? What's that? I didn't know he had been at the meeting, was Montgomery's response.

We shall soon be hearing the election date, and most likely the first announcement will come from a newspaper man who was not at last night's secret meeting, but who cleverly puts 2 and 2 together and gets March 17, or is it April 1st.

Notes And Queries

By ALPHA

Questions are solicited for this column particularly those relating to local lore and tradition.

SIR: Which is the earlier, the Trent or the Rideau canal system?

ANSWER: The Rideau. Work was begun on this in 1826, when Sir John Franklin, the famous Arctic explorer, laid the cornerstone. This was the greatest public work carried out in Canada at that time.

The Trent Canal was first proposed by the Imperial Government in 1820, as a military route (as the Rideau Canal was first conceived); the War of 1812-1815 was still fresh in many minds and relations with the U.S.A. were not as friendly as they are today. Later it was suggested as a short cut for grain boats from the Lakehead to the Bay of Quinte. The British Government voted money for completing a channel from Trenton to Balsam Lake, but when the Mackenzie Rebellion broke out in 1837, the Government of Canada used the money to quell the uprising. Later it became a political football, and a talking point for local politicians. Work went on intermittently from 1843 (when the first lock was built at Peterborough) to 1918, when the route as we now know it was completed. The whole system, to serve grain boats, was never finished. Marine railways must still be used at the north-west end.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR ALPHA: Will you please tell me what the Privy Council is and who belongs to it?

ANSWER. His Majesty's Privy Council for Canada is the ONLY body of advisers which the King has, regarding the Dominion of Canada. It is at present made up of about eighty gentlemen (no ladies) who have been appointed for life at various times, by the Governor-General on the advice of the Prime Minister. There are no special formal qualifications.

In practice, the person is made a Privy Councillor because the Prime Minister has appointed him to the cabinet. Thus the late Hon. G. N. Gordon of this city, appointed to Mr. King's Cabinet for a few months in 1930, remained a Privy Councillor for life. There are some Privy Councillors (all have the right to be called 'Honourable') named for reasons other than that they have been appointed to the Cabinet: e.g. the following are Privy Councillors: Winston Churchill, Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey; Chief Justice Thibeaudeau Rinfret, the Duke of Windsor (named when he was Prince of Wales).

✧ ✧ ✧

THE full Privy Council never meets for any purpose.

All its functions as sole advisory body to the King, are performed by a "Committee" of the Privy Council. This "Committee" is otherwise known as the Cabinet. Its legal quorum is four.

Some Canadian Privy Councillors are styled "Right Honourable". That is because they are also members of the King's Most Honourable Privy Council, of Britain. There are eleven Canadians who are members of the U.K. Privy Council: Lord Beaverbrook, Sir Lyman Duff, Sir Thomas White, Arthur Meighen, W. L. Mackenzie King, Vincent Massey, J. L. Ilsely, C. D. Howe, L. S. St. Laurent, J. G. Gardiner, and Thibeaudeau Rinfret.

Although the King may attend meetings of his Privy Council at Westminster, the Governor-General does not attend meetings of the quorum at Ottawa.

When the parliamentary leaders meet as the Committee of the King's Privy Council for Canada they are presided over by the President of the Council, and the minutes are recorded by the Clerk. When these same gentlemen meet as the Cabinet, they are presided over by a chairman, with, formally, no record kept, although the Cabinet has a Secretary. The President of the Council and the chairman of the Cabinet meetings is the Prime Minister, Mr. St. Laurent. The Clerk of the Privy Council, and Secretary to the Cabinet is Mr. N. A. Robertson, at the beginning of last year, replacing Mr. Arnold Heeney. Mr. Robertson was High Commissioner in the U.K.

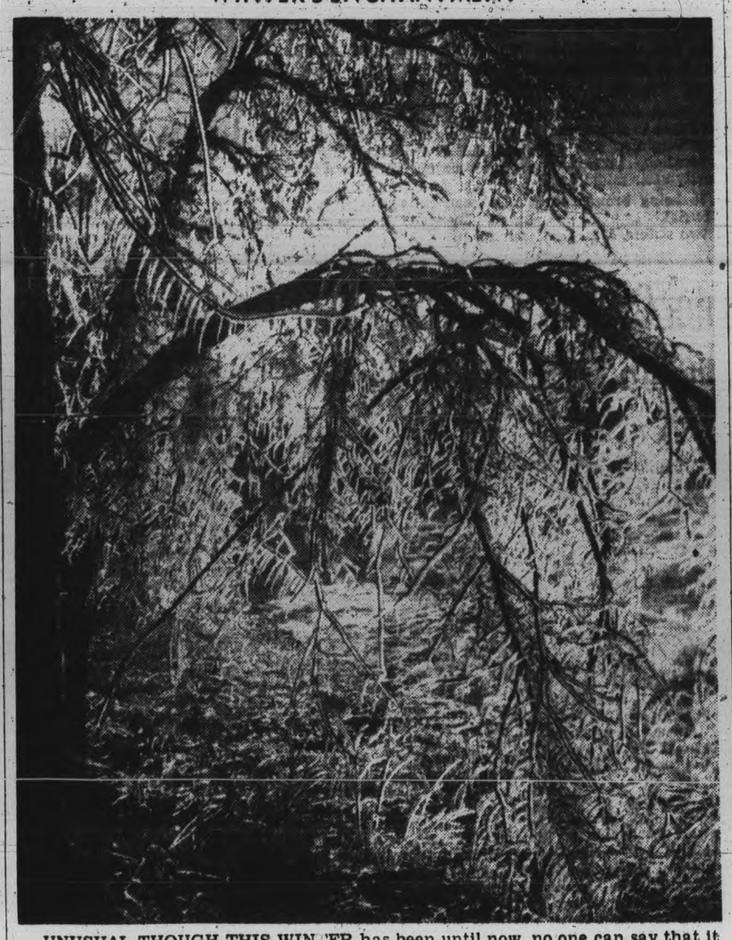
SIR: Last Friday another reader of your column wrote about the thickness of the pig's spleen as a sign of the kind of winter we would have. This interested me, and I hope other people write in about other signs. I am not expert on weather, but I do know this, and was able to tell my doubting daughter what Christmas weather would be like. Christmas night there was a ring around the moon, and no stars showed in the ring. That meant that the next day would be stormy. And so it was, although the storm turned out to be rain, not a blizzard. It is a fact that a ring around the moon with no stars in the ring means stormy weather the next day. A ring with one star shows that there will be bad weather one day after; a ring with two stars, that the storm will come two days afterwards. When I saw the ring around Christmas night's moon, I told my daughter. She was inclined to laugh at me, but she did phone friends who had intended to drive to another town for Christmas Monday (if the weather were fine), and invited them to Christmas dinner. They wavered, but Monday morning they phoned up to say that they would come. The weather was bad enough to discourage them from driving to the distant town.

RESPONSE: I shall be glad to hear of other useful weather signs. These folk traditions have real validity, for they are the results of many generations of observation of natural phenomena, in times when the weather was so important to livelihood that their methods of prophecy were more liable to be right than wrong. They have been tested through the years.

✧ ✧ ✧

ALPHA OLD STICK: How do you account for the unusually mild weather of the last two weeks? Has the Gulf Stream changed its course?

ANSWER: Not that I know, and I do not try to account for it, but leave it to more learned folk, and old wives with their tales.



Such mild weather is unusual, but it has happened before. In 1877 October passed without a snowfall; so, to everybody's surprise, did November. When December came to an end there was no snow and the streets even of Montreal were bare (and Montreal usually has a harder winter than Peterborough). New Year's Day of 1878 in Montreal was so unseasonable that bizarre amusements were concocted. A summer steamboat made a New Year's Day excursion from Montreal to Boucherville with 600 passengers and the Bande Nationale. A regatta (of sorts) was held on the waterfront. The most spectacular feat of the day was Big John's of the Caughnawaga reserve. He took a row-boat down the Lachine Rapids. The first snow did not fall until January 4th.

✧ ✧ ✧

FOR THE RECORD: Sunday, New Year's Day, gave old and young in Peterborough an unusual pastime, and from the pleased appearance of people taking advantage of it, a most enjoyable and refreshing one. All roads and streets were coated with a hard shell of ice, and youngsters donned new Christmas skates, grandmothers the ones they had had in moth-balls since 1900, and gaily skated all over the place, where fancy lead. One observer said it reminded him of Holland, or the old English prints of the rare times when the Thames had frozen over and Londoners of fashion as well as Cockneys, took turns on the river.

There may have been more recent times when streets were glare ice, but the latest I remember was 1937. Even such a fine skater and dignified gentleman as Mr. F. D. Kerr skated to his office on Water Street that morning.

WINTER'S ENCHANTMENT

UNUSUAL THOUGH THIS WINTER has been until now, no one can say that it has not shown us some remarkable beauties of mist, half-light and ice formation. In this picture by Nick Nickels, our staff photographer, a tree is seen coated in ice, giving an effect very like that seen in the steel engravings of the nineteenth century.

Letters To The Editor

ATHEISM AND OVER-ORGANIZATION

Sir: In your editorial "What, No Atheists?" you comment on the inability of a couple of students to form an atheists' club at the University of Toronto. If, as you say in the Examiner, Dec. 21, "The place is undoubtedly full of them, as Canada itself is." It may mean that atheists generally are sensible enough not to join organizations.

I am not pleased with the results that have been demonstrated by Democracy, Christianity, Labour Unions, Communism or other philosophies of life, and it seems quite possible that organization may be the greatest stumbling-block to our aspirations. I am not able to visualize an organization of free men, and the Atom Bomb could be produced and used only by a great political or dictator or similar organization that, by hook or crook, can accomplish the regimentation of the scientific and physical ability of an immense cluster of mankind.

I do not call myself names, yet I am an atheist to the person who so designates me, regardless of what I may think I am; but the term "Atheist" is often hurled at anyone who merely has a different belief: Because of a comparative lack of idolatry in the early Christian worship the cry against the Christians, in the Roman Empire, was "Away with the Atheists! To the lions with the Christians!" To John Knox it was "Matter of satisfaction that our most holy religion is founded on Faith, not on reason," yet he was often called "The Atheist".

I am somewhat concerned with the nature of the Universe, and the fate of man but in my curiosity on the subject if I do not find any evidence of a Deity or if I do accept evidence that there is a God I would, in either case, appear rather silly if I denied his existence; I cannot go about denying the existence of something that I can find no evidence of.

I want to give one instance that doesn't check with your charge against the negative atheist: "... their moral code is a compound of expediency and local custom...." In 1912, at Chelsea, Michigan, I got an application form, intending to submit my application for membership in the Masonic Order, but as I scanned the form I noted that it would be necessary for me to tell a lie to the very first question, it would have been expedient for me to do so, and I do not think the lie would have been noticed at that time, but I never filled-out any of the form, I still have it, and I have never applied for membership in any order or organization since then.

Just after World War I I was one of two men from the shop where I worked, among seventy-odd who were entertained by a Detroit Tool Manufacturer at a big "doings" at the Masonic temple at Detroit, the next day Mr. Flannigan, the other man from my shop, who had worked with me for two years, told me that until that night he had supposed that I was a Roman Catholic. Since then I have tried not to mislead anyone regarding my lack of religious beliefs.

Respectfully,
W. H. ROSEBUSH.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Trust in the Lord, and do good; so shalt thou dwell in the land, and verily thou shalt be fed.... For evildoers shall be cut off: but those that wait upon the Lord, they shall inherit the earth....

The steps of a good man are ordered by the Lord: and he delighteth in his way. Though he fall, he shall not be utterly cast down: for the Lord upholdeth him with his hand....

Depart from evil, and do good; and dwell for evermore....

Mark the perfect man, and behold the upright: for the end of that man is peace. (Ps. 37: 3, 9, 233, 24, 27, 37.)

• • •

My righteousness is near; my salvation is gone forth, and mine arms shall judge the people; the isles shall wait upon me, and on mine arm shall they trust. Lift up your eyes to the heavens, and look upon the earth beneath: for the heavens shall vanish away like smoke, and the earth shall wax old like a garment, and they that dwell therein shall die in like manner: but my salvation shall be forever, and my righteousness shall not be abolished. (Isa. 51: 5, 6.)

Unconsidered Trifles

The overnight millionaire wanted the best of everything. He went into a music shop and asked to see their most expensive violin for his son. The assistant brought out a beautiful Stradivarious, saying: "This is a 1730 Strad, priced at $80,000."

The millionaire hesitated, then said: "You say it was made in 1730 and worth all that money?"

"That's right."

"But tell me—is the company that made this fiddle still in business?"

"Of course not!" exclaimed the assistant in shocked tones.

"Then it's no good!" said the rich man definitely. "What would I do for spare parts?"

The clergyman felt annoyed to find that an old gentleman fell asleep during the sermon on two consecutive Sundays. So after service finally he asked the boy who accompanied the sleeper into the vestry:—

"My boy, who is that elderly gentleman you attend church with?"

"Grandpa."

"Well, if you will keep him awake during my sermon I'll give you five cents each week."

For the next two weeks the old gentleman was attentive to the sermon. The third week, however, found him soundly asleep again.

The vexed clergyman sent for the boy. "Didn't you promise to keep him awake if I paid you a nickel a week?"

"Yes, but grandpa now gives me a dime not to disturb him."

County Farm Notes

By HARRY THEOBALD

Replies Received By Federation Of Agriculture From Hon. Mr. Gardiner And Hon. Mr. Howe—Federation Luncheon Tuesday, Jan. 17 — Farm Meetings Arranged For Westwood, Warsaw and Havelock.

The following letter from the Hon. J. G. Gardiner, federal Minister of Agriculture, has been received by John Kitney, secetary of the Peterborough Federation of Agriculture, in reply to its recent request to the Minister for control of receding price of farm products, and also for vigorous efforts to retain a place in the British market:—

"Dear Sir:

I have yours, which came to hand on December 27th.

In reply I would agree that you are quite right in saying that the Government of Canada intervened to control in an orderly way the raising of prices of farm products during the war. I think it can be added that since the war is over the Government has continued to take steps to prevent any chaotic decline in prices. The fact that we have been successful up until now is suggested by the price levels in other places.

The prices of many farm products has been higher in Canada during the greater part of the past year than in most other countries. This was brought about through a method of support provided largely through the contracts we had with the British who benefited along with Canadian consumers from the controls which were put on when prices were considerably higher in some other places.

The British feel now that since they can buy these products at much lower prices other places and since they have assisted us in carrying the higher level of prices on all commodities excepting wheat down until now that they should have a lower price level on any products for which they are signing contracts over a longer period.

The contract which they have agreed to sign on bacon takes us down until about the 1st of July when we hope to be able to take advantage of the American market. The contract on cheese will carry us right through the year 1950 The federal government has already agreed to add $3.50 a hundred to the price which the British are prepared to pay for bacon, and are considering adding anything which might be added to the price which the British are prepared to pay for cheese. Both these actions will be taken in an endeavour to accomplish what you suggest.

We quite agree with you that we should like to continue to trade our animal products with the United Kingdom, but I am afraid we have not much choice in the matter when the British have made up their mind that the only animal product which they will continue to buy from us is cheese.

I would point out, however that up to the present we have not had any great difficulty in finding a market for our farm products and that the quantity which has been sent to Britain during the last two years, with the exception of eggs, has been very low."

REPLY FROM HON. C. D. HOWE

The Peterborough letter from the Federation and representatives of agricultural commodity groups was also sent to Hon. C. D. Howe, Minister of Trade and Commerce.

The following is quoted from his reply to Mr. John Kitney, secretary of the Federation:

"No doubt you will have been in touch with my colleague, Mr Gardiner, with respect to those elements of the situation that are his immediate concern. In the meantime I can assure you that every possibility of increased trading with the United Kingdom and other countries is being explored by my Department.

In this connection, however, I am sure you are aware of the many difficulties involved in respect of such factors as balance of trade, shortage of dollars, and competition from other sources of supply at price levels which are in many instances very much lower than those at which some of our exportable agricultural surpluses have been moving recently.

For instance, the 1949 prices for Canadian cheese shipped to the United Kingdom under contract was 30c per pound fob seaboard, whereas New Zealand, the largest supplier, was selling on an equivalent basis at 21.8c per pound.

In the case of bacon, while we were getting 36c per pound for Grade A Wiltshires at seaboard, Denmark was selling at 30.9c per pound, and has a contract for 1950 at 29.8c per pound. Eggs that on the overall average brought 52.5c per dozen fob Canadian seaboard were incompetition with Irish eggs at 41c per dozen, Dutch eggs 38.4c per dozen, and Danish eggs 30.8c per dozen.

You may rest assured that all of these problems are receiving our constant attention.

I would appreciate your advising the co-signers of your letter."

✦ ✦ ✦

LUNCHEON JAN. 17

Next luncheon of the Federation of Agriculture will be at noon Tuesday Jan. 17 at the Empress Hotel. Mr. V. S. Milburn of Toronto will be the speaker. Following the meeting of the Ontario Federation and also of other groups in the meantime, Mr. Milburn should have considerable information for the Peterborough members. It is likely that his talk will be confined to matters of agricultural business. Local farmers who are unable to make the Toronto trip for the convention should not pass up this luncheon.

✦ ✦ ✦

SHORTHORN BREEDERS

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Shorthorn Breeders' Association will be Sat. Jan. 14 at 1.30 p.m. in the office of the Department of Agriculture.

✦ ✦ ✦

REACTION TO PRICES

Probably the information is from Tom Shield, formerly of Peterborough, that when the price of honey dropped last year the bulk of the huge surplus eventually vanished. The only explantation seemed to be that at the lower level consumers raided the market. At any rate a great quantity of Canadian honey passed out of producers' hands.

It is characteristic of the realistic thinking of G. A. Brethen that when the newspapers were featuring with big headings the decline in the price of eggs he remarked: "With all that publicity of our prices we should be on our toes selling."

One Peterborough poultry man reported an increase of nearly a case in his round of local customers the day following the announcement.

"You couldn't estimate the value of that publicity," Mr. Brethen said.

✦ ✦ ✦

3,000 AT WALKERTON

Federation of agriculture at Walkerton prepared accommodation for 500 farmers at the meeting Wednesday afternoon demanding government support of prices of agricultural products, at least until next July.

Three thousand turned out in the rain. They were from Grey, Bruce and Huron, filling the town hall and overflowing into the Memorial Arena.

"It is not our purpose to pull the other fellow down, but to pull ourselves up," said George Johnston, Owen Sound, a director of the Ontario Hog Producers.

W. L. Bishop of Norwich, another director of the hog producers, said: "Our basic problem is that we are faced with a price structure not in line with the rest of the economy. We must decide whether we are willing to accept a lower standard of living than any other class in the country."

One repeating theme of the meeting was to the effect that if agriculture in Ontario is not profitable farmers will lack income to support urban industries. "If we get into a slump," said Mr Bishop, "other industries will slump with us, creating worse conditions than in the 'thirties'."

✦ ✦ ✦

HOME MARKET FOR PORK

The Canadian consumer of bacon prefers the comparatively lean type of hog that has been developed in this country.

The recent letter of the Industrial and Development Council of Canadian Meat Packers says that when wartime export restrictions were lifted "the demand was most extraordinary, and the demand for quality never was quite so insistent."

"This does not mean that consumers want a thin, unfinished prdouct. The art of properly finishing without excess fat, by means of balanced feeds, is the contribution the producer has to make in order to reap the benefit of the inherited bacon hog to yield a product that will encourage consumers to increase pork consumption."

A question raised in this survey is that with a reduction of export to Britain, "are we going up a blind alley in trying to maintain quality in our market hogs?"

The advice to the producer is to cultivate the Canadian domestic market by maintaining the standard of quality which the industry has set up.

"During the war and until the autumn of 1947, Canada restricted domestic consumption of pork. The exporting packing plant were required to send their best bacon overseas. As these plants were the main suppliers of retailers in our urban centres, masses of our industrial population got only the fatter and heavier products. They took the limited quantity available because they could get no better."

Since then, however, "the demand was most extraordinary." The letter emphasizes the importance of the Canadian market, and the appreciation of the domestic consumer for the quality of bacon that was necessarily scarce during the war as a result of export diversion.

It is also explained that meat fats are in serious opposition with substitute products which have been developed. At the recent convention of the American Meat Industry in New York, this was said: "The sad part of it, from our viewpoint, is that fats and oils can be produced more economically by soil and sunshine than by putting corn through a hog." A heavy increase in production of soybean oil is a new factor in the fats and oils market.

The producer should be interested also in this fact: "If a packer pays 25 to 30 cents a pound for a whole hog carcass and sells the lard at from 10 to 15 cents a pound, there is a heavy loss, and fat hogs are no more desirable for the fresh pork trade than they are for the cured trade."

The industry's advice to the Canadian farmer is continue producing the type of hog he has established especially as a means of developing the Canadian domestic market for pork products.

✦ ✦ ✦

NEW BREEDING'S GROWTH

Artificial breeding has spread faster than any other idea in the history of dairy farming, according to Dr. J. W. Bartlett, head of the dairy department of Rutgers University in the Holstein-Friesian world.

Eleven years ago the first co-operative unit in the U. S. was formed with 93 members who owned 1,000 cows. It was begun on a shoe string income with enthusiasm mixed with considerable skepticism.

"Today we are breeding nearly three million dairy cows in this country, and artificial breeding institutions have become an enormous institution."

"In New Jersey we are fast reaching a point among those who early adopted artificial breeding where average production in their herds is more than 450 lbs. of fat. Those farmers are not content to remain in that level. They want sires that will raise fat production a notch higher.

They have learned a lot about type, and they are type conscious to the degree where they demand it. In large areas it will take longer for these demands to arrive, but they will come. The future of artificial breeding is sound. It is here to stay. There is economy in volume business, and we should have 50 per cent of our herds in such a program instead of ten to twenty-five per cent as it exists today."

The Bartlett article deals with various problems of artificial breeding. One of them is the proving of young sires. Good bulls are scarce. Thousands have gone to the butcher as calves that had the inheritance to be great sires.

MEETINGS FOR FARMERS

Moving pictures of agricultural subjects will be included in the programs for meetings next week at Westwood, Warsaw and Havelock.

The series has been planned by F. C. Paterson, agricultural representative, and his assistant, R. E. Bell. Emphasis in discussion will be given to pasture improvement, and farmers are specially asked to bring along questions from their own experience.

The first meeting will be at Westwood Hall on Tuesday, January 10, at 2 p.m. for the farmers of the Asphodel district.

The meeting at Warsaw Community Hall will be on Thursday, January 12, at 2 p.m.; and at Havelock Town Hall on Friday at 2 p.m. for farmers of Belmont area.

If the attendance at these eastern meetings is as large as at Lakehurst and Ennismore recently, Mr. Paterson said he would be well satisfied. Farmers are asked to mention these meetings to their friends.

CRIMINOLOGIST—Blood-stained knives and axes are stock-in-trade for Verda Vincent of the medico-legal section of the Ontario attorney-general's department. Miss Vincent is Canada's only woman criminologist. She is a graduate of the University of Western Ontario, London.

All wins in the YM senior lasses' bowling league this week were two-pointers, Tigers, Lucky Strikes, Corvettes and Hurricanes taking two each from Glengarrys, Aces, Commandos and Bombers. Ag Anderson had high three of 681, followed by Dorothy Woods 663, Dot Martin 645, Glad Hamilton 633, M. Mahood 629, Shirley Heckman 619 and Irene Penrose 611. The latter led in singles with 290, followed by S. Heckman 279, A. Anderson 269, D. Woods 261, Toots Hewitt 256, Addie Jackson 253 and D. Martin 250. Aces rolled high single of 1091.

In the Kawartha girls' league, Jean Pammett of Eagles led with 246 and high three of 639. Rookies topped the teams with 2553 and a top single of 960. Rookies blanked Eagles 4-0, as 3-1 victories were taken by Majorettes over Bobolinks and Wrens against Easy Aces.

Romance Chilly At Ski Resorts, Men Prefer Snow

NEW YORK, Jan. 6 — (AP) — Skiing may be fine sport, but it's rough on romance.

Which is quite a shame. For male skiers are quite likely to be tall, blond, handsome and single And any woman who can squeeze into anything up to size 18 is pretty apt to look better in downhill pants and gay parka than in a bathing suit or evening garb.

But take the word of Joan and David Landman—if a lady wants to trap a bachelor she should stay home or go on a cruise.

"Alas," said David Landman, who is a ski expert, "when men go skiing, they ski. When darkness falls, they eat mightily, wax their skis and retire early, exhausted."

Mrs. Landman sorowfully concurred.

"I have never seen a romance flourish in the vicinity of slope or trail. But I have seen some pretty sad attempts."

The Landmans are ski enthusiasts. They are also authors of a book, "Where to Ski" which is a guide to the ski resorts of North America. In discouraging husband-hunters from taking to the snow-covered hills, they are cutting their potential royalties So one presumes there must be truth in their words.

"I will tell you about it," said Mrs. Landman. "These men who ski don't care about anything but snow. Look at the way they dress. Old pants, one woolen shirt. They bind up their ears with a woollen headband."

Early Risers

"So they arrive at the lodge. They discuss snow conditions other new arrivals. They eat dinner and go to bed, so they can get up early the next morning.

Mrs. Landman explained that skiers think very highly of getting out on the trails before the snow is packed down and full of "sitzmarks," "bathtubs" and "eggbeaters," which are scars induced by falling human bodies.

"The predatory woman, who undoubtedly will have to spend the day on the beginners' slopes arises around 8 a.m. She finds there isn't a man left in the lodge. She races to the bus and is transported to the tow. There she sees, high above her, her quarry.

"But by the time she has reached the top they have gone skimming down the trails. All she can do then is go into the warming hut and wait for their return."

Less aggressive hunters remain on the beginners' slopes, getting back to the lodge in time to dress and await the return of the hunted. The men return tired, hungry and eager to talk skiing. Then they retire.

There's only one hope for the romance-minded, the Landmans agreed: Stick inside the lodge and await the return of some skier with a fractured limb. Most enthusiasts love the sport so much that they stick around the ledge even after they are immobilized in plaster casts.

"Unfortunately," David Landman commented, "this is a very chancy method. It is apt to be another woman who breaks an arm or leg, or a rather poor skier."

REDUCE CHARGES?

A Federal Communications Commission examiner said at Washington Thursday Western should be required to reduce its charges for radio network use of its baseball-sports service. The examiner, Elizabeth C. Smith, recommended that the FCC order the change prior to the opening of the 1950 baseball season.

Everything Ready For Athletes

AUCKLAND, N. Z., Jan. 6 — (CP)—When the first contingent of Canada's British Empire games team arrives Tuesday, the athletes will find everything shipshape at Empire Village in Ardmore, 23 miles from this New Zealand capital.

The Canadians will be the first overseas team to arrive. They'll be followed a week later by the Malayans, Fijians and Rhodesians. The other squads will come in later. The last team to arrive will be the Australians, expected during the last week in January.

The Dominion athletes will go direct from the ship to the Empire village quarters where the competitors will live and train for the first post-war edition of the games which get under way Feb. 4.

Training facilities at Ardmore will involve less travelling for teams than at any comparable international games. Track athletes will train at the Papakura military camp near Ardmore. Field competitors, boxers, wrestlers, weight lifters and fencers will train right at Ardmore.

Olympic pool, where the swimming events will be run off, is having a heating system and underwater lighting installed as well as a large new concrete grandstand.

Cincinnati Mohawks Holds Capitals To Tie

By The Canadian Press

King Clancy's Cincinnati Mohawks aren't winning many hockey games in their initial season in the American hockey loop but they are certainly tying quite a few.

The western-division tail-enders came up with their 11th draw of the season Thursday night as they held Indianapolis Capitals to a 3-3 deadlock. The Hawks have won only five games in 38 contests.

Gilles Dube, Phil Hergesheimer and Charlie Gagnon fired the Cincinnati tallies while Benny Wolf, Nels Podolsky and Rod Morrison did the scoring for the Caps.

Meanwhile at Springfield, the Indians erupted for five goals in the last two periods to down the eastern section cellar-dwelling Hershey Bears 6-1.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC PERDUE, Sports Editor.

Ron Menzies, director of the Peterborough Boxing Club, informs us that amateur boxing classes have resumed in the Ashburnham Hall. Some 40 members so far, and it's open to any boy in his teens or young men, classes being from 7.30 to 9.30 each Monday, Wednesday and Friday eve. Menzies will pick four coaches shortly to assist him in the training, the club having a fine set of equipment now. Some Lindsayites will be coming down from time to time to workout with the local lads and a few shows may be staged later when the boxers have advanced far enough. We like the sport when it's handled properly and this club is.

We've received a clipping from a Rochester paper announcing a new club to operate there starting play on Jan. 6 against St. Kitts lacrossers. Brampton Mimico and Hamilton will also play games in the American city. Some familiar names on the Rochester gutted-stick squad names like Frank Madsen, Tank Teather, Doug Favell, Dig Anderson, Tony D'Amico, Leo Teatro (with the Petes last summer), George Coles, Barney Welsh, Carson Meyers, Red McDonald and Bill Mackie, many of them from St. Kitts club. Apparently the OLA isn't interfering with this winter schedule across the line, though the association raised heck about such commuting last year.

Vics Play IOOF-ers

Kingston Vics play the local Oddfellows at 8.30 tonight in Civic Arena, an OHA junior "B" scheduled joust. The IOOF-ers recently took an 8-6 win in Kingston, and the scrappy Vics will be out to avenge that one here tonight. Lot of rough stuff went by the boards on the large Limestone City sheet, but closer quarters here this time might make for a hot battle if the refs aren't on their jobs. It promises to be a dandy scrap between two classy and well-matched crews, and the game deserves a big turnout of fans.

* * * * * *

Seems the Legion report that Sixty Coombs had a sprained ankle the other e'en wasn't exactly true. Frank Buckland informs us Coombs sat the game out while the OHA sub-committee decides whether or not he can play again for Legion. Lindsay protested Coombs, Burns and Nicholls playing for Legion and living in Lindsay, but George Panter of the OHA said Burns and Nicholls were okay, as it was the nearest senior "B" centre (Meteors are from Toronto) and they had played two previous seasons for Legion. But Coombs hadn't, so 'twas a matter for the sub-committee to rule on. We may know in a day or two, whenever Panter sends word back.

* * * * * *

Too Warm For Refs

Frank also cleared up a few other OHA points. He said the rules call for 10 minutes overtime in case of a tie, and that's what it will be in future here. And two referees, rather than a referee and a linesman, will be used here from now on whenever the Petes and Legionnaires play each other. Each having equal power on penalties, etc. On account of various refs reported to Panter that these torrid Legion-Petes' frays were too much for one referee to handle properly. Panter told Buckland: "You have one of the best senior 'B' groups in the province down there, so let's make them play hockey." Yeah, 'cause it could get hotter as playoffs approach.

Public School Hockey League schedules should appear this eve in the gazette. Arnold Olmstead has drawn up the lists for the senior, intermediate and junior sections, and now joins the rest of us in wondering when there'll be ice on the outdoor rinks. However, plays opens on Monday at the arena after four with a senior and an intermediate game, the juniors playing there at four next Thursday. Quite a few school contests have been lined up for the arena where artificial ice chuckles at mild weather. A number of games later will go on the outdoor cushions. This is a large and important loop with a raft of young boys starting organized hockey under coaching and refereeing of the teachers.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

A hero today, and a bum tomorrow. That's what they say, and Cleveland Indians have been voted the biggest sports disappointment of 1949 in the annual year end Associated Press poll of the sports editors of the United States.

Last year Cleveland was voted the outstanding team of 1948 after battling to the American League pennant and beating Boston Braves in the world series.

The 1949 team of the year already has gone to the Notre Dame football team, undefeated in 38 games over a four year span.

The voting was close, and the Indians acquired the disappointment "honor" by the margin of a single ballot. The Indians got 15 votes while the Boston Red Sox and Boston Braves tied for second with 14 each.

Joe Louis, surprised when advised that California boxing law insists that a decision be rendered in exhibition matches, at Los Angeles Thursday, came up with a quick solution.

He said he'd make his own decision—by knocking out all his opponents in a series of five exhibitions scheduled for California.

Gold's rich winter tournament campaign opens at Los Angeles on a golden note today. A trimmed-down field of 128 players will set forth over the long Riviera Country Club course on a four-day 72 hole quest for shares in a $15,000 pot.

More than 300 golfers entered this 24th annual fixture but only exempt stars and survivors of qualifying rounds last Thursday will get up to the first tee tomorrow. There is no question about the favorite—the sentimental favorite, that is. He's Ben Hogan.

At Sydney, N. S., Murph Chamberlain, coach of Sydney Millionaires of the Cape Breton Senior Hockey League, Thursday was fined $20 for his part in a squabble at the Sydney Forum last week. Sydney Captain Don (Red) McRae was fined $10 by league president C. Roy MacDonald. Chamberlain hopped onto the ice to protest a goal by Glace Bay Miners.

8 Teams Enter Lillico Trophy Contest

Eight teams have been lined up for the Lillico Trophy Volleyball League at the YMCA. Team captains are Howard David, Cliff Cadd, Albert Dryland, Nels Stanger, Ken Kingston, Stan Payne, Steve Csumrik and Dave Kerr. The league will operate Saturday afternoons with four games each week starting this coming Saturday.

Al Clark, Physical Director for the YMCA, said Thursday that the Ontario volleyball picture for Peterborough is a little hazy this year. In previous years the teams from centres in Ontario have met in a tournament for the Ontario Championship. This year the teams are organizing a volleyball league which would have the local squad making several Saturday afternoon trips to Toronto.

Mr. Clark explained that the YMCA league to enter its winner in the playdowns. The Saturday afternoon league which has been operating for years, he added would suffer if the best players of the league were taken to form the Ontario league team.

The schedule for the winter league is:

January 7—Stanger vs. Cadd, David vs. Dryland, Payne vs. Kerr, Csumrik vs. Kingston.
January 14—Payne vs Csumrik, Cadd vs. Kingston, Dryland vs. Kerr, Stanger vs. David January 21—Payne vs. Kingston, Csumrik vs. Kerr, Dryland vs. Stanger, Cadd vs. David.
January 28—Cadd vs. Dryland, Stanger vs. Payne, David vs. Csumrik, Kerr vs. Kingston.
February 4—Kerr vs. Stanger, Kingston vs. David, Kerr vs. Cadd, Csumrik vs. Stanger.
February 11—Kingston vs. Dryland, Payne vs David, Kerr vs. Cadd Csumrik vs. Stanger.
February 18—David vs. Kerr. Csumrik vs. Cadd, Kingston, vs Stanger, Dryland vs. Payne. (times of games, 2 p.m., 2:45 p.m., 3:30 p.m., and 4:14 p.m.)

APPOINT COACH

John W. "Jack" Buell, of Brockville, well known district hockey star, has been appointed coach of the Prescott Rovers, Prescott's entry in the St. Lawrence Senior Hockey League.

Buell played his early hockey in Brockville, graduating to Perth Blue Wings and Toronto McColl Frontenacs. He later played with St. Catharines, Akron, Dallas and while overseas, with the RCAF. Air Force service champions of England.

HE "DOMINATES" — Conn Smythe, dynamic managing director of the Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, was chosen by sports editors as the most dominating sports personality in Canada in 1949. He received 14 votes in a poll conducted by The Canadian Press. Frank Filchock, star quarterback of the dominion champion Montreal Alouettes, was second with eight points. Filchock took top honors in another CP poll: he was named the year's outstanding athlete.

REJECT CONTRACTS

Second baseman Cass Michaels of Chicago White Sox disclosed Thursday at Detroit that he has rejected two 1950 contracts offered him by the American League club. Michaels, a Detroiter, said: "I read a lot about the high price the Sox put on me when they talked trades this winter. But if I told you what kind of a salary raise I was offered you'd laugh."

Winter Sports Industry Takes Beating

NEW YORK, Jan. 6 (AP)—The Northeastern United States multi-million dollar winter sports industry is having tough sledding.

Snow has been scarce on the vast slopes of the ski country in New York State and New England.

Temperatures have been too high for continuous skating, even on such artificial outdoor rinks as Rockefeller Center's in New York City.

Railroads have cancelled the weekend ski trains that paid off lushly in the good winters.

Metropolitan stores have run sales in an effort to move slow-selling winter sports equipment.

Some industry sources figure losses are runing as high as $1,000,000 a week in the northeast, where approximately $20,000,000 is invested in ski facilities and slopes.

But the winter resort owner is not easily discouraged. It takes more than a couple of bad seasons to get him down.

Despite cantankerous weather—a snow flurry then a spell of rain, sub-freezing temperatures; then days of spring-like warmth—the north country of New York and New England is bristling with new tows, new jumps, more trails.

In New York State the average gross winter sports business runs about $10,000,000 annually under normal weather conditions. The figure for New England is about the same.

The general rule of the industry is that it takes six good weekends to break even; eight to make money.. The rest is gravy.

Sports Editors Choose Smythe As Most Dominating Personality

By JACK MITCHELL

TORONTO, Jan. 6 — (CP) — Conn Smythe took a moment to weigh the import of his new title as 1949's most dominating sports personality — but couldn't make up his mind.

"Words fail me," said the Toronto Maple Leafs president and managing director, who earlier described himself at a New York hockey writers' luncheon as "a man of a few million words."

Canadian sports editors decided, however, the explosive National Hockey League Governor had fitted enough words and actions together to win the award In a Canadian Press year-end poll, they were asked for the first time to name the year's "most dominating personality in any capacity in sports."

The 41 sports editors placed the 54-year-old Smythe first with 14 votes, next with 10 came Frank Filchock, the 32-year-old quarterback previously voted athlete of the year for leading Montreal Alouettes to the Dominion football title.

Tied For Third

Tied for third with four votes each came Maurice Richard, volatile Montreal Canadiens winger, and coach Les Lear of Calgary Stampeders. The selectors mentioned only six others—Ezzert (Sugarfoot) Anderson, lanky Stampeders end (three votes); Ottawa's Tommy Gorman (two votes) and (one vote apiece) General Manager Joe Ziegler of Toronto's Baseball Maple Leafs, marathoner Gerard Cote of St. Hyacinthe, Que., and coach Lew Hayman and President Leo Dandurand of Montreal Alouettes.

Smythe was given advance news of his selection while in New York en route to Florida for his annual health-building month's vacation.

"No wonder everyone was telling me to take a good holiday down south and to stay as long as I could," quipped Conn, apparently figuring that maybe his dominating personality was wearing on his friends.

The fighting major—a veteran of two wars and wounded in action in both—had a hockey year as turbulent as any in his N. H. L. career that started with the Leafs in 1927.

As ever, there was always something different hatched in the publicity-minded head of the little man who has baited umpires, dueled with other club heads and never failed to call a spade a spade. One thing seemed consistent though. His Maple Leafs won the Stanley Cup in the spring, making modern hockey history by three successive victories.

Follow Pattern

Then, almost following a pattern, the Leafs tumbled in the new fall campaign and the old cry of "what wrong with the Leafs" was being heard in Toronto as the boss headed for his vacation.

But before year-end Smythe fought —and won several skirmishes. He convinced other N. H. L. heads to lengthen the schedule by 10 games to the present 70 games a team. And he made headlines across Canada in the battle of Broda's bulge.

The little leader (he stands five foot seven and weighs 165 pounds) decided that goalie Turk Broda's excess poundage was part of the Leafs trouble. The Turk sweated off seven pounds to the Smythe-set maximum of 190, and, after one game on the bench, came back to spark one of their few winning streaks this season.

Reay Gives Habs Present As Canadiens Trim Bruins

By JIM BASTABLE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Billy Reay gave his Montreal Canadiens an anniversary gift last night—signed, sealed and delivered.

The stocky little centre, carrying a lot of Montreal weight this season, wrapped it all up with two third-period goals and an assist to pace his Canadiens to a 5-3 victory over Boston Bruins in their National Hockey League game at Montreal.

That performance marked Canadiens' 40th anniversary in professional hockey. It also gave Montreal its first victory over Boston after four losses and three ties.

The Canadiens now are in a second-place tie with New York Rangers, 11 points behind the leading Detroit Red Wings.

Reay got his first goal on a 15 foot shot and the other by easing in Doug Harvey's pass around goalie Jack Gelineau minutes later.

Lose Lead

Canadiens went into a two-goal lead in the first period but lost it in the second. Then they chalked up three more in the final, against one for the Bruins.

Leo Gravelle came up with two goals for the Montrealers. The other went to Maurice Richard, his 24th of the season. Bud Poile, Paul Ronty and Milt Schmidt scored for Boston.

In pre-game ceremonies, NHL President Clarence Campbell officially presented Montreal goaltender Bill Durnan with the Vezina Trophy, which he won last season for the fifth time in six years.

While Canadiens were turning back the Bruins, goalie Harry Lumley, of the Red Wings, suffered an ankle injury during a burlesque hockey game in Detroit last night against the Amateur International League All-Stars.

X-rays showed no fracture but a bad ankle sprain. Physicians were unable to say when Lumley could play again.

Ironically, the game was being staged to help the medical fund that takes care of injured players in the International League. The Wings won 17-10.

Hockey's Big Seven

By The Canadian Press.

The National Hockey League's individual scoring race with Ted Lindsay of Detroit in the lead showed little change as result of Thursday night's one game.

Maurice Richard, Montreal Canadiens, the league's high goal scorer added another goal to boost his total to 24 and moved into a fourth place tie with Boston's Paul Ronty who also picked up a goal. Both have 33 points.

One point ahead of Richard and deadlocked for third position, are Doug Bentley and Roy Conacher of Chicago with 34 points.

Detroit's Sid Abel trails Lindsay by five points and John Peirson remains in fifth place with 32 points.

U.S., Canadian Towns Live As One People

FORT FRANCES, Ont. Jan. 6 —(CP)— Fort Frances and International Falls are one of the world's best examples of international friendship.

Fort Frances, built on the site of a fort established 200-odd years ago by the French explorer La Verendrye, is on the north bank of Rainy River where it runs out of Rainy Lake. International Falls, first settled in 1851, is in Minesota, just across the stream.

Between them is a bridge less than 200 yards long, and at the Canadian end is a small cement cairn with this brass plaque:

"This unfortified boundary line between the Dominion of Canada and the United States of America should quicken the remembrance of the more than a century old friendship between these countries—a lesson of peace to all nations."

The people of Fort Frances and International Falls go further. Despite customs and immigration officers at each end of the bridge they scarcely acknowledge that the boundary line exists.

No Foreigners

"We certainly don't think of International Falls as being in a foreign country," said Town Clerk J. W. Walker of Fort Frances. "There are some things we can't get around—the customs, for instance—but the people in the Falls are just next door neighbors."

That works both ways, said Editor Paul A. Anderson of the International Falls Journal, the district's only daily newspaper "There may be some separation in business because of the border formalities, but there certainly is not any socially.

"Look at hockey. We haven't a team in the Falls—so 400 or 500 of us go across the river every time there's a game in Fort Frances. In the summer we have baseball. Everybody in Fort Frances comes to our games."

The Journal, published in a town of 8,000 population, sells more than 600 papers a day in Canada. It runs a page of Fort Frances news and some Fort Frances advertising.

Fort Frances (population 7650) reciprocates by providing the area's only radio station—CKFI, which even has an international name: The "F" for Fort Frances, the "I" for International Falls.

Back and Forth

Immigration officers on the bridge say 700 persons travel each way daily, and more in the summer. Almost all are residents of the Falls and Fort Frances.

"Quite a few Americans do some of their shopping in Canada," said one Canadian immigration man. "There's not as much shopping in the Falls by Canadians, but there is a lot of intermarriage between the towns. The boys go across the line to dances and the girls come over to hockey games. Next thing you know they are married."

Employment in the two towns is largely based on paper. The mill in Fort Frances, employing 700 men and women, turns out newsprint and some high grade paper. The mill at the Falls, with 1,600 workers, makes kraft paper and building-insulation materials. Both are under the same American ownership.

Only the paper mill across the river disturbs the international amity. On a south-west wind the rank smell of sulphite settles on Fort Frances — which has a mill that is odorless.

TO VISIT HOLY LAND—Three doctor brothers, Phineas, Jack and Sam Rabinovitch, left Montreal Airport recently aboard a North Star for London, on the first leg of their journey to Paris, Italy and finally Jersusalem to visit their parents. Two other brothers are also doctors but did not go on the flight. Doctor Phineas, left, is a well-known Montreal surgeon; Dr. Jack, centre, practises in Brooklyn, and Dr. Sam, right, specializes in internal medicine in Montreal. They plan to return to Canada Jan. 20.

Cattle Prices Up 50 Cents During Week

TORONTO, Jan. 6 — (CP).— Cattle prices gained 25 to 50 cents a hundredweight on an active opening market, but faded a little towards the close of the week's trading, the Dominion Marketing Service reported today. Calves, lambs and sheep were steady while hogs settled at last week's closing bid of $25.50 for Grade A.

Cattle receipts of 5,964 head were chiefly slaughter cattle. One lot of six choice steers made a top of $25. Other weighty steers were downward from $24. Good light steers sold at $20.50-$22 and good heifers were mostly $20.50-$21. Common light steers and heifers sold downward to $16. Good cows were mostly $15-$15.50 with heiferish cows up to $17. Good export bulls were $17-$18 a hundredweight and common, light bulls sold as low as $15. Medium to good fed yearlings sold at $20-$23.50 and a few choice reached $25. A few lots of common stockers sold at $14-$16.50.

Calves totalled 1,060 head. Prices were steady at $27-$29 for choice vealers with common to medium veals from $17-$25 a hundredweight. A few grass calves sold for slaughter at $14-$15.

Hogs totalled 1,851 head. The hog market settled on Wednesday at $25.50 for Grade A and $25.10 for Grade B1. Sows were mostly $15 dressed.

Sheep and lamb receipts were only 359 head. Good ewe and wether lambs were mostly $25. Good light sheep sold at $11-$11.50 with culls and heavies from $6-$10. One car of Western lambs sold at $26 with best Western sheep at $12.50.

Livestock table:

	Cattle	Calves	Hogs	Sheep & Lambs

Military Brass In Conference

OTTAWA, Jan. 6 (CP)—Delegates to the conference of defence associations gathered Thursday for their annual discussions on the military picture and what should be done about it.

Ranging in ranks from lieutenant-colonels to major-generals, they represent 12 branches of the army and include names well known on battlefields of two world wars. All delegates now are civilian but maintain close contact with the forces.

They will hear Gen. H. D. G. Crerar, chief of the first Canadian army in Europe in the recent war, tonight. Saturday they will be guests of Defence Minister Claxton at luncheon.

The chairman of the conference is Maj.-Gen. A. B. Matthews of York Mills, Ont. The vice-chairman is Brig. J. K. Black, Montreal.

Others attending include Maj.-Gen. G. R. Turner, Ottawa, Brig. J. C. Jefferson of Edmonton, Brig. D. G. Cunningham, Kingston, and Brig. I. H. Cumberland, Toronto.

Washington Spotlight

Agents of US Government Heroes In The Cold War

By GEORGE KITCHEN

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6—(CP)—Agents of the United States government have died in the cold war—heroes whose names you'll probably never hear. Some have been tortured.

They have died while working for a world-wide United States organization about which the American public knows less than any other unit of its government — then Central Intelligence Agency.

The C. I. A. is living and growing in as much secrecy as is possible in Democracy. Though most of its work is open, routine fact-finding, a small but vital fraction of it is out-and-out espionage, which can thrive only in the shadows.

Proved its Worth

Government sources say C.I.A. already has proved its worth When President Truman learned in the early fall that the Russians had exploded an atomic bomb it was only one of the five or six agencies which helped to detect the blast. C.I.A., performed the function for which it was created —not only to help gather foreign intelligence but also to assemble and evaulate all the facts obtained by other agencies.

Those other agencies include the intelligence units of the United States Army, Navy, Air Force and State Department and the overseas offices of the Weather Bureau, the Agriculture Department and the Commerec Department.

Truman finds on his desk each morning C.I.A.'s brief daily summary of intelligence items. He also gets weekly and monthly estimates of the world intelligence situation.

Fat Reports

And, from time to time, he is given fat reports on special matters.

Another of C.I.A.'s accomplishments, informed quarters here disclose, was to put the right slant on Russia's state of mobilization little more than a year ago.

The intelligence unit of one of the armed services had reported that Russia was prepared to start a war momentarily. C.I.A. made a rapid recheck of all its intelligence sources and came back with a categorial denial that the Soviet Union had any such plans.

Except for that C.I.A. report, it is said here, the United States might have mobilized, with all the expense that would have entailed and the possibility that the act of mobilization itself might have touched off a shooting scrap.

Make $34,140 Grant

NEW YORK, Jan. 6 (CP)—The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis Thursday announced a research grant of $34,140 to the University of Toronto. The grant was one of several totalling $450,000 announced by Basil O'Connor, Foundation president.

Anxious For Solution

TORONTO, Jan. 6 (CP)—Mayor Hiram McCallum said Thursday he will be anxious to reach a solution regarding the amalgamation of greater Toronto when he confers with Premier Leslie Frost of Ontario in the near future.

Stewart Direct Returns Home, 2 Years In U.S.A.

Pride of Hilltop Farm, "Stewart Direct" is home from a long two-year campaign across the border from Roosevelt track at Westbury, L.I., to Hollywood, Cal., to loaf and rest through the winter.

Hugh Stewart's fast gelding made the trip from Santa Anita in an express car, all by himself. H is relaxing among the brood mar s in the Hilltop ba s after two years' absence in the United States.

"The first thing we did was take his shoes off and turn him loose for the rest that he has well earned," Mr. Stewart told the Examiner. His winnings last year amounted to more than $15,000.

Stewart Direct is seven years old, and should stay in racing perhaps to 12 or 13 years. He is by Prince Direct out of Mary Direct and his dam is Barbara Bars by Grattan Bars. He was bred by the Union Packing Co. of Calgary. On January 12 two years ago he left for the States and has been away from home two years less about two weeks.

"Clint Hodgins told me no later than last night in a telephone conversation that Stewart Direct was the gamest horse he ever drove. He has been around the grand circuit, and Hodgins says he won many a race on his own courage. That is the kind of mettle he's made off. Hodgins said he came back and beat good horses he had finished behind, such top notchers like Dr. Stanton, Jerry the First, Indian Land and so on."

Mr. Stewart recently bought for his stud the eight-year-old "Big Gun," son of Guy Abbey, sire of Grey Hound, 1:55¼, the world's champion trotter.

"The dam of Big Gun is May Tag with a record at two years of 2:05¼," Mr. Stewart said. "She has five colts that have done the mile in 2:01 to 2:07, and six with marks from 2:02 to 2:07.

"I don't need to mention the class of Guy Abbey. He is one of the great sires. Three of his progeny have marks of two minutes; 30 others at 2:05, and 125 of his get have done the mile in 2:10.

"May Tag is by Volomite, world champion sire of pacers and trotters. Big Gun was bred at Walnut Farms, Donerail, Kentucky."

Mr. Stewart said he had no present plans for Stewart Direct this season. Possibly he might remain in Ontario with the developing prospect of night racing at Long Branch and Stamford Park.

Ross Hopkins, 190 Charlotte St., a Utilities employee, fell Thursday while working and fractured his right leg. He is in Civic Hospital, where his condition is reported to be "satisfactory."

SHOW MOVIE

A feature-length film, Fighting to Live, will be shown the boys of the Fun and Friendship Club of the YMCA Friday night. Several films have been acquired by the boys' work secretary, Donald Duncan.

FLOUR MILLER DIES

Word has been received from Toronto of the death on Thursday of Alderidge M. Bowen, 82, who at one time operated flour mills both in Peterborough and Lakefield. He sold the Lakefield mill about 40 years ago to present owner, W. J. Charlton and continued to work for him for a while after the transaction. Mr. Bowen has worked in later years for the Maple Leaf Milling Company in Toronto, retiring in 1944 after 25 years of service.

Pedestrian Hit, Driver Keeps On Going

Victim of a hit and run accident, Harold Gandy, 657 Armour Rd., was carried into the city police station about 2 a.m. today by a Toronto man, C. R. Davies.

Mr. Davies found Gandy at Brock and Water St., one block from the scene of the accident, dragging himself along the sidewalk. He said he did not know how Gandy had gone as far as he had because his left leg was useless to him.

Gandy was driven to the office of Dr. J. M. O'Brien, who ordered him taken to St. Joseph's Hospital. He had an injured left knee and was suffering from shock as well as being badly shaken up. His knee will be X-rayed today.

Gandy told Constable Reg. McMillan he was struck at Brock and George Sts., while walking north on the west side of George St. As he came to Brock St., he noticed a car travelling east on Brock St. Expecting it to stop for the stop sign, he started to walk across the intersection. The car turned right to go south on George St., hitting him and tossing him into the curb. It then proceeded rapidly south on George St.

Proper Fertilizers Important–Ruhnke

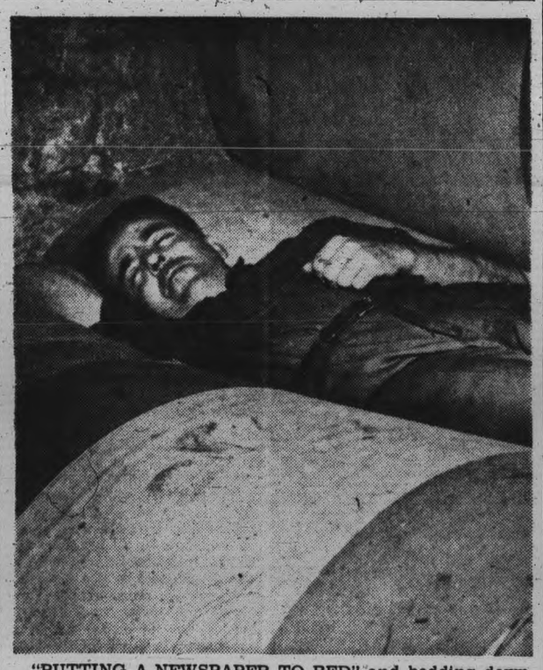
GUELPH, Jan. 6—(CP)—A two-day session of the Ontario Planning Food Producers opened Thursday at the Ontario College of Agriculture here.

Producers will hear reports on the latest scientific developments for getting high-quality crops and simultaneously building up soil fertility.

Main speaker at the banquet was Prof. G. N. Ruhnke, director of research of the Ontario Agricultural Department.

Reporting on the increasing awareness of farmers to the advantages of proper use of fertilizers, Prof. Ruhnke said the total mixed fertilizers and materials sold in Ontario had jumped from 124,827 tons in 1929 to 317,633 tons in 1946.

Mercurys Arrive



GLASGOW, Jan. 6—(CP)—Edmonton Mercurys, 18 strong, arrived in Britain today full of confidence about their chances in the World Amateur Hockey championships. Their captain and oldest player, 30-year-old Marsh Darling, said "the average age of our boys is 24 and our prospects of winning the championship are very good."

Reward For Farmers

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., Jan. 6 (CP)—Prices above export level paid to Canadian farmers by the Dominion government and Canadian consumers are "a reward for farmers' prices being held down during the war years," Agriculture Minister Gardiner said in an address here Thursday night.

"PUTTING A NEWSPAPER TO BED" and bedding down for a snooze on paper are two different things. This candid picture of a tired pressman, Eddie Amyotte, was taken in the Examiner paper storage room during Thursday noon hour. "Up all night with a new baby," was Eddie's excuse. Examiner Staff Photo

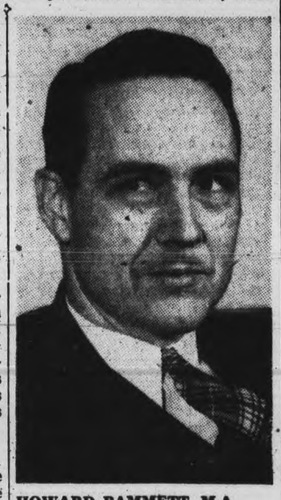
Examiner To Print Serially New History Peterborough

In this centennial year of Peterborough the Examiner is pleased to be able to give its readers a new history of Peterborough, specially written for it by Howard Pammett, M.A. This history will be published in serial form each week-end on our Feature Page. The first chapter appears tomorrow.

The most recent history of the city and district was published as far back as 1867—written by Thomas Poole, M.D. Others since Dr. Poole have written on various aspects of the city's development, and the late Frank Dobbin gave valuable service to the community in his book "Our Old Home Town"—a posthumous collection of papers of anecdotal nature, but not pretending to be a chronological or full account. Mr. Dobbin also prepared in his lifetime an "Index" or source-material for historical study, which is valuable as a guide. This Index is in manuscript only. One copy is at the Library.

First By An Historian

Mr. Pammett's history will be the first authoritative one of the city and district in eighty years, and the first ever attempted by a trained historian. The author has condensed his material and restricted the chapter length in order to give his history suitable form for newspaper publication The Examiner believes that Mr. Pammett's history will not only interest its readers but will also be a valuable contribution and stimulus to the study and recording of Peterborough's past. The first chapter, which appears tomorrow, goes back to pre-historic times, to the record of rocks. It is not generally realized that this district is of extraordinary interest to geologists.



Mr. Pammett, now an officer of the Department of Labour at Ottawa, was born at Young's Point and brought to Peterborough-Ashburnham he specifically says—at the age of one. His parents were the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert J Pammett. His sister is Mrs. Gordon Maniece, James Street.

He was educated at King George School, PCI, the Normal School and Queen's University, where he took the degrees of B.A. and M.A., with honours in history. He won the Aikens Fellowship in Canadian History and wrote a thesis on the Irish Emigration under Peter Robinson in 1825. Further post-graduate studies towards the degree of Ph.D were undertaken at the University of Toronto.

Study of Records

For the last dozen years, Howard Pammett has been collecting and studying information on Peterborough's past, and engaging his free time in research through the district and its records. This forms the basis of his history "Progress of Peterborough" which begins tomorrow and will continue weekly throughout the year.

It is suggested that readers and students may wish to make a scrap book of these weekly chapters, so that by the end of the series they will have the whole history. Since the Examiner cannot guarantee to supply back issues, scrap-book collections should be started with the first instalment of the history.

Haliburton Lodge Operator Missing

Police started a search Thursday for Talbot Fisher, 24-year-old operator of Paradise Lodge, in Haliburton district. Fisher has been missing since last Friday When last seen he was leaving Toronto for a relative's farm near Cookstown, Simcoe county.

Police report that the man didn't reach the farm nor did he return to the lodge in Haliburton. Constable B. Milligan and Constable A. R. Edwards of the Provincial Police at Minden say no trace of the man has been found in that district.

Foot Smashed

James O'Connor, 481 Bellevue St., had a badly smashed foot Thursday when it was caught in a machine at the CGE. An employee in the wire department, he was taken to Civic Hospital with compound fractures of the left foot and cuts on the foot and leg. Hospital authorities this morning reported his condition was "fair."

After Jay-Walkers

TORONTO, Jan. 6—(CP)—Toronto police plan to crack down again on jay-walkers. That's the word from Inspector Vernon Page of the police traffic department, who said today that officers will be instructed shortly to tighten enforcement of a by-law passed last May which permits pedestrians to cross busy downtown streets only at intersections. Careless walkers can be fined $1.

Frank Jobbitt Re-elected Board Chairman

Frank H. Jobbitt for the second successive year was elected chairman of the Board of Education at the inaugural meeting Thursday night. Walter Bannon was elected vice-chairman.

Committees and their chairmen were struck for the year and routine business followed.

Following are the committees:

Property: Walter Bannon, chairman, and Frank Jobbitt, Dr. Ralph Honey, Stanley R. Adamson, Murray Irwin and Fred Agnew.

Supervision: Dr. R. M. Matthews, chairman, and G. Wilson Craw, Mr. Jobbitt, Dr. Russell Morgan, Mrs. Paige Rowell and the Separate Schools representatives (as yet not appointed).

Health: Dr. Morgan, chairman; and Mr Jobbitt, Dr. Honey, Dr Matthews, Mr. Irwin and Mrs Rowell.

Appointments: Mr. Honey, chairman; and the whole Board.

Accommodations: Mr. Craw, chairman; and Messrs. Jobbitt, Bannon and Adamson, and Drs. Honey and Matthews.

Vocational Guidance: (chairman still to be decided pending the first meeting), Messrs. Jobbitt, Bannon, Agnew and Adamson, Separate Schools representative Dr. Honey, Ian F. McRae, Robert Mayhee, Paul Irwin, Newton Hamilton, Clarence Porter and Arthur Pitchford.

Mr. Craw was elected chairman of the finance committee and members consist of chairmen of the other committees.

The invocation was pronounced by the Rev. Walter J. Gilling rector of St. Luke's Anglican Church. Two prayers were offered; one for the Dominion, and the other for the scholars, teachers and the Board.

Mr. Jobbitt thanked his fellow board members for their confidence in him shown by re-electing him chairman, and he then congratulated the five successful candidates of the 1950 elections.

Four of the five elected for the two-year term are newcomers.

To Convert Store For Cold Storage

MARMORA, Jan. 6 (ENS) — The announcement that Marmora is to have a new cold storage locker plant, following the purchase of C. W. Gladney's store by Vincent M. Lynch, has been welcomed by villagers.

Authorization has been granted Mr. Lynch by the Ontario Department of Health.

The store, which has served as a department store for several years, is admirably suited for conversion into a cold locker plant. Mr. Lynch is to have alterations made and equipment installed in March, ready for opening in the early spring.

$10,000 In Christmas Trees Go To Ash Heap In City

The crackling of thorns under a pot, Old Testament similitude, is recalled in the great sputtering fire consuming these days the festive evergreens that had their hour of glory during the Christmas season in thousands of the homes of Peterborough.

A full paged calendar is substituted for that which had parted with all its pages, and the first week of the new year is almost gone when the sanitation department issues its call to bring out the drying dying pines.

J. Elmoe Pierce, foreman of the department, said today he could make only a rough estimate of the number of trees that has been heaped on to the heaped fire in North Monaghan at the city's dump south of the CPR. Silver threads among the green are all that remain of the bright and colorful decorations that glowed in nearly every living room of Peterborough's homes.

9,500 Trees?

The number of families in Peterborough is around 9,500 as indicated in the assessment department's report. At an average cost of $1 to $1.50 for Christmas trees, the Pierce fire is reducing to ashes something like $10,000, this city's domestic investment in the evergreens that were, briefly the symbol of family celebration of the Yule time.

Today is Epiphany, commemorating the announcement of the birth of Christ to the Gentile nations represented at Bethlehem by the arrival of the three wise men from the east as related in the biblical account of that first Christmas. It was celebrated today in the episcopal churches of the city, conventionally terminating the season that is now only a fresh and happy memory.

Board of Education's Surplus For 1949 Is $29,692 Special Grants Aid Revenue

Peterborough's Board of Education had an excess of revenue over expenditure in 1949 amounting to $29,692.61. This was the final figure as announced by the Finance Committee at the Board's inaugural meeting Thursday night. The money was unexpected as the Board was not budgeting for a surplus. It amounts to about four per cent of the budget. Much of the surplus came from special grants to public schools. Altogether the Department of Education gave $195,591.60 in grants to all schools. The public school general grant amounted to $110,329.47, and the Collegiate ones were $18,364.74 and $63,176.78, for academic and vocational, respectively.

Grants Out of Red

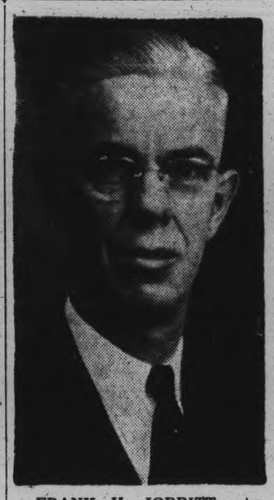
Excess of receipts over estimates amounted to $4,700 on the grants. These special grants were to Public Schools for manual training, household economics, dental, kindergarten, agriculture, and auxiliary classes.

Other receipts over estimates for Public Schools were miscellaneous non-resident fees $335, North Monaghan fees $1,620.50, sale of materials (school equipment made by employees), rentals $1,118, and two smaller items amounting to $220.

Salaries Underestimated

Salaries were underestimated by $3,872.78. K. S. Wightman explained this was due to the "tremendous increase in the number of supply teachers."

Repairs and maintenance for Public Schools was $3,310.31 under estimate. Another saving of $2,397.16 was made on the fuel bill because of the mild winter and other economies in purchasing.



Altogether there was a total surplus of $11,049.06 in Public Schools.

Unexpected Surplus

On the Collegiate Academic there was a surplus of $10,181.99. One of the chief sources was the $4,749.05 paid in by the Peterborough Suburban Board and Peterborough County. Customarily these were paid in the following year, but the reorganization into High School areas and dating of the agreement with the Board back to 1948 produced unexpected receipts.

Another major saving was made on Collegiate fuel, similar to that in Public Schools.

Total surplus at the Vocational School was $8,461.56. Much of the excess revenue was made by a close watch being kept on the purchasing of supplies and equipment by the Superintendent of Schools, it is estimated.

FRANK H. JOBBITT who was re-elected chairman of the Board of Education at the inaugural meeting held on Thursday evening.

Grove Conference Of Headmasters

Headmasters of private schools across Canada assembled at The Grove School, Lakefield, today to begin a two-day annual conference. The host to the Canadian Headmaster's Association this year is G. Winder Smith, Headmaster of The Grove School, and retiring President of the Headmaster's Association.

The meetings began at 2 p.m under the chairmanship of Mr Winder Smith. Among the headmasters attending are Rev. J. A. M. Bell, Appleby College, Oakville; C. H. Bonnycastle, Rothesay Collegiate School, N. S.; C. L. O. Glass, Ashbury College, Ottawa; C. G. M. Grier, Bishop's College School, Lennoxville; J. R. Hamilton, Ridley College, St Catharines; J. A. Hebb, King's College School, Windsor, N. S.; K. G. B. Ketchum, St. Andrew's College, Aurora; P. A. C. Ketchum Trinity College School, Port Hope; A. F. Killip, Hillfield School, Hamilton; D. S. Penton, Lower Canada College, Montreal; R. E. K. Rouke, Pickering College, Newmarket; Rev. C. W. Sowby, Upper Canada College, Toronto; and J. Ogden Turner, Ravenscourt School, Winnipeg.

Former headmasters, now honorary members of the association attending are J. A. McCulley, Deputy Commissioner of Penitentiaries, Dr. H. C. Griffith, headmaster emeritus of Ridley College, and N. R. Waddington. Grenville Haslam, President of the American Headmasters' Association, is bringing greetings from American schools.

Reconsider Request

PRESTON, Jan. 6 (CP)—The Ontario Department of Highways will give renewed consideration to a request for a 30-mile-an-hour speed limit on Highway No. 8 between here and Kitchener, it was reported today. In reply to a request for the Preston municipal council, Deputy Highways Minister J. D. Millar said either way the department is "between two fires."

Trapped After Fall

BELLEVILLE, Jan. 6 (CP) — Frances Embury, 80, lay with a broken hip for an hour today with only her 14 pet cats for companions before neighbors, summoned by her cries, found her. Police had to break down a door to get to the woman who was lying in the kitchen where she is believed to have fallen while getting food for the cats.

One CNR Cut Off Due Coal Lack

Train service into Peterborough by the Canadian National Railways has only been slightly affected by the recent decision to cut services 25 per cent due to a shortage of coal. Only one train has been temporarily discontinued.

The Sunday afternoon train which leaves Lindsay at 5.45 p.m. for Peterborough, arriving here at 6.25 p.m. and leaving for Toronto via the Lindsay route at 7.10 p.m., has been cut off. This train only ran on Sundays.

One other cutoff in the district affects the service. It is the local, daily except Sunday, from Toronto to Belleville. The train leaves Toronto at 1.35 p.m. and arrives in Belleville at 4.40 p.m. Previously people wishing to make connections at Port Hope for Cobourg, Trenton and Belleville left Peterborough at 12.18 p.m. to catch the now discontinued Toronto-Belleville train at Port Hope at 3.21 p.m.

Five Children Perish As Home Destroyed

MISSOULA, Mont., Jan. 6 — (AP). — A flash fire swept through a two-storey house in near-zero weather today, burning five children to death.

Two of the 11 children in the home and Jim Parrish, who was caring for them, were burned seriously. Four other youngsters escaped injury. Flames spread throughout the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Molenda. They were in Spokane, Wash., with another daughter.

Some of the children, dressed only in night clothing, escaped by jumping out of windows or fleeing through the front door in the bitter cold. Others were rescued by firemen, neighbors, and workers from a nearby railroad roundhouse.

The dead: Gladys 13, Stanley 10, Beverly 7, Carol 6, and Sharon 5.

Home Building Prospects Good For 1950

Signs are developing in the building industry of resumption in the spring of the activities that produced hundreds of houses in Peterborough last year.

"Enquiries from people who own building lots," said Gordon Armstrong, of Armstrong Lumber Company, "indicate quite definitely that they are thinking of going ahead with houses they have been planning for themselves. And, it has been noticeable that more of the $10,000 type of house is getting consideration, with prospect that it may be quite prominent in the 1950 building program."

Mr. Armstrong said that sentiment in the United States which had been pessimistic a year ago, with expectations of a major recession, were today among the more optimistic, about the indications for business this year.

"We expect some improvement in supply of material. The major Hydro contract at completion may release more cement for private building, but there is still a backlog of much general work to be done. Curtailing of export to Britain is filling a considerable gap, but on the other hand United States dealers are in the market on the western coast of Canada. However, conditions of supply should be better this coming spring."

Fred J. Overend of Peterborough Lumber Co. agreed with that estimate of the outlook for 1950, and said the industry had strong grounds for confidence.

Materials should be moving somewhat more freely, and more of the cement industry's output might be available for the general building work that has been mentioned for this year.

"Enquiries suggest that there still is quite a pressure of demand for housing accommodation." Mr. verend said. "I believe we are quite a way from catching up with it."

10 Canadian Newspapermen Included In Hall of Fame

OTTAWA, Jan. 6—(CP)—Ten outstanding Canadian newspapermen of the past and the present are being honored by inclusion in the Hall of Fame of Canada's Parliament Building.

Their niche in this section of the Centre Block devoted to immortalizing Canada's great is, appropriately, a short marble hallway leading to the Commons reading room, where newspapers and other publications from all over the world are maintained.

Workmen chipping into the rough marble now are putting the finishing touches to two rows of life-size heads of the new entrants to the hall of fame, some of them journalistic-politicians and some just working newspapermen.

Flanking the doorway to the reading room are two of the modern writers. They are Senator Charles Bishop, for 40 years a member of the Parliamentary Press Gallery for the Ottawa Citizen and Southam group of newspapers before being called to the Senate in 1945; and M. Grattan O'Leary, vice-president of the Ottawa Journal.

Only other living person to be included is Henri Bourassa of Montreal, founder and for many years editor of Le Devoir, Montreal daily, and former Nationalist member of the Commons.

Howe In Group

One of Canada's earliest newspaper publishers—Nova Scotia's Joseph Howe—is in the group. Howe was largely instrumental in obtaining Canada's first responsible government in Nova Scotia. He published the Nova Scotian, forerunner of the Halifax Chronicle, now merged in the Halifax Chronicle-Herald.

Others in the journalistic hall of fame, all dead, are:

Israel Tarte, publisher of La Patrie, Montreal, and Liberal minister of public works under Laurier.

Frank Oliver, publisher of the Edmonton Bulletin, Laurier's minister of the interior.

R. S. White, editor of the Montreal Gazette and former Conservative member of parliament.

John Ross Robertson, founder and publisher of the Toronto Telegram, who served in the Commons for a term before the turn of the century.

John W. Dafoe, for many years editor of the Winnipeg Free Press.

P. D. Ross, founder and president of the Ottawa Journal, who died last year.

Breaks Up Game

GODERICH, Ont., Jan. 6 (CP)—To the delight of practical jokers everywhere, someone has gone the exploding cigar one better by inventing the exploding pipe. Somehow, a .22 calibre shell found its way from the pocket of Ewen Ross's hunting coat into his tobacco pouch. Leaning back comfortably during a card game, Ross filled his pipe and struck a match. Nobody was hurt, but Ross had a little difficulty getting his mind back on the game.

Convicted of Murder

SIBU, Sarawak, Jan. 6 (Reuters) Two Malayans were convicted on Thursday of murdering Duncan Stewart, British Governor of Sarawak, and were sentenced to death. The two youths, Rosli Bin Obi, 19, and Morshidi Bin Sidek, 25, had pleaded guilty to accusations of stabbing the governor as he inspected a children's guard of honor at Sibu Dec. 3.

Ask Licence Revoked

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 (AP)—The civil aeronautics administration Thursday asked revocation of the pilots' licence held by Erick Rios Bridoux, Bolivian Civil Air Chief who figured in the costliest air collision in history last Nov. 1. Rios flew the converted P-38 lightning which struck an Eastern Air Lines DC-4 as both planes were approaching Washington National Airport. All 55 persons on the airliner were killed.

Threatens Retaliation

TOKYO, Jan. 6 (Reuters) — Gen. MacArthur, allied supreme commander in Japan, today threatened to take disciplinary action against those responsible for the release of matter reported contained in a United States State Department guide, which was said here to anticipate the fall of Formosa, last stronghold of the Chinese Nationalists.

Fight Fire On Ship

HALIFAX, Jan. 6 (CP)—City firemen Thursday night continued to pour four streams of water into the burning hold of the United States freighter Mormacreed and stevedores removed damaged cargo to get at the origin of a deep-seated, smouldering blaze. Some 5,000 tons of dried corn and 3,000 tons of general cargo in the freighter caught fire Wednesday while the ship was off Cape Cod, Mass.

Find Factories Carrying Out More Building

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Pres Business Editor

A feature of Canada's record building in 1949 was an increase in factory construction, reversing a trend of the preceding two years when industrial construction was down.

The year's contracts in this category totalled $103,822,000 up 39 per cent from $74,878,000 in 1948.

The figures are from MacLean Building Reports, and James A. Daly, editorial director, comments:

"The sharp increase would indicate that industry has again entered the construction market, possibly attracted by stabilized construction costs, to start a further cycle of plant modernization and expansion."

The MacLean reports, which had already shown a new record for Canadian contracts by the end of November, gives the total contracts for the year at $1,140,116,000, the first time they have passed the seven-figure mark, and an increase of $186,033,800 over 1948.

Mr. Daly comments further:

"In several sub-groups, real expenditures on construction will be much greater and even several times the figures quoted, since much of the work is not awarded as contracts, but carried out with their own forces by public utilities, hydro commissions, municipalities, provincial highway departments, railways, etc.

Great Backlog

"While construction of roads and streets increased somewhat over 1948, a tremendous backlog of work is developing in this category . .

"All indications point to another $1,000,000,000 year in 1950. Projects only partially contracted for such as the Toronto subway and the Alberta-Superior pipe line, construction for titanium and iron ore developments in Quebec-Labrador, the Trans-Canada highway, continuing Hydro-Electric construction in Ontario, the aluminum-hydro development in British Columbia — these are only the major multi-million-dollar projects on the books for the new year . . .

"All building materials should be in adequate supply in 1950."

Mr. Daly states that the real volume of construction, after allowing for increased costs, is 15 per cent higher than in 1929 and approximately 550 per cent greater than in 1933, low point of the depression.

Incidentally, contracts were let for $21,677,000 in churches, $80,977,500 in schools, $42,405,900 in hospitals and $5,832,000 in theatres.

Didn't Like Sweaters

BAYONNE, N. Y., Jan. 6 (AP)—A 14-year-old girl lies badly injured with a bullet wound police said was inflicted by a boy friend because she wouldn't stop wearing sweaters. They "brought out her shape too well," police said Arthur Brown, 16, told them after he was arrested.

Divorces Roosevelt

NEW YORK, Jan. 6 — (AP) — Actress Faye Emerson took off for Mexico City Thursday night to divorce Elliott Roosevelt, son of the late president. "I'm going down to Mexico City for my divorce," she said at an airport press conference. "The reasons for the divorce were formulated a long time ago and are very private."

Ask Pension Change

TORONTO, Jan. 6 — (CP) — A reduction in the qualifying age to 65 and an increase in the monthly benefit to $50 under the Old-Age Pension Act was urged on the Ontario Government Thursday by a deputation from the Railway Transportation Brotherhoods.

Fights Recognition

OTTAWA, Jan. 6 (CP)—Solon Low, Social Credit leader, said in an interview Thursday that Canada should refuse to recognize the Chinese Communist government. He said the Dominion should aid the Nationalist regime in Formosa, even to the extent of sending it supplies.

Goal In Sight

TORONTO, Jan. 6 — (CP) — Officials of the Hospital for Sick Children building fund campaign for $4,000,000 announced Thursday that their goal is in sight following receipt of a $100,000 contribution from the T. Eaton Company. The appeal, scheduled to end Saturday, now is $300,000 short of the objective.

Royal Air Force Job Covers Vast Area In Middle East

The Royal Air Force Command in Middle East spreads over so many million square miles that it is quicker to say it straggles over something like one-eighth of the land surface of the world, Charles Gardner writes for United Kingdom Information Office.

In the West its boundary is at Malta and Castel Benito. Eastward it runs past the Nicobar Islands which lie between Ceylon and Singapore. To the North it includes the island of Cyprus, and southward it stretches down Central Africa to Nairobi and across the Red Sea to Aden.

Important Area

The importance of this vast area in world strategy needs no emphasis. Across it and down it lie the routes from Britain and the Mediterranean to the Far East, the Antipodes and Africa.

I have just been touring this Middle East Air Force area. I flew some four of five thousand miles and yet I still only touched down upon African and Arabian bases and never even got within five hours' flying distance of the staging posts of Karachi and Ceylon.

Many are the problems and facets of this great area of R.A.F responsibility which centres on the Suez Canal Zone and covers the whole troubled Arab world. There is the clear-cut and paramount responsibility to guard the great Commonwealth routes through Suez, Habbanyia, Bahrein and Khartoum. There is also what I might call the local and diplomatic responsibility which is almost a personal thing between a handful of officers and men and the local sheiks.

The main command and regional headquarters have, of course, their staffs of political officers. These men are experts who speak the language and who live for long stretches in the villages of the desert. There is much of the "Lawrence of Arabia" tradition in their service, and many are the tales told of them.

But the men who seemed to me quite as interesting as the trained professional political officers were the young commanders of lonely detachments who, hundreds of miles from the nearest sister unit, may have to tackle anything from a tribal dispute to the sudden provision of cowboy film shows at the local ruler's palace.

Meet one of these commanders of a desert outpost: he is 29 years old, a flight lieutenant and a D. F. C. bomber pilot. He has been in the Middle East 20 months.

He has a detachment of 11 RAF airmen under him, and about 50 of local sultans' guards who help defend the airstrip.

Sand Runways

The strip itself, which attracts only two or three aircraft a week, consists of two runways of rolled sand between the Arabian plateau and the seas. The temperatures in summer is 120 and there has not been a drop of rain for five years. A boat comes in with supplies once every six months and there is a Dakota three times a fortnight which brings films, books, mail and rations. There is water from the hills and an arrangement with the Arab village about fish. Yet this flight lieutenant who but for accident of R.A.F. postings might just as nearly be a squadron administrative officer in Norfolk or a flight commander in Singapore, is the second important man in a lump of Arabia twice the size of England.

The local ruler — who could wipe out the airstrip any day he chose—regards the flight lieutenant as a confidential adviser and as a premanent Father Christmas for the village people. In return the R.A.F. gets undisputed use of the strip. It is a neatly balanced arrangement, but one casting almost diplomatic status on the shoulders of the young officer. Is the ruler angry? Then the flight lieutenant must placate him through his interpreter and yet avoid the pitfalls of formal negotiation with a race of born negotiators. Is there a boundary dispute? Then the flight lieutenant must get up a photo recce plane to settle it.

Repairs Jeep

And so from day to day it goes on. Friendly and cordial relations are maintained on both sides. The R.A.F. repairs the ruler's ancient jeep and takes him for a ride in an aircraft. The ruler returns thanks and presents the camp with a stack of sugar and a pair of silver Arab knives. This is how these remote bases are run: by tact, friendliness and by the sort of understanding which, after an airlift of grain to a starving village, led 40 chief residents of Wadi Amd in Aden to write to the R.A.F.: "We shall never forget this gracious act and we hereby raise our hands in applause and admiration."

There are some two dozen such flight lieutenants and some dozen such stations in the Middle East Command. To my mind all are as important to human relationships as those big staging posts which are the air crossways of the Eastern world.

Butter Stocks Up

OTTAWA, Jan. 6 — (CP) — Creamery butter stocks in nine Canadian cities totalled 40,334,000 pounds at Jan. 1—almost double the 22,856,000 pounds held at the same date last year. The Bureau of Statistics Thursday said the Jan. 1 butter level was a decline of about 7,000,000 pounds from holdings Dec. 1.

To Visit Karachi

KARACHI, Pakistan, Jan. 6—(Reuters)—The External Affairs ministers of Australia and Canada, Percy Spender and L. B. Pearson, are expected to visit Karachi with Philip Noel-Baker, Britain's Commonwealth Relations secretary, after the Commonwealth conference at Colombo, Ceylon, it was reported Thursday.

Offer Fuel Oil

EDMONTON, Jan. 6 (CP)—The Board of Trade of Lloydminster Sask., Thursday night offered to provide free fuel oil for the Canadian National Railways to operate daily train service between the Alberta-Saskatchewan border point and Edmonton. It made the offer to forestall curtailment of rail service ordered by the railway because of coal shortages.

Oldest Minister 99

TOCKENHAM, Wiltshire, England, Jan. 6—(CP)—The Rev. W. H. Hewlett Cooper, rector of Tockenham, is 99 years old. He is believed to be the oldest practising clergyman in Britain. Mr. Cooper has been here 57 years. He still preaches regularly. A few days before his 99th birthday last July 16, he christened his great-grandson.

Population Decreases

TORONTO, Jan. 6 (CP)—The population of Manitoba and Saskatchewan is decreasing so fast that the provinces may lose a total of six federal government seats at the next parliamentary distribution, J. R. MacNicol, former Progressive Conservative member of Parliament for Toronto-Davenport, said Thursday.

British Seeking Own Solution To Aid Movies

By ALVIN STEINKOPF.

LONDON, Jan. 6 (AP)—Realists in the wobbly British movie industry are feeling around for purely British measures to make British films stand on their own feet financially.

Hollywood plays an essential, and occasionally a helpful, role in keeping British theatres open and British production moving. Something can be done by way of Anglo-American co-operation in production of British pictures, with the Americans using some of their sterling assets frozen here.

But that's a trifle, and there is a growing conviction that saving the British film industry is a British job. There are dozens of British suggestions.

The most radical, advocated by some of the Socialist press, is to nationalize the whole complicated machine, or a good part of it. Such a solution has, as yet, little visible support. The thoughtful committee headed by economist Sir Arnold Plant, which studied the industry's troubles for a year, reported:

"For our part, we are unanimously of the view that film production which requires free exercise and development of individual enterprise, skill and craftsmanship, is among the businesses least appropriate for state ownership and operation."

Some Disagreement

There is some disagreement on this point, but a government which is now extracting almost £40,000,000 ($124,000,000) a year from the trade in entertainment tax alone is showing no great eagerness to take it over, and possibly lose revenue in the bargain.

Suggestions most frequently made to help the industry are:

1. Reduce the entertainment tax.

2. Keep the tax but plow back some of the cash, under guise of subsidy or other aid, into production.

3. Dissolve the three chains which dominate production and own somewhat less than one-fourth of the country's 4,800 theatres.

4. Arrange for distribution of all films by sale to theatres making the highest bids in six or eight regions in the United Kingdom.

5. Invite more government assistance through such agencies as the government's Film Finance Corporation, which has used an undisclosed part of a £5,000,000 government fund to enable producers to complete 32 films.

Police Questioning Suspect In Murder

ST. CATHARINES, Jan. 6 (CP) Provincial police Thursday night questioned a man in connection with the Dec. 23 murder of cabdriver Arthur Gough, 27, whose body was found in a Crowland township ditch, near Welland.

Police would not divulge his name. It was learned he was picked up in St. Catharines Thursday. No charge has been laid, but he will be taken to Crowland, to appear in Welland court today.

Youth 23 Hanged For Killing Father-in-Law

LONDON, Jan. 6—(Reuters)—Daniel Raven, 23, was hanged today for the murder of his father-in-law, after frenzied efforts to secure a reprieve failed.

Late Thursday night Raven's father claimed he had new evidence bearing on the case.

Reporters waited all night for a statement at the apartment of Mrs. Fay Shine, housewife who organized a petition for Raven's reprieve, said to have been signed by 16,000 persons.

The father-in-law, Leopold Goodman, and his wife were found beaten to death last October in their London home. The prosecution alleged the killing was done with the base of an aluminum television aerial.

Raven's mother sent telegrams to the King and Queen asking their intercession after Home Secretary James Cuter Ede announced he saw no reason to grant a reprieve.

SPORTSMANSHIP IN "CANADA UNLIMITED"

Skiing's standout moment!

In 1933, against all odds, a Canadian ski team blazed to Alpine victory!

Gusts of snow swirled around the mountains at St. Moritz, Switzerland. It was the day of the relay race in the International University Ski Championships. And for the first time Canada was competing . . . racing against many of western Europe's finest skiers.

The unfamiliar Alpine snow took its toll of the Canadians. The fourth-lap skier lagged eight minutes behind the leading Italian teams . . . and faced a steep 1,800-foot climb. But at the storm-blown summit amazed officials saw him sweep in—only 30 seconds behind the leaders. With half a minute to make up, the fifth Canadian streaked into the last lap—a 3,000-foot plunge into the valley. He flashed past the favourites one by one . . . and crossed the line a winner by 45 seconds!

The Canadian Ski Championships, together with events of the North American and International University Championships will be held this year at Banff from Feb. 4 to March 5.

Good sportsmanship has won many world friends for Canada . . . just as the spirit of working together has made us one of the world's great nations. These two, sportsmanship and enterprise, keep your opportunities for work and play in Canada . . . unlimited.

197,816 Books Placed In Circulation

Total circulation at the Public and branch libraries in Peterborough for 1949 was 197,816, William Graff, librarian reported to the Library Board Thursday night. Circulation in the adult department was 112,835 and the juvenile department, 84,981. The total increase over the 1948 figure is 40,161 (adult departments 14,636 and the juvenile departments 25,525.)

Circulation in the adult department of the main library was up 78 books on last year's December figure of 8,895. The juvenile department slipped slightly in December having a circulation of 5,452, a drop of 317.

Open since early in March the branch library's circulation to the end of December was 36,276 (the adult department 12,485 and the juvenile 23,791). During December the number of books taken out in the adult department was 1,204 and in the juvenile department 2,273.

A Mental Case

NEW YORK, Jan. 6 (AP) — A psychiatrist testified Thursday that Alger Hiss' chief accuser, Whittaker Chambers, suffers from a mental disorder which makes its victims chronic liars and false accusers. Dr. Carl A. J. Binger, called by the defence in Hiss' second perjury trial, said the disorder is recognized mental disease known as "phychopathic personality."

ARMY ESQUIRES—Two soldiers at Army headquarters in Ottawa try on swank new uniforms expected to be in general use by 1951. The dark-blue serge number will be worn when "walking out" and on ceremonial occasions. No decision has been made as to head-dress. Conventional rank insignia will be worn. The broad stripes down the trousers will be in regimental colors; non-commissioned officers will wear chevrons of the same colors.

U.S. Shaping Far Eastern Policy To Split Chinese People—Russia

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 (AP)—Truman administration leaders today were reported to be shaping a Far Eastern policy aimed at driving a wedge between the Chinese people and Communist Russia.

This policy, expected to be set forth in a statement soon, would announce a firm attitude of friendship for the inhabitants of China, leaving the way open for eventual recognition of the Communist regime there.

With respect to other Asiatic countries, the policy would state United States support for Nationalist—as opposed to Communist—movements, plus economic assistance and possibly arms aid to specific countries threatened by Communist aggression.

On Tuesday State Secretary Dean Acheson will go before a joint session of the Senate foreign relations and House of Representatives foreign affairs committees to review global US policy. Emphasis will be on the Far East, particularly because of the current row over Formosa.

Chinese Territory

The President and Acheson emphasized Thursday that Formosa is Chinese territory. Truman stated that the United States therefore would become involved "in the civil conflict in China" if it took military steps to keep Formosa out of Chinese Communist hands.

State Department officials explained that the administration does not intend to give the Communists a chance to tell the Chinese people that the United States is denying to them the control of Chinese territory.

An indication of the degree to which Formosa is being written off here—more because of its unstable internal conditions than because of possible Communist attack—came last night with a report that Americans are being told quietly to leave the island.

However, Ambassador-at-large Philip Jessup, in Tokyo on one leg of his general survey of the far eastern situation, insisted that the United States has no intention of abandoning the Nationalists.

Not Lost Yet

Despite the statements by Truman and Acheson, Jessup stuck by his comment Thursday that the US does not consider China "lost."

Acheson declared it is premature at this time to even consider the question of Chinese Communist recognition.

But he did not foreclose future consideration. It was learned that the matter of setting up diplomatic relations hinges primarily on two points, in the US view.

Acheson is reported determined that first the Chinese Reds must give evidence of fair treatment of Americans in China and take other steps which would mean that recognition would be worth while for the United States.

The other point is whether the Communist regime will be willing to assume China's established international obligations.

Second Euchre Party

NORWOOD, Jan. 6 (ENS). — The second in a winter series of euchre parties was held in the Legion Hall Wednesday. Twelve tables were in play and Mrs. W. H. Giffen and Mrs. Harry Rogers tied for first prize, the former winning the draw. Stuart Rusaw won the men's prize. The next party will be held January 18.

Lunch was served by the committee in charge.

Portable Incubators

TORONTO, Jan. 6 — (CP) — Portable incubators, equipped so that temperature and humidity can be controlled, are in use at the Hospital for Sick Children here. Believed to be the smallest in the world, the box-like structures were designed and built at the hospital for premature babies. They will fit into an automobile's back seat.

After Big Game

MONTREAL, Jan. 6—(CP) — Three middle - aged Montreal business men left by air Thursday for London on the first lap of a trip which will take them through East Africa on a big-game hunting expedition. The three are Frank Ross, a contractor, H. L. Rochon, an industrialist and B. J. McAbbie, restaurant owner who described the trip "as the dream of a lifetime."

Youth Shoots At Constable — Then Kills Self

KITCHENER, Jan. 5. — The Provincial medico-legal department will examine clothing and other evidence from early Thursday's shooting in which a 17-year-old Kitchener youth took his life after firing at a constable.

The body of Armin Caldwell, of 167 Sydney Street, was found by police beside a tree on the Rockway Golf Course several minutes after he shot at and narrowly missed Constable Donald Daikens, 25, who had been summoned to the youth's home shortly after midnight.

Seventeen rounds of ammunition was found in young Caldwell's pockets, Chief John Patrick disclosed Thursday. He fired a single shot from his .303-calibre rifle into his chest.

One source said Caldwell may have committed suicide after thinking he had shot Constable Daikens, who fell to the ground and "played 'possum."

The shooting took place when Constable Daikens pulled up in a cruiser to answer to a call from A. L. Campbell, the youth's stepfather. Campbell told police that after trouble with the youth he warned him he intended calling police. The boy told him to go ahead, then grabbed a .303 rifle and left by the back door, police said.

Bullet Flies By

Constable Daikens was advised by Campbell the youth had no ammunition. Campbell had believed there was none in the house. As the officer began circling the house which abuts the Rockway Golf Course creek, a bullet whizzed by his head. He was about 40 yards from the tree where Caldwell's body was later found.

The officer immediately dropped and waited. Daikens shouted to Campbell to sumon help. While additional police were being called, the constable heard a muffled blast from the direction of the golf course.

Patrol Sergt. Charles Bignell, Constable Edward Tschirhardt, Donald Zettel and Vernon Dickert soon arrived and began searching the area. Caldwell was dead when found.

Chief Patrick, who is continuing investigation, could advance no reason for the youth's action. He commended Constable Daikens for his cool-headedness and proper judgment in remaining still on the ground after Caldwell fired at him.

"It could have developed into another shooting orgy such as that at Sudbury last summer," the Chief said. "Constable Daikens will be brought before the Police Commission for commendation."

Westwood WMS Attains 1948 Quota

WESTWOOD, Jan. 6 (ENS) — St. Andrew's United Church WMS reached its allocation last year and also raised an additional dollar per member as requested by the Presbyterial. This was announced by the treasurer Wednesday at the home of Mrs. E. W. Sargent.

Ten members were present and the president, Mrs. Clayton Brackenridge took charge of the meeting.

It was decided to give the usual gift of subscriptions to "World Friends" to the Mission Band.

A responsive worship service was led by Mrs. Brackenridge.

A translation of a letter of thanks for a parcel sent to a family in Germany was read.

Want Drug Controlled

LONDON, Jan. 6 (AP) — An independent medical journal, the Lancet, proposed today that antihistamine drugs be placed on the government's official list of poisons so they can be obtained only on doctors' prescriptions. The drugs, widely used for the treatment of colds, are sold in British drug stores without prescriptions

Marmora Club Appoints Puck Officers

MARMORA, Jan. 6 (ENS) — The executive of the Marmora Hockey Club for the ensuing season consists of:

President, Robert Gray; secretary-treasurer, Major Percy Gray; coach, Ken Trumble; manager, Earl Leonard.

A satisfactory agreement has been reached between the club and the rink commission. Marmora will ice a good representative team in the Trent Valley League, and the continued heavy support of citizens of the area may be counted on, once the schedule, with favorable weather conditions can get under way.

With regard to minor hockey, officials have been named to supervise for bantams and midgets as follows:

Bantams—Manager, W. M. Regan; coach, William Brown; secretary, M. J. Corrigan.

Midgets — Manager, George Brooks; coach, Mel. H. Borland; secretary, Phillip Webster.

The juvenile organizations will be completed in a few days. Hogarth Sabine has been appointed press representative for minor hockey.

Make-up for 50 Looks Like Frankenstein's

The "1950 face"—painted eyes, two-tone cupid's bow mouth, and scraggly haircut—just released by New York fashion experts, is being received with universal amusement.

Hollywood's make-up expert, Perc Westmore, says "They didn't release that mannequin face. It escaped."

He thinks the new idea will set the art back about 50 years, and what it will do to women! "The 1950 face is definitely not the kind you take home to mother," he warns, and he advises housewives not to adopt the mid-century mug unless they wish to precipitate a divorce.

The master-minds are providing a full set of instructions on how to draw the new face with a black pencil to make heavy lines around the eyes, extending the line almost to the tip of the eyebrow, and a dark and light shade of lipstick to make the mouth. The same were employed 20 years ago to produce the monster Frankenstein.

Minister Installs WMS Officers

FAIRMOUNT, Jan. 6 (ENS)—WMS officers elected at the end of 1948 were installed Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Harry McGee by the new minister, Rev. Mr. Linstead. There was an attendance of 12 members.

The treasurer reported having sent $144.71 to the Presbyterial from the society and $50.92 from the Mission Band. Mrs. Downes, temperance secretary, read a letter from the Presbyterial secretary. Mrs. Fair and Mrs. Downes were appointed delegates to the Presbyterial to be held on January 24 in Peterborough. It was agreed to supply World Friends to the Mission Band.

The worship service was conducted by the president. Mrs. R. F. McIndoo presented the third chapter of the study book, using a map of the world to illustrate her talk on mission stations.

Lunch was served by Mrs. R. F. McIndoo, Mrs. R. K. Earle, and Mrs. T. W McIndoo.

Mrs. K. Moncrief New President

MILLBROOK, Jan. 6 (ENS) — Mrs. Kenneth Moncrief was elected president of Grace Presbyterian Ladies' Aid Wednesday, at the annual meeting.

Other officers elected were:

Four vice-presidents, one from each district: Mrs. Jack Thompson, Mrs. Farrow, Mrs. W. Lord and Mrs. Gerald Armstrong; secretary, Mrs. G. MacKay; treasurer, Mrs. F. Pritchard.

Plans were made for a supper which is to precede the congregation's annual meeting planned to take place in two weeks' time.

The hostess passed candy.

Guild Raises More Funds

MARMORA, Jan. (ENS) — St. Paul's Ladies' Guild net receipts during 1948 were slightly higher than in the previous year, Mrs. Don McInroy, treasurer, announced Wednesday at the annual meeting at the home of the president, Mrs. Don Robertson.

Mrs. McInroy also presented the report of the sick and visiting committee, owing to the absence of Mrs. George Kerr, Mrs. W. D. Lavender acted as secretary. Among those present was Rural Dean J. M. Brownlie.

At the monthly meeting which followed, a series of weekly card parties was planned. They will be held until Lent.

Donations were voted to the Sick Children's Hospital and to the Save the Children fund.

Refreshments were served.

GLAMOR FOR JUNIORS — Left, ivory and red brocaded bodice and a tiered skirt of red net over taffeta make this short-but-formal Junior evening dress with corsage of red roses caught at deep V-neckline. Centre, pale blue taffeta bodice sparkles with rhinestones, back-dipping skirt is of pale blue net over taffeta and narrow shoulder straps are all-over rhinestone. Right, winter's new evening length in cornflower blue nylon tulle over taffeta has matching velvet sash tying in back.

Scots Revive Centuries Old National Dances

By NORMAN CRIBBENS.

DUNDEE, Scotland, (CP) — A revival of the Scottish dances of 200 to 500 years ago is sweeping Scotland. No age group has escaped the resurrected charm of music that Niel Gow and Scott Skinner once played.

Membership of the Scottish County Dance Society has soared to around 8,000. It has 42 branches and 63 affiliated clubs. But the switch from Broadway rhythms to lilting rural music has come too fast for the facilities available.

It has left Scotland with a great shortage of floor space and has produced so many eager pupils that the number of qualified teachers is inadequate.

One Dundee club has such a long waiting list that members lose their places after four weeks' absence—and the next in the queue steps in.

Dundee corporation has been quick to cash in on the craze. At the last municipal country dance in great Caird Hall, 1,200 dancers took the floor after queueing for more than two hours. Hundreds were turned away.

Queue For Class

When enrolment for classes in Edinburgh began some queued for four hours to be sure of a place. Far into the Highlands—at lonely Cannich, centre of the Glen Affric hydro-electric project—a class was started in 1948. Eight turned up. Now the membership stands at 120 with pupils from Scotland, England, Poland, Latvia and Estonia.

The beat of Scottish feet is also being heard abroad. Recently the East Sterlingshire branch of the Scottish Dance Society sent a team to Quimper, France. Quimper is to return the compliment by sending a French team to Scotland.

Under Dr. E. Forbes Sempill, the Dancers of Don, famous Aberdeen group, are to make a tour of the United States and parts of Canada next spring.

Fever Spreads

The fever has spread to England too. At the Scottish Society's summer school there were representatives from clubs in London, Manchester, Wolverhampton, Newcastle, Rochdale and Southport, Lancashire.

The 180 recognized traditional dances of Scotland are being danced in mess-rooms of the navy, army, and air force. Among recent affiliations to the central dance body was the RAF Officers' Society of Seletar, Singapore.

Glasgow dance teacher J. A. Parsons went to Paris to study the latest steps in Latin dancing —the rhumba, tango and samba.

"But I found that the French are just as interested in Scots dancing," he said. "Secret of its appeal may be that it gives a pleasant feeling of wellbeing — a sensation of having achieved something worthwhile, both mentally and physically."

Mrs. L. W. Humphries entertained on Wednesday when two tables of euchre were played. First prize, Mrs. Lorna Nelson; second, Mrs. Alton Thompson; third, Alma Chatraad.

Mr., Mrs. Sprout Married 21 Years

MARMORA, Jan. 6 (ENS) — A party in celebration of Mr. and Mrs. James Sproul's 21st wedding anniversary was held at their home Wednesday. Their only daughter Marilyn, was responsible for the arrangements.

Mr. and Mrs. Sproul were married in Glasgow, Scotland, and two weeks later, Mr. Sproul sailed for Canada and obtained employment with the Deloro Smelting and Refining Company, for whom he is still working.

Mrs. Sproul followed her husband and they made their home in Marmora. Both are valued members of St. Andrew's United Church, Mrs. Sproul being a member of the Women's Missionary Society and Mr. Sproul, treasurer of the Missionary and Maintenance work of the church.

McKENNEY Answers Your CANASTA Questions

Each week I interview John R Crawford of Philadelphia, Pa., who has long ranked as one of the leaders in bridge, and is now conceded to be one of the best Canasta players in the country. He is a great strategist at the card table and one of the points I have asked him to explain today is the defense to be employed when you are down to a few cards.

Suppose you have in your hand only 2 fours, a queen and an eight, and you must make a discard. Your opponent has a six-card meld of natural queens, a six-card meld of mixed eights, but no meld of four-spots. However, your opponent's side has many other melds on the table and command control of the pack. What cards should you discard?

Mr. Crawford explained that your discard would depend upon certain factors in the situation If your partner has a chance to go out, you would split your fours and discard one of them. But if your partner already has been forced to make some valuable discards to the opponents and obviously will have to continue to make uncomfortable discards, it would be foolish play to split your fours.

On the next round you may draw another eight or another queen and you will have no chance to go out. In a bad situation lose as little as possible. Give them the eight-spots, completing a canasta for them, in the hope that on the next round or two you will draw another four or a deuce You may even have to complete a second canasta for the opponents but do not give up your chance to go out too quickly, as they may then run the deck out on you.

Question: In two-handed Canasta, if you have four or five cards of a kind, does it always pay to meld them?

Answer: This question can be answered by a story Oswald Jacoby tells of a game he was playing with his 11-year-old son, Jim. Jacoby held 5 fives in his hand He did not want to meld them, preferring to use them as "safe" discards.

He threw one of them and nothing happened. He tossed the second, and the boy refused to take the pack. When Jacoby discarded the third five, he was sure he had his son locked in. With two more "safe" discards, he smiled, then he let the fourth one go. But the young rascal waited until Jacoby had pitched the fifth one before he finally picked up the pack.

The moral of this story is that such discards always can be dangerous, and it is not always advisable to break up a possible outhand to make a safe discard which may be no safer than one of your odd cards.

Question: Every time I have a hidden hand I throw my discard on the pack and then put my cards down. The other night my opponent wanted to penalize me for this, saying I had to meld before discarding. I told him that this rule did not apply at the end of the game. Does it?

Answer: This is getting pretty technical. Of course, the rule is there, but I doubt if anybody would hold you to it. However, why not get into the habit of making your melds first and then your discard? Use the old gin rummy habit of throwing your discard on the pack face down signifying that the game is over.

Question: Playing two or three-handed Canasta does the player who freezes the pack with a wild card have the right to pick the pack as though it was unfrozen?

Answer: When the pack is frozen in any form of Canasta it is frozen for every player at the table. The player who has frozen the pack cannot pick it up without two natural cards to match the up-card.

DOROTHY DIX

Husband Gives Wife Lesson In Household Management

Dorothy Dix

DEAR MISS DIX: Last year my husband made it possible for me and my eldest son to visit our relatives in Europe, leaving him and two other sons at home. I was away for about seven months and during that time they never asked me once to come home but urged me to stay as long as I liked and enjoy myself. Naturally I was anxious as to how they would get along without me, but when I came back I found that they had done splendidly. The three of them had developed into fine cooks with the aid of the cookbook. To my chagrin and surprise I found that my husband had saved the entire amount of our trip and had some money besides out of the housekeeping allowance, and when I asked how he had done it, he gleefully told me that he had worked out a budget plan and stuck to it. I could not believe that they had saved money on what I had not always been able to get along upon, but they showed me in black and white and had the money to prove it.

Since I am back I feel that my husband is not satisfied with the way I run the house. He has not turned over his pay envelope to me, but gives me just so much as I need for the house. He has changed otherwise also. He does not give me a chance for an argument, and when I try to start one he shuts up like a clam and walks off. What shall I do?

UNHAPPY.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Your husband has simply applied the same principles to runing the home that he does to running his business. As it has worked out so well, why don't you get him to show you how he did it? Cook by the book as he did, instead of by ear as you do. Adopt his budget plan and you also will have money in the bank.

Shows Common Sense

You seem aggrieved that your husband doesn't turn over his money to you as he did before he found out how you were wasting it. That shows only common sense in him. If you want to get the pay envelope back again in your hands, you will have to prove yourself worthy of it.

As regards your final complaint, that your husband will no longer fight with you, perhaps that takes a little pep out of your day, but it must make things a lot more peaceful. Also, it shows that he has been doing a lot of thinking while you were gone.

He has realized how pleasant a home can be in which there is no bickering, no dissentions, no cruel words tossed back and forth in the heat of an arugment. He has thought how foolish it was for a husband and wife needlessly to antagonize each other. Hence he has determined never again to quarrel with you.

Don't you think that the best thing you can do is to imitate his example? If you will profit by the things your husband learned in your absence, both he and you will find that your trip to Europe was the most enlightening experience you ever had.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Is there anything that anyone can do to stop the pernicious practice fo giving letters of introduction? On an average of once or twice a month the year round some man or woman I never heard of descends upon me with a letter of introduction and I have to spend my time and money entertaining people who have no claim whatever upon me, and who bore me to death. What's the remedy?

A VICTIM.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Let me weep upon your breast, for I am a fellow sufferer from the letter of introduction.

The only explanation that seems feasible at all is that the person who gives the letter of introduction is passing the buck and forcing you to do his entertaining for him. And the person who asks for a letter of introduction is simply a grafter. In either case the hold-up should be stopped.

The most that anyone should do is to write to a friend and say that such and such a person will be in your city on such and such a date and at such and such a hotel, then leave it to the individual to follow it up or not as he pleases.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: For eight years I have helped my husband in his business, besides keeping house and raising the babies. Now suddenly he confesses an affair with another woman. I forgave him and he promised to give her up, but he still goes out with her. Doesn't love and kindness and patience and goodness in a wife ever win out against the "other woman"?

DISILLUSIONED WIFE.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: The trouble is that men do not love women for their virtues, and that it what makes being a good wife such a hard job. A wife can have every good quality under the sun and then find herself forsaken for a creature who is not worthy even to wipe her shoes.

BEACH WEAR follows the off-shoulder lines as evening gowns do. This strapless suit has a shirred front and cuffed bra with boned sides. Good for the slender figure, but definitely not for the heavier type.

Make Leftovers Into Soup Hint for Economy-Minded

By KAY REX,
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

OTTAWA, Jan 6 (CP)—If mother is the least bit economy-minded, right now she's trying to whet the family's appetite on holiday leftovers.

It's not easy trying to use turkey or chicken remnants right down to the last wish-bone. However, she would be advised to take a hint and surprise the family with chicken or turkey soup.

Put into a saucepan chicken or turkey bones along with extra bits of skin and meat. Crush down and cover with cold water. Bring to a boil; cover and boil for one hour. Drain off liquid and discard bones.

To the strained liquid add: one-half cup finely diced onion; one-half cup finely diced carrot; one-quarter cup fine noodles (three quarter inch length); salt and pepper to taste; one cup tomato juice; one cup chopped chicken or turkey meat.

Simmer, covered, for about one hour.

Chicken (or turkey) loaf with mushroom sauce.

Ingredients: two cups cooked chicken or turkey; one cup peas; one-half cup cooked carrots; one cup soft bread crumbs; one-half cup milk; one egg; one teaspoon salt; two teaspoons onion juice, two teaspoons chopped parsley (optional).

Put cold cooked chicken and vegetables through food chopper. Mix with crumbs, milk, beaten egg, salt, onion juice and parsley and pack into greased loaf pan. Bake at 350 degrees Fahrenheit for about 40 minutes. Unmould, slice and serve with mushroom sauce which can be made from condensed mushroom soup if fresh mushrooms are not available (serves six).

Chicked (or Turkey) Surprise

Ingredients: one-half pound spaghetti (unbroken); one tablespoon fat; one tablespoon flour; three-quarters cup milk; one egg yolk; salt and pepper to taste; two cups finely chopped chicken; one cup cooked mixed vegetables; one tablespoon chopped parsley.

Cook spaghetti in boiling salted water, being careful not to break strands. Drain and rinse in cold water.

Line a deep, greased mould with the long spaghetti. Make a sauce of the fat, flour, milk, egg yolk and salt and pepper. Add chicken, vegetables and parsley. Fill centre of mould with this mixture and cover with spaghetti. Steam on top of the stove for 45 to 50 minutes if made in one large mould or for 20 to 25 minutes if made in individual moulds. If desired, this mould may be placed in a pan of water and baked in an oven of 325 degrees Fahrenheit for about 50 minutes.

Unmould and serve with tomato or any desired sauce.

Study of English Replaces Hardships for New Canadian

By IAN McKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

PORTAGE LA PRAIRIE, Man Jan 6 — (CP) — Mrs. Sewcryna Krol stood up at the Christmas party and joined the other 45-odd voices raised in Canada's national anthem.

But there was something different in the way she sang: the words were Polish, her native language.

Mrs. Krol, a 45-year-old widow is a member of the class of new Canadians learning English in a special course sponsored by the Portage la Prairie school board. The party was their first since members of the class arrived in Canada. For some it was the first real Christmas party in 10 years.

Mrs. Krol, whose husband was a Polish army officer, now works as a cook in the local hospital. She came to Canada from Africa where she had taken refuge in 1942.

Before that she spent some time in Siberia, where she and her daughter were sent by the Russians who had overrun eastern Poland early in the war. Though used to luxury, she has forgotten all that now and looks forward to "a peaceful life."

The special classes for displaced persons were started by the local Council of Women. Mrs. Marguerite James, the first teacher, started with a class of six. Within a month it had increased to 45. The Manitoba department of education then took over the training.

Couple United Here

Most of the students are Polish or Netherlands and most can tell tales of terror and tragedy.

Teddy Wielhopolau came to Canada few months ago to join his wife, Christine, who has been here about a year. She now is working in a restaurant. He has a job on the railroad.

Ten years ago they were in Warsaw when the Germans came. Teddy was taken from his place of business and sent to a concentration camp.

He still has his prison number tattooed on his left wrist—a low number because he was one of the first at the camp.

His wife, who speaks English, told of the brutalities at the camp. When Teddy arrived, in January of 1940, his clothes were taken from him and with 649 other he was paraded to a shower room. Here hot water poured over them and they were forced to stand outside in the winter air for five hours. About 260 of the men who took this "bath treatment" died within two weeks.

The other were forced to work 12 hours a day, some until they dropped. If they didn't die then they were shot. Guards looking for a little sport would sometimes decapitate a prisoner with a shovel, Mr. Wielholau said.

The United States army released Teddy in 1945 and he was able to see his wife again for the first time in five years.

"When asked what they look forward to most in Canada, they smiled and said only: "We are together again."

Ronald Reagan Reviews Film Career

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 6—(AP)—Seldom do film stars have an opportunity to stand off and take a long gaze at their careers. Ronald Reagan is the exception.

The chance befell Reagan last year when he and George Tobias engaged in a bit of horseplay during a charity baseball game. Tobias bumped Reagan at first base and the crowd roared with laughter—until it was discovered that Reagan had broken his leg.

"After spending most of last year in bed," he declared, "I'm going to concentrate on my career in 1950. And there are going to be some changes made."

Reagan, who never is speechless, was vocal about his future. Now working on his first post-accident picture, "Storm Center," he is lining up a select schedule.

Pick His Own

"First of all," he said, "I'm going to pick my own pictures. After a review of my latest ones, I have come to the conclusion that I could do as good a job of picking as the studio has done. At least I could do no worse.

"Contrary to popular opinion actors have enough intelligence to discern whether a picture is bad or good. An actor is right in turning down a story he doesn't believe is for him. If he doesn't believe in a story, he certainly can't act it.

"Furthermore, 90 per cent of the time when a studio intimates that a star has gone on suspension for saying a story is no good, the studio has a guilty conscience. It knows the story is no good."

Go Back To Radio

He said that he is seeking characterizations, not "average boy" roles. His ideal is "King's Row," in which he made his first big impression as an actor.

"Every good picture has a scene which the public remembers," he said. "In 'King's Row' it was when I was in bed and looked down at where my legs used to be and said, 'Randy, where is the rest of me?'

"If a picture doesn't have at least one scene like that one for the audience to remember, it's just a wasted effort."

After reflecting on his statements, Reagan shrugged:

"Well, I can always go back to being a sports announcer."

Freak Car Accident Driver Not Injured

A freak car accident on Highway 7 Thursday night resulted in no injuries to the driver but about $250 damage to the old model car.

Roscoe Johnston of Omemee was towing the car of Donald Heasman, also of Omemee, west along the highway towards the village. When about three miles west of Peterborough, the towed car caught up on the taut rope, allowing it to slacken. It then passed over the rope and turned into the ditch.

Heasman emerged from the shattered vehicle uninjured but the 1929 model is almost a complete loss.

Provincial Constables James Healey and Norman De Bow investigated.

3,200 Volts Pass Through Man Saved By Belt

PICTON, Jan. 6.—A safety belt saved the life of Donald Hogle, 32, of Campbellford, today, when 3,200 volts went through his body. Hogle was atop a hydro pole and the belt prevented his being hurled to the ground.

An employee of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission, Hogle was working on a pole in Wellington Village and touched a live wire. Five of his fellow workers witnessed the accident, lowered him to the ground with a rope and applied artificial respiration. He was revived in a few minutes.

Hogle was taken by ambulance to Prince Edward County Hospital after being attended by Dr. R. A. Thompson.

Youth Sentenced To Eight Months

Norman Rendell, 20, of 726 Chamberlain St., was sentenced to eight months definite and four months indefinite when he pleaded guilty to a charge of breaking, entry and theft before Magistrate W. R. Philp, K.C., in police court today. On a second charge of theft, Rendell was sentenced to four months, to run concurrently.

Rendell was given the eight-month sentence on a charge of the theft of two watches from the home of Mrs. H. B. Taylor, 214 Aylmer St. The four-month term was handed out on a charge of stealing some articles from a car parked on Simcoe St. opposite the Queen's Hotel Dec. 10.

Detective Sergeant John Stevenson testified he had received a call from the manager of a jewellery store who had just bought a watch for $2 from a man who gave the name of Norman Rendell.

Detective Stevenson traced the watch to W. E. Taylor, son of Mrs. H. B. Taylor. Taylor identified the watch as his and told the detective his house had been broken into Dec. 26 and two watches taken. The other watch was found in Rendell's home. Taylor said he had left the front door of the house unlocked for a housekeeper.

Rendell also admitted to police the theft of some toys and baby clothing from a car on Simcoe St. Through the Examiner, the owner of the articles, Patrick O'Brien, R.R. 11, Peterborough, was found. Rendell said he had taken the baby clothes back to the store in which they had been purchased and received a money refund for them.

In February, 1949, Rendell was convicted of three charges of theft and served a jail sentence in the county jail.

Magistrate Philp advised Rendell, if he wanted to, he could learn a trade at the Ontario Reformatory in Guelph.

Salvation Army Plans Monthly Musical

The Salvation Army will hold a musical in the Temple on Simcoe St. Sunday afternoon at 3:15 p.m. Music and songs will be provided by the bands and choristers. These concerts have been held monthly since early in the fall.

Special feature of the musical concert this month will be the two-piano team of Mrs. S. J. Richardson and Major C. G. Everitt. They will play Mendelssohn's Concerto in G Minor. Among the numbers played by the band will be "Gems from Gounod." The Salvation Army songsters will sing "Lead Kindly Light" by Parks, while the lighter numbers of the musical will be presented by the Young People's band and choristers. Gordon K. Fraser will be chairman.

Oddfellows Attend Funeral J. McKeown

BONARLAW, Jan 6 (ENS) — The funeral of John McKeown, who died early Monday morning, was held on Wednesday afternoon. After a service at the house conducted by the Rev. W. E. Beare of Springbrook, the funeral cortege proceeded to St. Mark's Anglican Church, where Rural Dean Rev. J. M. Brownlie conducted the service and the graveside ceremony following in 12th line cemetery.

The bearers and flower attendants were his lodge brothers of Springbrook Oddfellows Lodge No. 429.

Pallbearers were Lindsay Mumby, Mark Shortt, Allan McComb, Percy Bateman, Morley Barlow, and Frank Cosbey. Flower attendants: Hiram Mumby, Ronald Brown, Emerson Reid, Delbert McComb, Roy Shortt and Ralph Wellman.

CHARLES K. FRASER, 47 Dennistoun Ave., an engineer at the CGE who has been elected a councillor of the Chemical and Metallurgical branch of the Association of Professional Engineers of Ontario it was announced today. The association includes more than 7,000 graduate and more than 3,500 student engineers in the province.

Engineers Name Charles Fraser New Councillor

TORONTO, Jan. 6.—(CP). — Edward V. Buchanan of London, Ont., general manager of the London Public Utilities Commission, today was elected president of the Association of Professional Engineers of Ontario. He succeeds W. J. W. Reid of Hamilton.

Mr. Buchanan, who also is general manager of the London Railway Commission which operates the London and Port Stanley Railway, becomes head of an executive group representing five branches of professional engineers. The association embraces more than 7,000 Ontario graduate professional engineers, with 3,500 student engineers as affiliate members.

W. H. M. Laughlin and O. D. Johnston, both of Toronto, are vice-presidents. Col. T. M. Medland of Toronto is executive director and Col. J. M. Muir of Toronto secretary-treasurer and registrar.

The association's new council, representative of the five branches, will formally take office at the annual meeting here Jan. 28.

Branch councillors:

Civil branch—H. E. Barnett, Niagara Falls; J. L. Lang, Sault Ste. Marie; W. L. Sagar, Toronto.

Chemical and metallurgical branch—J. E. Buchan, Belleville; Charles K. Fraser, Peterborough; R. M. P. Hamilton, Toronto.

Electrical branch—H. J. Chambers and W. J. Gilson, Toronto; O. W. Titus, Leaside.

Mechanical and industrial branch—O. W. Ellis, G. R. Lord and J. R. Montague, all of Toronto.

Mining branch—J. W. Baker, Virginiatown; A. E. Cave, Geraldton; M. W. Hotchkin, Kirkland Lake.

Grievance Board

WILMINGTON, Del., Jan. 6—(AP)—The Delaware Medical Society Thursday announced creation of a grievance board to handle disputes between patients and doctors. Any patient with a complaint against a doctor will have the right to appeal to the board for hearings, the announcement said.

United Counties MOH To Work In Korea For UN

COBOURG, Jan. 6.—(CP). — Dr. C. W. MacCharles, senior medical officer of health for the Northumberland-Durham counties health unit, is going to Korea for a year on a United Nations assignment to improve health services. He has been given leave of absence from his work here.

Dr. MacCharles formerly was on the staff of Winnipeg General Hospital and the medical faculty of the University of Manitoba. During the Second World War, he served as senior medical officer for the Royal Canadian Navy overseas and also held appointments at Naval Headquarters in Ottawa and at the naval base at Esquimalt, B.C. He came here in September, 1945, to organize the health unit.

Fingers Crossed Ski Weekend?

Skiers hope to hit the trails around Peterborough this weekend as the first snow since early in December lightly covers the surrounding slopes. The weatherman, after predicting rain for the past week, further builds the hopes of skiers, tobogganists and sleigh enthusiasts with "occasional snow," as Saturday's weather forecast.

Everything will be running this week-end if there is enough snow ski officials say. But they add that they are going to sit back and wait until Saturday before taking any action.

Early in December the local skiers had one week-end of good skiing while two others were only fair.

Goes To Huntsville

Mollie Craig of Peterborough Ski Club will be the only member from the local club to attend the Canadian Travelling Ski School in Huntsville next week at Cedar Grove Lodge. The school is provided for amateurs and professionals by the Ontario Department of Travel and Publicity and the Canadian Amateur Ski Association. The purpose of the school is to teach those attending how to instruct novices in the sport. Professional skiers will instruct.

Alex Sinclair, Recreation Director, met with Ski Club members at the residence of James Craig, 300 London St., Thursday night to discuss the skiing program for this winter.

Enlarge Osgoode Hall To Take In 4 Judges

TORONTO, Jan. 6 (CP)—Osgoode Hall, the ancient and overcrowded home of Ontario's law courts, is being rebuilt in part inside to provide room for four new judges expected to be named to the provincial supreme court soon.

Appointments of two judges to the Ontario Court of Appeals and two to the trials division of the supreme court are anticipated.

In the juggling of available space, the bankruptcy court offices will be moved from the second to the first floor.

The appointments will swell the Supreme Court of Ontario to record proportions—17 judges on the trials division and 10 in the court of appeals. Work of the province's top judges has increased in recent years for several reasons, one being settlements in divorce actions.

CCC Brief Asks More Tax Cuts And Other Federal Law Changes

OTTAWA, Jan. 6. —(CP). — Widespread changes in Federal legislation were urged today in a brief presented to the Federal Cabinet by a delegation from the Canadian Chamber of Commerce.

The brief urged tax reductions, improvement in Dominion-Provincial tax relations, adequate defence preparation and steps to increase foreign trade.

These were among the recommendations in the brief, presented by Robert A. Bryce, of Toronto, president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce:

1. Communists should be barred from employment in government, education, transportation, communication and similar vital services.

2. Privileges and protections of Canadian labor legislation should not be extended to any organizations led or dominated by Communists.

3. Strikes should be prohibited until they have been authorized by a majority of all the employees affected in a government-supervised and secret ballot, held after the expiry of a "cooling off" period.

4. Statutory holidays other than Christmas, New Year's and Good Friday should be celebrated on the nearest Monday.

5. A national advisory committee of leading Canadians should be established to assist in the development of a long-range immigration policy.

6. Governments seeking the objectives of multilateral trade, capital flows and convertible currencies should continuously pursue a policy of eliminating trade and financial restrictions.

7. Canada should neglect no opportunity to ensure immediately that her national defences are in proper order.

8. Government and business should extend educational programs to stress the part the public can play in saving their forests from destruction by fire.

9. Business must retain sufficient of its profits as reserves to provide for replacement of equipment and to face other eventualities in a competitive trading world.

10. A Royal Commission should be established to make a thorough analysis of government departments and agencies, with a view to recommending economies and improved efficiency in service.

11. Double taxation of corporate profits should be eliminated and there should be equal taxation of enterprises owned privately, by co-operatives or by governments.

Northern Ontario Gets Power Cut

SUDBURY, Jan. 6 (CP) — A further 10-yer-cent power cut goes into effect in northeastern Ontario January 16, together with restrictions on use of electricity for outdoor advertising signs and for commercial display lighting.

Robert Saunders, Ontario Hydro chairman, said Thursday that a voluntary effort to cut power consumption 15 per cent below the amount used in October has failed to meet the situation. He said Northern Ontario as a whole has not kept within the quotas set six weeks ago.

The new compulsory reduction will apply to mines and industries.

Mr. Saunders said that after three months the rationing should be ended "for good." New generating stations now being built are expected to end the shortage.

When water storage in Northern Ontario became "dangerously low," arrangements were made to buy 11,000 kilowatts of power from Northern Quebec plants, Mr Saunders said. Now, with low water conditions being experienced in Quebec, this supply has been cut to 6,000 kilowatts.

Complaints Reported Ignored By Board

TORONTO, Jan. 6 (CP)—The inquiry into administration of the Ontario Workmen's Compensation Act Thursday was told that complaints made to the board were ignored.

H. J. McGough, general manager of the Ontario Highway Construction Safety Association and the Construction Safety Association, told Mr. Justice W. D. Roach that 34 cases of building contractors "flagrantly" breaking safety regulations were forwarded to the board in the last 18 months. No action was taken, he said.

Mr. McGough said "a contractor in London, Ont., killed two men through neglect in 1948 and the board had him down here for a hearing but nothing ever came of it. Even the coroner's jury said it was sheer neglect."

"That's outside the scope of my authority here," said Mr. Justice Roach.

Making More Cars

OTTAWA, Jan. 1 (CP)—Factory shipments of Canadian-made motor cars for the first 11 months of 1949 were 12 per cent higher than in the corresponding period of 1948. In a report Thursday, the Bureau of Statistics said the shipments in the first 11 months were 264,713 units compared with 236,873 in the corresponding period of 1948.

Army Beginning Winter Training

OAKVILLE, Jan. 6 (CP)—Central command headquarters of the Canadian Army Reserve announced Thursday that the first phase of winter training in Ontario for 1950 will start next week when 100 soldiers from 19 units check in at Petawawa military camp for two weeks of intensive activity.

Training courses will run from Jan. 3-21; Jan. 29-Feb. 11 and Feb. 19- March 4. While in camp, reserve force soldiers will eat, sleep and work outdoors, regardless of weather conditions.

Units sending personnel to the first course include: 21 Anti-Tank Regiment, Wingham; Kent Regiment, Chatham; Oxford Rifles, Woodstock; Perth Regiment, Stratford, 9th Anti-Tank Regiment, Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, Belleville. Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders, Cornwall; 59 Light Anti-Aircraft, RCA (Norfolk Regt.), Simcoe, and Algonquin Regiment, Kirkland Lake.

Search For Professors

MANILA, Jan. 6—(AP)—A search began today for two United States professors overdue for six days on a hike through the Ifugao mountains, 150 miles north of Manila. The region was hard hit by an earthquake Dec. 29. They are Dr. Robert Conklin, exchange professor of English from Springfield College, Springfield, Mass., and Professor Marvin Pittman, a geographer. Both are on the staff of the University of the Phillipines.

Ceylon To Ask Flour Discussion

COLOMBO, Jan. 6 (Reuters) — Ceylon is likely to raise the question of her flour purchase price with Canadian and Australian delegates coming here for the Commonwealth foreign ministers conference next week.

In common with other countries whose currency was devalued Ceylon now must pay more sterling for wheat, for which, under the international wheat agreement, the price is fixed in dollars.

An Australian wheat fund spokesman has stated that Ceylon will be charged the full ruling price for flour bought under the wheat agreement, but that charges for flour purchased outside the agreement would fluctuate in order to place Australian flour on a competitive basis with flour from other countries.

U.S. Student Expelled By Communists

PRAGUE, Jan. 6 (AP) — The Communist government Thursday expelled an American student and seized a Czech-language bulletin of the United States information service in actions coinciding with fresh attacks upon the United States in the controlled press.

The student ordered out is Savel Kliachko, 26, once held in Slovakia five days on suspicion of spying. He left Prague Thursday morning. The confiscated information service bulletin carried the text of a United States note ordering the closing of Communist Hungary's two consulates in the United States, in New York and Cleveland.

Very Little Evidence Foreigners Flocking To Britain For Doctors

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON Jan. 6 —(CP)— Attempts to portray Britain as a refuge for invalids and neurotics from foreign countries are treated with increasing skepticism here.

Administrators of "State Medicine say there is "very little, if any" evidence that foreigners are flocking to Britain just get free pep pills and false teeth under the National Health Service.

"There really isn't anything to indicate that our facilities are being abused," a health ministry official said in an interview. "For one thing, it just isn't worth the trouble."

Remember Nii Kwabena Bonne III, the Gold Coast chieftain who was supposed to have come to Britain for a free pair of spectacles?

Before he went back of Africa, the chief had his lawyer write a letter saying he didn't get any spectacles, free or otherwise. What's more, he didn't want any.

How about the two Canadians from Kingston, Ont., who were said to have crossed the Atlantic for operations they couldn't afford at home? Well, the Health ministry tried to check the report, but it didn't get far.

Nothing To It

One Canadian finally came forward and said he'd had an operation in Ireland, which is outside the health service. Nothing was heard from the other man.

Government critics also have eased up on charges that hundreds of Lascar seamen are taking advantage of the service.

A Glasgow test showed that in the first year of the service, only 224 of 4,289 temporary residents treated there came from foreign countries. The United States headed the list with 54 and Canada was second with 34. Most of the cases were believed to have been legitimate.

Despite its conviction that abuse of facilities by foreigners in negligible, Britain's health ministry is taking no chances.

Under a clause inserted in the act, he has power to deal "by regulation" with abuses. Overseas visitors who become ill in Britain, however, will still get free treatment if they want it.

Bevan's dream is that ultimately all countries will agree to reciprocal health facilities, which would mean that a British national who became sick, say, in Canada would be entitled to the same attention as a Canadian can get in Britain now.

An agreement on these lines between Britain and the Benelux countries now awaits ratification.

Use Drug Carefully

OTTAWA, Jan. 6 (CP) — The federal health department today warned persons using antihistaminic preparations for relief of cold symptoms not to exceed the recommended dosage or to take the drugs over a long period except under a doctor's direction. The department said in a statement that two dangers are associated with the drugs.

Instal Officers Kiwanis Club

To "a very efficient president" Vincent McCabe was presented the immediate past president's pin of the Kiwanis Club by the Lt-Governor of Kiwanis International, Division 6, William Richardson. The presentation was made at the installation of the officers for 1950 in the Empress Hotel Thursday.

Past president Dich Raine was introduced by Mr. Richardson to install the secretary, Ernest Bartlett, the treasurer, Thomas Rodger and the directors, Arthur Bacon, Ben Myers, William Ovens Edward Ryan, Jack Sinclair, George Solmes and Ralph Standish. He outlined the duties and responsibilities for each position.

Mr. Richardson then installed the vice-president, Walter Howell and Gordon Hancock. In installing the new president of the club Mr. Richardson told Al Plaskett that the pin which he will wear has been handed down from president to president since the club was formed. He wished him all the success during his term in office.

Lloyd Parnell thanked Mr. Raine and Mr. Richardson for installing the 1950 officers.

MAN BADLY BURNED IN WATER ST. FIRE

West Losing Top Spot Crerar Warns

Hope of Holding Reds Seen In Getting Help Of Germany, Japan

OTTAWA, Jan. 7 (CP)—Gen. H. D. G. Crerar, one of Canada's foremost military authorities, bluntly warned democratic countries Friday night that they are falling behind in the "desperate race" with Communism for a dominant position in the world.

Frankly pessimistic as he reviewed the over-all global picture of Communism-versus-democracy, he told the annual Conference of Defence Associations that the Western democracies must obtain the maximum integration with Germany and Japan.

The man who commanded the 1st Canadian Army in the Second World War, said the two former enemy powers are "our best, perhaps our only hope, of first holding, then dominating this growing and most serious Communist threat to world peace."

Threat of War

Veterans ranging in rank from lieutenant-colonel to major-general and, like the speaker, now retired, heard Gen. Crerar tell them that the only reasons for the conference and their presence "is nothing other, or less, than the threat of another great war in which this country will again be fully engaged."

"It is fair to question why I continue to regard the international situation with pessimism in view of the recent progress towards unity and military preparation by the democracies," he said. "I fully agree that the steps taken, or planned, by the countries of the Western European Union, and, latterly, by the much larger grouping of nations which are signatories of the North Atlantic Pact have improved the situation in Europe.

Germany Key

Gen. Crerar said he believed it to be a fundamental truth that "who holds Germany holds Europe and that the shape and fate of Western Germany will determine the shape and fate of Western Europe.

WEST LOSING

Sydney Mayor To Go On Trial

SYDNEY, N. S., Jan. 7 (CP)—Former Mayor Dan Jack MacLean was committed for trial on a charge of murder at the conclusion of his preliminary hearing today. He will appear at the criminal term of the Supreme Court in Sydney late in February.

The 62-year-old MacLean was charged with the murder of Joseph MacKinnon, 65, crippled registrar of voters whose crushed body was found in a south-end alley Dec. 18.

In court today Magistrate Verne Read said he could not accede to defence counsel's request that the charge be reduced to one of manslaughter.

Potato Farming Pays —On Scientific Basis

KEMPTVILLE, Jan. 7 (CP)—Potato farming can provide worthwhile returns to farmers if it is conducted on a scientific basis, R. E. Goodin of the Ontario Department of Agriculture said on Friday.

He told closing sessions of the annual meeting of the Eastern Ontario Crop Improvement Association that most farmers thought of potato growing as a sideline.

It should be considered, he said in terms of food value, financial returns and its effect on the soil It should not be thought of only in terms of monetary gains.

N. R. Thompson of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, said that new varieties of potatoes could be expected to be developed. They would be resistant to insects, blight and viruses Chemicals were being tested to control diseases.

Seek Seven Missing Men By Plane In North Wastes

EDMONTON, Jan. 7—(CP)—An RCAF Dakota aircraft today is scheduled to begin an aerial search of a desolated northern region more than 1,000 miles north of here for seven men not heard from since last Dec. 10. The missing men are members of a salvage crew dismantling the Canol pipeline in the North West Territories south of Whitehorse. A report from R.C.M.P. at Whitehorse Friday said that the men were "long overdue" and that they had 10 days' food left when they last reported to their base at Whitehorse, 1,100 miles north of Edmonton.

The Dakota, piloted by F.O. B. D. Madill of Edmonton, will make a sweep over a 87-mile stretch of the pipeline where the men are believed located.

The men sought are: John Stout, William Bosley, Leonard Roy, all of Whitehorse; Lawn Philpot, Aklavik, NWT; Percy McRoberts, Vancouver and Pibroch, Alta.; Earl Powell, Barrhead, Alta.; and Andrew Frame, Whitehorse and Victoria, B. C.

They were employed by a company which bought as war surplus the Canol pipeline, a wartime project built to carry oil to a refinery at Whitehorse from the oil field of Norman Wells, NWT, 100 miles to the south.

Confident Men Safe

The men, last reported working between Normal Wells and Ross River, were expected to go to the Ross River trading post for supplies Christmas Day but did not show up. The pipeline salvagers are believed to be somewhere along a twisting road through a mountain valley. Snow there is frequently 10 feet deep.

As the search got under way, an official of the salvaging company said in Edmonton he is confident the men are safe. He said the men, four of whom are Arctic traders, carried food and equipment for two months. He added there is no fixed procedure for them to report to their base.

Congress Howls For ERP Cuts

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 (AP)—Britain's diplomatic recognition of Communist China raised a fresh Congressional cry today for drastic cuts in European Recovery funds.

Senator Robert Taft))Rep.-Ohio), who has called before for substantial reductions in Economic Recovery Administration funds, told reporters he thinks the British move "will provide a lot of ammunition for those who want ECA funds cut."

Senator Owen Brewster (Rep. Me.) said Britain"s action "presents a problem of how far we can go in allowing our support to be diverted to the implementation of policies at variance with our own."

"The whole theory of the Marshall Plan is to fight Communism," he said, "and here they are giving it diplomatic recognition."

Brewster suggested that Britain was interested primarily in what he said was her $2,000,000,000 investment in Hong Kong.

Two Farmers Killed By Train At Rail Crossing

BELLEVILLE, Jan. 7—(CP)—Two young Sidney township farmers were killed shortly after midnight when the car in which they were riding crashed into an eastbound Canadian National railways passenger train at the Geddes Street crossing here.

Killed were Albert Wright, 35, and Gerald Reid, 41, both married men with young families. They lived on adjoining farms about six miles northwest of here.

The two men were driving south when they apparently failed to see the approaching train until too late. Their car struck the second coach back from the engine.

The car's front end was completely demolished and the car was dragged about 100 feet by the train. Both men were thrown out of the car. Reid was reportedly found on the north-bound track, while Wright's body was recovered from a shallow water-filled ditch at the edge of the track roadbed.

It was believed that slippery road conditions may have been partly responsible for the accident. It was snowing slightly at the time and the driver of the auto would have had difficulty in bringing his car to a quick stop on the snow-covered downgrade.

Conductor in charge of the train was A. E. Rowley of Montreal, with J. Hall, Belleville as engineer.

There is a light and an alarm bell at the crossing.

Drinking Youths Menacing Order

ST. THOMAS, Jan. 7 (CP)—Restoration of law and order in the Elgin county village of Dutton, and protection of its women from a gang of whiskey-drinking youths and juveniles, was asked Friday in County Magistrate's Court by Reeve John E. Davies.

Reeve Davies' plea came during a court session at which three 'teen-agers of that village pleaded guilty or were convicted of being drunk in a public place. All were fined.

As a result of the plea, Cpl. William N. Peters head of the Elgin detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police, announced the immediate launching of a campaign to clear out bootlegging establishments in West Elgin, several of which were named by the offending 'teen-agers.

In Habit of Drinking

Three 15-year-old juveniles who appeared as Crown witnesses admitted drinking whiskey obtained from a Dutton district bootlegger.

One 16-year-old pleaded guilty to two charges of being drunk within a period of three weeks He frankly admitted having been in the habit of drinking for the past two years.

Hospital Fire Kills 19, All Women

Sweeps Mental Ward 13 Patients Missing, Many Still In Rooms

DAVENPORT, Ia., Jan. 7 (AP)—Fire swept through the mental ward of this city's largest hospital early today and brought a mounting toll of dead. Nineteen bodies were removed by mid-morning from the wreckage of the Mercy Hospital building and firemen said they feared 13 other bodies remained in the ruins.

Except for a nurse's aid, all the dead and missing were women patients.

There were 61 women and three men patients in the three-storey brick building when the fire broke out at 3 a.m. EST. The building, known as St. Elizabeth's Ward, was destroyed.

Two of the rescued women had been in the burning building for about four hours. Suffering severe burns, they were said to be in critical condition. Only one of them was immediately identified —Miss Mary Ruth Finnerty of Ottumwa, Ia.

Survivors Calm

Hospital attendants said all the survivors were calm. Some went to sleep in the lobby of the main hospital building while others sat quietly with expressions of horror on their faces.

In all, firemen said that 25 or 30 persons were removed from the blazing ward early in the fire. From the south section of the structure firemen lowered the forms of six patients down aerial ladders, then it was learned only two of them were alive.

Miss Josephine O'Toole of Davenport, a nurse's aid, said she was awakened by screams of patients while asleep in her room on the third floor.

"I threw open a window, but saw nothing unusual, and decided to go back to bed," Miss O'Toole said.

"Then I heard someone shout 'fire' and I opened my door and looked out into the hall.

"I smelled smoke and heard more screams on floors below me. I didn't know how long the fire had been burning and I was afraid I would be trapped.

Windows Barred

"Windows are barred and, anyway, I didn't relish the prospect of jumping from the third floor.

"So I grabbed my coat, put it over my nightgown, and ran down the stairs to the basement. There I was joined by Mrs. Neighbors, one of the patients, and we went out through the basement."

Policeman Bill Stegen, 37, of Davenport, said:

"I arrived about five minutes after the second alarm. The east side was aflame so I stepped around to the west and assisted the firemen with my flashlight while they attempted to cut through bars on the window.

"First, we tried some of the bars with a wire clipper but this was in vain so we used an ax. One woman was sitting at the window with the flames close by.

"A fireman got her out and then had to struggle with her because she wanted to return and get her clothes.

Women Screaming

"Other women were screaming. I have never seen anything like this. It was pitiful. Women were

$500,000 Dayton Fire Threatens Downtown

DAYTON, O., Jan. 7 (AP). —A general alarm fire in heart of downtown Dayton was brought under control early today "except for a few trouble spots." Damage may exceed $500,000.

Twenty-seven firemen were overcome by smoke. They were taken to three hospitals. Condition of one was reported serious.

The blaze had threatened an entire business block. It started in the basement of a 100-year-old four-storey brick building housing the Virginia Cafeteria.

For more than four hours, the flames were confined to the interior of the building. Then, with a spectacular puff, the flames broke through the roof and spread to the adjoining building to the east.

Seeing Is Believing

SUEZ, Jan. 7—(Reuters)—A sea monster covered with rough hair and elephant tusks has been washed ashore in the Gulf of Suez. The monster was believed to have collided with a Norwegian tanker and died. It is nearly 40 feet long, has tusks eight feet in length while its muzzle or nose is nine feet long and four feet high.

Dutch Families Set Sail For Homeland

HOBOKEN, N.J., Jan. 7—(CP)—Two sets of Dutch parents and their children sailed home to the Netherlands Friday after a try at life in Ontario.

Harrie Lamers, 46, and Theodore Smeenk, 46, had farmed successfully, the former at Tillsonburg, and the latter at Roseneath. But their wives had become homesick.

Mr. and Mrs. Lamers and their 12 children were returning to Lemert after a year and a half of tobacco farming. Mr. Lamers said home sickness on the part of his wife prompted their return to Holland, although his children hope to be able to return to Canada within the next few years.

Mr. and Mrs. Smeenk and their seven children were returning to Gelderland after six months on farms near Roseneath. Mr. Smeenk, who said his unsuccessful venture in Canada had cost him $2,500, asserted that he had found little opportunity for a skilled farmer. He said his wages were never more than $25 a week and as low as $10 on farms, where, he said, he was expected to work from 15 to 18 hours a day.

Both families have farms in the Netherlands to which they will return.

Smeenk echoed Lamers: "What can a man do if his wife is unhappy?"

Mike Pearson Arrives For Ceylon Meeting

COLOMBO, Ceylon, Jan. 7 —(Reuters)—L. B. Pearson, Canada's External Affairs Minister, and members of the Canadian delegation to the Commonwealth conference starting today, arrived here today.

The Minister, who was accompanied by Mrs. Pearson, was greeted by Don S. Senanayake, Prime Minister of Ceylon.

Pearson said: "I am very happy that this conference of external affairs ministers is being held in this beautiful and progressive country."

Ernest Bevin, British Foreign Minister, is due here tomorrow on the cruiser Kenya.

Delegations from India, Pakistan, Australia and New Zealand are also expected here tomorrow.

Denies Inquiry Planned

MONTREAL, Jan. 7—(CP)—Chief Crown Prosecutor John Bumbray Friday night denied that a judicial inquiry had been ordered by Quebec's Attorney General into bribery charges made by an alleged bank robber following his arrest last week.

John T. O'Connell Pulled From Flaming Room By 4 Quick-Thinking Men

Believe Heater Knocked Over On Desk Littered With Papers, Blaze Mushrooms Through Building

A $4,000 flash fire that almost trapped him in his real estate office on Water St. late Friday afternoon, caused severe burns to the hands and face of John T. O'Connell, 71, of Armour Road. He is in a critical condition it was reported this morning. Four quick-thinking rescuers smashed the large plate glass window facing the street and dragged the helpless elderly man to safety as the flames closed in on them from three sides. He was then taken to St. Joseph's Hospital.

Before the quickly-moving blaze could be extinguished it had raced backwards through the two small offices of Mr. O'Connell's real estate agency, the dispatching office of Riverside Cab, and a store-room used by George Hutchinson, Plumbing and Heating.

The blaze is believed to have started from an electric heater being knocked over on Mr. O'Donnell's paper-littered desk. Firemen afterwards found the space heater lying on the desk, badly charred.

But the reason for the flash-nature of the fire has not yet been explained. In a few seconds the room was an inferno.

Narrow Escape

Only other person on the ground floor was a temporary dispatcher working for Riverside Cab, Arnold Bonner, age 30, of Stewart St. Mr. Bonner was answering a telephone on the other side of a thin partition only a few feet away from the south-east corner of the room where Mr. O'Connell had his desk and the fire presumably started.

"I heard a thud, like a man falling," Mr. Bonner told the Examiner, "then there was a sort of explosion and flames started coming up from the corner where the partition joins the common wall of the two rooms."

As he related the story of the fast growth of the fire he rubbed his hands over one pantleg which was singed. The flames leaped up so fast from the corner he had barely time to lay down the telephone so as to escape them.

"As soon as I realized what was the matter I ran west down the hallway and knocked on Mr. O'Connell's door. I knew he was in there and I wanted to get him out. There was no answer and the door was locked. I kicked it a couple of times but it still would not budge."

School's Still Out

NORWICK, Jan. 7—(CP)—Teachers of Norwich public schools are still waiting for 55 "lucky" pupils to return from their Christmas holidays. They're not holidays. They're not truants—they simply have the measles. An epidemic of the spotted malady broke out over the Yule season and is still spreading.

Fire Two In OPP, Two Resign After Inquiry

TORONTO, Jan. 7.—For violations of the disciplinary code of the Ontario Provincial Police, one inspector and one constable have been dismissed and two other constables have been permitted to resign, it was learned at Queens Park Friday.

Those dismissed were inspector A. J. Craik, in charge of No. 6 district with headquarters at Mount Forest and Constable D. G. Bernardo, also of Mount Forest. Permitted to resign were Constables I. E. Ptomely, Stratford detachment, and Constable F. C. Beer of St. Mary's.

Action followed an intensive investigation by Commissioner W. H. Stringer into charges against the four men. He held hearings at Mount Forest, Walkerton and Kitchener, extending over some six weeks. While the hearings were underway the men remained suspended.

In view of the fact the charges pertained only to discipline and thus were considered a matter of internal administration, no details were released.

It was learned, however, that Craik and Bernardo were found guilty of discreditable conduct, while Ptomely and Beer had taken absence without leave.

Craik and Ptomely had long years of service to their credit. Bernardo and Beer were newcomers to the force.

Inspector D. Hamilton is now in charge of No. 6. He was a sergeant at Barrie, prior to being promoted to his present post.

Watchman Says Abduction Hoax

DETROIT, Jan. 7 (AP) — Inspector Joseph Krug said a night watchman who found a dynamite charge at the headquarters of the United Automobile Workers (CIO) union admitted Friday night that his story of an abduction was a hoax.

The watchman, William Thomas, 58, broke down after nearly 13 hours of constant grilling by police and the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Thomas said he had been "working extra hard" at the headquarters and was in a "bad mental state" following exposure of the dynamite attempt last Dec. 20.

Thomas insisted that he knew nothing of the attempted assassinations of UAW president Walter P. Reuther and his brother, Victor also a UAW official.

Unemployment At 261,000 Labor Department Says

OTTAWA, Jan. 7—(CP)— The Labor department today estimated that 261,000 persons were looking for work in Canada late in December.

That amounted to about 5.2 per cent of the total labor force — the number of persons in Canada working or looking for work.

"A considerable portion of the current unemployment results from the continuing growth of the Canadian labor force rather than from any decline in employment," the department said in a review of employment and unemployment.

It said the labor force—totalling 5,200,000 last Dec. 22—was the highest in history for this time of year.

"Over the past year, the growth of the total labor force has amounted to around 120,000, while the number actually at work has increased by close to 100,000."

The statement was issued by the department five days after Canada's two big labor congresses sent a joint letter to the cabinet claiming more than 300,000 persons were unemployed in Canada. The letter said unemployment was a "national emergency" and demanded government action.

No firm figures on unemployment are available.

The figure of 261,000 represented the number of persons seeking jobs through the National Employment service for whom no jobs had been found.

That is not necessarily the same as the number of unemployed. Some of the persons seeking jobs through N.E.S. probably have jobs but would like to change. Others may have found jobs but have not yet reported them to N.E.S.

On the other hand, some people might be out of work but might not have reigstered with N.E.S.

Formosa Flights Halted—Chennault

HONG KONG, Jan. 7 (Reuters) —Claire L. Chennault's civil air transport organization today announced immediate suspension of air services between Hong Kong and Formosa as a result of British recognition of the Chinese Communists.

Two CAT planes which landed at Hong Kong airport Friday were immediately sent away.

Civil Air Transport, of which Chennault, wartime commander of the United States air forces in China, is president, has been taking steps towards reorganization as an American company.

Invasion Fleet Smashed In Half Nationals Claim

HONG KONG, Jan. 7 (AP)—China's Nationalists today claimed they had smashed a second Red attempt to invade Hainan Island, sinking about half of a fleet of 1,00 junks.

Pro-Nationalist reports said government planes caught the junks inching down Luichow peninsula toward the big island off China's south coast. The peninsula is separated from Hainan by a straight 10 miles wide.

The accounts claimed that the planes dived upon the fleet and sank approximately 500 junks. The others fled back to the coast of the peninsula.

(Both sides in China's civil war have a habit of exaggerating the amount of damage they do to each other.)

The Nationalists reported last month that shore batteries on Hainan had broken up a Communist attempt to land from the peninsula. This was regarded as a feeler operation.

Strike At Pakhoi

Other Nationalist planes struck at Pakhoi. This is an assembly point for Communist invasion craft 100 miles north of Hainan.

The Nationalist reports said damage was extensive at Pakhoi and that Communist plans for the invasion of Hainan were greatly slowed.

Campbellford Case Adjourned Again

COBOURG, Jan. 7 —(ENS)—Further adjournment was made in the charges against Wilmer Grieves, Edward Hicks and Garnet Sleeper of Campbellford when they appeared Friday. Due to the length of another case which was being tried, it was found impossible to proceed in the Campbellford matter and they were remanded until next Friday. All three are charged with housebreaking and Hicks and Grieves are charged with robbery with violence.

Committed For Trial

COBOURG, Jan. 7 —(ENS)—Noah Gilbert, Baltimore, was committed for trial Friday on a charge of rape. The complainant, a 16-year-old girl, told the court that the accused attacked her while he was driving her home on the night of December 25. The case was heard before Magistrate W. N. McKeown of Toronto, who is officiating during the month leave of absence of Magistrate R. B. Baxter of Port Hope.

Wild Fur Pelt Prices Drop 20%, Mink Up 40%

By JACK McLAREN

FORT FRANCES, Jan. 7. (CP)—This is trappers' weather, right enough, but trappers in this part of northwestern Ontario aren't doing too well financially.

Game officials and fur buyers said today the value of wild pelts in general has slipped 20 per cent below last year's prices, although the crafty mink when properly handled is worth up to 40 per cent more.

That makes the going harder for 150 or more men in Rainy River district who rely upon furbearers for their livelihood. Game authorities said all of the 118 registered traplines in the area have been let out and that there still is a list of some 30 trappers waiting permission to go into the woods.

Most of the 20 fur buyers between the towns of Rainy River and Atikokan have been busy since Nov. 1 when the trapping season opened. It will not close until April 30.

Mink Passing Prime

But already the mink, so highly valued that $15,000 has been paid for milady's coat, is passing its prime. The darkly-lustrous pelt is gradually becoming "singed" or "springy" in the buyers' estimation. Best price for a pelt this year was $36, some $10 lower than the prevailing rate three years ago though higher than in 1948-49.

Now it is worth about $30 if suitably large, and the fur will decline in worth from now on.

Trap Beaver

Commanding most attention from the trapper these days is the beaver. Once headed for extinction, the beaver is rapidly increasing in this district.

Open season began Dec. 20 and it will close Feb. 28. By then each trapper may claim the $25 top price for one animal from each beaver house on his line—that is, is there are more than five beaver homes on his line. Some in this district have 50.

Regulations of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests restrict the number of beaver a licensed trapper may kill.

This conservation policy was instituted three years ago. For years previously, there was no open season on beaver.

The catch-as-catch-can method of taking fur has given way to organized trapping whereby poachers are immediately reported to the law and each licensee respects the ground limits of his neighbor.

MORE ABOUT—

John T. O'Connell

"If it handn't been for the barbed wire strung along the top of the partition I would have jumped over," Mr. Bonner continued.

Shouts Alarm

Then he left the building and shouted the alarm next door at the Filter Queen Store. By that time another man, unidentified, had arrived and they both ran back and pounded on the door, but the heat and flames drove them outside.

Two drivers passing on opposite sides of the street noticed black smoke coming from the open doorway and they pulled to a halt to lend assistance.

They were Edward (Ted) Cooney, of Water St., driver for the Brewers' Retail Stores, and Frank Wood, 30, of Maniece Ave.

Together with Frank H. Patterson, proprietor of the Filter Queen Store, Cooney, Bonner and Wood smashed the large plate glass window in the front of the office and climbed through. They found Mr. O'Connell sprawled on the floor, the skin peeling off his hands and face from the severity of the burns.

Dragged Outside

The four men dragged the still conscious but apparently stunned man back through the window to the street. He was then carried to the Household Supply Co. several doors south on Water St. where the ambulance was called.

Mr. Cooney dabbed some ointment on his burns from a first aid kit he was carrying in his truck.

Attempts Rescue

George Hutchinson also tried to rescue Mr. McConnell by crawling through the east end of the 40 foot long hallway on his hands and knees. When he got there he noticed it was empty and the smoke and heat forced him to retreat the way he came. The passageway ahead was a wall of flame.

The fire is believed to have started in that room and Mr. O'Connell apparently managed to walk or crawl from it into the one next the window. Both rooms are small and the westerly one bordering Water St. is separated from the other by a curtain only.

It was on the floor of the westerly room that he was found by his four rescuers.

Singe Apartments

The flames burst out through the front of the store and licked upwards into two upstairs apartments. The parlor of Clarence Baker was soaked with water, the walls scorched, a chesterfield and two large armchairs ruined along with other furniture and decorations.

Damage to the Baker property would be about $300, including extensive water damage.

Mrs. M. Annie Baker, Clarence Baker's mother, escaped by a back entrance as the flames began to come through the windows facing Water St. and the apartment filled with smoke.

In the apartment to the north (just across the hallway) Mrs. William Bugg, her son Gary, 7, and her mother, Mrs. F. McFarlane also reached safety. All left because of the smoke filtering up through the floorboards and crevices in the walls.

"It all happened so fast," exclaimed Mrs. Baker as her sons, boarders and friends helped mop up the mess in the front of her apartment.

Hear Explosion

"I thought I heard an explosion or something down below, and then I saw smoke coming from the union where my stovepipes go into the chimney. I first I though that was it. But in less than five minutes the flames from Mr. O'Connell's office below were coming right up to the window."

The Filter Queen Store, directly to the north of the burning building, and Mr. Hutchinson's premises to the south both sustained some damage from hose water. It is not expected to be heavy in either case, although buckets had to be utilized to catch the drips from the water-soaked ceilings.

The hydrant from which firemen had to obtain their water supply was within range of the tongues of flame that shot from the broken windows. Captain George Gimblett had the shoulder of his coat burned away by the blaze. This at first added to the difficulty of the firemen in combatting the outbreak.

Only in one place did the fire break through into the upper storey; that was about half way down the hallway and it shot up into the apartment above. It was instantly snuffed out.

Hundreds of spectators gathered to see the blaze. Many working people on their way home for the night stopped to watch it. Rush hour traffic was held up because of the congestion of cars and curious spectators.

Deny Friction With Americans In World War II

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., Jan. 7 (CP)—Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, chairman of the Defence Board of Canada and the United States, Friday asked Newfoundland newspapermen what they thought of relations between their countrymen and American forces stationed at U.S. bases on this island and in Labrador.

With not one dissenting voice, the Newfoundlanders emphatically declared that relations always have been most cordial since the U.S. leased for 99 years bases here during the Second World War.

The general's quizzing of the newspaper men began after they had taken sharp exception to an article appearing in a national mgazine two months ago suggesting there was friction between Newfoundlanders and Americans.

The iron mine has been idle since Christmas, when the Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation notified miners the mine would remain closed until a new working agreement is signed.

Spends Night With Friend, Parents Frantic

WINDSOR, Jan. 7 (CP)—Little Noreen Kane, 7, thought it quite all right to spend the night with her chum, Carole Anne, and it might have been too had the child not stayed away another night four years ago, driving her parents almost frantic.

When she did not return home Thursday night, Mr. and Mrs Charles Kane started a search for her along the sparsely wooded area of Prince Road Park in the city's west side. It wasn't until late they called in police to assist. Kane told police of the other kidnap scare he'd had.

Apparently the child, then only 3, was taken from her home by a strange woman. Next day she returned—after the city had been searched.

After police and neighbors were joined Friday by some 30 employees of Canadian Industries Ltd., where the father works, a systematic search of the scrubby parkland began. A heavy snow fell during the night, making searching difficult.

In the midst of it all, about 9.30 a.m., Noreen walked into her father's arms. All he could sob was: "Honey, where in the world have you been?"

Noreen said she was heading to church, although she was walking along the street where her home was. Hosts for the night were Mr. and Mrs. Michael Huber who live four blocks away.

Mrs. Huber said Noreen told her, "Mother knows where I am," and as she had no telephone, could not verify the statement. She said she did not realized the child was lost until it was announced that "Noreen Kane is found."

Hospital Fire

dashing at the iron bars, crying for help and I saw several faint away and disappear in the smoke and flame.

"The feeling of helplessness was terrible.

The burned building was 60 years old and intended primarily to house women patients. Firemen could not say immediately what caused the fire, which nurses said was discovered on the first floor. It spread rapidly and trapped many patients in their rooms.

The flames did not spread to four other hospital buildings in the Mississippi river city of 70,000 population.

Hospital officials estimated the loss at $200,000.

Mrs. Gladys Oestendrof, a nurse's aide, said she started to take one woman from the blazing building, but the woman balked, saying she wanted to go back and get her shoes. She said she finally managed to get the patient to forget about the shoes and flee the flames

Another nurse's aide, Mrs Willard Bennett, said she saw two men leap from a second-floor window as she led women to safety.

Three women were rescued by firemen who carried them down an aerial ladder extended to the roof.

Cots were set up in hallways of the hospital to care for patients driven from the psychiatric division. The entire staff of nurses, aides, orderlies and sisters was called for emergency duty. All available doctors and nurses in the city were called to the scene.

The main hospital, which escaped the flames, is listed as having 276 beds.

Harry Taylor Retires 31 Years With CGE

Harry Taylor of the CGE tool department retired at the end of the year after 31 years continuously employed with the company. He learned his trade in Glasgow where he was born, came to Canada in 1910 and worked for a while with the CGE, returning to the tool room in Nov. 1918 for the long stretch including eight years as foreman of the fractional motor department.

Mr. Taylor was appointed leader of the section of the tool room responsible for jigs and fixtures. CGE News says "He won the admiration and respect of all who worked with him. Harry belonged to a diminishing group of craftsmen who, before the advent of tool drawings, designed the necessary tools and fixtures simply by seeing the product or part which the tool was to produce."

Apparently the editor of the News has never heard of Harry Taylor's vocal ability. That is one of the penalties of being a Sassenach instead of a Scot. If the editor was one of The Jolly Beggars he would have heard as an annual feature of their Burns Night dinner Mr. Taylor, always in good voice and spirit, sing his specialty, "The Star of Rabbie Burns."

Missed Heavy Snow

The country side appeared this morning with ample covering for its fields of fall wheat and other seedings. Creeks were frozen and three parts full, swamps and wells are restocked, and everything this morning seemed finally set for winter. Jim Harrison, recorder of the weather, estimated that Peterborough in December would have had 36 inches of snow had it fallen istead of rain. About one inch of that snow is borrowed from the fore part of this week.

Hunters Shoot Fewer Foxes

Lack of snow appears to be hampering hunters from tracking down the same number of foxes as last year. This week 15 fox bounty claims were registered with the county clerk and treasurer.

Top marksman was Hollis Taylor of Curve Lake who brought in 12 pelts, all of them had been shot in Ennismore.

Others who shot single foxes were James R. Hall of Peterborough, one in Smith; James Wilson, Peterborough, one near Zion, Otonabee; James Davis of Dummer, one in Dummer, and Wesley Bell of Smith, one in Smith.

A total of 86 fox pelts have been brought in since the $3 bounty became effective December 1. No wolf bounties were claimed this week.

TORONTO PRODUCE

TORONTO, Jan. 7 (CP)—Produce prices quoted on the spot market here this morning were:

Churning cream No. 1, 62 cents fob. 66 delilvered.

Butter prints unquoted.

TORONTO FRUIT

TORONTO, Jan. 7 (CP) — Wholesale fruit and vegetable prices were unchanged here today.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Jan. 7 (CP)—Improved commercial demand came into oats in late trade Friday and prices on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange firmed generally in a moderately active session. Shipper demand for feed requirements constituted the main business in oats, and to a minor extent in barley. Rye responded to local demand after early easiness and regained some losses. Flax was listless throughout. In the export business, 260,000 bushels of wheat went to the United Kingdom, and there were reports of a small export business in oats and barley with an unnamed European nation. Prices of Class 2 wheat remained unchanged at $2.15.

On Trial For Perjury

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 (AP)—John Maragon, who used to associate with people in the White House, will go on trial on perjury charges Feb. 20. The date was set Friday after he pleaded innocent to four charges of lying to a Senate committee about his financial and business afafirs.

Red Heads Committee

TORONTO, Jan. 7 (CP)—Alderman Norman Freed Friday became the first Communist to head a committee of Toronto city council, when he was elected chairman of the council's standing committee on parks.

OVERLOOKED HOLIDAY

Mayor Swanston was noticed this morning peering into the office of City Clerk Outram as if he desired to get inside. With him was H. L. Garner, chairman of the Industrial Commission. Whatever it was about, they didn't get in.

Defence Plans Given Okay By Pact Gov'ts

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 (AP)—The 12 North Atlantic Pact governments gave quick and final approval Friday to their joint defence plan forwarding off a possible Russian attack on Western Europe.

This move cleared the way for President Truman to make available the full $1,000,000,000 Congress appropriated last summer to rearm U.S. allies.

Congress specified that $900,000,000 of this was to be frozen until the Atlantic Pact governments satisfied President Truman they have integrated their defences.

Top diplomats of the member countries adopted the detailed program at a meeting of the North Atlantic council in the state department.

French Army First.

Informed officials reported that broadly speaking the western defence strategy was as follows:

If Russia should attack, the brunt of the defence burden in the initial stages of the war would fall on the French Army, the largest among the Western Allies on the European continent.

American and British occupation troops now on duty in Western Germany along with Dutch and Belgian forces would also be fitted into the common western army.

"If you accept these statements, as I do, then there can be nothing more vital to peace than the German people, with their numbers, determination and economic power, should, in good faith, join the ranks of democracies in this world struggle against dictatorship."

Democracies best, perhaps only hope of holding and eventually dominating the growing Communist threat to world peace was "to lose no time whatsoever in securing the maximum integration of Germany and Japan with the Western democracies."

Not To Extend Docks

MONTREAL, Jan. 7—(CP)—Reports that the National Harbors Board is planning construction of new passenger ship facilities in the Port of Montreal were denied by the Board Friday. In a statement the Board said that "neither the volume of traffic nor the requirements of shipping companies warrant early action on such a project."

Ask Me No Questions

BERLIN, Jan. 7—(Reuters)—Huge posters advertising a variety show called "Why Do You Cry, Bambino?" in the Russian-zone city of Leipzig had to be removed by police because Leipzigers went around pencilling in the answer: "Because I live in the Soviet zone."

Grove Session Of Headmasters Elect Officers

C. L. O. Glass, Headmaster of Ashbury College, Ottawa, was today elected President of the Canadian Headmasters' Association holding its two-day conference at The Grove School, Lakefield. He takes over office from G. Winder Smith, Headmaster of The Grove School, host to the conference this year.

New vice-president of the Association is C. W. Lonsdale, Headmaster of Shawnigan Lake School, B.C. The secretary-treasurer is K. C. B. Ketchum, St. Andrew's College, Aurora. D. S. Penton, Headmaster of Lower Canada College, Montreal, was named recording secretary. The executive committee for 1950 is: D. S. Penton, R. E. K. Rourke, Pickering College, Newmarket, J. A. Hebb, King's College School, Windsor, N.S., and Rev. J. A. M. Bell, Headmaster of Appleby College, Oakville.

The Canadian Headmasters' Association includes headmasters of the nineteen independent boarding schools across Canada which are operated without private profit.

Normal Head Speaks.

Friday, the first day of the conference, L. W. Copp, Principal of the Peterborough Normal School, spoke to the members about the proposed curricular and administrative changes in the Ontario public school system. The evening speaker was Robertson Davies, author and editor, who gave a comparative sketch of the roles of public and private schools in Canada, based on his own experience of them.

Special guest of the Association was Greville Haslam, president of the American Headmasters' Association. The Venerable Dr. H. C. Griffith, retired headmaster of Ridley College, St. Catharines, is the senior honorary member attending this conference of headmasters from all parts of Canada. Principal C. S. Browne, of PCVS, was a guest at the Friday evening dinner.

The conference is concluding this evening, when Dr. M. H. M. McKinnin, Professor of English at the University of Western Ontario, will be the dinner speaker.

Advertising Head, 53, Dies In Montreal

MONTREAL, Jan. 7 — (CP).—Philip Daniel Magcarow, 53, a vice-president and director of McKim Advertising Limited, died here today.

Born in Kingston he graduated from the Royal Canadian Naval College at Halifax prior to the First World War, during which he saw service with the Navy.

Following the war he attended Queen's and Columbia University and later engaged in newspaper and advertising work in New York City, first with the New York World and later with the National City Bank of New York.

His wife, the former Ethelwyn McGowan, predeceased him in 1939.

Dominion-Provincial Parley Next Week To Be Historic One In Ottawa

By D'Arcy O'DONNELL

OTTAWA, Jan. 7 —(CP)— The Dominion - Provincial Constitutional Conference opening here next Tuesday will be historic in more ways than one.

It will mark the first time in history that 10 provincial governments have sat around the table with the Federal Government at a major conference on dominion-provincial affairs.

The conference will be the 12th plenary dominion - provincial gathering since confederation and the second to be called in 15 years to discuss a formula for amending the constitution.

All provinces will be represented by their premiers and delegations varying in size.

The conference will open Tuesday morning in the Commons Chamber. The delegates will decide whether other meetings will be in public or in private. No one yet knows how long the conference will last, but guesses range from a few days to a week or more.

No Agenda Drafted

No agenda has been drafted for the conference, called to discuss the possibility of having transferred from the United Kingdom Parliament to the Canadian Parliament the power to amend the constitution on matters under provincial jurisdiction.

At the recent session of parliament, Canada obtained from the United Kingdom Parliament the power to amend the constitution on most matters within federal jurisdiction.

No one will predict the likely outcome of the conference, but the record of such meetings in the past show that they have seldom been completely harmonious or successful.

The first major dominion-provincial conference dates back to 1906.

From 1906 down to 1935 Plenary Conferences of comparatively-minor importance were called to deal with issues of the day. In 1935, the Dominion suggested a conference to discuss ways and means of giving Canada the power to amend her own constitution.

Flounders In Two Days

Following the report of the Rowell-Sirois Commission on Dominion-Provincial relations, a conference was called in 1941 to discuss a reallocation of the responsibilities and taxation fields of the various governments. It floundered after two days largely as a result of opposition from Ontario, Alberta and British Columbia.

In 1945, the Federal Government called a conference to discuss renewal of wartime agreements on the division of tax fields and the division of costs of a social security and public investment program.

The conference ran on intermittently until May, 1946, when it broke up in failure after the provinces and the Dominion could not agree on a division of the tax fields, of the rentals to be paid the provinces in lieu of taxes.

Subsequently individual agreements were signed with all provinces except Ontario and Quebec, two of the strong opponents of exclusive federal use to the personal income, corporation and inheritance tax fields.

Canal Engineer Moved To Sault Ste. Marie

CORNWALL, Jan. 7 (CP) — Promotion of Lt.-Col. G. N. Phillips, divisional engineer of the Cornwall canal, to the post of supervising engineer of the Sault Ste. Marie canal, was announced here Friday.

He will be succeeded here by Omer Leger, prominent Cornwall engineer.

Native of Cornwall, Col. Phillips assumed the post of divisional engineer here in 1929. He was active in the civic affairs and served one term as mayor of the city.

For Quick Cough Relief, Try This Home Mixture

You'll be surprised how quickly and easily you can soothe a bad winter cough, when you try this well known recipe. It gives you four times as much cough medicine for your money and you'll find it very pleasant and dependable, for real relief.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking needed—no trouble at all. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup. Then put 2½ ounces of Pinex (obtained from any druggist) into a 16 oz. bottle. Fill up with your syrup and you have 16 ounces of medicine that will surprise you by its quick action. It never spoils, lasts a family a long time, and tastes fine—children love it.

This home mixture takes right hold of a severe cough. For real results, you'll say it's splendid. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and quickly eases soreness and difficult breathing.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for its soothing effect on throat irritations. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

Pinex Saves Money. Comforting Relief. Easy To Mix.

What Is Wrong With Canadian Universities?

During the past week two sharp criticisms of Canadian universities have come to our notice. The Hon. Humphrey Mitchell, Minister of Labour, has said that "more fools come out of the university than ever came out of technical school". And the Financial Post, in an editorial, says that our universities "regurgitate a great rabble which includes a lot of people whose claim to intellectual capacity is, to say the least, small", and classes as a superstition the belief that university-trained men and women can think straighter than other people.

• • •

It is true, certainly, that universities do, and have always, graduated a certain number of people of no special capability, and this can also be said of technical schools. But we have only to look at the upper reaches of any of the professions and the Civil Service of Canada to see that they also graduate considerable numbers of men and women of great ability. To describe university graduates as a rabble is merely part of the inverted snobbery which is popular at present. The Financial Post would not dare to describe any trade union, or trade association, or Chamber of Commerce as a rabble. But it seeks to curry favour with those people who insist that education must be "practical" (that is to say, money-earning) by insulting university graduates. The Minister of Labour adds nothing to his stature by his silly and unprovable remark, which is foolish as if the Examiner were to say that more baby-kissers than wise men get elected to Parliament.

• • •

There is nothing radically wrong with our Canadian universities. They suffer from over-crowding, because it is the fashion nowadays for all parents who can scrape up the necessary money to send their sons and daughters to college; this fashion will pass, in time. And because they are expected to cope with crowds of students, they inevitably graduate some who bring no honour upon themselves or the degrees which they hold. They suffer, too, from the Canadian attitude toward education, which pretends to be one of reverence, but which often reveals itself (as in the two examples we have given) as crotchety, unsympathetic, intolerant and sneakingly contemptuous.

• • •

The one radical fault of our Canadian universities is that they lack money. They need large gifts and great endowments. So long as they have to keep up their present undignified begging from governments and wealthy people they will work at a disadvantage. The great universities of Europe and the U.S.A. are wealthy, and they can afford to disregard foolish criticism. At present our universities are teaching institutions solely; they cannot afford to keep learned men on their staffs for research and scholarship alone. Princeton supports Professor Einstein in order that he may have leisure to think, and his thinking enriches the world immeasureably. Oxford supports one college, All Souls, which is composed entirely of learned men, untroubled by undergraduates, who have for centuries produced works of learning of one sort and another. Our Canadian universities need money; when they have that, all other virtues will be added unto them.

• • •

As for the technical schooling of which the Minister of Labour thinks so well, we have nothing against it, but it is not a substitute for university training. The purpose of a university is to give young people a broad outlook and a sense of values; it is a school of the humanities. Take the humanities out of education and Marxism will not be long in filling their place for Marxism, materialism and the demand for "practical education" all have the same bitter root.

Reform Of German Universities

The Hitler regime demonstrated that the German universities, despite their high reputation throughout the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries, failed as true universities, that is, in Disraeli's term, as places "of light, of liberty and of learning". They had learning, but it cast a distorted light on political paths, and they were careless of liberty.

It was difficult for them to resist the Nazis when Hitler came to power; though they were free before that time to warn the people what would happen if he gained control of the country. The fact is that they were unable to train a highly educated people to reject the snares and delusions of Nazism. There is the further charge against them: many were firm supporters of nationalism and reacted against the Weimar republic, with whom they were out of sympathy. It should be remembered, too, that the universities were controlled, and still are, by the Ministries of Education. The teachers are civil servants.

The British authorities in the Occupation Zone felt that the universities were a problem requiring special attention, and a commission was set up in 1948, a German commission. There were only two foreigners sitting on it: Lord Lindsay, former Master of Balliol, and Professor von Salis of the Federal Technical University of Zurich. The Commission produced a unanimous report, which has now been published in English by H. M. Stationery Office (University Reform in Germany). The Report is leading to wide discussion in Western Germany, and significant reform of the German university system is expected.

The section on Studium Generale—"general education"—is a liberal approach to education for a democratic society, and a salutary analysis of the over-specialization which afflicts modern schools. In discussing the Technical Universities, such a section as the following shows the quality of the Report:

"Each lecturer in a technical university should possess the following abilities:—

(a) To see the limits of his subject matter. In his teaching to make the students aware of these limits, and to show them that beyond these limits forces come into play which are no longer entirely rational, but arise out of life and human society itself.

(b) To show in every subject the way that leads beyond its own narrow confines to broader horizons of its own. To link the subject with the Western-Christian and general human values.

(c) To point out again and again to the engineer the high responsibility inherent in these standards and falling on him as a future leader of industry.

Robert Birley, Headmaster of Eton, and formerly Educational Adviser to the Control Commission for Germany, finds in the Report not only a basis for the reclamation of the German universities, but guides to the salvation of our Western civilization.

A New History of Peterborough

Today, on page five (our Saturday feature page) we publish the first article of a series of fifty which The Examiner has commissioned from Mr. Howard Pammett, M.A. These articles will appear on fifty Saturdays during Peterborough's centennial year, and taken altogether they will constitute a new history of this city from the earliest times. Mr. Pammett is better informed on this subject than any other scholar known to us, and we are proud to print his work, which we know will be of interest and lasting value to our readers. We suggest that those who are particularly interested may wish to keep the articles in a scrap-book.

We offer this series of articles as The Examiner's contribution to the observance of the city's centennial. Mr. Pammett will include in his study much that has not previously been available in print, for he has done original research on the history of this community for several years and may be considered a leading authority on it. Peterborough needs a new history. Dr. Poole's book is rare, old and of scanty information on many matters; it is also, as subsequent research has shown, inaccurate in some of its statements. There are several books which relate to the history of Peterborough, including that delightful work, Our Old Home Town by F. H. Dobbin, but none of them is a complete history. Mr. Pammett's work will, we are confident, supply this gap in the city's literature.

The Marchbanks Correspondence

To Mordecai Mouseman, Esq.
Dear Mouseman:

What are you dawdling about? It is months since my trouble with Dandiprat; you know very well that he put that skunk in my car; he as good as admitted it. What are you waiting for? When are you going to unleash the bloodhounds of the law and drag Dandiprat, shrieking, into court?

I was in Toronto recently, and I did an illegal Thing. I parked in a place where no parking was permitted. Now, Mouseman, I go to Toronto quite often, and I usually park my car with the utmost care, reading all the fine print on the back of the parking signs, and trying to untangle the complications of that city's fantastic laws. And what is my reward? As likely as not I get a ticket for having done something wrong. Those Toronto cops are very hard to please, Mouseman.

But when I boldly park in some forbidden spot, nothing ever happens. Explain this, Mouseman. You are a lawyer and should know the secret places of a policeman's heart. Why do they pounce when I try to be legal, and ignore me when I am brazenly illegal?

And another thing: whenever I meet anybody in Toronto they eventually get around to saying, "Well, you are certainly lucky to be living in a little town". What ails these Torontonians, Mouseman? Are they so intoxicated by the Babylonian magnificence of their own city that anything under 100,000 in population is too small for them to see with the naked eye? I do not live in a particularly little town. I live in a place somewhat larger than Kingston, but nobody ever calls Kingston a little town. You are my lawyer; tell me what I should do. Should I wear overalls and have my boots artificially manured when I go to Toronto, so as not to offend the susceptibilities of the city slickers, or should I take issue with them? Most of them come from backwoods dumps, anyhow, and have never been in any place bigger than Toronto in their lives.

Let me have legal advice on these problems at once.

Yours in haste,
S. MARCHBANKS.

To Big Chief Marchbanks
How, Marchbanks:

In jail now. This awful jail; Marchbanks. Prohibitionists even here. I tell. They put me in jail with bums. Good company, Marchbanks. But big fellow open door and shut door all day. He called Chief Turkey. I laugh and make joke about Turkey. "Turnkey!" he shout. Pretty mad, Marchbanks. Then doctor come. He look my tongue and sniff. "You bound?" he say. "I prisoner but not bound", I say. "He awful bound" doctor say to Turkey; "give him plenty prunes". So Turkey bring me big dish prunes. Ha! Me know trick, Marchbanks. I hide few prunes in drinking cup and stand in sun. Five days go by I got swell drink you bet. I drink it. Yell and make wild. Good fun, Marchbanks. Turkey very mad. Put me in little room all by self. Doctor come again. "I sure bound now", I say. He laugh. All doctors crazy, Marchbanks. I get out next week.

How, again,
OSCEOLA THUNDERBELLY,
(Chief of the Crokinoles).

To Raymond Cataplasm, M.D., F.R.C.P.
Dear Dr. Cataplasm:

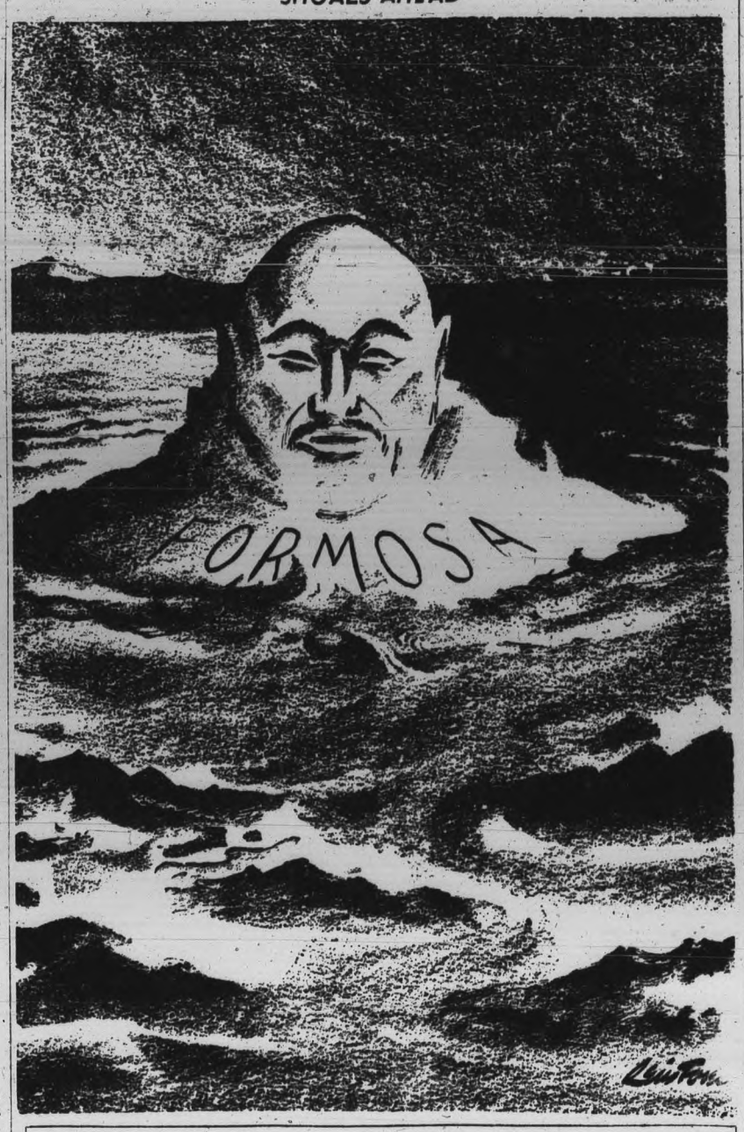
I have met a good many people during the past two weeks who have wagged their heads dolefully and said, "A green Christmas makes a fat graveyard". As a physician and a man of science, do you think that this is true? Watching the way that some of them have been eating and drinking over the festive season I would be more inclined to say "A fat Christmas makes a green graveyard".

How did the illusion grow up that cold winters are healthier than mild ones? Is it part of our Puritan insistence on the superiority of whatever is disagreeable and inconvenient? And can you tell me if the graveyards in Florida and California are especially fat? Personally I dislike the expression "fat graveyard"; it suggests that the earth of the graveyard is of a squelchy, suety, gustful, mince-meaty quality, with headstones stuck in it like blanched almonds in a plum-pudding. An obscene fantasy, and one unbecoming such pure and airy spirits as yours and mine.

Your perennial patient,
S. MARCHBANKS.

To Amyas Pilgarlic, Esq.
Dear Pil:

I was at a Twelfth Night party last night—a wonderful affair. I haven't much use for people who confine their merrymakings to Christmas Day; I insist on the full Twelve Days of Christmas from The Day itself to Epiphany. There was a man at the party who had some snuff, and as we all took tentative, apprehensive pinches he told us that he had acquired the habit while fighting in the East with Ghurka troops. A Scotch officer, he said, had asked for a large tin of snuff to be sent to him from home, and in due course it was dropped from a plane in a package with other supplies. But he never got it. The kitchen troops got it, and not understanding its use and assuming that it was some rare condiment they curried their meat with it. The result was such fires in the tripes as were never known before in the Chindits.



During the course of the evening several Scots reels were performed with more spirit than science on the part of most of the dancers. Have you ever noticed that when reels are attempted in Canada there is usually one couple who understand what is being done, while the others diddle nervously from foot to foot, and shout "Whoosh!" every now and then to give an impression of nonchalance?

As I watched it struck me that the Canadians present might well have done a folk-dance of their own; folk dances can be easily faked. A little nimble bobbing about, a little clapping of the hands, a little playful running at the ladies and then retreating from them in fright, and a final prance round the room in which everybody bashes into everybody else—and there's your folk-dance. I am working on one now, to be called "Marchbanks' Brawl".

Your Januwearily,
SAM.

Neglect of Gastronomy

(OTTAWA CITIZEN)

Few Canadians are probably aware that the first gastronomic fair since the end of the war has been held in Dijon in the Burgundy district. During the fair, rival chefs competed to serve gourmets from many parts of Western Europe. The visitors did not come to feed, but to taste. On the whole, Canadians do not interest themselves in occasions of this character. No people are more earnest in struggling toward a higher cultural level than Canadians, so that it is a pity that gastronomy has been neglected. For can any nation think of itself as refined until the man at the kitchen range is as artful as the chap at the easel or typewriter?

There are some Canadians, more pretentious than others, who make a show of caring about their food. On ordering broiled lobster, they demand to see several live crustaceans, then pick the one they think they want. But if lobsters were switched on them, it is doubtful whether they would detect the transfer. They order a steak done medium-rare, but if instead it is rare or well-done when served, they are satisfied; and sometimes, if it is medium-rare, they complain. Most Canadians do not even attempt these pretences. Especially in Ottawa, with its responsibilities and burdens, they eat heartily whatever is placed before them, so long as it is full of nourishing calories and vitamins, then hurry back to their statistics and reports.

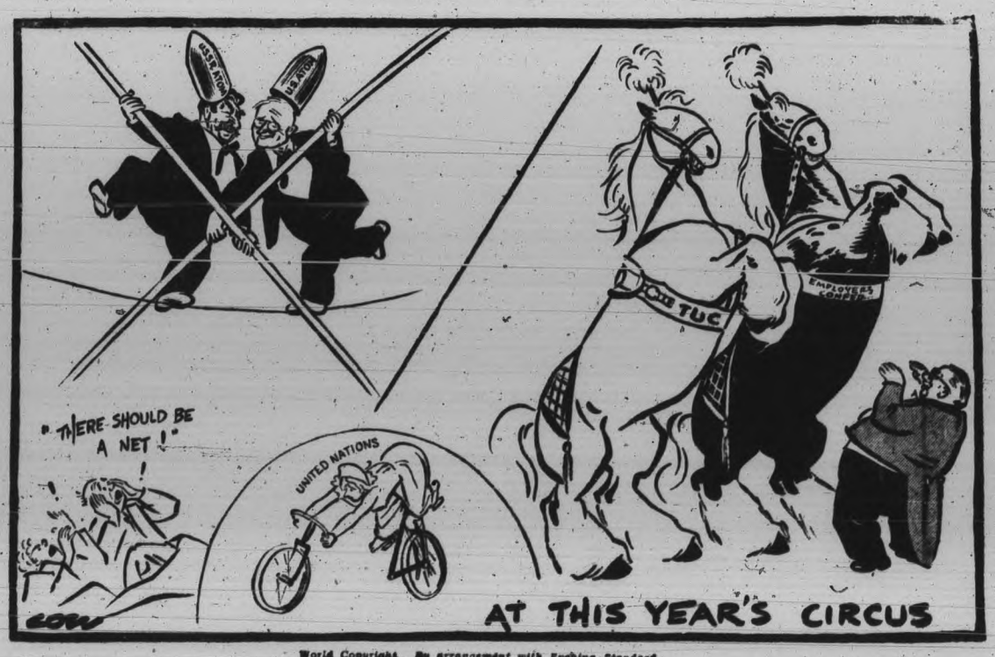
There is no easy solution to the problem of making gourmets out of at least a minority of Canadians. On the other hand a country without its gourmets should not expect to be taken seriously in cultured company. The encouragement and development of gastronomy is a task to which government planners might well turn their thoughts during the next half century. Canada needs people who eat ham and eggs for taste as well as proteins.—Ottawa Citizen.

Letter To The Editor

RECORDS FOR ROAD HORSES

Sir: Will you kindly allow me a little space in your paper to say a few words about a horse race from Port Hope to Peterborough in the year 1900. We notice a Dr. Scott from Peterborough with his great road horse won the race, 30 miles, in five hours. Now I would just like to say that I have been a horse man for fifty years and do not consider this Dr. Scott had what you would call a road horse by any means. A driving horse that would not make that same trip in 3½ hours would not be worthy of calling a road horse to my way of thinking.

I my self have owned dozens of horses of all kinds. My mother and I have come to Peterborough market from what is called Whitehead's Corners which is almost two miles south of Bewdley, which would be twenty-two miles from Peterborough by road measure; we have made this trip within two hours and fifteen minutes many a time and did not urge the horses—let them just take their own road gait. Now I did not consider these horses number one road horses, just ordinary horses.



When I came back from overseas in 1919 I was attached to the hospital for sick horses in Kingston. Some time in May of that year I was in Toronto and bought a road horse from Mr. Frank Bulmer, had it shipped by rail to Kingston, where I used same until August of that year. When I was getting my discharge from the army my wife and son came to Kingston to accompany me home. My home then was near Bewdley so I wanted to bring my road horse with me. We decided to drive the trip so we left Kingston on a Saturday morning; we were just 14½ hours making the trip of one hundred and 18 miles and that is what I would call road horses. These so-called road horses that can only road six miles per hour are only an excuse for road horses.

There is a friend of mine south of Bewdley drove the trip from Rossmount to Buckhorn in five hours with one of the black team that he worked his 100 acre farm with, so you see Dr. Scott did not have a real road horse.

Thanking you very kindly. I am,

Yours truly,
W. R. KINSMAN

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Now the first day of the feast of unleavened bread the disciples came to Jesus, saying unto him, Where wilt thou that we prepare for thee to eat the passover? And he said, Go into the city to such a man, and say unto him, The Master saith, My time is at hand; I will keep the passover at thy house with my disciples. (Matt. 26: 17, 18.)

◇ ◇ ◇

And when the hour was come, he sat down, and the twelve disciples with him. And he said unto them, With desire I have desired to eat this passover with you before I suffer: for I say unto you, I will not any more eat thereof, until it be fulfilled in the kingdom of God. . . .

And he took bread, and gave thanks, and brake it, and gave unto them, saying, This is my body which is given for you: this do in remembrance of me. Likewise also the cup after supper, saying, This cup is the new testament in my blood, which is shed for you. (Luke 22: 14-16, 19, 20.)

Asking at the chemist's for his favourite brand of hair cream, a young man was told it was out of stock, but was offered a substitute.

"Well," replied the chemist, "it's a kind of superior equivalent."

The amateur golfer stepped up to the tee and looked towards the hole some 250 yards away. Then he turned to the caddy and said, "That's good for one long drive and a putt."

He addressed the ball very carefully and with a vicious swing drove it about two feet away from the tee.

The caddy immediately stepped up, handed him the putter and said, "Now for the putt."

Chief In-The-Big-Tepee-Downstairs sent me the following smoke signal last week. It had to do with the comments of a Cherokee Indian who looked at two pictures of the western drought area, one of a dilapidated deserted house, the other a washed-out field. He said:

Both pictures show white man crazy. Make big tepee. Plow hill. Water wash; wind blow soil. Grass gone, land gone, door gone, window gone; whole place gone to hell. Buck gone. Squaw too. Papoose gone. No pig, no corn, no cow, no hay, no pony. Indian no plough land. Keep grass. Buffalo eat. Indian eat buffalo. Hide made tepee, make moccasins. Indian no make terrace, no build dam; no give damn. All time eat. No hunt job, no hitch-hike, no ask relief. No shoot pig. Great Spirit make grass. Indian no waste anything. Indian no work. White man heap loco.

Whether the Cherokee commentator had any use for dams or not, we certainly have around the Trent watershed. When lumbering was at its peak in this district, wooden control dams were built for the transportation of logs from bush to mill. They were a boon to fish and wildlife and today, because most of these structures are in disrepair or gone entirely, conservation suffers. Most modern dams have been constructed for storing water or for Hydro power but last Fall two concrete structures were built in the district to assure future increase of fish. One at Noggies Creek in Harvey township, will control water levels and conserve water in the best muskie and bass sanctuary in the province. The other in the Crowe River, Belmont township, will serve to increase the water area in Belmont Lake. Both will benefit populations of fish, muskrat, ducks, bullfrogs, and so forth.

Dead Wolves Pay Off

Some news for the special consideration to trappers, hunters and boys of the Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association, has to do with a recent survey released by the Department of Lands and Forests on the scale of wolf bounties. Northumberland and Durham counties pay $50 for each wolf killed; Bruce, Ontario, Hastings and Lanark, $35, and Victoria, Leeds and Grenville, $30 each. Peterborough county is pegged at $25. Some townships add an additional bounty over and above that paid by their counties. We hope from the above bounty bill of fare, PFGP Association will choose a renumerative district in which they plan to hold one of their famous military-civilian mass varmint hunts; it will be early in February.

None of them will top 66-year-old farmer Jesse Bell, near Meaford, who claims he caught a fox by the tail on the last day of 1949. Coming out of his barn, he saw reynard sneaking through a nearby fence and "sicced" his police dog on it. As the dog collared the fox and tussled with it, farmer Bell grabbed it by the tail and killed it. So he says.

Warsaw To Arctic To B.C.

A man I would like to meet and listen to is Walter Maguire of New Westminster, B.C., an old Peterborough boy, born in Warsaw, now a resident of the Coast country. His brother Larry at the Outboard Marine Company was telling me something of his early days in the city as corps leader and physical instructor at the YMCA. Ross Dobbin and Bill Richardson will recall his association in their heyday of basketball. Walter served the Y in Sherbrooke, Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg, Brandon, Victoria, Nelson and New Westminster. He developed a boyhood passion for wild birds egg collecting until now he is an outstanding authority with a display of some 35,000 specimens. Many of them, extremely rare, he found on various jaunts to the Canadian Arctic. The British Columbia government sent Walter on observation tours to the Queen Charlotte Islands and other remote places. Although retired from the YMCA now, Larry tells me he is a service club speaker in demand throughout the Pacific North West and that plans are afoot to have him visit his old home town sometime this year. This is a free tip for program directors of Peterborough clubs to work on and a suggestion to keep in touch with brother Larry.

Clubs Which Teach Youth

I am not a club joiner, chiefly due to pressure of newspaper work, but have long been an observer of their functions and their rating of usefulness to the community. A squib of news handed me the other day by Norm Bradley of the Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association has a bright ray of light in it, about teaching boys how to handle firearms. Their Rifle Club met for the first time on Wednesday at the Armouries butts. Thirty members signed up for the winter season and one father brought his ten-year-old son along to try a hand. Several other father members will bring theirs along the next time. Now this is a very definite function for a fish and game association that has not been stressed too greatly in the past. If more youngsters, girls too, were encouraged, what a great step towards sportsmanship it would be. I would like to hear that in a month's time their membership is increased to 60 members, half of them youngsters.

Progress of Peterborough: 1

Ice Age's Vast Lakes, Rivers: The Prehistoric Kawarthas

By HOWARD PAMMETT, M.A.

AUTHOR'S INTRODUCTORY NOTE: The story of the pioneer settlement and development of the Peterborough region is one of the most interesting in the chronicles of Canadian social and economic history, and yet one of the least known generally, even among the people who now inhabit this prosperous progressive region. In collecting and selecting the information in this series of articles from all available sources, I have tried to present an interesting and reliable account of the main events, trends and personalities instrumental in founding and shaping Peterborough and the surrounding district. Any additional material which will supplement our knowledge of those early decades, particularly letters and diaries which may be stored away in attic trunks, would be most appreciated if sent to me c/o the Examiner; they will be treated with care, returned by registered mail, and suitably acknowledged. Finally, I have considerable information on many pioneer families, including the Irish immigrants of 1825, which cannot be expanded in a general series of articles, but which will be sent forward to any interested descendants.

Most of the scenic beauty and diversity of the Kawartha area is due to the fact that it lies along the dividing line between the ancient Laurentian Shield and the St. Lawrence Lowlands, a dividing line which runs roughly east and west from Kingston to Lake Simcoe and Georgian Bay. Thus the northern townships of the district are in the Laurentian granite formation; from time to time gold, iron, lead, mica, copper, plumbago, white and grey marble are found in isolated pockets in various parts of this area. The southern townships of Peterborough and Victoria Counties are in the Trenton limestone formation, of marine origin deposited in seas that once spread over most of the continent except the Laurentian Shield. In general, this limestone area dipped away from the Laurentian Shield, and the resulting drop of about 500 feet between Lake Simcoe and Lake Ontario has formed the chain of lakes and rivers which constitute the Kawartha watershed.

Yet the physicial features of the Kawartha district have changed considerably since the close of the last Ice Age. At that time a large ice-dammed glacial lake covered Lakes Superior, Michigan, Huron, Georgian Bay, and the area around Lake Simcoe. The chain of lakes down to Fenelon Falls was merely a series of bays leading off from this huge lake, now called Lake Algonquin by scientists. At Fenelon Falls there was then a 30-foot waterfall. Farther south, another glacial ice-dammed lake, called by scientists Lake Iroquois, covered the area of Lake Ontario and most of the Trent valley north to Healey Falls. Rice Lake was a long bay extending southwest from this arm of Lake Iroquois.

During that early period Lake Algonquin emptied down through the Algonquin River into Lake Iroquois, flowing from what we now call Sturgeon Lake down through Stony Lake and the Indian River into Rice Lake. At that time the drop from Lake Algonquin to Rice Lake was about 150 feet, but nevertheless the Algonquin River was a swift powerful stream nearly a mile wide, creating deep gorges, caves and potholes which are still to be seen in the Indian River district. A particularly interesting set of caves, which are entered from the farm of Everett Garbutt just east of Warsaw, was described by Jack Armstrong in an Examiner article not long ago. The swift torrent carried great quantities of soil from the northern riverbed and deposited it in a large bell-shaped delta where the river poured into Rice Lake, so that the most fertile sections are still the southern lands close to Rice Lake.

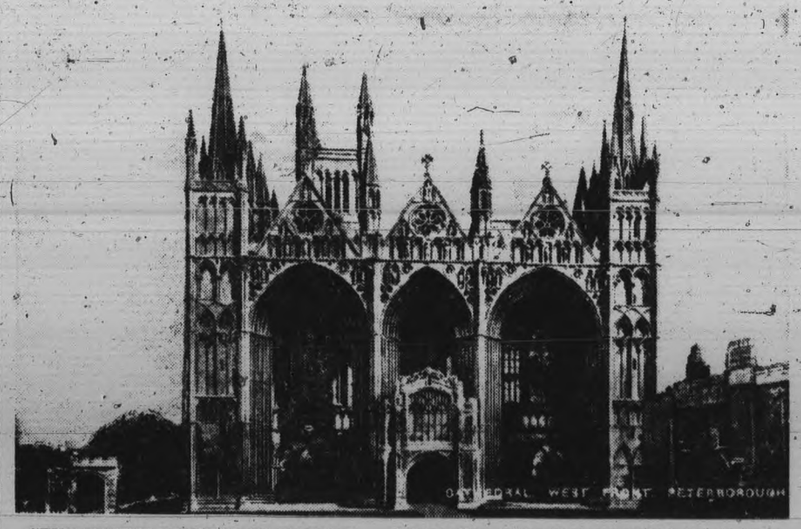
Glacial Age End

Toward the end of this post-glacial era, due to tilting and shifting of the Algonquin Lake basin, the Otonabee outlet from Stony Lake through Katchiwano Lake and down the Otonabee River to Rice Lake began to carry an increasing amount of water, while the Algonquin River shrank steadily through the centuries. At the time the first Indians settled in the Algonquin River valley, the stream was only about 100 feet wide and 3 feet deep, with many bends. Because of its meandering nature, the Indians named it "Au-s a u a uquotausongomongotongo", according to Miss F. Tinker. The Otonabee River was never as wide and powerful as the Algonquin, but for a long period of history it was a much bigger river than today, with many rapids and whirlpools.

At Peterborough, there was for some time a large lake named Lake Peterborough by scientists, which was caused by delta sands blocking the southern section of the river; this helps to explain the great fertility of the Otonabee valley between Peterborough and Rice Lake. Then, many centuries later, another uplift of the Algonquin Lake area diverted its waters down through the Lake Erie-Niagara River outlet, and both the Algonquin and Otonabee Rivers gradually shrank to their present dimensions.

The beds of both these rivers, the Algonquin (Indian) and the Otonabee, are rich in a great variety of fossil insects and animals embedded in the marine limestone rocks all the way from Fenelon Falls to Rice Lake, and down the Trent Valley. Those interested in particulars about the Algonquin system and the fossils of the region should get Bulletins 23 and 31 from the Dept. of Mines and Resources at Ottawa.

Buckhorn-Stony Divide



Buckhorn and Stony Lake divided the Kawartha region into northern non-agricultural and southern agricultural lands. North of the lakes, granite outcrops were very extensive, with poor soil and steep slopes, numerous lakes and swamps and streams. Arable land was present in pockets only, particularly in the northeast around the present village of Apsley. Generally speaking, the soil decreased steadily in fertility from south to north, and hardwood forests gave way to coniferous forests which were dense and sometimes impeneterable. These northern townships were not settled to any extent until after 1855, when their timber wealth brought a short-lived boom period of settlement and prosperity.

Undulating Slopes

South of the Kawartha Lakes, the undulating slopes were long and no hindrance to the agriculture of pre-machine years. The soil in most parts was considered better than that of the Eastern and Midland Districts, and as good as that of Northumberland County south of Rice Lake. The southwest townships had a heavy rich soil, clay and clay-loam, while the southeast townships had a sandy-loam soil producing good crops with moderate rainfall. The central part around the Otonabee and the lower lakes was of gravel loam soil with occasional exposed rock.

The forests were very extensive over this area in early days, chiefly hardwoods—oak, maple, walnut, birch—with tracts of pine and cedar and occasional low swamps. Toward the east, where the Laurentian Shield dipped south, the forests were half hardwood and half coniferous. Once surveyed, settled and partially cleared, this southern section of the County became one of the finest farming areas in Eastern Canada. It is little wonder that after 1800 A.D. pioneer settlers began to push north from the Lakefront of Lake Ontario to obtain land grants so promising for those with initiative and industry?

(Next week: Article 2: "Champlain and the Indians of the Kawarthas")

"THE FINEST PORTICO IN EUROPE. . . the glorious west front . . . . what a wealth of detail! What elegant proportions! How high the spires that surmount the facade, and how they all seem to blend into one perfect whole". Thus wrote W. T. Mellows of Peterborough Cathedral.

Our Sister City In England Has Proud Story Older Than Gothic Walls Of Its Cathedral

By D. J. CADMAN B. Sc., F. R. G. S.

We in Peterborough, England are greatly pleased and gratified that Peterborough, Ontario is helping us with food parcels and other materials.

In what sort of place do we live? What manner of place is your sister City of the home country? It is a City in Eastern England of more than 54,000 souls, situated on the bank of the River Nene 80 miles from London and almost due North of it. To the East stretches miles of dead flat agriculturally rich Fenland, and to the West rolls away the undulating hill land well farmed and in parts well wooded — an area known as the Northamptonshire Uplands

The birth of the City lies well back in our history. It was in Anglo-Saxon times, in 656 A.D to be precise, that the Village of which later grew into our City, was first raised up upon the banks of the river.

The Fens were, in those far off days, a land of desolate marshes and sluggish streams inhabited by wild heathen Fenmen. Chad, first Bishop of the kingdom of Mercia, anxious to convert the wild men to Christianity decided to set up a Monastery on the banks of the Nene just where it left the hills and entered upon its long winding journey across the swampy wastes to the Wash. Here then a Church and a Monastery were built and around them grew up the village of Medeshamstede. Destroyed by the Danes in one of their ferocious invasions of Eastern England it rose again in 966. These later Saxon builders surpassed themselves and the new buildings were of great wealth and splendour. So impressive were they that the village, now called "Burgh", was nicknamed "Gildenburgh" (the Golden Borough) and finally, because one of the Saints to whom the Church was dedicated was the Apostle St. Peter, the settlement became known as Peterborough. . .

Thus, it was to those monks and masons, fenmen and villagers who lived over a thousand years ago in rude Saxon England that we owe the foundation of our City and to whom we, and you across the Atlantic, owe the name of "Peterborough".

From those far off days the history of England has flowed on Invasion, plague, revolution strife and War swept across the islands. Sometimes Peterborough was passed by, but at others she found herself in the midst of events of great moment.

In Norman times the famous Hereward the Wake burned and looted the Church and Monastery before the arrival of the new Abbot who was a nominee of the Conqueror William. It was also in this and subsequent times, after the second Saxon Church had been destroyed by fire, that the present Cathedral was built. It was started in 1140 and finished in 1237 with the completion of the West Front—often said to be the finest portico in Europe.

When you leave the busy streets of modern Peterborough and go inside the Cathedral Precincts and stand gazing at the glorious edifice you never cease to wonder at the skill and patience of those early Englishmen who raised it up to the Glory of God. And when you go inside and view the beautiful stonework which sweeps in unbroken symetry from end to end you thank them for this sanctuary—this silent and glorious refuge from the troubled world outside.

But to return to our story. From the times the Cathedral was built history swept on bringing stirring events. One of Henry VIII's wives (the first of six) Katherine of Aragon lies buried in our City The story of how Henry divorced her and how she died in retirement is a sad one. And it was during the reign of Henry's daughter Elizabeth, that Mary Queen of Scots was executed. She was beheaded by the Queen's orders at Fotheringhay Castle, 12 miles from Peterborough. It was in the city's cathedral that her body was laid to rest, later to be removed to Westminster Abbey by her son when he ascended the Throne as James I of England.

During Cromwell's time his Puritan troops forced an entry into the Cathedral and wrought much damage. Fine carvings were mutilated, screens destroyed and irreplacable stained glass windows broken. But it was during this period that a series of events of even greater importance to our city were taking place. For out in the Fens a start had been made in the tremendous task of draining the Marshes. The water was being led off the land, rivers were being tamed and restricted and where once stood reed and willow the plough was turning up rich soil. This work was mainly done under the direction of Dutch Engineers who, having met with all the problems in their own land, knew how to tackle the job. This story of the drainage of the Fens and the turning of a useless region into the richest agricultural land in Britain is a long one for though it started in the 17th Century it was not completed until the 19th, but its effect on our City was immense. Instead of facing a sparsely populated swamp area she found herself on the edge of an ever-growing very rich farm country. Naturally she grew and prospered as a market town and important ecclesiastical centre.

In the 19th Century another great event took place—this event was, it turned out, to revolutionise the city. In 1850 the Great Northern Railway running North to York from London was built through Peterborough and soon the City became an important railway junction. It is the first important stopping place out of the metropolis on the main East coast route to Scotland and now has all the trappings of a railway town—locomotive running sheds, repair shops, wagon works and the like. And in the wake of the railways came other industries. Just south of Peterborough lie rich beds of clay, admiraule for brick building. Today the brickyards on the outskirts of the City are amongst the biggest in the world. Her bricks are famous throughout the country and daily by rail and road ton upon ton of bricks leave the city to build war battered Britain anew.

With excellent communications the rest of the country and with the rich Fens now fully drained and wonderfully productive it was natural that industries like canning, flour milling and the manufacture of sugar beet grew up in the City.

And it was not long after the arrival of the railway in Peterborough that the industry which today ranks as the City's most important one became established. This was her engineering industry and there are several well known engineering firms which have factories and headquarters here

The range of their products is quite remarkable. Machines of all types bear the stamp "Made in Peterborough", and perhaps the most famous are the Diesel engines which, fitted in lorry tractor and boat, are doing useful work in every part of the world. Breadmaking machinery, mechanical pumps, electrical machinery and even technicolor cameras are in the all but unending list of the products from the City's engineering shops. During the recent war, of course, many of these shops were turned over to war production, gun carriages and torpedoes being but two of many products which went forth from Peterborough to help bring victory.

Thus our story is brought to a close. Today a visitor to our city is often not impressed for it is not a beautiful town. The noise and bustle of the factories and workshops are always near at hand, scores of tall chimney stacks jut out into the sky from the brick kilns and on market days the centre of the city is thronged with people, jostling, bustling, hurrying. They have come from farm and fen, from hill and vale to shop and seek pleasure in the Cinemas and Theatres.

And yet presiding over the city, all but invisible to the busy crowds, unheedful of the noise of the factory town which has grown up around it stands the Cathedral—quiet, dignified, beautiful. Its hallowed walls have watched for centuries the history of England being made and in this uncertain age stands as a monument to the faith and belief of our forefathers.

Such is the story of Peterborough, England. A very different city from its sister city across the seas for there is no beautiful setting here, no Kawarthas, no great Lakes or Northern forest. Yet the two cities bear a common name and have a common heritage and the history of England, often written into the walls of the ancient buildings of Peterborough, England is the story of your forefathers as well as ours.

COAT-OF-ARMS of Peterborough, England. The principal saint to whom the Cathedral is dedicated is St. Peter who, by tradition, holds the keys to the gates of heaven; hence the crossed golden keys on the city's emblem.

Far-Flung Examiner Readers From Yellowknife To Rome

By CEC PERDUE

Long-distant heart tugs from the old home town are evident in a glance through the mailing list of the The Examiner. Several hundred of the nearly 16,000 papers which roll daily off the presses are read by former Peterborough people in faraway places. Indeed, a man in India subscribed for a long time, and this paper also has been read by folks in South America at times.

The Examiner finds its way into convents, hospitals, sanitoria and even prisons, according to the mailing list. Apart from the many city and district subcribers who receive their edition through carrier service, the mails take the paper to all parts of Ontario, Canada and the United States. And several are read in Europe.

The Rev. Clayton O'Donaghue reads his copy in Rome, Italy, while Russell Kitchen of the Westclox waits for his Peterborough paper in Dunbarton, Scotland. A. J. Blow gets his in Middlesex, England, and the office of the Agent General in London, Eng., also shows on the list. A French-Canadian in Yellowknife of the North-West Territory is another Examiner reader, and an RCAF member in Labrador is keenly interested in the home-town news.

Faithful Subscribers

Quite a few copies go to the Maritimes, many to Quebec, while the prairie provinces and British Columbia have dozens of names of former local folks. According to the list hardly a city, town or village in Ontario appears to be without at least one Examiner reader, many having been away from Peterborough for many years but remaining faithful subscribers. Next to this city, Toronto appears to have more readers of this paper than any other outside centre.

Nearly two dozen copies mirroring home-town happenings go to ex-Peterburians in Ottawa, one Ottawa-sent paper winding up at the Director of Public Relations in Army Headquarters. The Dept. of Labor there, too, gets one as does the library of the Dept. of External Affairs.

Across The States

Various states in the USA have residents taking the Peterborough daily. Quite a few in Michigan, New York, Ohio, Illinois and other northern or eastern states A few find their way to California, several to Arizona and down to Florida. A quick glance at the list would indicate perhaps a third of the states having people interested in the activities of the Liftlock City.

Some names, strange to people here, appear on the list, names of hamlets, towns and cities in this province, the rest of the country and across the border to the south Names like Walton, N. Y., Malden, Mass.; Northwood Ride, NH.; San Leandro, Calif.; Proctor, VT.; 150 Mile House, BC.; Okatoka, Alta.; Hollyburn, BC.; Poplar Point, Man.; Punicky, Sask.; St. Anicet., Que.; and many places in Ontario like Dalkeith, Hawkesbury, Torrance, Guadeville, Whitevale, Kearns, Kilbride, Moose Factory, Deep River, Combermere and many more.

From the far north to the deep south of this continent, from ocean to ocean, and here and there across the seas, these Peterburians read the home-town paper and visit once again, if vicariously and briefly, this 100-year-old city they recall fondly in their faraway places.

Strolling down hockey's Memory Lane. Remember those line-ups six deep from the doors of the old Brock St. arena about 7.30 p.m. down George to Hunter St. on a sub-zero night? To see Ace Bailey and his buddies go. Around about that time we often squeezed into the place by toting Red Sheehan's skates. Sometimes genial Nagle Phelan at the gate, or Constable Jack Deannard, would ease a few kids at a time by for free when no one was looking. We can still see Harry Watson slapping that marker by Joe Dwyer. Also, we recall the night Parker and McLeod sandwiched Watson so hard he was helped off. We even remember big Lionel Conacher here as an amateur. And that great Soo squad.

* * * * * *

Who will ever forget the 60-minute hustle of Frank Collins, the scrappiness of Biff Ranger and the class of Bailey? Mickey Murray was a great goaler in his day. Many will recollect fondly puck stalwarts of bygone days and nights, fellows like Cherrett, Halpin, the Thorntons, McMartin, the Roses and so on. With fewer counter-attractions in those years, the big hockey battles really packed 'em in. Terrific feuds built up between certain teams, like the Petes and Lindsay at one time. More than once, between periods, we've scrambled on the ice for pennies with a raft of other kids, and we've mooched the odd stick off players after games, too.

* * * * * *

There Was The Shrimp

Shrimp McDougall was a great little junior here ere he left to lead Owen Sound to a Dominion title. As nifty a stick wizard as you'd see in the days when stick-handling was the big thing. That and condition, as speed wasn't stressed so much. Another fine stick-handler in later years was Bill Calladine. Like the Shrimp (and later Bun Kingdon), Bill would weave his path halfway up the ice without ever looking down at the puck. Head always up and playing the rubber by feel like a violinist with his bow. All three were deadly in around the enemy net, and we believe McDougall had more polish and finish at that. A picture to remember.

* * * * * *

Jim Ellis was a grand skater when he played defence and wound up back of the goal for a rink-length rush. A mighty hard guy to stop more than a decade ago. Red Creighton wasn't as big but he was always a fiery hustler who took a lot of stopping, too. He nearly ruined a guy named Morgan in Belleville one night and it looked like we'd all be mobbed by the angry fans for a time. But we could go on and on, as we've followed hockey for many years and covered it here and around the province for a lengthy spell, also. Many memories flood back on one at this time of season. But maybe a mention of more another time.

* * * * * *

Diesels Playing Legion

Diesels-Electrics of Belleville play Legionnaires at 8.30 Monday night in the Civic Arena, an OHA senior "B" scheduled fixture. The Quinte crew are safely entrenched for the time being in second place of the standing, back of Legion and ahead of Kingston, with the Petes and Gananoque trailing the field. So, it's a case of the two best clubs at presents clashing here to start off the week, and the chips should fly before the issue is settled. Led by big Vern Goyer, the hustling Diesels will give the league-leaders a real battle all the way, but we think Legionnaires can take it in a close fit. Likely another hefty crowd on hand for this one.

* * * * * *

One of our OHA teams was successful last p.m. but the other lost. Down in Kingston, the Petes faded a bit in the last minutes to give Nylons a 7-3 senior "B" decision in a hard-fought fray up to that point. Arrangements may be completed today to have Nylons meet the Petes here Tuesday to pick up that postponed fixture. Nylons are now right on the heels of the second-place Diesels. At Civic Arena, Bun Kingdon's local IOOF-ers whipped in four goals in the first and held their own in a rough second and a tight third period to earn an 8-3 junior "B" triumph o'er Kingston. More than 500 fans saw the Triple Links take over top spot with Floyd, Doris and Desjardin showing best. Birch went out early with a cut on the back of his head. A nice one to capture.

GOOD NEWS FOR WRESTLING FANS — Wrestling fans are in for a rare treat when the mat game resumes at the Brock next Thursday. For the headline bout, Manager Jim Laidlaw has signed the current sensation, Yukon Eric. And his opponent? None other than Fred Atkins, the Australian champion. And what a battle this should be. Both men are big and strong with Atkins the more experienced of the two. The supporting bouts are equally as starry with Kay Bell and Wee Willie Davis meeting in the semi-final and Toar Morgan and Joe Christie in the opener.

Kingston Nylons Defeat Petes By 7 to 3 Score

KINGSTON, Jan. 7—Nylons, coming back fast after losing three of their first four games, racked up their third consecutive victory last night in the Harty Arena, when they beat the wavering Peterborough Petes by 7-3 and now the locals, who have two games in hand, are only two points behind the runner-up Belleville Diesels. Notwithstanding stormy weather over 1,000 fans were in attendance and they saw a rattling fine and cleanly played contest in which Nylons exhibited all-round superiority.

Goal-keeper Glynn Udall and Joe Catlin were very much in evidence although both came back to the hockey wars while nursing injuries. Udall who was accorded good protection by the defence combinations, was as steady as usual but wasn't subjected to anything remotely resembling a heavy barrage. On the other hand, Ray Harding, guarding the Peterborough twine, was bombarded with telling effect, didn't look impressive and roamed from his position repeatedly while reviving memories of the great Hughey Lehman in reverse.

8he Petes are not nearly as impotent as their record of this season indicates. In their first appearance here they were repulsed by 5-3 and last night they were only two goals in arrears entering the final period.

Close Enough

In each of the first two sessions Nylons outscored the visitors by 2 to 1 and mainly because the Blakemen were the superior marksmen. The Petes manufactured almost as many scoring opportunities but most of them were obliterated either because of erratic shooting or owing to Udall's goal-keeping wizadry. Into the bargain the Nylons' defenders were visibly superior to any of the visiting combinations.

Owing to the late arrival of the car bringing the players' sticks the Petes had to borrow replacements from Nylons and used the same until late in the middle period while holding the locals to a 3 to 2 advantage. But after exhibiting elation while arming themselves with their trusted sticks they immediately went into a slump and Nylons outscored them by 4 to 1 over the rest of the route.

One five penalties were inflicted throughout one of the cleanest played contests ever waged by Peterborough and Kingston teams. Doug Patterson drew two of the sentences, a misconduct and a minor, Horton of the Petes was chased twice and Eddie Plumb was handed the other one for slashing.

The Catlin-Partis-Gerow line collected three goals and five assists to take the night's top honors in a common canter. Partis, with two goals and an assist, and Gerow with three asists, collaborated in setting the pace while Catlin, nursing a fractured nose, was in the thick of it all the way and contributed a goal and an assist.

At 4:20 of the final session Roy Hawkins scored after taking a pass from Eddie Plumb but the Petes, throwing caution to the winds in a dire emergency, exhibited the fine spirit in attempting to stage a rally. They clicked at 11:15 when McMaster soloed for their last counter but in the main they were closely checked and were eventually skated into submission. In cementing the verdict Harrison, with Hawkins assisting, scored at 18:25 while the Gerow-Partis smoothies struck the last blow at 19:10.

Peterborough—Goal, Harding; defence, Horton and Leonard; centre, West; wings, Creighton and Garvey; alternates, Jopling, McMasters, Fife, Collins, Griffin, Coughlin, Mortimer and Conlin.

Nylons—Goal, Udall; defence, Murphy and Patterson; centre, Partis; wings, Catlin and Gerow; alternates, Graves, Plumb, Armstrong, Joyce, Aitken, McKeown, Hawkins and Harrison.

Referee, Bill Holway, Belleville; linesman, Bill Steen, Kingston.

Summary:

MINOR HOCKEY

Crushing Trojans No. 2 bantams last night at the arena, the Optimists rang up another victory by a 12-0 count. This team, unbeaten this season in schedule play, performed in fine fashion with good combination against the new Trojan entry. Goals were by Garden 3, Pollard and Parry 2 each, and singles by Stewart, Roberts, Ash, Kane, and Brooks.

St. Peter's Midgets upset the Marines 3-2 in a fast, close checking contest which saw St. Pete's use but two subs till the last period. It was 1-0 for Marines to end the second. Cupoli shone for the winners, he, Corkery and O'Connell getting the goals. Frizzelle and Strickland tallied for the losers.

PROVINCE OF ONTARIO members of the 53-man Canadian curling team which sailed from Saint John, N.B., Friday on the 20,000-ton Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Canada included, from left to right: W. M. Cruthers, of Peterborough; P. H. Skitch, Lindsay; Richard De Boo, of Toronto; Walter B. Cowan, K.C., of Toronto, Honorary Secretary-Treasurer of the Dominion Curling Association and organizer of the team; E. G. Braund, of Peterborough; A. J. Parkhill, of Oshawa; C. F. Marshall, of Hamilton; J. L. Beaton, Oshawa; K. M. McEwen, of Fort William; George Farr, of Brampton; and F. D. Garrard, of Oshawa. The group, which is making the trip to return the visit of a similar number of Scottish curlers to this country last year, will compete for the Strathcona Cup while in Scotland. They return to Canada in February.

52 In Scotland To Try Curling

GLASGOW, Jan. 7 (CP) — A team of 52 Canadian curlers arrived in Scotland Friday ready for a series of matches with the Royal Caledonian Curling Club.

At stake will be the Strathcona Cup brought to Scotland last year by the Caledonian Club which beat the Canadians on their home ice.

The Canadian team represents all provinces except Newfoundland. Seven of the team brought their wives along.

The party arrived on the Empress of Canada which made a special call at Greenock to land them.

Pipers in full highland dress provided a musical welcome while Sir James Dengy Roberts greeted the visitors on behalf of the Caledonian Club.

The Canadians will play a series of 10 matches in eight Scottish cities.

At a meeting held aboard the vessel Jan. 3, senior and junior captains for the tour were elected with two assistant secretaries. Hon. Errick P. Willis, of Winnipeg, was elected senior captain and Norman C. Ralston of Saint John, N. B., junior captain. Willis will captain the "A" team and Ralston the "B" squad. The "A" team committee also elected by the curlers aboard ship, includes A. F. McDowell, Timmins, Ont.

The "B" team committee numbers among its members W. M. Cruthers, assistant secretary, of Peterborough.

Gimblett Tops Men In The Mercantile

Jack Gimblett rolled high single in the men's group of the Mercantile Bowling League this week with 290, other good counts being Neil Plumpton 282 and Don Hume 266-272, and high three of 698. Bessie Smith led the lasses with 263 as Gladys Hamilton had high threesome of 620.

Utilities, New Centre, City Hall and Lift Lock took three points each from A & P, Loblaw's, Braund's No. 1 and Prudentials. Braund's No. 2 and Bond's took two each. Standing: City Hall 41, New Centre 39, Braund's No. 1 36, Lift Lock 33, Loblaw's 29, Utilities 27, A&P 18, Prudential 17, Bond Clothes 13, Braund's No. 2 10.

Ladies' high single so far goes to Ruby Pearse with 352, and high three to Verna Hopkins with 748. Men's high single, Harold Mesley with 345, and high three Frank Worsencroft 813. High average for girls, R. Pearse, 205 for 39 games; men, Don Penrose 218 for 36.

Extra points for standing: Braund's No. 1 12, A&P 3, Lift Lock 5, Utilities 11, City Hall 14, Braund's No. 2 2, Bond's 2, New Centre 7, Prudential 2, Loblaw's 5; highest pinnage, Braund's No. 1 with 3114.

Oddfellows Climb To Top Kingston Vics Polished Off

The Peterborough Triplelinks climbed atop the Junior B grouping Friday night as they outclassed the Kingston Vics 8-3 in a bitterly fought fray. The win enabled the Links to climb to the top rung one point ahead of the idle Oshawa Juniors. Wednesday night the locals took the Vics in Kingston 8-6.

Kingston failed to upt anything on the puck in the first period as the Trips strode over the blueline time and time again to test Anderson in the Kingston net. Poor defensively, the Kingston squad allowed the Links to flip in four counters without a reply in the first session.

Disgusted at their performanec in the first act the Vics tore back in the second led by the line of Montgomery, Anson and Gommer. With both teams tearing up and down the ice at a fast pace collisions occurred and tempers began to flare near the end of the period. In the closing minutes of the second, little thought was given the poor little lonesome puck. The men began to take the beating. No scoring was the result.

Change Tactics

Five goals were rammed home in the opening six minutes of the third period, Kingston getting three. Play was a complete reverse of the second. The puck took a beating this time. But again near the end of the game play became ragged as the boys tended to lay on the gad. In the second half of the third the locals added two more to make the final score 8-3.

Desjardin provided the biggest thrill of the night in the first period as he took the puck at centre and went in alone to split the defence to score. With his two linemates, Ross and Benny Mason, the line passed well throughout. Richlark and Fennell were standouts on the IOOF defence.

Montgomery, Anson and Gommer for Kingston went well in the second and third periods to press the Oddfellows into their defensive zone. Anderson in the nets came through in the clinches as his defence failed.

Sit in Sinbin

Thirteen penalties were handed out by Referee Doug Love of Oshawa, with the IOOF receiving seven of them. Doris and Latimer were given majors late in the third as they started a scrap near the Kingston net. Doris had piled into Latimer on the ice with the result Latimer slugged Doris over the head. The wrestling match which followed was broken up by Love.

Doris and Floyd led the goal-getters with two each for Triplelinks as singles were scored by Birch, Desjardin, Turner and Benny Mason. Kingston goals were by Anson, Aitken and Montgomery.

Blood, Birch's blood, flowed in the late stages of th first as he was hit on the back of the head by the puck. He was assisted into the dressing-room for treatment by the St. John Ambulance men. He was later taken to the hospital for further treatment for the gash.

The lineups:

Kingston Vics — Goal, Anderson; defence, Latimer and Wiskin; centre, McGaughey; wings, White and Aitken; alternates, Bender, Montgomery, Bailey, Tinkess, Gommer, Weese, Andress, Anson.

Triplelinks — Goal, Red Wasson; defence, D. Wasson and Richlark; centre, Desjardin; wings, B. Mason and R. Mason; alternates, Birch, Baker, Doris, Turner, Wyatt, Fennell, Floyd, Millar.

Referee—Douglas Love of Oshawa. Linesman—Richard Ouimet of Peterborough.

The summary:

First Period
Oddfellows—Doris (Baker)	2:22
Oddfellows—Floyd (Wyatt)	4:46
Oddfellows—Birch	7:32
Oddfellows—Desjardin	11:48
Penalties—Tinkess, Latimer 2, D. Wasson, Turner.

Penalties—D. Wasson, Bender, Desjardin, Doris major, Latimer major.

Brintons Lead Way In Industrial Loop

Brintons took over top spot in the Industrial Hockey League with a 3-0 win over Quakers. Though minus three good players, owing to a PMHA ruling, Brintons took last year's champions handily in a fine all-around showing, two defencemen working 60 minutes. Riches and K. Anderson both shone offensively and defensively. Dracup, Harris, Anderson and Dawson also were in on the scoring. The other game saw CGE blank Westclox 6-0.

Games next week: Jan. 10—De Laval at Keene; Jan. 11—Nashua vs. Westclox at Omemee; Jan. 12—Vent. Shades vs. De Laval and CGE vs. Brintons at Civic Arena; Jan. 13—Nashua at Keene. Standing:

	W	L	T	Pts
Brintons	3	1	1	7
Quakers	3	2	0	6
CGE	3	1	0	6
Nashua	2	1	1	5
Westclox	2	2	0	4

Canuck Curlers Lead In Detroit

DETROIT, Jan. 7 — (AP) — Canadian curlers got away to a flying start in the first round of the 64th annual international bonspiel Friday at Detroit Curling Club.

Rinks from the Dominion won seven of the first 12 matches. They handed the defending champion a first-round defeat.

The St. Paul Curling Club's No. 1 rink, skipped by J. J. Ahern, bowed out of the competition for the Gooderham and Worts trophy which it won last year. The Chatham Curling Club rink, skippered by Peter Gilbert, collected a slim 8-7 edge.

Although most of the matches were close, an American rink led by Sam Penfield, blasted Mark Rogers' Palmerston, Ont., Curling Club rink 15-7.

Emphasis Still On Goalies In NHL Series

By HARRY ECCLES,
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

The emphasis still is on goaltenders in the National Hockey League, and the way things are going the absence of a regular goalie could make a lot of difference.

Veteran Harry Lumley of the Detroit Red Wings will be missing from his cage when Detroit clashes with Boston Bruins Sunday at Detroit. Lumley has recently been suffering from a mild case of influenza, but he stayed in the nets until the Wings battled a team of International Amateur League all-stars on Thursday night. In that game he suffered an injury which turned out to be a sprain of a ligament in his ankle, and he'll be replaced by Terry Sawchuk of the Indianapolis Caps on Sunday. It's Sawchuk's major league debut after playing with Omaha of the USHL for one season and Indianapolis for the last two years.

New York Rangers may or may not have goalie Chuck Rayner in their cage tonight. Rayner has been a tower of strength in the Rangers drive to second place, but he hurt his right knee in practice at New York yesterday, and if he's unable to take the ice Rangers will use Lorne Worsley of the New York Rovers, leading goalie of the Eastern U. S. Hockey League.

The high flying Red Wings, leading the race by 11 points over the Rangers, had some consolation for the side lining of Lumley.

Doctors reported that Lee Fogolin and Jerry Couture were fit for service again. Fogolin missed two games because of a shoulder separation, and Couture suffered a cut foot against New York last Wednesday. But big defenceman Jack Stewart is a doubtful starter Sunday night, after attending his mother's funeral at Pilot Mound, Man. Weather conditions may prevent Stewart's return in time for Sunday's game.

Miracle Of Resurrection Called Church's Foundation

REV. E. R. JAMES

Jesus said, some seed fell among thorns (weeds) and the thorns sprang up and choked them. — St. Matthew 13:7.

Is your mind impressed by the New Year? If so, these words will appeal to your heart: "The thorns (weeds) choked them." It has been your own experience — the good resolutions of last year.

What are weeds? The Oxford dictionary defines it: "A plant not valued for its use or beauty, growing wild and rank, and regarded as cumbering the ground and hindering the growth of superior vegetation." The Master Gardener puts it more simply: The thorns, weeds, sprang up and choked them. Every one understands the choking of the good seed.

What have the weeds to teach us?

The weeds are natural to the soil; they are in the soil, they do not need to be sown. The good seed must be sown. The soil produces weeds of itself, as every gardener knows. The soil will not produce good seed unless the seed is put into the soil. As we think of the weeds being natural to the soil we remember how natural it is for us to produce in our own characters bitterness, hatred and other evil weeds which choke the good seed. How shocked you are when your little son, barely able to talk, shows signs of bad temper and selfishness. The horror is that it is in him. If you neglect his training you will discover how those weeds will choke and spoil his character.

Weeds grow quickly. A couple of days of rain and your garden is overgrown with weeds. You marvel at their growth. Even so it is in the garden of your soul. The bad habits will grow rapidly. A little neglect on your part and the bad habit is taking root. It takes many years to form good habits which form character. It takes a long time to build a good character, which is the most valuable gift you can give your generation. On the other hand a few months of neglect will produce a degradation which is surprising. The weeds have grown so fast they have choked the good habits.

How are you to keep out the weeds? They are always hungry. Evil desires cry for satisfaction, they cry very loudly as you know to your sorrow. But the Lord Christ offers to come into your heart, if you invite him. He will fill your heart and mind and there will be no room for the weeds. Pray the Holy Spirit that you may see something of His beauty. It should be your desire that you may see the King in His beauty and it will be so.

If you are hot tempered pray the Lord to give you a vision of His patience and self control. Slowly there will come into your heart His patience; His determination to endure, and the desire to fly into a passion will pass away. The weed is being killed by the good seed, even Jesus.

Ask the Lord for the opposite characteristic of your besetting sin. Are you mean and covetous. Pray for His generosity. Who gave Himself for you. Are you bitter tongued and malicious? Fill your mind with His love and slowly you will find yourself saying charitable things. Let His Spirit enter and do His wonderful work of forming the Christ in you that men may see the Christ revealed in you.

The Lord saith, My grace is sufficient for thee, My strength is made perfect in weakness.

What Happened In 1949 To Good Resolutions?

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

With the miracle of the Resurrection of Jesus is associated the miracle of the transformation in the lives of men—a miracle that one man so transformed actually described as a passing from death unto life.

It was the Apostle John, one of the brothers whom Jesus called Boanerges, "sons of thunder" — the brothers who had wanted Jesus to call down fire and consume villagers who had used Him inhospitably, and who, through their mother, had sought the foremost places—this John, who said "We know that we have passed from death unto life because we love the brethren." (I John 3:14.)

It was in the miracle of the Resurrection—and in this miracle in the lives of the disciples—that the founding of the church began. Its true founder, of course, was Jesus, and it was founded in His life and teaching. Its charter was the Sermon on the Mount, and its mission and purpose the preaching of the good news concerning the gospel of God's love and grace. But it was the Resurrection that brought the life and teaching to its triumph in the lives of those who went forth to preach that gospel and to found the church.

The founding of the church was a part of the miracle. Here was a broken and dispirited group of men, who had left all to follow a teacher whose teachings they didn't understand — else why would they have quarreled so much among themselves?—in the hope that He was going to establish a kingdom in which they would have their ambitions fulfilled. And now He had been arrested, condemned, and crucified. The dream was over, their ambitions shattered. Peter, always the ready spokesman, said he was going fishing. There seemed nothing but to go back to his boats and fishing nets. The more spiritually minded trusted that "it had been he which should have redeemed Israel" (Luke 24:21) but their hopes, too, were disappointed.

Then, suddenly, all was changed. They saw a risen, spiritual Christ, and they rose with Him to heights of faith, character, and achievement that would have seemed impossible. Lowly fishermen and other humble men became men of vision, power, and destiny, reaching out towards the ends of the earth with the gospel of a Kingdom, so different from what they had conceived, and commanding a loyalty that defied all that would have turned them aside. It made them willing to suffer and even to die for a King and Kingdom that they now understood.

These were the Christian statesmen, the men of divine destiny, who established the church upon its one foundation, Jesus Christ, whom they had known in His earthly life, and whose spiritual presence, "Lo, I am with you always," was their strength and guidance.

Soon they were to be strengthened by a converted persecutor, Paul, who saw the Christ, as he said "as one born out of due season."

If we would see the Christian church strong today, we must relive the experience of these men We must find the faith, vision and courage of the early disciples What was possible then is possible now, if we will seek the power and guidance of God.

McKENNEY Answers Your CANASTA Questions

John R. Crawford of Philadelphia, Pa., whom I interview each week to bring you the latest points of play in Canasta, had the pleasure of playing a game against Pancho Segura, the tennis star from South America, where Canasta originated.

During the match Mr. Crawford's partner repeatedly asked the question, "May I go out?" and each time Crawford said, "No." I asked him today to tell you why

He explained that his opponents had a canasta in aces and had melded 3 tens. Crawford and his partner had melded 4 tens, and Crawford held 2 aces. He had four or five different melds in front of him, but no immediate canasta in sight.

Most players, said Crawford, are too anxious to go out. The bonus for going out is only 100 points In the game mentioned Crawford and his partner would lose very little even if the opponents did go out. As it happened, by continually refusing his partner's request for permission to go out, Crawford built up a score of 2300 points. This certainly offset any small losses they might have had on succeeding hands by employing the same tactics.

Now for my regular question and answers:

Question: The pack was frozen and the up-card on the discard pile was a queen. Our side had already melded three queens I had two queens in my hand, and took the pack. Now my opponents claimed I had made a separate meld of three queens and could not add these to the other three queens on the table. Were they right?

Answer: Your opponents were wrong. You have the right to take the pack with the two queens in your hand and can combine these three with the other queens previously melded. Also, if the pack was frozen with a wild card you could use this wild card to complete mixed canasta.

Question: I have exposed some of my cards by making an illegal or insufficient meld, including wild cards, and these cards become penalty cards I know I am forced to discard them in turn, but if I discard a wild card does this freeze the pack?

Answer: Yes. Any time a wild card is in the discard pack whether it was turned up, discarded in the regular manner, or discarded as a penalty card, it freezes the pack.

Question: I was dealt a hand which contained a natural canasta of five spots. Our side needed 50 points for our minimum meld I melded the seven 5's and claimed I had made a minimum meld of 535 points. Does not the bonus for a canasta count in making a minimum meld?

Answer: No. Unfortunately there was a mistake made in an early set of rules on Canasta which stated that if you melded a canasta this met the requirement of a minimum meld. This was not correct. It was never intended that the melding of a canasta met the minimum meld requirements unless the cards themselves added up to the required total. New rules are being distributed rectifying that mistake.

InstitutePlans Euchre Series

HARWOOD, Jan. 7 (ENS) — Fortnightly euchre parties in the community hall were planned at a meeting of the Women's Institute Friday at the home of Mrs. Albert Sandercock. The first will be held Wednesday, starting at 8:15 p.m.

The home economic report of the Belleville convention area was read by Mrs. Albert Sandercock. Mrs. Don Herriott presided during the program and a reading was given by Mrs. G. U. Isaac

Mrs. Lawton gave a reading on home permanents. The contest was held by Mrs. Herriott and both groups taking part tied.

A lengthy discussion about new tables for the Community Hall took place.

The hostess and group served refreshments.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. R. S. Johnson.

Housing Projects In City Cost Government $4 Million

The federal government has spent close to $4,000,000 on its Peterborough housing projects in the last nine years. This information was received from the Ottawa office of Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation today, and relates to the total of 1,021 houses, the last block of which are only in progress of building. The government's final investment here will substantially exceed $4,000,000.

On the projects completed in the years from 1941 to 1949, inclusive, the total outlay by the government through its several substantive organizations was $2,608,000. And expenditure on 130 incomplete houses now in course of construction has been $1,344,000. These two sums amount to $3,952,000.

81 On Burnham's Point

The first of the government's houses erected in Peterborough was the block of 81 on Burnham's Point, begun in 1941 when this city's industrial resources were being converted to the production of munitions and other equipment required in the emergency of meeting the threat of Hitler's Germany. After the war they were sold to the Eastern Trust Company, Toronto, and all but ten are now in private ownership, bought chiefly by former tenants. The remaining ten are still in rental.

Three projects comprised the Park Hill Road housing area totalling 225 units.

Building of Staff House

Another investment by the Dominion government was the so-called Staff House on Monoghan Road, subsequently converted into a D. V. A. Hospital, and later destroyed by fire. That cost is not included in the housing compilation.

None of the Hatton block of 125 houses is for sale. They are still tenanted.

The next block of 125 became known as the race track project north of the C. P. R. and lying between High St. and Ford Ave.

Attention was turned by the government to housing requirements of men returning from war service. One hundred houses were built by Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, successor to Wartime Housing Limited, on Brioux and Edison Ave. and Wolfe St. in the south end of the city with others on Woodbine Ave., Ross and Caddy Streets in Ashburnham.

Continuing lack of housing accommodation for veterans and their families prompted the city council to negotiate with Central Mortgage for 226 houses, the last of which will be finished in the next week or two. They are distributed across the south end of the city, from the vicinity of the Peterborough Lock and Morrow St., to Rose and O'Connell Avenues, and across Monaghan Road to Little St. and the extension of McKellar St.

No. 11 Housing Project

The final project which is No. 11 in Central Mortgage records is the 100 houses for which the council applied early last year Sixty of them are on McKellar St west, and 40 others are in Ashburham in the McFarland Ave section near the Trent Canal.

Concrete foundations for many of the cellars of this block have been poured, and the contractors Reynolds Construction Co., will concentrate operations on their completion, extending westerly to the C. N. R and Erskine Ave. when the last of the 226 unit project is wound up this month.

The total number of houses in these projects is 1,021. It does not include the 128 dwelling built by Housing Enterprises Limited nor the Ardon block which were constructed for sale, rather than rental.

BURSTING AT ITS REALTY SEAMS to provide accommodation for its growing population, Peterborough acquired last year 500 houses, 270 of them built by private owners. Typical of these new dwellings and indicating trends of design and expression of individual planning are those above, left to right: the residence of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Brown, Middleton Drive, costing more than $13,000; the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Deyell, 730 Monaphan Road south; Mr. and Mrs. Elwood McDonald bought the house (right) at 791 Snelgrove Road, Ashburnham, for approximately $8,300. Below is the new home of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. R. Munro, 711 Sherbrooke St. on the south side of the street and opposite the old Morrow residence. Its site affords a wide vista of both the city and North Monaghan. Peterborough last year rolled up a new record of building values, reportedly $3,781,799. The 270 privately built houses are included in that total, but not permits were issued for approximately 230 dwellings completed in 1949 for Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation. Their total value might be around $1,500,000. Add close to $500,000 of the total estimates of the construction in Smith township last year, most of it influenced by the expansion of the city, and the grand total is approximately $5,700,000, or close to $6,000,000. And that amount does not include the suburban building in Douro, Otonabee and North Monaghan.

Court Clears Truck Driver

LINDSAY, Jan. 7.—A charge of criminal negligence against Toronto truck driver William H. Woods, 29, was dismissed by Magistrate E. A. Gee Friday. The charge came from a Nov. 11 accident on No. 7 Highway, one mile west of Oakwood village, in which Mrs. Violet Sinclair, Lindsay, was killed, and six persons were injured.

A plea of guilty to a charge of failing to put out flares was entered by defense counsel C. H Howard, Toronto, for Richardson Transport Co., Woods' employer A fine of $50 was imposed.

The court was told Woods' truck had stalled, out of gas, at the brow of a hill. It was only partly off the road. Woods was unable to put out emergency parking flares because he could not remove them from their racks in the truck.

A charge of dangerous driving against P. J. Sabourin, driver of the car which collided with the truck, is to be heard Wednesday The six injured were car occupants.

1949 Building In City Set All-Time Record $3,781,799

By HARRY THEOBALD

Building in Peterborough last year soared in volume and value to an all time record at $3,781,799, as compiled during the twelve months of 1949 by City Engineer A. E. Chalmers. The increase over the total of $2,356,097 for 1948 was $1,425,702. New building here during the last two years amounted to $6,137,986.

Compare that figure representing the accumulation of new realty for two years with the total taxable assessment.

Total assessment taxable, but excluding business assessment was $31,093,898 for 1948-49 and $32,473,060, compiled by the assessment department in 1949 for the 1950 taxing.

It should be mentioned that even if the two-year total of $6,137,896 were taxable, and most of it is, the assessment on these new properties will not be equal to their estimated actual value as shown in the building permits.

(Total taxable assessment for this year is a less sum than the total actual value of taxable property.)

Peterborough's new construction has not included the new Civic Hospital and the addition to St. Joseph's Hospital, as well as the Central Mortgage and Housing units begun and completed during the two years. In fact, none of the Wartime Housing and Central Mortgage properties were ever shown in new realty values because building permits were not issued for them or the hospital construction.

Of the approximately 500 houses 270 were by private individuals, mostly for their own possession and occupation. Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation completed 215 of the 226 units in their No. 11 project.

Dwellings entered largely into the record volume of new building values created here in 1949.

Total building permits for the year were estimated at $3,781,799 as compared with $2,356,097 in 1948, an increase of $1,425,702 in new property.

Report Details

The details are: building permits for 1948: 142 garages, $43,843; 193 dwellings, $1,077,900; and 746 miscellaneous permits, $1,234,354; total of 1,081 permits for $2,356,097.

Permits for 1949: 131 garages, $34,695; 270 dwellings, $1,775,250; 720 miscellaneous $1,971,854; total, $3,781,799 for 1,121 permits

The December permits amounted to $68,310. Five houses were included in the work undertaken in the last month of the year Their total estimated value was $41,500.

HEADS TORONTO BOARD

A 38-year-old fine art dealer, G. Blair Laing, was elected chairman of the 1950 Toronto Board of Education on the first ballot at the board's inaugural meeting. Born in Montreal, he was educated in Peterborough, Brantford and Windsor.

Say Shot Fired At CNR Train

A .22 rifle bullet was fired into a compartment of the CNR Lindsay-Peterborough train Friday by a group of boys standing near the track in Jackson Park, on the west boundary of the city.

The bullet struck the window of a compartment, splintering the glass, but no one was hurt.

With less than a mile to go before reaching Peterborough station, the train continued the journey. F. K. McLaren, 52, CNR train despatcher, who was travelling on the train, contacted City Police Sgt. Leo Murphy on arrival in Peterborough and Traffic Officer Harold Mesley was dispatched in the cruiser to the park. Provincial police also sent a car and after following snow tracks from the park out into the open country, the combined police force found four boys.

The lads are expected to be charged in juvenile court.

25 Bicycles Unclaimed At Police Station

Some 25 unclaimed bicycles are waiting at the police station for their owners to claim them. Police are afraid if the bicycles keep piling up and owners do not come to take them, they soon won't have any room for anything else

Most of the bicycles were found abandoned by police either by people who forgot where they left them or people who stole them.

The umbrella was a symbol of princely dignity in ancient Egypt and Asia, rather than a protection against the weather.

Farmer Fleeced of $390.00 In 40-minute Poker Game

A district farmer was fleeced of $390 in a 40-minute poker game Friday in the first skin game reported to police in Peterborough in the last four years. He also lost $50 "loaned" to him by one of the pair who worked the swindle. The farmer told police the following story: As he was walking down George St. he was approached by a tall man about 45 wearing a brown overcoat and grey fedora, who asked if he knew where there was a "playhouse" where he could have some fun.

The farmer said he knew of no such place, but the tall man immediately called over another shorter man wearing a cap and a black and white checked jacket, and asked him the same question.

The man in the black and white jacket said no, but told them that he knew a couple of girls he might be able to reach. The tall one told them if either one could get a couple of girls, he would give them each $10. The shorter fellow then said he had a room at a local hotel and he would phone the girls from there.

Easy Way to Get $10

The farmer admitted that he saw a chance to make an easy $10 and went along with the other two to the hotel room. The man in the checked jacket made a pretence of phoning two girls then told them that the girls would be over in about half an hour.

To fill in the time, he suggested that they play a little poker. The farmer said he had no idea about how to play poker, but the two others offered to show him as they went along.

The game started with the stakes beginning at 25 cents. And farmer won. But in no time at all he had lost $390 he had been carrying to pay a bill. When he lost all his money the tall man offered to lend him $50 "to give him a chance to win back his money."

In a few minutes that money too was gone and tall man said he was about cleaned out. However he showed the farmer his hand with four aces in it and said if the farmer would drive him to his aunt's house where he had two savings bonds, they can win the money back.

Returned to Hotel

They left and had walked about half a block, when the tall man said the farmer had better go back and see that the shorter man did not leave with their money

When the farmer got back to the hotel room, it was empty and that was the last he saw of either of them

He told Detective John Stevenson that he had been approached in Toronto on the same sort of sucker's game, but had not been taken in and had reported the men to the police.

"I'll know those two five years from now if I see them," he told Detective Stevenson.

The man in the checked jacket had registered at the hotel Thursday afternoon as G. Cody, 135 Water St., Kingston. He had no baggage. As he was leaving the hotel after fleecing the farmer he told the desk clerk if anyone asked for him to say he would be back.

Quebec Hands Out Bodychecks At Fiery CAHA Conference

By W. R. WHEATLEY.

MONTREAL, Jan. 7 (CP) — The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association went into final semi-annual sessions today decidedly wearied but only slightly bruised from a series of lusty bodychecks handed out by the Quebec branch.

A wrangle over Allan Cup play-off dates that erupted late in Friday's session wasn't settled until nearly midnight at a special meeting of the four eastern Canada branches of the association.

Even then there was a veiled post meeting hint that the Quebec branch might forego the Allan Cup chase.

The whole argument revolved around the playoff dates for the Quebec and Maritime branch winners. By a 3-1 vote, the special four branch meeting decided on a compromise.

It was this:

Instead of starting the Quebec-Maritime playoffs March 25, as suggested by the CAHA, the date for the best of seven series will start April 1.

The Quebec branch held out till the bitter end for a five-game series starting April 3, or some other compromise.

Against Quebec

Voting against the Quebec branch in the final showdown were the Ontario, Maritime and Ottawa and district branches.

The Maritime branch president, D. M. Love of New Glasgow, offered the motion for the final decision. It was seconded by J. J. McFayden of Galt, president of the Ontario Hockey Association, and supported by J. H. Flett, Ottawa and district branch president.

The dissenting vote came from President Azarie Choquet of the Quebec branch.

After the vote George Slater, president of the Quebec Senior Hockey League, told The Canadian Press his seven-club circuit would be called together and their decision might be one of two things:

1. Cut down the league's playoffs, already arranged, to conform with the April 1 date or

2. Continue its playoff schedule regardless of Allan Cup playoff dates.

Depends On Timing

If the clubs under the second alternative could finish playoffs before April 1 through fast eliminations, the winner would still be ready to enter Allan Cup competition, said Slater. Otherwise, so far as the QSHL is concerned, it would be in the position of winding up the hockey season then and there.

The compromise, still bitterly opposed by Quebec, was finally voted by the three other branches.

Under the compromise, a foregone conclusion for ratification at today's plenary session, the final for the Allan Cup in the west may be played from April 1 until May 1 or 2. Playoffs between other branches are not expected to be affected.

Dates for the Quebec-Maritime playoff are: April 1, 3 and 4 in the Maritimes, April 7, 8, 10, 12 in the Quebec branch.

The delegates, about 40 from across Canada, still have to deal with another matter posed by the Quebec branch.

This would make either Montreal or Quebec City the site of the Memorial Cup final this year provided a junior team of the Quebec branches reaches the final.

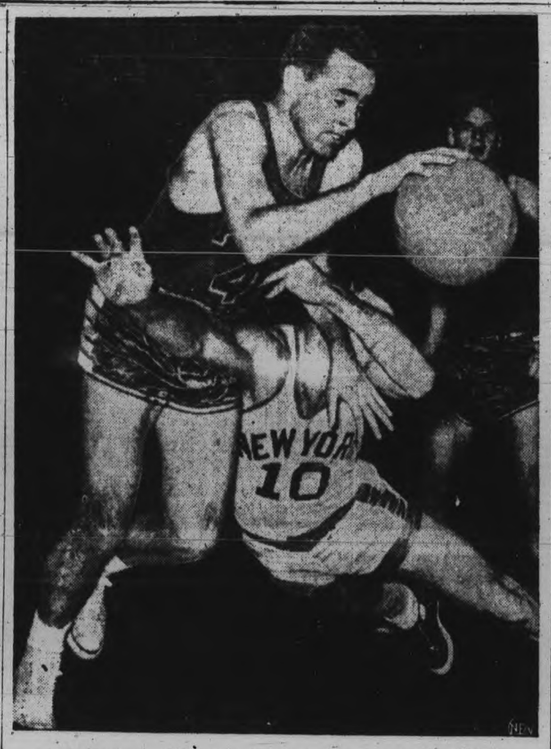
Hialeah Stands Pat On Reduced Purses



MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 7 (AP) — Hialeah race course is standing pat on its decision to reduce minimum purses for the first 10 days of the 1950 meeting from $3 000 to $2,500 despite efforts of horse owners to restore the old minimum.

After a three-hour meeting of track officials and the grievance committee of the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association, president John C. Clark said the minimum still stands.

"We had a full and friendly discussion with representatives of the horsemen's group," said Clark yesterday, "and many of the misunderstandings were corrected as to our financial position and certainly as to our cash position and our ability to meet successive declines in mutuel play without economies."

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Another move in the reorganization of the Toronto Argonauts football club came Friday when President Bob Moran announced veterans Steve Levantis and Bob Cosgrove will not be back as assistant coaches next season.

This means a completely new coaching staff for Toronto's entry in the Big Four Union. Earlier this week Teddy Morris moved from the coaching job into the manager's spot, where he succeeded Earl Selkirk who resigned. Moran said it was hoped to keep both Levantis and Cosgrove in the Argo organization, possibly as scouts.

Willard Cleveland of Fairlight, Sask., runner up for the cars in last year's auto bonspiel of Nipawin, Sask., Friday was knocked out of the No. 1 event in the fourth annual Nipawin contest. The grandaddy of the car bonspiels, the fourth annual Nipawin automobile 'spiel has an entry of 96 rinks.

Cleveland Indians Friday announced signing of Oscar Melillo to a one-year coaching contract. The 47-year-old Melillo formerly coached for the American League baseball club in 1939, 1940, 1942 and from 1945 to 1947.

Chicago Cubs Friday announced sale of television rights for their 1950 home season to two Chicago stations at a price of $30,000 each.

Wake Forest College of North Carolina lost six football players Friday after the sextet had been accused of cheating on pre-Christmas tests. Three were expelled and three were placed on probation, but none will be eligible to play again, the Wake Forest Student Council announced. Included was All-Southern guard Ray Cicia.

The Harmsworth Trophy Race, international classic of speedboat racing, may be held during Seattle's Seafair next August, Jerry Bryant, president of Seattle Salts, Incorporated, said Friday he was advised that J. Lee Barrett of Detroit would inspect Lake Washington next week as a possible site for the 1950 Harmsworth. Barrett is secretary-treasurer of the Yachtmen's Association of America.

Twenty-two riding horses burned to death and a stableboy was injured Friday in a fire which destroyed the Greentree Stables in Chicago's suburban Norwood Park.

Jake Mintz, co-manager of heavyweight champion Ezzard Charles, said Friday night at Pittsburgh that there's a possibility his boxer may defend his title next month at San Francisco.

"I have received a request from William Kyne of San Francisco to hold Feb. 22 open for two weeks and I have agreed to the request," Mintz said. "Kyne wants Charles to fight an unnamed opponent on that date."

$50,000 For Grimm As Dallas Manager

CHICAGO, Jan. 7 — (AP) — Charlie Grimm, who has been virtually an institution with Chicago Cubs, may net as high as $50,000 yearly as the new manager of the Dallas Baseball Club of the Texas League.

After a conference with Cub owner P. K. Wrigley, Grimm resigned Friday as the club's vice-president—a "brief case" job that threatened to add a wrinkle of worry to Grimm's usually bright-and-smiling face.

Grimm said he belonged on the field, not in a swivel chair. Dallas' millionaire oilman owner, Dick Burnett, is willing to grant his wish. The two will meet in Dallas Jan. 13 to certify the deal.

Burnett seems willing to top Cholly's Cub salary reported to be about $25,000. Grimm also will receive a percentage of the gate.

Hamilton Dumps Mercurys Marlboros Rack Up 24th

Clare Shillington and Bill Dinning, both seasoned veterans in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A wars, were the driving force in last night's 6-3 Hamilton Tigers victory, each "old timer" scoring a pair of goals against the Owen Sound Mercurys.

The win, only the Bengal's eighth in 29 starts this season, lifted them to within one point of Owen Sound, the closest they have been this season to vacating the cellar spot.

In other games last night, Toronto's Marlboros increased their first-place senior lead to 19 points when they crushed the runner-up Kitchener - Waterloo Flying Dutchmen 8-3. Two junior contests saw St. Catharines Teepees draw into a second-slot tie with Guelph Biltmores by lacing Oshawa Generals 9-6 and Stratford Kroehlers traded the cellar spot with Galt by besting the Black Hawks 8-2.

Bengals Sink Four

Hamilton and Open Sound divided a pair of tallies in the first period of their game at the Mountain City and did the same in the middle session. Hamilton picked up the two points when they blew the lid off in the last session, pumping home four markers while holding the visitors to a single.

scorers for the Bengals other than Dinning and Shillington were Jack Taylor and Tom Smelle. Buck Forslund, Mike Buchecheski and Hank Beaudry were the Owen Sound marksmen.

Toronto fans saw Marlboros dispose of Kitchener-Waterloo with little trouble to rack up their 24th triumph in 30 starts.

The homesters went into a 3-1 lead in the first period, increased it to 5-2 in the middle frame and scored three in the third while holding the Dutchmen to a single.

Don Rope and Chuck Blair paced the Toronto crew with a brace of goals each while singles were counted by Red Johnson, Al Buchanan, Scotty Mair and Bobby Hassard.

Oshawa were only two goals behind at the end of the second period in St. Catharines but poor defensive play cost them three in the finale while the best they could pick up was a pair.

St. Catharines blasted in four tallies in the opening session, holding the visiting Generals to three and increased their lead to 6-4 in the second.

Norm Corcoran was top man in the Teepee scoring parade flashing the red light three times. Jack White followed with a pair while singles were counted by Wayne Brown, Bill Altoft, Ike Boone and Con Switzer. Oshawa scorers were Enos Zanatta, Sonny Hooper, Gerry Nicoli, Bob Holden, Marcel Clements and George Samolenko.

Stratford asserted themselves with some prolific scoring power in the second period against Galt. The homesters tallied five times in the middle session while holding Galt scoreless.

The clubs split tallies in the first period while the Kroehlers outcounted the visitors 2-1 in the final frame.

Flanagan Scores Three

Dinny Flanagan was firing the heavy artillery for the Stratford kids, scoring the first three goals. Doug French took runner-up scoring honors for the winners, counting a pair of markers. Singles were rapped in by Jim Pernfuss, Doug Williams and Joe Shaw.

Ron Trussell and Ken Green were the Galt snipers.

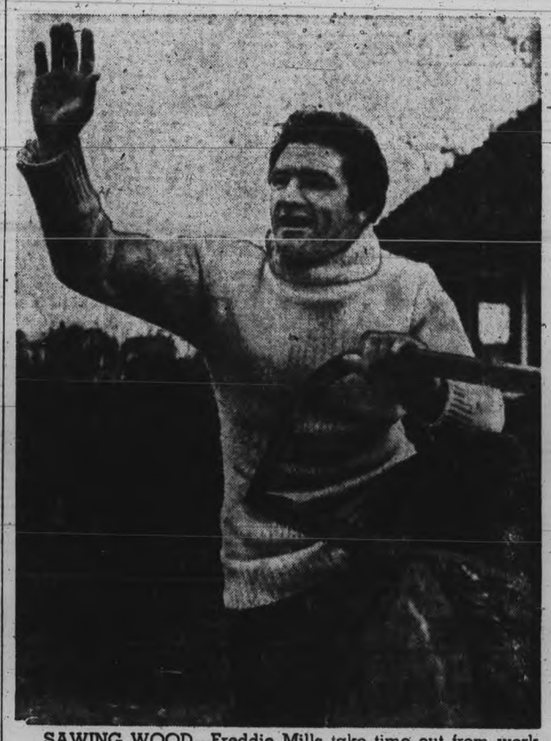
PCVS Lasses Victors Over Norwood High

PCVS senior girls edged Norwood High School 25-20 in an exhibition inter-High School basketball contest at the Collegiate Friday night.

Norwood jumped to a one-point lead in the first quarter 9-8, but the locals came back to tie things up in the second half 14-all. Beginning to roll in the third, the Collegiate lasses put the game on ice as they sank nine points to one basket for the Norwood squad. Norwood outscored the PCI'ers in the fourth quarter, but not enough to take the nod.

Madge Jones of Norwood led the point-getters with 11 as her teammates Lois Stackhouse had six and Audrey O'Shea three. Betty Jaquith and Mary Craw led the locals, each with seven points, with Mary Braund in for six. Other points were by Peggy Estlick with two and Donna Howson three.

Norwood — Forwards, Lois Stackhouse, Mary Lynch, Madge Jones, Audrey O'Shea, Marilyn Radcliff; guards, Frances Hogg, Elsie Brown, Joan Walsh, Laura Horne.



PCVS — Forwards, Betty Jaquith, Carol Raper, Mary Braund, Peggy Estlick, Mary Craw, Lois Hutchinson, Donna Howson; guards, Nancy Mason, Jane Tivy, Marilyn Jackson, Marnie Hollingsworth

Referee—Betty Scollard. Umpire—Joan Krogh.

Scorers—Marie Thompson, Betty Langstaff. Timer — Louise Lentz.

Offer Year In UK To Newsmen On Scholarship

TORONTO, Jan. 7 (CP)—Applications for the fourth Kemsley scholarship awarded in Canada were invited from Canadian newspapermen in a circular distributed Friday by W. A. Craik, honorary secretary of the Canadian section, Empire Press Union.

The scholarship gives the man selected a year's training and experience at offices of Kemsley newspapers in the United Kingdom. Women are not eligible. Last year's winner was Larry Smith of the St. Catharines Standard.

The annual award is given in Australia, New Zealand and South Africa as well as Canada. Its object is to encourage an exchange of ideas and experience between British and Commonwealth newspaper men and to strengthen the ties among members of the Commonwealth.

The scholarship entitles the successful candidate to first-class passage to and from Britain and a year's training at Kemsley offices throughout Britain. An allowance of £15 a week is made plus £4 a week non-taxable to cover travelling expenses.

The successful Canadian candidate for 1949-50 will be selected by a committee headed by Senator W. Rupert Davies, publisher of the Kingston Whig-Standard and chairman of the Canadian section, EPU. Applications will be received until Feb. 11, 1950, and the successful candidate will go to Britain in mid-April.

Candidates must be on the permanent staff of a Canadian newspaper, be under 30, have five years experience (a lesser period will be considered in the case of war veterans) and must undertake to return to their newspaper for at least two years following their year in Britain.

Night-Club Ballet Latest In Montreal's Entertainment

By ALBERT HUNTER

MONTREAL, Jan. 7 — (CP) — Night-club ballet — accompanied by a 10-piece orchestra, the clinking of glasses and hush-hush whispers of party-goers — is Montreal's latest contribution to the entertainment world.

What a combination, you say? Well, the Montreal public seems to go for it. Engaged for two weeks at one of the city's top night spots (The Normandie Roof), the Ruth Sorel Ballet Group has already received a two-week contract extension, at $1,000 weekly.

Success of the venture —first of its kind in Canada —depends largely on the technical perfection of the dancers, who perform on a 36-by-32-foot stage without benefit of scenery, stage props or artistic lighting effects.

The two ballets performed nightly were selected by Madame Sorel, one of Canada's outstanding ballerinas and choreographers, because of their general appeal and color.

"Three Layers And The Moon Maids" is a short, humorous dance describing the reaction of three staid, learned barristers when they meet two beautiful maidens personification of moon beams.

Canadian Setting

The second is a lively excerpt from "La Gaspesienne," one of the few modern ballets with a distinct Canadian setting. It tells the story of a young girl who leaves her gaspe village home to take a whirl at big-city life.

Night-club manager C. K. Dwinell — who incidentally was the first to introduce barn-dancing into a Canadian night spot— explained why he engaged the Sorel group, apart from its commercial value.

When the Sadler's Wells ballet was in Montreal recently, Madame Sorel and her dancers gave a private performance for the British company. Dwinell, impressed with the beauty and Grace of the artists, decided "that's for me."

Dwinell and Madame Sorel agree that "it's a wonderful way of presenting modern ballet to the public."

Apparently the public also agrees.

Two Children Injured Truck Driver Booked

MONTREAL, Jan. 7 (CP)—Police Friday night arrested Rene Dagenais, 39, of Montreal North after the truck he was driving struck two automobiles and severely injured two children passengers.

In hospital were Yolande Morin, 5, and her four-year-old sister, Madeline, suffered severe head injuries.

Their mother, Mrs. Ernest Morin, was treated in hospital but later released.

Stock Markets Hit Trouble, Continue Soar

By The Canadian Press.

Stock markets encountered some resistance to their six-month bull market but still managed to chalk up gains that carried them into new high ground.

Business increased considerably in the four days of the first week of 1950. Markets were more selective and profit-taking increased.

In New York gains ranging up to two points were chalked up on Wednesday as the market raced ahead to the highest average price level since August 1946.

Profit taking was heavy Thursday but prices continued to forge ahead. Volume soared to more than 2,500,000 shares in the single session, best since early November, 1948.

The Associated Press 60-stock average closed the four days at 72.6, a gain of .4 from the previous Friday.

Canadian Markets Gain

Canadian markets also gained in brisk dealings. In Toronto, industrials broke through into record high ground on three successive sessions. The Exchange's index of 20 representative industrial stocks chalked up a gain of 2.77 at 210.13—the highest point on record since the index was first compiled in 1934.

Individual issues moved on their own on the big board. Profit-taking increased in key paper stocks, tending to hold that list in check but steels and utilities carried on the upward trend.

Base metals led the remainder of the market into easier ground. The group lost 1.15 on the index over the four days. Drilling news held the spotlight in small gold prospects. Several penny issues traded heavily while the gold list as a whole dipped .15. Western oils sagged .63 on the index.

Volume for the four days was 4,345,000 shares, compared with 3,581,000 shares the previous week.

Grain markets firmed from last Friday. In Chicago, May rye showed the best gain while March oats and wheat also brightened. In Winnipeg, May oats, barley and flax tightened slightly.

ICY DEATH PREVENTED—Police are shown above helping interns put Alexandre Pelletier of Montreal into a waiting ambulance after he fell into the Lachine Canal. L. P. Caron (inset) federal worked employed at Lock No. 2, saw Pelletier struggling in the water as he was reporting for work and pulled him out. "That's about the sixth or seventh person I have taken from the canal," he said following his latest rescue. The victim was treated and allowed to return home afterwards.

Funeral Service Held For Miss Mary Weese

HAVELOCK, Jan. 7—(ENS)—The funeral of Miss Mary Edna Weese, 63, was conducted Thursday by the Rev. R. D. Duncanson, of Knox Presbyterian Church, at the Curtis Funeral Home.

Pallbearers were Wesley Johnston, William Smith, Harry Watson, Carmen Coon, William Copp and William Forsyth. Burial was in Maple Grove cemetery.

Miss Weese was a native of Belmont township, a daughter of the late Henry Weese and Sarah Jane Holbrooks. She had lived with her brother, Mr. Harry Weese, for the past six months, coming here from Smith Falls. Her death in a Peterborough hospital followed a short illness from a heart ailment.

She was a member of the Presbyterian Church and of a Toronto Rebekah Lodge. She leaves a sister, Mrs. A. B. Wormald, of Toronto; four brothers, Horace J. Weese, of Toronto, Newton B. Weese, of Little Rock, Arkansas, Robert A. Weese, of Oceanside, California, and Harry Weese, of Havelock.

The hymn "Abide With Me" was sung at the funeral by Arthur Wormald and Miss Audrey Wormald, of Toronto.

Canadian Army Said Reaching 50,000 Quota

OTTAWA, Jan. 7 (CP)—This year is expected to close out the post-war period of expansion for the regular Canadian forces and usher in an era of consolidation.

They will taper off in the neighborhood of 50,000 to 51,000 men, some 3,000 to 4,000 stronger than they are today, in the opinion of informed quarters.

Cemetery Board Reports

WARKWORTH, Jan. 7—(ENS)—Annual report of the Stone Cemetery Board reveals a balance on Dec. 31 of $68.88. Board of Directors includes C. W. Massey, Douglas Knight and Everett Samis. Eva P. Bound is secretary-treasurer.

Work of Reconstructing Fort Ste. Marie Described

Few in this city are familiar with archaeology but some insight was given members of the Women's Art Association Friday afternoon in the illustrated lecture by Mrs. Elsie M. Jury, of London, Ontario. Her knowledge has been gained from actually digging in ruins 300 years old with her husband, Professor Jury, of Western University.

For two summers they have been excavating and endeavouring to reconstruct the fort of Ste. Marie, first outpost in America. It was built in 1639 on the shore of Georgian Bay, and fleeing Jesuits in 1650 left 10 years' labour in flames.

The important historical events of that period have been overshadowed by the dramatic and tragic stories of the martyr's lives and it is not generally realized that a whole race was wiped out in Ontario when their small farms were destroyed and villages were burned to the ground by Indians.

In the years following Champlain's arrival at Quebec in 1610 until the murder of six Jesuit priests in 1648, '49 and '50, there was perhaps the most courageous attempt at colonization ever made by Europeans, Mrs. Jury stated. "Eight hundred miles from the small trading post of Quebec, a few Frenchmen tried to sow the seeds of civilization. We can be proud that some of their descendants are still among us."

Last year's investigations brought to light the interesting fact that with marvellous engineering skill their had been constructed a canal, eight feet wide, with three stop gates to control the water and two locks, the first so built as to halt an enemy's advance. Pictures showed the timbers that had lined the canal and formed the gates and sluices, most of them burnt to the water line, and also a solid loading place within the second lock. Another canal brought drinking water within the walls of the fort was also found.

Mrs. Jury showed a drawing of the buildings as they are now believed to have been. Digging has yielded information as to their size and shape and a great find was a gable which showed the slope of the roofs. Enough of the altar stones are in place that priests could stand in the same places as the Jesuits did at their masses. Some idea of the extensiveness was contained in the information that while Sainte Marie was actually a home for the Jesuit priests, about 700 Indians would be brought inside and fed there three times a day. They were always coming and going, however, but it is estimated about 4,000 people stayed at the shrine in a year. Pagans were kept in a building outside and they were fed too. So, a great many cattle were on hand as the masses of bones reveal, and eggshells have also been found.

It is believed that the French dreamed they could teach the Indians to live like Europeans, as well as to adopt their religion, and they expected Ste. Marie to become a city. The fatal act that halted this civilization and stabilized the map of America was committed by Champlain. In his effort to get beaver skins from the Huron Indians, which were so in demand in France, he made friends with them and joined them in an attack on Iroquois. From then on the Hurons were continually harassed by the fierce and warlike tribe and were unable to combat their method of attack.

The task of interpreting correctly what they find seems most amazing. Mrs. Jury explained that each digger is assigned a ten foot square space and a map of this is placed beside him. Each "find" is recorded on the map, and it and the place in the earth are marked with numbered aluminum plates. Earth layers are recognized by colour. Posts about the height of the original buildings now mark their outlines and when digging is completed they will be finished. About 30,000 visitors signed the guest book last season and as many more did not. When groups of students come a lecture is prepared for them.

Pictures of fresh earth piles showed how much work was done by a small group of diggers. Much of it in the canal was done by hand, but a bit of help in other places was given by bulldozers which were nearby making a parking place at the Martyr's Shrine in readiness for the large scale pageant held there last year.

Mrs. N. D. Seaton, president of the Association, expressed appreciation of the lecture.

The picture projector was supplied and operated by the Rev. W. E. Kibblewhite.

Give People Music They Want Says Band Leader

By PAT USSHER

NEW YORK — (CP) — Most people want to hear an orchestra play nostalgic tunes, says Paul Taubman, a native of Winnipeg who now leads a four-piece ensemble in the dining room of New York's Shelton Hotel.

"The artist should always play what his listeners want to hear," Taubman said in an interview "We play everything from 'On Wings of Song' to 'Walter Winchell Rhumba'."

His group, the Toptones, consists of Taubman himself at piano, celeste and Hammond organ; Joe Viviano on accordion, Tony Colucci on guitar and Lois Bannerman on harp.

Taubman, a tall, dark-haired, intense-mannered man, became interested in music during his childhood in Winnipeg. He played piano and 'cello as a youngster in various Winnipeg hotels and theatres and played with an orchestra during summer seasons at Lake Louise, Alta., and Minaki Ont. He studied music in the Manitoba capital under Leonard Heaton.

He claims to have been one of the first entertainers to broadcast. He was on the air in Winnipeg on June 15, 1921, over station WCKY.

Made A Start

In 1932, when the depression was at its worst, Taubman came to New York. While continuing his studies at the Damrosch and Juilliard Institutes, he got to know George Jean Nathan, the drama critic. Nathan got him a job at the opening of the Rainbow Room, a skyscraper entertainment place in Rockefeller Centre. Taubman played the piano and relieved Ray Noble as orchestra leader.

From the Rainbow Room, Taubman graduated to the Ambassador Hotel and then to the swanky Penthouse Club, overlooking Central Park.

When the war came, he served in the United States army, in the 63rd Infantry Division. He composed the official song of the Bomber Command, entitled "Bomber Command."

Became Composer

Meanwhile he had not forgotten his 1921 broadcast. He composed and played music for a number of shows carried on U.S. networks, including the Rosemary show, "Adventures of Perry Mason," "True Detective," "Chandu the Magician" and "Frank Merriwell." The music was worked out to dovetail with the scripts

He also has recorded a number of children's pieces. He said the most popular of these are "Adventures in Mother Goose Land" and an album of "Raggedy Ann" stories.

But Taubman, now an American citizen, eventually wearied of radio work and took the engagement at the Shelton Hotel.

"Whatever an artist plays, he should never let his personality superimpose itself on the personality of the composer," said Taubman.

A few years ago Taubman married Emile Gregoire, who was born in Massachusetts, although her family came from the Maritime Provinces.

Taubman claimed he has the second finest stamp collection in the United States devoted entirely to stamps concerned with music.

"I have all but two or three stamps, which are very expensive in this category," he said. The collection includes stamps commemorating composers and others which include musical instruments in their design.

He said the top collection in the field is that of Theodore Steinway.

IODE News

57th REGIMENT CHAPTER

In the Officers' Mess at the Armouries Thursday afternoon the regular meeting of 57th Regiment Chapter, IODE, took place with Regent Mrs. C. M. Scott presiding. One minute silence was observed in memory of the late Provincial secretary, Mrs. McCulloch.

Post-war convener Mrs. P. Latchford reported receiving several letters of thanks from recipients of food parcels in Britain.

Money was voted to the Endowment Fund, shipping and maintenance fund, Empire work in India, Lucy Morrison Memorial and new Civic Hospital.

Mrs. G. Melton, Mrs. F. Watson and Mrs. J. Duncan conducted nominations and they will present a slate of officers at the annual meeting which is to be held on Wednesday evening, February 1, at 7:45 p.m. in the officers' mess.

TOURISTS' DELIGHT—Victoria policemen prefer modern flat caps but the city's police commissioner insists that two, stationed at the docks, wear old-style helmets—for the benefit of tourists. Now that Winnipeg has done way with helmets for its policemen, Victoria is the only Canadian city where wide-eyed American visitors can gaze at bobbies as "a little bit of old England."

PROPHETIC OF SPRING — There's a lyrical new spirit, a discreet femininity to current spring hats. At left, a side-swooping hat in pebble white felt takes deep plunge to side and rich moss rose daringly tucked into its snowy depths. Right, the "derby" gets a romantic lift as perky rose in soft shades of pink blossoms on crest of softly rolled brim, banked with moss green ribbon and veiling. Can also be worn now with winter furs.

Keene Hockey Club Dance Enjoyed By 65 Couples

The Keene Hockey Club's formal dance on Friday evening was a highly enjoyable event for 65 couples. The Keene Hall, still festively decorated, was the setting for a parade of lovely evening gowns. Splendid music for dancing was supplied by an orchestra led by Delbert Coward.

Arrangements for the affair were carried out by Harold Kempt, Tom Gall and Percy Adamson. Girls who helped in the check room were Isobel Murphy, Marlene Moore, Bev Gall, Gwen McCarthy and Marie Shearer. A snack bar was operated by Bill Brown and Bill Steele.

In the receiving line were: Dr. and Mrs. W. Ford, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Shearer, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Mackness, Mr. Harold Kempt and Miss Madeline Davidson.

Trinity WMS Review Year

OMEMEE, Jan. 7 (ENS)—Successes and reverses during the past year were reviewed by Trinity United Church, WMS when they met Thursday for their first meeting in the new year. The meeting was held at the home of Miss C. Connell and Miss O. Wilton.

The business was conducted by the president, Mrs. H. Graham, after she had led in prayer. The treasurer, Mrs. R. Brooks, reported $397.90 on the way to the Presbyterial treasurer while the auxiliary's allocation was $290 The Stewardship secretary, Mrs. Vaughan, announced that a record had been made in 1949 for systematic giving. On the other hand, Mrs. H. Deyell reported the Baby Band slightly behind their 1948 record. The Mission Band had also fallen behind owing to the fact that a leader was not available during the fall term. Arrangements were made, however, to resume the meetings in the near future, under the leadership of Mrs. T. J. Pogue, assisted by Miss Margaret Graham.

Letters of thanks from Mrs. D. Griffin and Mrs T. J. Pogue for sympathy extended by the society were read by Mrs. R. Williamson. Temperance was presented by Mrs. S. Moyer in a reading entitled "Termites Attack the Fundations." Mrs. Zufelt, convener of the Friendship committee, reported 35 calls being made on sick, shut-ins and newcomers.

Mrs. S. Northey's group had charge of the program. Mrs. G. Bannon read scripture passages in Old and New Testaments exemplyfying the Bible as a guide to Christian faith and conduct. Mrs. Northey led in prayer. She also urged that more scripture reading be introduced in the home to counteract the exposure of everyone in general and children in particular to radio accounts of sordid living, cruelty and murder. Mrs. H. McKee sang "If I Have Wounded Any Heart Today." Mrs. G. Overholt, Mrs. McKee and Mrs. R. Clifford presented a chapter of the study book "Growing With the Years." Lunch was served by Mrs. Northey's group.

"I get this fixed up to beat the turkey thieves and what happens? There's a power cut and I lose the lot!"

Of Interest to Women

DOROTHY DIX

Too Many Mothers Claim Sole Rights for Children

IN NOTHING else do women give men such an unfair deal as they do about their children.

So far as her children are concerned the average woman is a monopolist. She cannot bear to share them with anyone, not even with their own father. They are hers. She resists to the death anyone else's claim upon them.

Dorothy Dix

It is to mothers' fierce sense of possessiveness that may be attributed the anomalous position so many men hold in their own households and the fact that except for purposes of legitimacy and support their children might just as well be fatherless. It is customary to blame this condition of affairs on men and say that they have no paternal instinct and are too obsorbed in making money to have time for children.

But this is seldom true. Most men love children and desire them. They marry in order to have them. Long before Junior is born they have planned the good times they will have together and how they will teach him to fish or hunt and how they will chum together.

Won't Give Him Chance.

It never crosses a man's unsuspicious mind that one of these lovely dreams will ever come true because a jealous woman, who is determined that the baby shall love her best, never gives him a chance even to get acquainted with his own child.

Of course, the mother's alibi is that a man doesn't know anything about taking care of a baby. Of course, if Mother can go along on a family jaunt and still be the dominant figure in the scene, it is all right with her, but not otherwise. Father must be kept in his role of bill-payer. The children must never find out that he is human and that it is lots of fun to go out with him.

Probably not many women consciously teach their children to regard their father as an ogre that Mother has to propitiate in their behalf, but they hourly commit the crime against good, kind men because they are determined that their children shall look to them for happiness and pleasures. When Johnny wants a new pair of skates, or Janey craves a new party dress, Mother doesn't say: "Ask your father, I'm sure he will give it to you if he possibly can."

No. Mother makes a big dark mystery of it and says that she will talk to Father about it and see if she can't persuade him to give Johnny or Janey what they want. And she leaves Johnny and Janey feeling that Father is a tightwad or a grouch or a spoilsport who doesn't care whether they are happy or not, and it is only Mother who wants to give them pleasure.

Hold Father As Threat

Worse still is the woman who teaches her children to hate their father by holding him as a terror over their heads. When a child is naughty she doesn't punish it herself. She wants the child to think of her with nothing but love and tenderness, so she says: "I'll tell your father when he comes home tonight and he will give you what's coming to you." "You better not let your father see THAT school report or you will never get the bicycle he promised you." And so the poor little trembling wretch dreads his father's coming home of an evening and grows up with the same sort of affection for him we would feel for the hangman who was about to tie the noose around our necks.

Every child grows up to the tune of how much Mother loves it and how much Mother has sacrificed for it. No one would minimize mother love or mother sacrifice, but while mothers are inculcating this propaganda in a child's mind why don't they tell the youngster a little about how much Father loves it and how much Father sacrifices for it? For the average man lays his life on the altar of his family. He slaves to keep it comfortable and to give his children the advantages he never had, and he gets mighty little reward if they neither love him nor are grateful to him.

Perhaps the women who are so determined to be all in all to their children that they shut their husbands out of their children's lives do not realize what they are doing, but they are committing the unpardonable sin, for they are depriving the children's father of all that makes his sacrifices worth while and they are depriving the children of the wisest counsel and the most steadying influence that can come to them.

Fashion Museum Library Dream Of Clothes Expert

By MURIEL NARRAWAY

LONDON, Jan. 7 — (CP) — Dream of fashion experts Doris Langley Moore is a fashion museum — including reference library, pictures and actual clothes of every era.

Mrs. Moore—who has one of the finest collections of 19th and 20th century English dresses — would like to see a gallery of fashion "where besides historic specimens, there would be current fashions.

"... Selected examples of the latest textiles and the best products of our tailors would be acquired year by year and shown side by side with dresses from grandma's youth.

"And what better time to open this gallery of costume, than the 1951 festival of Britain," says Mrs. Moore hopefully.

Mrs. Moore's new book, "a woman in fashion," explodes a few of the age-old theories about grandma's waist.

The waist of the Victorian Miss was not 18 inches—it was at least 26. The smallest waist is Mrs Moore's whole collection is 21 inches.

Reason the Victorian waist looked so much smaller was the built-out bust and hips.

Used Effects

Other exploded myths are that Victorian hips and bosoms were rounder and that shoulders sloped more delicately.

"The former," says Mrs. Moore "was due to built-out cage-like corsets, the latter to skilful cut.

"The boyish look of the 1920s has also become exaggerated by the years.

"The straight-up-and-down figures fashionable then was an optical illusion created by dress-cut.

"The fact that they were not up-and-down is attested by the mere existence of a younger generation.

"The fact is that woman's figures have changed very little with the years," said Mrs. Moore

"Hello—is that the sports department?"

31 Student Nurses "Capped" Each Given Gideon Bible

First cornerstone of their career as nurses was laid for 31 students of Civic Hospital School of Nursing Friday evening in the "capping" ceremony. Miss Jean Brown, leading student in the class, briefly reviewed the four months preliminary term which led to this event, in her valedictory address.

With their caps the girls feel they are really on the way to their goal. Almost forgotten are the first few days of confusion as they tried to learn the rules and regulations of the hospital, the struggle with anatomy and physiology, principles and practices of nursing, and the "thousand deaths they have died" since going to work on wards.

Miss C. Wilson, assistant superintendent of nursing, congratulated the girls on their work and presented the caps. Mr. John Hornal, hospital superintendent, called the girls to the platform.

They were:

Misses Marilyn Bowles, Jean Brown, Frances Cameron, Marion Dugan, Beverly Gamble, Patricia Martyn, Mary Morrison, all of Peterborough; Laurabel Barrie, Norwood; Phyllis Boadway, Charlotte McArthur, Orillia; Shirley Brooks, Ruth Green, Shirley Langdon, Betty Rogers, all of Lindsay; Barbara Calvert, Reaboro; Nancy Carnegie, Bethel Laidley, Omemee; Madeline Elmhirst, Indian River; Beryl Larmer, Nestleton; Vivian Latondresse, Toronto; Maxine Lessard, Flinton; Muriel Mann, Picton; Keitha McElroy, Keene; Barbara Pratt, Pickering; Eleanor Regan, Marmora; Mary Gay Scott, Port Hope; Betty Sutton, Campbellford; Edith Switzer, Fenelon Falls; Mary Thynne, Brighton; Shirley Tufts, Madoc; Barbara Whiley, Hilton.

Staff members who pinned on the caps were Mrs. H. Wilcox, science instructor; Miss Mary Pickens, nursing arts instructor, and Miss Ruberta Cranfield, clinical supervisor.

Each of the girls was also presented with a small testament, bound in white leather, given by the Gideon Society. Mrs. H. C. Pullybank, president of the local branch, said that Civic Hospital had been the first in Canada to grant permission for the nurses to receive these gifts, and that result of the presentation to last year's class was that it is now possible for them to be given wherever the Board was willing. Mrs. M. E. Phippen, vice president, handed out the books as names were read by nurse Miss M. Nesbitt.

The Rev. W. E. Kibblewhite, rector of All Saints' Church, offered a dedicatory prayer, and also addressed the students. He spoke of the "touch" with which Florence Nightingale soothed her patients in the Crimean War and offered the hope that this class might individually develop some of the magic touch of sympathy and understanding that would reach the patients' hearts and bring hope and healing to the soul as well as the body.

Greetings to the class and a membership in Students' Council were offered by the president, Miss Agnes Bowler. Chairman Mr. Hornal also extended greetings.

Miss Langdon entertained with an amusing reading called "Under the Circumstances." With Miss Martyn playing the accompaniment, Misses Larmer and Bowles sang together a favorite of all, "Bells of St. Mary's." The class song of '52 was given first public rendition.

Relatives and friends of the students attending the ceremony were given a greeting by Mr. John R. Marshall, chairman of the Board.

Platform guests included Mrs. Eva Brackenridge, president of the Women's Auxiliary, Mrs. Roy Taylor, vice president of the Alumnae Association, Dr. G. S. Cameron, head of the school of nursing, Dr. S. Y. Walsh, president Medical Society.

At conclusion of the ceremony, refreshments were served by the day nursing staff.

Selwyn Women Form Institute

SELWYN, Jan. 7—(ENS)— A Women's Institute is to be formed at Selwyn and already ten women have indicated their intention to join at the commencement. The decision was made Thursday, when Mrs. Harry Shearer of Buckhorn, addressed the Women's Association at the home of Mrs. Gordon Fitzgerald There was a large attendance of members and six visitors.

The Scripture lesson was read by Mrs. George Mathieson and a New Year topic was given by Mrs. William Elliott.

Mrs. Evans Blewett read the financial report for the past year which showed a $88.67 bank balance.

A quilting in the church hall was planned for Jan. 19 and a croquinole party also in the hall for Jan. 20. The February meeting is also to be held in the church hall on Feb. 2. when an all day quilting will be held.

Refreshments were served.

Prefers the Fresh Beauty Of Canadian Girls

Peterborough girls are as lovely to look at as those anywhere—and that includes sunny California's bathing beauties and glamour girls.

This is the opinion of a citizen Mr. Alfred A Garrett, 130 Fradette Ave., who has made two extended visits in the neighborhood of Hollywood, Santa Monica and Los Angeles in the past two years In fact, he much prefers the fresh beauty of Canadians to the sundried complexions and hair of the southern gals. And if it's moisture in the air that does it, there should be no need of beauty cream here these days.

But pity the poor Californians who had only one day of rain in the 11 weeks of 1949 that Mr Garrett was there, and in the previous year they went for more than nine months without a fall of water This makes the ground very dry too, but they have no restrictions on watering the gardens for the Colorado river abundantly supplies the locality

It seems that even in Hollywood it is difficult to see movie stars in person. Though he was living only five minutes walk from Warner Bros studio, Mr. Garrett didn't see any there, but when passing he could see churches and other picture "props." He did see Miss Ida Lupino coming from one of Los Angeles' large department stores and she passed right by him. He might not have recognized her but for her orchid corsage and the exclamations of some women nearby. He drove past many of the star's homes in Beverly Hills, including Hope's and Benny's but all of the new ones are built so that only the roof-tops show. Joan Crawford's is one that can be seen and he saw those of some older stars. He also stood outside the Brown Derby, favorite night spot of celebrities. To see famous radio programs produced required standing in line for at least three hours so he passed up this privilege. There were no "premieres" held during his visits.

Life in California would suit most northerners well. Mr. Garrett enjoyed fruit from his sister's garden—avocados, supposed to be very healthful but to his taste not particularly delicious, peaches and figs. The oranges were green but would turn in February and be ready to pick at the end of March. He could take long walks enjoying warm air, beautiful flowers and scenery, and a short ride would take him to the ocean.

But holidaying bored him, and without a social security card he could have no employment. So, as the new year arrived, he left Glamourland, three months before his ticket expired. He travelled in the utmost comfort to Chicago on the fast Santa Fe aluminum train, then on to Peterborough by CNR and on Thursday he was busy upholstering at Rumary's Water St. workshop, up two long flights of dingy stairs, where the only heat comes from a tiny stove.

What's Right

You receive a telephoned invitation to a party at a time when you have a house guest.

WRONG WAY: Accept the invitation without mentioning the guest, figuring that you will just take him along.

RIGHT WAY: Mention that you have a guest, if you feel that your hostess won't mind your bringing him. If you aren't sure that it will be all right, say that you are sorry but that you won't be able to be at the party.

Your future is in your own hands!

Plain Words to Young People...

LIKE EVERYBODY ELSE, you want to step into a good job upon leaving Business College or Commercial School. Good luck to you! We hope you succeed!

But—and this is a big BUT—be sure you don't leave too soon. Be sure you possess what every employer wants—a complete, finished training. If not, you're liable to find yourself in a blind alley, with nowhere to go.

Your course of training at Business School has been designed by experts to help you succeed. Every month counts—the last even more than the first! The men and women who plan and teach the course are just as much interested in your business career as you are. After all, your success is the best advertisement of their skill and thoroughness.

That's why leaving a School before completing the prescribed course is unfair to yourself, your teachers and your future employers. Don't be tempted away by rosy pictures of "easy money"! By refusing to sacrifice the last precious months of training, you'll soon overtake and leave behind those others who leave their course unfinished.

Take heed of the words of a Principal of a prominent Business College:

". . . Years of experience prove these facts: Insufficiently trained students are the last to be promoted when times are good, and the first to be let go when times are bad."

". . . Struggling, 'undergraduate' typists create a very bad first impression. And they're lucky if they ever live it down!"

Again, from the head of the Commercial Department of a large Collegiate:

". . . Practice makes perfect with a typewriter or shorthand! And it's the last stage of a prescribed course that makes the difference between a mediocre typist and an efficient secretary."

". . . The greater proficiency and self-confidence, the greater pay. Bungling and uncertainty earn nothing!"

Don't let a skipped month or two cause you years of regret and frustration! Only by completing your prescribed course can you hope to reap its FULL benefit. Those last months are vital! They are expressly planned to polish off the rough spots . . . perfect accuracy . . . mold self-confidence. It's a wise student who thinks of tomorrow—today!

NOTICE

IN THE MATTER OF THE MUNICIPAL ACT AND IN THE MATTER OF A PROPOSED BY-LAW OF THE MUNICIPALITY OF THE TOWNSHIP OF DOURO, TO STOP UP AND CLOSE AN ALLOWANCE FOR HIGHWAY AND SELL AND CONVEY THE SAME TO THE CANADIAN GENERAL ELECTRIC COMPANY LIMITED IN EXCHANGE FOR A ROAD ALLOWANCE TO BE RECEIVED FROM THE CANADIAN GENERAL ELECTRIC COMPANY LIMITED.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, pursuant to Section 498 of The Municipal Act, that the Municipality of the Township of Douro proposes to consider and if deemed advisable to pass at its Regular Meeting to be held at the Township Hall, on the Sixth Line of Douro, on MONDAY, THE SIXTH DAY OF FEBRUARY, 1950, at 1:30 o'clock p.m., a By-law to Stop Up and Close part of the Allowance for Road between Lots Numbers Five and Six, in the Eleventh Concession of the Township of Douro, which said Parcel is further described as follows, that is to say:

ALL AND SINGULAR that certain Parcel or Tract of Land and Premises situate, lying and being in the Township of Douro, in the County of Peterborough and the Province of Ontario, and being composed of that part of the Road Allowance between Lots Numbers 5 and 6, in the 11th Concession of the said Township which lies to the West of a limit drawn on a course north 54° 16' east through a point in the southern limit of the said Road Allowance distant 918.8 feet westerly from the northeasterly angle of Lot Number 5, in the 11th Concession of the said Township,

EXCEPTING THEREOUT that portion of the said Road Allowance now forming the right of way 66 feet in width, of River Road, the centre line of which said right of way is described as follows:

COMMENCING at the intersection of the said centre line with the northwesterly production of the northeasterly limit of Block E, according to Registered Plan Number 15 of the said Township,

THENCE north 38° 3' east, 392.6 feet,

THENCE north 25° 49' east, 481.0 feet,

THENCE north 44° 13' east, 204.1 feet;

THENCE north 38° 25' east to the northern limit of the said Road Allowance, which said Road Allowance excepting thereout the said part used as River Road, is shown coloured red on plan of survey made by J. W Pierce, Ontario Land Surveyor, dated the 24th Day of January, 1947, and on file in his office in the Canadian Bank of Commerce Building, Hunter and Water Streets, Peterborough, Ontario, and contains by admeasurement 2.44 acres, be the same more or less, and sell and convey the above described Lands to Canadian General Electric Company Limited for the sum of $1.00 in exchange for part of an Allowance for Road

AND FURTHER TAKE NOTICE, That before passing the said By-law at its Meeting to be held at the time and place above mentioned, the Council of the Municipality of the Township of Douro shall then and there hear in person or by his counsel, Solicitor or Agent any person who claims that his land will be prejudicially affected by the said By-law and who applies to be heard

DATED at Peterborough, this 30th Day of December, 1949

J. J. COUGHLIN, Clerk.

Federal Aid Needed

WINNIPEG, Jan. 7 (CP)—M. J. Coldwell, national leader of the CCF party, said Friday that federal aid for medical and scientific education was essential to attain the objective of a "strong, united and prosperous nation."

Four-Inch Fall Blankets Roads Farmers Happy

Despite the 3¾ inches of snow which blanketed this area Friday all roads in the city and in the county are reported to be in good condition. In a few places the wind drifted the snow across the highways but snowplows have cleared the path.

Only three accidents were reported to the Provincial Police detachment here during the night. City police reported only two accidents during the night.

Friday afternoon some trouble was encountered by motorists climbing Park Hill Road, Aylmer St. and Hunter St. east hills. The packed snow on the roads prevented cars going over the top in one attempt.

Highway No. 2 Awkward

Peterborough motorists driving from Toronto in the evening had heavy going. One driver told the Examiner that she had left Toronto at eight p.m. but did not reach the city until 12:30. Highway No. 2 was not excessively slippery, but the traction was difficult due to heavy snow and the visibility was severely restricted by driving snow. Maximum speed safely possible for most of the way was 25 mph. The number of ditched cars along the way was a deterrent to fast driving.

Farmers Happy

Snow was welcomed in the county, as farmers happily watched the 3¼ inch fall follow weeks of rain. The snow will be valuable to the land if it remains, as the fields are literally saturated.

Across Province

Canadian Press report that driving conditions throughout Ontario are generally good today, according to the Department of Highways. Roads south of Severn Bridge are snow-surfaced, but have been plowed, sanded and salted to provide good winter driving.

Windsor, London, Toronto, Ottawa, Montreal and Quebec all had sizable snowfalls Friday with more to come. Cooler weather was the general eastern forecast, with a temperature range between 14 and 20 degrees for Ottawa and Montreal, and between 20 and 30 degrees for southern Ontario.

Out west it's a chillier prospect. In southern Alberta west winds Friday hit a peak of 75 miles an hour, clogging all except two main highways with snow, halting school vans and bringing road transport nearly to a standstill.

Cold West

Although eastern temperatures dropped sharply, they were still far above western Canada readings. Prince Albert reported a minimum of 49 below zero, Saskatoon 32 below, Regina 36 below, Winnipeg 28 below and Port Arthur 20 below.

Thousands of Toronto citizens were forced to walk on slush-covered streets when an explosion in a hydro-electric manhole cut power off downtown streetcars for a time.

For Laurentian resort owners in Quebec, the snowfall was the best news in weeks, three inches of snow covered most of the waterlogged hills.

Sheriffs Are Expected To Wear Full Regalia

John Harstone, Sheriff of Peterborough County, dons the cocked hat, sword and full Sheriff's regalia whenever the Supreme Court sits at the county building. In wearing this dress he perpetuates a tradition of dignity which goes back to long established custom in Britain.

While Mr. Harstone has upheld the tradition, it appears that some sheriffs in other parts of the province have defaulted.

In a memorandum to Registrar Gordon Tennet of London, Ont., Chief Justice McRuer states that the full regalia should be worn.

Sheriff R. H. Beattie of London, who does not conform to the tradition at present, foresees what he terms the appearance of the cocked hat and sword. For Peterborough it will merely be a continuation of an ancient custom.

Suffers Minor Injury When Truck Hits Pole

Mrs. Frank Emberson of 344 McDonnell St. received minor facial injuries on Friday when the truck in which she was riding with her husband crashed into a hydro pole, a half mile north of Peterborough on Highway 28.

Mr. Emberson was driving his truck, used in his plumbing business, north on the highway when it skidded on the slippery surface near the city waterworks. The vehicle plunged into the ditch and rammed into the pole loosening it from its foundations.

The truck was extensively damaged.

Provincial Constable Earl Berwick investigated.

Stepson Killed

COLEBY HALL, England, Jan. 7 (AP)—Alasdair Black, 20, stepson of the retired wartime chief marshal Lord Tedder was killed Friday in a training plane crash.

THINGS TO COME—President Truman, delivering his annual State of the Union message to a joint session of Congress, predicted that the average family income, by the year 2000, would be $12,000 a year. On the rostrum behind the Chief Executive are Vice President Alben Barkley (left) and Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn.

Facing Reality In China Say British Newspapers

LONDON, Jan. 7 (Reuters).—British newspapers today welcomed Britain's recognition of the Communist government in China, though most of them emphasized that the step did not imply approval ofg the Peiping regime.

"Recognition is not a reward for good behavior or a sign of political sympathy," the independent Times said in a leading editorial. "It does not commit the government to any particular policy or imply approval of Communism in China or anywhere else."

US Hesitates

American hesitation to follow Britain's example might be based on the domestic policies of the United States, the Times said. "There are still powerful groups, including the majority of the Republican Party, who in their regrets for the failure of American policy in China have not yet faced the realities of the present."

"The proper policy for the Western powers is clear. It is to make plain that while they naturally regret that a Communist regime should have been established in China they are ready to accept it, is they have done in Russia, to do business with it, and to treat it on a basis of equality...."

The Liberal Manchester Guardian said that the recognition was not "a certificate of merit for Communism."

"It is merely the acceptance of realities," the paper added

Trade Must Continue

The Conservative Daily Mail said hard realism dictated acknowledgment of the new regime in China. "Our trade must be carried on and the lives and property of British citizens safeguarded whoever rules in China," said the Mail.

The pro-Commonwealth Daily Express thought the recognition "wise," since it acknowledged realities. But it in no way solved the immense problems created by the emergence of this new force in the Far East.

The Daily Herald, Labor Party newspaper, stressed the fact that the recognition had no political significance. Where the step would lead to friendly relations and useful economic interchanges would depend largely on Mao Tse-tung.

FutureOfChinese Up To US-France

LAKE SUCCESS, Jan. 7 (CP)—Nationalist China's future in the United Nations seems for the present to be in the hands of the United States and France.

On the Security Council Red China now has been recognized by five of the 11 countries—Russia, Britain, Yugoslavia, India and Norway.

Five others—the United States, France, Cuba, Ecuador and Egypt—still recognize the last-ditch Formosa Island regime of Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalists.

Nationalist China is squarely in the middle—holder of the Council presidency for the month of January. Chinese delegate T. F. Tsiang makes his first appearance in that uncomfortable spot when the Council mets Tuesday on the subject of conventional armamets.

Any move to unseat the Nationalist U.N. delegation and replace it with a Chinese Communist group armed with full big power privileges is expected to simmer for a while.

But some U.N. lawyers agree that the current Council lineup could mean that, with two more votes, the Russian-led opposition to the Nationalists might be able to achieve just such a replacement.

For approval, a proposal in the Council must get at least seven of the 11 votes. On substantive questions—important ones that amount to more than mere procedure—it must escape a veto from all five of the permanent members.

China, as one of the "Big Five" permanent members, has the veto, along with Russia, Britain, France and the United States.

Have Big Program

OTTAWA, Jan. 7 (CP)—Works Minister Alphonse Fournier said Friday that the government plans to spend about $108,000,000 on public works this year. At the same time he warned members of the Quebec Industrial Commission not to look on his department as an employment stop-gap in times of depression.

Hearing Adjourned

LONDON, Ont., Jan. 7 (CP)—Hearing began here Friday for Marshall George, of Muncey, charged with assault occasioning bodily harm in the Christmas Eve axe wounding of Clifford Odxtator. With Crown evidence still incomplete, the hearing was adjourned until Monday.

Mrs. Albert Johnston Buried In Apsley

The Rev. C. A. G. Spence of St. George's Anglican Church in Apsley, assisted by Donald Hester, officiated at the funeral service Friday for Mrs. Albert Johnston. Mrs. Johnston died Wednesday at the Red Cross Outpost hospital after a short illness. During the service Mrs. Ralph Fitzgerald sang the hymn, Good night and good morning.

Pall-bearers were: Glen Nichols, Robert James, Herbert James, Guy James, Charles Lalphey, Howard Johnston. Interment was at St. George's Cemetery.

Lost Barns In Fire Neighbors Aid Victims

LINDSAY, Jan. 7—Suffering the total loss of their barn and most of their outbuildings when fire swept through them Christmas week, Mr. and Mrs. George King, of Reaboro, were presented with a considerable sum of money by their friends and neighbours this week. The impromptu presentation came as a complete surprise to the Kings as they have lived in Reaboro for only two years, moving there from Manilla.

It is reported the insurance did not fully cover the loss by fire, and that so far, no plans have been made to replace the building. Meanwhile, a neighbour is caring for the livestock which was rescued from the flame-swept barn.

Shoe X-rays Rapped

MONTREAL, Jan. 7 (CP)—Use of X-rays in fitting shoes involves "potential dangers," the current issue of the Canadian Medical Association Journal said in an editorial. Repeated exposures of the feet to the type of machine widely used in stores can interfere with the growth of children's feet and cause radiation burns, the Journal said.

A Silent Listener

TORONTO, Jan. 7 (CP)—Newfoundland will be a "silent listener" at the Dominion-Provincial Conference opening in Ottawa next week, Premier Smallwood said Friday. That is the role which "befits newcomers," he said in an interview.

OF IRISH ORIGIN

Handball was first originated by the Irish in about the 10th or 11th century.

Floral Crown To Fire Chief New Petunia

The only flower to win All-America selections honors for 1950 is a new petunia named Fire Chief. It has also won the first gold medal award for flowers since the first red morning glory, Scarlett O'Hara, was acclaimed in 1938.

Fire Chief might be recommended to Peterborough's fire fighters for their window boxes next summer. It is described as a "firecracker red" with a glow that might keep flower lovers among the firemen running with the watering can to put out the flame. It is suggested as appropriate for the fire hall, and if the men are interested they might send up to Bert Hick of Lindsay, well known to the members of Peterborough Horticultural Society. He is featuring it in the new Hick catalogue now in distribution.

All-America selections are made after the plants have passed extensive growing tests over a two-year growing period in trial grounds located in all parts of the United States and southern Canada. Fire Chief passed them all in garden soils from sand to clay, and in locations from near sea level to a mile high. It will bloom from spring until the fall frosts. A recent issue of The Christian Science Monitor devoted one-quarter of a page to a picture of Fire Chief.

In Many Gardens

The Monitor says: "The supply of seed of the 1950 flower debutante is enough to provide one dozen seeds to every man, woman and child in the United States. It is the top flower of the year and will appear in many American gardens."

The All-America Rose Selection for 1950, rated by the American Rose Society, are three hybrid teas: Capistrano, a rose-pink with open flowers measuring six inches across; Mission Bells, one of the freest flowering hybrid teas ever tested, is a deep salmon pink; and Sutter's Gold, an exceptionally fragrant yellow, already winner of awards on both sides of the Atlantic. They are recommended to Gordon Miller, John A. Smith and other local rosarians.

Sutter's Gold commemorates the 100th anniversary of the discovery of gold in California.

The Floribunda Fashion also gets top rating in the America Rose Society's selections.

Boys Knocked Down One In Hospital

A car ran over ten-year-old Ross Brown, son of William J. Brown, 453 Wellington St., early Friday evening and knocked his 13-year-old friend, William Lawrence, Bridgenorth, to the ground. The younger boy is now in Civic Hospital suffering from a cut head and Lawrence is at home, with no serious hurt.

Brown is reported to have spent a good night at the hospital but this morning, does not remember anything about the accident. It occurred on Park Hill Road.

Ross Latimer, 681 Reid St., driver of the car, was meeting a bus, going in the opposite direction and did not see the two children in his path. He tried to stop but the car went over Brown and knocked Lawrence to the ground to the right of the car.

Kaye's ambulance took Brown to Civic Hospital and Constable Douglas Farthing took Lawrence in the city police cruiser. The lad complained of a sore ankle but asked to be taken home. Constable Claire McGillen also investigated the accident.

Mario Lanza Licks Fat, Career Safe

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 7 (CP)—Mario Lanza, who looms as one of the bright new stars of 1950, has conquered the one thing that endangered his film career—fat.

"I have eliminated one problem since my first picture," he remarked. "I no longer have to worry about gaining so much weight.

"Like all operative singers, I love to eat and tend to be lazy. Operatic singers always excuse themselves from exercise by saying they don't want to injure their voices. Besides, the voice does sound better coming from a well-cushioned chest.

"However, when I finished 'That Midnight Kiss' and started touring the country, I found myself getting fatter and fatter. I had to do something or I would eat myself out of a movie career."

Lanza started exercising and turned the fat to muscle. "Have a feel,' he said, thrusting forth his fore-arm. "That's muscle." He added that his favorite sport was boxing.

"I do wear a throat guard," he said; "but there's really no excuse for singers not exercising."

No Smoking, Too

One of Lanza's other precautions was to give up smoking. "An opera singer can drink all the wine he wants, but a cigaret will hurt him," he declared.

Smokless, fatless Lanza has his future pretty well assured. He is now doing "The Coast of New Orleans" and next tackles "The Life of Caruso,' which will be given the epic treatment. After that, he will sing opera at La Scala in Italy.

"Don't let anybody kid you — there is no opera like the Italian. It's a rare thing for an American to be asked to sing over there. I feel it is a great honor."

The tenor's contract is unusual —it allows him six months of each year for concerts. It's the kind of deal other actors would like to have, but don't.

HOUSE NO. 105—From the drawing board of Architect C. B. K. Van Norman have come some of Canada's finest homes built in the last decade. Here is another example of his splendid work in the residential field. Exterior walls are horizontal and vertical cedar siding painted white, combined with a veneer of local boulder. On entering the house one is immediately impressed with the two-storey high hall. Beautiful oak stairs and a painted handrail lead up to a second floor balcony, and directly facing the entrance are four broad stairs leading down to the main hall. Here indeed is a "luxury house", yet on a moderate scale. A glance at the room layout shown will prove how true this is. There are four family bedrooms with two baths. As well as a maid's room and first floor washroom. For further information write Home Building in Canada, 372 Bay St., Toronto.

Give Taxpayer Protection Test Building Materials

By GEORGE FORSTER

OTTAWA, Jan. 7 — (CP)— It costs more to put a gallon of paint on a building than it does to buy the paint. So the longer paint lasts on a government building, the less it costs the taxpayers.

There are dozens of other ways in which the taxpayer can take a beating from faulty building materials—or the wrong material in the wrong place. Deep in the vaults beneath the west block of the Parliament buildings, government engineers are making sure that never hapepns.

They test the building materials going into public-works department projects from coast to coast. That includes the soil on which the project is built, the concrete paint and steel that go into it and sometimes even the water to be used in the boilers of the building's heating plant.

Big Staff

It all started in 1892 when the Public Works Department opened a concrete-testing laboratory. Now a staff of 20 occupies some 9,000 feet of floor space, scattered around the basement of the west block. The staff is under the supervision of J. W. Lucas, a 43-year-old civil engineer who has been with the department since 1931 except for a wartime stretch as an R.C.A.F. engineering officer.

In the laboratories, big presses crush blocks of concrete to test the strength of samples going into government buildings, wharves and marine works.

In the paint- testing section, samples of paint are exposed to the burning light of an arc lamp and occasionally doused with water for from to 15 to 20 days. That simulates the affect of sun and rain on exterior surfaces.

Problems

Sometimes the laboratory is asked to solve building problems for public works engineers across Canada. The testing section is part of the chief engineer's branch of the department and often is asked whether a particular material will be suitable for a particular job or why some material has unexpectedly deteriorated. This work is done only for government departments, never for private contractors.

Wide Variety In New Books For Library

One hundred and seventy three books were added to the shelves of the Public Library during December, including 93 to the fiction section, 23 on fine arts, 17 biographies, 16 in the literature section, 18 travel books and four in each of the history, sociology and religion sections.

The large addition to the books of fiction now circulating includes Cot and Cradle stories by Catherine Parr Traill, the 19th century writer whose observations on pioneer life of the Rice Lake-Lakefield district are now valuable documents.

Reprints of two books by the same author, added to the literature shelves during December are The Backwoods of Canada and The Canadian Crusoes.

Among the fiction are Beresford-Howe's The Invisible Gate The Short Novels of Dostoevski, Christopher Morley's Kitty Foyle, E. M. Remarque's Three Comrades, Fifty Five Short Stories from the New Yorker, and I. A. R. Wylie's Keeper of the Flame.

The biography of John L. Lewis by S. Alinsky, Albert Schweitzer by J. Gollomb, Jewish Artists of the 19th and 20th century by K Schwarz. Stravinsky by A. Tansman, Odette, the story of a British agent by J. Tickell and Tully's F. D. R. My Boss are among the personality portraits.

Many types of useful arts covered by the new additions. The Smorgasbord Cookbook offers an opportunity for experimenting with Scandanavian cooking. Churchill's Painting As A Pastime, Jacob's Music Lover's Anthology and books about fishing, skiing, hockey handicrafts, religious art, the mines and a number of occupations are on the new list.

A. Garnahan's The Vatican will be of interest to a number of people at this time.

Twenty five Best Plays of the Modern American Theatre, compiled by J. Gasner is among the books of literature an another is Canadian Magazine, a collection of stories described as stories of many moods.

Professor C. E. M. Joad's Shaw is also listed under the literature section.

Poetry seems to be the only major form of writing to be omitted from the new stock.

Can You Build A Home Without Aid Of Contractor?

Maybe you're tempted to try to build that new dream home yourself . . . without the aid of a contractor. If you are . . . hold tight until you've mulled over some of the following problems that will confront you. There is no more important factor in the building of a really satisfactory home than the employment of a good contractor. Let's check the reasons why:

Good contractors are experts in their line. They've been studying their business for years . . . all the while gaining in experience and practice. You may know perfectly well the differnce between a joist and a rafter, but when foundation walls begin to crack or crumble . . . what then? With a good contractor you can relax . . . safe in the knowledge that there will be no mistakes to plague you. He'll save you limitless worry and unnecessary expense.

A word of caution, however. Make sure the contractor you get is a good one. As in every other business there are unfortunately a few who are not capable, take little pride in their work, and aren't honest. So don't feel bashful about inquiring into a contractor's past work and business record. There are plenty of honest and capable contractors who will take as much pride as you in the house they build.

Put Contract in Writing

Give your contractor a fair break by setting into writing all the jobs, responsibilities and obligations he is to assume. Misunderstandings can only arise through the lack of a complete and thorough contract. Too much care cannot be given to building specifications. Avoid indefinite contracts with every means in your power.

Let's look at just one of the problems you would have to face without the aid of a contractor . . . inefficient labour. Unlike conditions of ten years ago, you can't simply pick up a building crew at a moment's notice. A contractor has been in this field for years and bargains for the best men he can get . . . masons for brick work, foundations, fireplace and terrace . . . common and semi-skilled labourers for excavating, grading and clearing. . . . besides a host of plumbers, plasters, roofers, decorators, painters, and other skilled tradesmen. If this hasn't discouraged you enough to decide in favor of a contractor, then here's a further list of reasons why he should be employed.

TOOLS: Did you ever think of the variety of equipment needed on a construction job? Not just a few carpenters tools . . . but wheelbarrows, ropes, blocks-and-tackle, axes, lanterns . . . maybe a pump to take water out of the excavation, etc. All these will be needed and are part of the contractors stock in trade.

BUILDING CODES AND RESTRICTIONS: Without years of study and experience with the maze of local building by-laws and legal entanglements surrounding building . . . chances are you'll run in trouble at some stage of the game. The refusal of a plumbing inspector to issue a certificate can prove very expensive and troublesome. Then there's the host of contractural relationships existing between mechanics, material dealers, sub contractors, etc., that can very well lead you to an early grave.

TIME LOSSES: Getting needed materials and workmen to the job when needed can effect substantial savings. A load of lumber that arrives a couple of hours late can upset the whole day's work plan . . . and when work stops at one point delay has the habit of piling up all along the line. And you'll be paying for every minute of it.

LABOUR TROUBLES: Diplomacy is high on the list of qualifications the contractor has developed over his years in building. He has learned how to oil down friction between various tradesmen before they get a chance to flare up and affect progress on the job. He knows his workmen and their own particular "beefs" that you cannot hope to understand.

MISTAKES: If your contractor makes a mistake, he remedies it at his own expense. If you build it yourself. . . you're the one responsible. . . and you are the one who will pay to have the job done over.

PROPER MATERIALS: How will a material react to wind and rain, to heat and cold? How permanent are those concrete blocks? Will finishing material take stain and varnish well? These are just a few of the questions a contractor can take in his stride.

Canadians Make Own Place In Play Writing

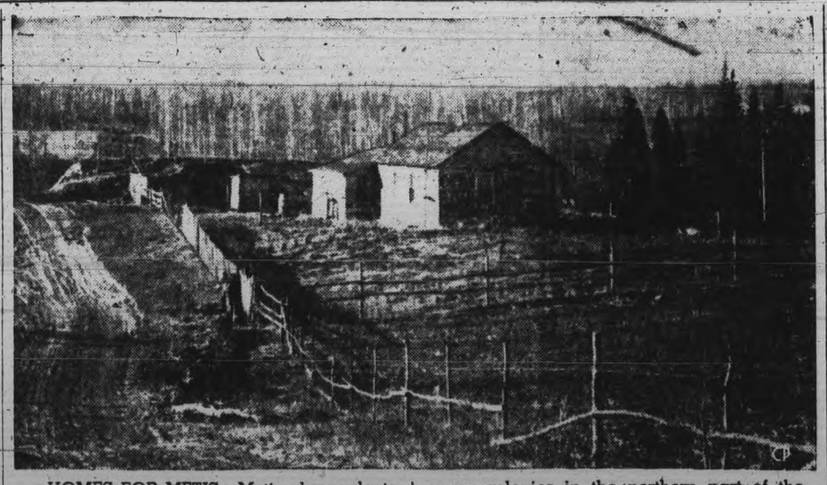
By PAT USSHER

NEW YORK, Jan. 7 — (CP) — Acting isn't the only department of the dramatic world in which Canadians have distinguished themselves. They are also active in writing and directing plays.

By way of example, two Canadians are authors of scripts which may some day find their way to Broadway. And two other plays adapted from novels by Canadians are expected to appear before long on Manhattan stages.

Gwethalyn Graham of Montreal has a script called "Trouble at Weti," which now is making the rounds of the producers. Its setting is a remote island off the west coast of Africa and it deals with some of Britain's colonial problems. Miss Graham also is the author of the popular novel, "Earth and High Heaven," which has been dramatized by John Patrick and which Russell Lewis and Howard Lewis plan to produce.

Knox Script



Undaunted by the non-success of his melodrama, "The Closing Door," Canadian-born Alexander Knox is reported working on a play based on the celebrated English barrister, Thomas Erskine. Erskine will be the central character in the drama and the part is said to be just right for someone like Sir Cedric Hardwicke. "The Closing Door," a thriller by Knox in which the native of Strathroy, Ont., also played the leading role, lasted only 22 performances on Broadway.

Expected to reach Broadway soon is an adaptation of Robert Fontaine's novel, "The Happy Time," an engaging story of a French-Canadian family living in Ottawa.

"Now I Lay Me Down To Sleep," directed by Hume Cronyn, an actor originally from London, Ont., is due to open in his native city Jan. 23. A week later the comedy, adapted from a Ludwig Bemelmans' novel, will move to Philadelphia for a fortnight. It is due on Broadway Feb. 20 Fredric March and his wife Florence Eldridge will co-star.

Comedy Conquers

The critics were conquered by "She Stoops to Conquer." Under the supervision of Maurice Evans, the Oliver Goldsmith comedy was revived last week at the city center in handsome style and with a magnificent cast. It won widespread plaudits from critics. The performers include Celeste Holm, Brian Aherene, Ezra Stone, Burl Ives, Evelyn Varden and Carmen Mathews. They played their parts with great spirit.

HOMES FOR METIS—Metis, descendents of pioneer explorers and Indians, once eked a frugal living from trapping and fishing. Now, with the help of the Alberta government, they are prospering on small farms in seven colonies in the northern part of the province. The government supplies building materials, agricultural implements and basic herds. This modest home is the start of a new life for a Metis farmer.

METIS EDUCATION—The Alberta government's establishment of seven colonies for Metis has brought steady improvement in the standard of living of these descendents of northwest frontiersmen. They now are successful farmers and lumbermen; their children have better educational facilities. Here two Metis girls get an art lesson from their instructor.

MP's Worried About Cruelty To Children

LONDON, Jan. 7 (CP)—Parliament has agreed that something should be done about children who are cruelly treated in their own homes.

After a two hour debate, the House of Commons decided that a committee should be appointed to investigate existing British laws on care of children.

The House adopted a motion to this effect moved by Mrs. B. Ayrton-Gould, Labor member for London's Hendon constituency. She said there are children today as wretched, helpless and ill-treated as children in the mines and mills 100 years ago.

The trouble is, she said, that social workers can report the cases, but local authorities have no power to interfere with children in their own homes unless a criminal prosecution is involved.

To Report Soon

Home Secretary Chuter Ede replied that he hopes to have an official report soon on any gaps in the law.

Points made in the debate:

Lady Megan Lloyd George, Liberal member for Anglesey: nobody wants to start a new "snooping service" into people's private lives, but "we beg the government not to let another month go by in dealing with this problem."

Earl Winterton, Conservative member for Horsh: "I have seen a group of small children standing in the wet and cold of a winter's night outside a public house, and it shocked me."

Home Secretary Chuter Ede: "There are quite as many children neglected for bridge parties, in proportion to the number of women who attend bridge parties as there are through parents going to the cinema."

U.S. Officials Say Formosa Doomed To Reds

By RUSSELL BRINES

TOKYO, Jan. 7—(AP)—The consensus of United States military officials in Japan is that Formosa is doomed to Red conquest now that the United States has decided to remain aloof.

They say Communist occupation of that island off the southeast China coast may have grave consequences for North American defence. Here's why:

The outer United States defence line in the Pacific is a string of air bases. The line runs from Alaska to Japan and on southward to Okinawa and the Philippines.

Suppose war should come with Russia. Fast fighter planes from Alaska and possibly Japan would be expected to intercept bombers from Siberia heading for North America.

American bombers from Japan and Okinawa could strike at military targets in Siberia as well as at key industrial centres.

Air power in the Philippines could cover the vast stretches of southeast Asia, should the Chinese Communists start trouble there.

Friendly Formosa

This strategy presupposes a neutral or friendly Formosa. It is 350 miles from Formosa to Okinawa. It is a little farther from Formosa to Clark Field, the American base in the northern Philippines.

In the hands of a competent air power — Russia, not the Chinese Communists — Formosa would be a bludgeon against both Okinawa and Clark Field.

To be sure, Formosa could be hit from Okinawa and Clark Field. The decision would depend on who had the most force available at the outset of hostilities.

Key American officers say the United States air power in the Western Pacific is at minimum strength. But they want to hold all present bases. The defence line forms the American beachhead in Asia.

CRAMPED QUARTERS—Workshops of The National Gallery of Canada are more and more cramped these days because of Canadians' mounting interest in art. In these shops are packed and crated the many valuable pictures constantly moving in and out for exhibition in the Gallery and other art centres.

Nylon Fur Helps In Arctic Test

WATSON LAKE, Yukon, Jan. 7 (CP)—Clad in Eskimo-type suits of nylon "fur," 76 Canadian and British servicemen are quietly performing a job at this lonely outpost in Canada's north that will have an important bearing on the future of northern air operations.

They are the men from the Royal Canadian Air Force, Royal Air Force and Royal Canadian Navy who are solving the problems of fighting an air war under bitter Arctic conditions. Members of the RCAF winter experimental, or "wee" flight, the men hope to perfect a system so the air force will be able to fight in 80-below zero weather—about as cold as is found anywhere in the world.

May Get Planes

OTTAWA, Jan. 7 (CP) — A spokesman for the Royal Canadian Air Force said Friday night that some consideration is being given to a scheme whereby a number of Chipmunk training planes would be made available to Canadian flying clubs.

Incapable of Fighting

TORONTO, Jan. 7 (CP)—Trend of discussion at a closed meeting of the scientific advisory committee of the National Committee for Mental Hygiene Friday was that a certain percentage of men in the armed forces are psychologically incapable of defending the nation.

Percy Twp. Divides On School Area Issue

WARKWORTH, Jan. 7 (ENS)—The question as to whether Percy Township should remain in the Brighton school area or join Campbellford is causing feeling to run high among residents in the township.

The matter will be considered by Northumberland and Durham counties council at this month's meeting. Meanwhile a meeting in Percy Township Wednesday voted in favor of remaining in the Brighton area and this resolution is being forwarded to the counties council. The vote was not unanimous.

Woman Wins Election In Recount Of Tie

BROCKVILLE, Jan. 7 (CP) — Mrs. Robert Bruce won a seat on the Township of Kitley school board, following a recount of votes Friday before Judge Donald E. Lewis.

The recount was made necessary by a tie vote of 263 polled by Mrs. Bruce and Clifford Foster Neither candidate would resign.

The recount disclosed that Mrs Bruce had 265 votes while her opponent polled 264 votes.

New Combine In Matches Is Revealed

Charge Eddy Company Worst Offender Controlling Prices

OTTAWA, Jan. 9 — (CP). — Existence of an international cartel controlling the wooden match industry in Canada is stifling all forms of competition, it is charged in a report made public today by Justice Minister Garson.

The last report written by F. A. McGregor, Combines Investigation Commissioner who resigned January 1, it alleges that a monopoly exists in the manufacture, distribution and sale of wooden matches in Canada.

It names the Eddy Match Company Ltd., with head office in Pembroke, as the dominant firm in the industry in this country.

Some of its subsidiary companies are named as parties to the formation and operation of the alleged price-fixing combine.

Four Companies

These four companies, all in Quebec, are: Commonwealth Match Company of St. Johns, Canada Match Company and Federal Match, both of Hull, and Walcourt of Montreal.

"Such methods as fighting brands, prices in specific areas, confidential discounts and rebates have been employed with the definite objective of preventing the growth of new and independent producers," the report says.

"Through establishment of a system of resale price maintenance, competition in price among wholesalers of matches in wide areas has been eliminated.

"In addition, active steps were taken by representatives of Eddy Match in a number of instances to secure the observance of minimum retail prices where active competition at this level seemed likely to develop."

"The use of monopoly power in all these ways clearly removes conditions of free competition

Cripps Bidding For New Finance Talks

LONDON, Jan. 9 (CP) — Sir Stafford Cripps today made a frank bid for another meeting with Canadian and United States finance ministers.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer told a press conference he hopes that before too long the three countries will arrange another conference to review matters "set in train" at last September's tri-partite talks in Washington.

The last meeting was of "such great value" that he wanted to see another.

Sir Stafford warned Britain's pound sterling was creditors he is going to slow down paying them off in exports in 1950.

The reason, he said, is that Britain must send more goods to dollar countries in order to survive.

At the end of the war Britain owed £3,200,000,000 to other countries for goods and services during the Second World War.

It has been paying them in what it calls "unrequited exports" —that is, exports to meet debts instead of to bring in cash.

In a review of British economic affairs for 1949, Sir Stafford said British imports totalled £2 273.000,000 compared with exports of £1,785,000,000, up 13 per cent by value from 1948.

This left the country with a trade deficit for the year of £429,000,000, hardly better than the £432,000 000 deficit of 1948.

Sir Stafford said "unrequited exports" had been made available many of them to countries urgently in need of assistance in their post-war reconstruction.

Girl 14 Dies Saving Friend

WINGHAM, Jan. 9—(CP)—Lois Dawson, 14-year-old High School student, was drowned in rescuing a younger friend from the freezing waters of a swamp near this town Sunday. Wingham is 50 miles southwest of Owen Sound. Two youths also drowned in Toronto. A frolicking dog was the indirect cause of the girl's death. The girl was walking with Billy Reavie, 10, and his six-year-old brother Garry when the dog dashed out on the thin ice of the swamp. Billy Reavie followed the dog and crashed through the ice. The girl plunged to the rescue in water up to her shoulders and managed to hoist the boy to a small tree near the bank where he clung to a lower limb. The younger boy meanwhile had to run to give the alarm.

When rescuers reached the spot they found the girl unconscious, half-submerged in the ice and weeds. She died two hours later in hospital. Coroner Dr. W. A. Crawford said death was caused by drowning. Billy Reavie remained in hospital for treatment for shock and exposure but his condition is not serious.

She is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Dawson, and two brothers and three sisters.

At Toronto, two 18-year-old skiers, close friends, were drowned when they broke through the ice of Grenadier pond in High Park late Sunday. Lifesavers who dragged the big pond in Toronto's west end recovered the bodies of Robert W. Brandon and Frank G. Sykes.

The youths had raced down the slopes and out across the ice which broke under them 150 feet from shore. Two other boys saw the pair struggling in the water and ran for help. Dr. Phil Grout and his brother tried unsuccessfully to reach the pair by means of an extension ladder.

Firemen and lifesavers were summoned and reached the scene as darkness fell. The body of Sykes was not identified until friends were located some time later. Both had kicked their skis off in their efforts to save themselves. The bodies were found in about 20 feet of water.

Chinese Warships Riddle US Freighter With Shells

By WAYNE RICHARDSON

ABOARD FLYING ARROW, Jan. 9—(AP)—Chinese Nationalist warships riddled this American freighter with shellfire today in international waters off Communist China. There were no casualties but her captain said she was no longer seaworthy. Capt. David Jones said the Flying Arrow had been hit by 30 to 40 shells as she attempted to run the Nationalist blockade of Chinese Communist ports off the mouth of the Yangtze River. He said the ship was unseaworthy and he would ask the Isbrandtsen Lines, owner of the ship, to ask the United States State department to intercede for safe passage to the nearest port for repairs.

That would be Shanghai, the Flying Arrow's destination when she left Hong Kong early Saturday with a $10,000,000 cargo for Red China.

Some shells left holes 4 inches in diameter as low as four inches above the water line, Jones said.

This dispatch was timed by Richardson aboard the Flying Arrow just 10 minutes after Chinese Nationalist naval headquarters on Formosa said the ship was lying at anchor under guard of the warships.

Detained Freighter

(The Nationalists announced the warships detained the freighter off the mouth of the Yangtze River.

British Election Rumored Feb. 23

LONDON, Jan. 9 (CP)—Whitehall buzzed with election rumors today following Prime Minister Attlee's unexpected Sunday visit to the King at Sandringham where it was generally assumed he discussed dissolution of parliament.

There was no confirmation that the Prime Minister had told the Sovereign election date, but many newspapers and politicians continued to predict the balloting would take place Feb. 23.

The Cabinet meets tomorrow in Downing Street for the first time this year and there is widespread expectation that Attlee may then make the date known to the public.

The pro-government London Evening Star declared:

"The King, it was learned today, approved the general election plan Mr. Attlee outlined to him during his audience at Sandringham.

Mayor Proposes Hotel Room Tax

TORONTO, Jan. 9 — (CP). — Enlargement of the Toronto Transportation Commission to five members appointed on a staggered basis by City Council was proposed by Hiram McCallum today. The proposal would give Council a better voice in the affairs of the street railway system.

Addressing the 117th inaugural meeting of the City Council, the Mayor also suggested a shake-up in the administration of the Canadian National Exhibition with a new manager.

He said the present general manager, Elwood Hughes, "has served the Exhibition well. However, he is not a young man and there should be someone capable of succeeding him when such is necessary.

A special hotelroom tax on tourists is another feature of the Mayor's proposal. "Many American cities impose a tax on hotel rooms when our citizens and others visit their cities," he said. "It is only right this form of taxation should be given consideration here."

Rail Conciliation Hearing Postponed

MONTREAL, Jan. 9 (CP) — Opening session of a Federal Conciliation Board hearing into an $84,000,000 a year railway wage-hour dispute was officially postponed until Tuesday when the train bearing Isaac Pitblado, KC, of Winnipeg, was delayed coming in from the west.

Mr. Pitblado represents the Canadian National Railways and the Canadian Pacific Railway and their subsidiaries, Ontario Northland Railway and Toronto, Hamilton and Buffalo Railway. He was not expected in Montreal until 5 p.m. today.

Engineers' Conference

TORONTO, Jan. 9 — (CP). — The 10-day convention of the Ontario Provincial Legislative Board of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers opened here today with 36 members, representing every railroad in the province, attending.

$12,000 Fire Destroys Milburn Home

A family of six was pushed out into subzero weather early Sunday morning when their home was completely destroyed by fire. Owned by Allan Milburn, Chemong Road, the eight-room house and a back shed, used as a garage and storage room, were turned into brick shells in an hour and a half. Damage estimated at $12,000 is partially covered by insurance.

At 6 a.m. Mrs. Milburn, up with her two-months-old baby, Arthur, looked out the kitchen window to see a wall of flame as fire ate through the shed. Quickly she and her husband hustled the children into the backyard. Mr. and Mrs. Milburn then went back into the house to try to save some of the downstairs furniture while Gerald, 12, in his stocking feet, took the baby over to a nearby house owned by his grandmother, Mrs. H. T. Lang.

Mrs. Milburn phoned the Peterborough Fire Department but was told it was against the regulations for the equipment to be sent outside the city. (Recently the City Council told its suburban friends that the equipment would not be available to them after January 1. Some of the residents in the neighborhood of Queen Elizabeth School have been trying to stir up some action and find a solution to the community problem.)

100 Form Bucket Brigade

Immediately telephones in the area of the burning farmhouse began buzzing, summoning the neighbors out to fight the fire. One hundred men and women, some in a fire bucket brigade and others trying to get furniture out of the house, were at work.

Little could be done as the back shed was a mass of flames. The fire was given assistance by two large barrels of stove oil. It had a good jump on the fighters. They turned their attention to saving the empty chicken house, the implement shed and the barn. Water was thrown over the roofs to douse the sparks which flew from the burning shed. The water froze immediately. The bucket brigade was lined up from a pump near the barn.

Only Way To Beat Reds Improve Conditions In Far East Nehru Says

Pearson Reports Canadian Policy Based On Recognition of Dangers Resulting From Russian Imperialism

COLOMBO, Ceylon, Jan. 9—(CP)—Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru of India today told the Commonwealth conference that the best way to defeat Communism in Asia is to build up the prosperity of Asiatic countries. The conference is dedicated to exploring means of averting a third World War and stopping the spread of Communism. Nehru, whose government has recognized the conquest of China by the Communists, told the opening session the Chinese Reds had fulfilled to some extent the demands of the Chinese people for social justice.

He repeated statements he recently made that the tactics used in fighting the cold war in Europe could not be applied to Asia.

L. B. Pearson, Canada's External Affairs minister, said his dominion, being close to the United States, had many views similar to those of the U.S. But Canada, he said, was not under U.S. domination.

Pearson told the assembled ministers that his country's foreign policy was based on recognition of the dangers resulting from "the new Russian imperialism."

Canada had regretfully to admit the United Nations had not solved the problem of Russian expansionism, and the North Atlantic Pact was the outcome of this realization.

He believed the pact went beyond a merely plan for regional security in one area.

By demonstrating that its signatories were prepared to meet aggression, the pact would serve the cause of security throughout the world, Pearson said.

Reviews Situation

Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin of Britain began the conference with a review of the present international situation, a communique announced. He spoke for more than an hour, giving what a delegate called a "very general review which came to no conclusions."

The conference aims were outlined by Philip Noel-Baker, British Commonwealth minister, as the delegates assembled before a statute of Queen Victoria under whose reign the British Empire reached the peak of its power Other delegates said a peace settlement with Japan would be among the major subjects on the agenda.

The foreign ministers opened their conference in the satinwood panelled cabinet room of Ceylon's senate building.

Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin of Britain, who suffered a mild heart attack just before leaving England, told delegates he was feeling well.

The Canadian delegation, headed by L. B. Pearson, external affairs minister, told reporters Sunday they will bring the North American approach to political and economic problems The economic section will give most of its attention to the balance-of-pay ments position in the sterling area.

Noel-Baker told a press conference that great importance will be attached to the building up of resistance against author tarian ism by adjusting the economy of the commonwealth to meet the situation.

Truman Budget Goes In Red, To Boost Taxes

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (AP)—President Truman today recommended a $42,439,000,000 spending budget to Congress. He said it will plunge the United States government $5,133,000,000 deeper into the red unless taxes are raised.

But even with "moderate" tax increase he wants, the President set no date for a balanced budget.

The cold war with Communist Russia takes the biggest spending bite—$18,256,000,000. That figure for the 1951 fiscal year beginning July 1 includes $13,500,000,000 for defence—up $400,000,000 from this year—and $4,700,000,000 for foreign aid. The combined total is $856,000,000 lower than current outlays.

Next in size comes cash for domestic programs, including Truman's "fair deal." This figure jumps $923,000,000 to $12,748,000,000.

Long Message

The $42,439,000,000 spending total is equivalent to $282.17 for each man, woman and child in today's U. S. population.

It is larger than last January's record peacetime budget estimate but $858,000,000 less than the $43,297,000,000 now expected to be spent by June 30.

The budget message read by Senate and House clerks was the longest on record—27,000 words.

To legislators clamoring for less spending rather than more taxes, Truman stressed the importance of federal dollars to an expanding

Bank Hold-up Smoothly Done

MONTREAL, Jan. 9 (CP)—An unobstrusive man wearing a brown hat and brown overcoat today robbed a Bank of Toronto branch in downtown Montreal of $3,000 and calmly walked out with the loot.

Miss Doris Paris, teller in the bank branch on Beaver Hall Hill, told police that the man handed her a cheque on the back of which was written: "Hand me over all the money in the till or I'll shoot."

While he pointed a pistol at her, she hurriedly obeyed his order and the robber casually walked out with the $3,000 in his pocket and mingled with passers-by on the street.

Rob Bank Of $33,000

HONG KONG, Jan. 9 (AP)—Bold gunmen today robbed the Hong Kong branch of the Chase National Bank of an estimated $33,000.

Frank A. Howard, American manager, said the robbers made off with 195,000 Hong Kong dollars (about $30,000 U.S.) and some $3,000 in United States currency.

Howard said the robbery was executed within a 10-minute period by six or seven Chinese gunmen.

No Isolation Pearson Says

COLOMBO, Jan. 9 (Reuters)—The policy of regional isolation no longer exists in Canadian or North American thinking, Canada's External Affairs Minister, L. B. Pearson, told the conference of Commonwealth foreign ministers today.

Pearson outlined the attitude of Canada—geographically the most remote Commonwealth member from the Asian problems under discussion here—in a reply to the address of welcome by Ceylon Premier Don Stephen Senanayake, conference chairman, at this morning's session.

Pearson said that if any doubt existed in the Canadian mind on the speed with which the world was contracting, the delegations three-day journey to Colombo would have dispelled it.

Canada's present concentration of attention of North Atlantic security might lead some to conclude that a policy of regional isolation still existed, he said.

Three Asbestos Unions Approve Settlement

THETFOR DMINES, Que., Jan. 9.—(CP).—Three asbestos workers' syndicates, affiliated to the Canadian Catholic Confederation of Labor, Sunday unanimously approved a proposal for settlement of a 1950 collective agreement with three asbestos firms here.

A meeting of 2,000 miners approved a resolution presented by officials of the Federation of Asbestos Wrkers asking that they accept the settlement proposed by Premier Duplessis more than two weeks ago.

The resolution said in part that "execution of the resolution is subordinated to the payment by the companies of financial adjustments recommended by the majority report (of an arbitration board) for 1949."

5,000 Men To Participate In Special Arctic Tests

OTTAWA, Jan. 9.— (CP). — The Defence Department released today a broad picture of Exercise Sweet Briar, the joint Canadian-American air, land manoeuvres that will unfold over 350 miles of the Alaska Highway next month in weather that may hit 50 below zero.

Moe than 5,000 men will be involved in a test "designed" to obtain information and experience in the conduct of tactical operations under severe winter conditions and to provide Arctic training for battalion groups, support services of the army, and combined U.S.A.F. and R.C.A.F. units."

A second purpose is to test "the value of Arctic clothing and equipment including parachute and airborne stocks."

From Whitehorse, Yukon, to Northway, Alaska, a distance of some 350 miles, the combined forces will cope with theoretical attacks down the highway from the Fairbanks and Anchorage, Alaska, areas.

The climax will come Feb. 23 when 10 days of tactical operations come to a conclusion with the hypothetical destruction of the foe.

For Canada this is the next stage on from Exercise Eagle in preparations for defence of the country from any real enemy raid. This time, however, all the planes, will be operational planes—53 in all compared to 47 from the U.S. A.F. and the country's first airborne battalion will have elaborate support in the form of artillery, engineers, signals, medical, provost and service corps and ordnance troops.

Truman Emphatically Asks Seaway Plan Be Passed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (AP)—President Truman repeated today, "most emphatically," previous recommendations that Congress approve St. Lawrence seaway and power legislation.

Truman's latest plea for the vast waterway and power project was contained in his annual budget message to Congress. His most recent similar request was made last week in his annual report on the state of the union.

"Authorization of the seaway, with its related power facilities," the President said, "is a matter of urgency for our peacetime industry and our national security."

He observed that each succeeding year reduces further "our domestic reserves of iron ore."

Correspondingly, the President said, the importance of the seaway increases "as a means of economic access" to the proven ore deposits of Labrador.

Preliminary investigations have proved, to the satisfaction of engineers, that at least 500,000,000 tons of high-grade iron ore is contained in Labrador. The actual amount is expected to be even higher.

On the other side of the iron ore picture, experts have estimated that Great Lakes deposits—the United States' chief source of supply for decades—will be near exhaustion by the end of 15 to 20 years.

Several steel manufacturers, heretofore opposed to the seaway, are now—in view of the lessened U.S. ore supply—supporting the proposal.

Provincial Officials Come For Conference

OTTAWA, Jan. 9 (CP)—Representatives of Canada's provincial governments gathered here today for the opening tomorrow of the Dominion-Provincial Constitutional Conference.

All provinces will be represented at the conference, called by Prime Minister St. Laurent to discuss the question of whether the Canadian parliament should be given the power to amend the constitution on matters within provincial jurisdiction.

The provincial premiers of all 10 provinces will gather around the conference table in the Commons chamber at 10.30 a.m. No set agenda has been drafted by the Federal government and as a result the premiers may introduce subjects other than those touching on constitutional amendments.

4 Policemen Defy Man With Rifle

Belleville Farmhouse Surrounded, Constable Grabs Gun

BELLEVILLE, Jan. 9 (CP)—A three-man police squad Sunday surrounded a Shannonville farmhouse, nine miles east of here, while a fourth officer defied the threat of a loaded rifle to arrest John Cummings.

Two carloads of police drove to the Cummings home after Mrs. William Doherty, a neighbor, complained by telephone that the Second World War veteran had walked into her home with a rifle, blamed her for the forthcoming eviction of his family and threatened to shoot.

The much-decorated veteran of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regmient, living in a six-room brick farmhouse and working as a machinist, was lodged in the county jail here on a charge of pointing a gun at an officer.

Seizes Rifle

Constables James Sheridon and G. R. Purdy waited outside the house while Cons. Edward Smith went to the front door and Cons. John Hurry went around to the back.

Hurry rapped. A voice from inside warned him to stay away. The policeman turned the handle and pushed open the door. From the kitchen he was faced by a rifle. He lunged at his assailant and wrested the weapon to the floor.

Police said they did not want to shoot. In the house with Cummings were his wife and five children. A bullet was found in the breach of the .22 calibre rifle. In Cummings' pockets were 26 more bullets.

The veteran was bound over to keep the peace one month ago after a family brawl. A .30-.30 hunting rifle was seized from him at that time.

Flying Arrow pulled away. Sailors from the Black Swan had boarded the American ship to help fight flames.

Captain Jones said afterwards:

"We were 19 miles from the nearest land and were anchoring in international waters when we were attacked unexpectedly by a Chinese gunboat.

"They blinkered that mines were being laid. At the time of my anchoring they signalled: 'You must not enter,'

"Even three short blasts on the steam whistle signifying my engines were going full astern did not stop them from firing."

Two Chinese Nationalist destroyer escorts tailed the vessel from the time she passed through Formosa Strait on her northward trip from Hong Kong.

Aboard the 6,214-ton vessel are crew of 43 and 12 passengers including seven women.

4 Children Die In Quebec Fire

DUHAMEL, Que., Jan. 9 (CP) Four children were burned to death Saturday night when fire destroyed their home in this Papineau county village.

Dead are the four children of Mr. and Mrs. Leopold Faubert: Jean-Guy, 10; Michel, 4, Remi, 2 and Simonne, nine months.

Their father suffered serious burns to his head and hands while attempting to enter the blazing home in a vain rescue attempt.

Origin of the fire, which broke out sometime after 10 p.m. is not known.

Mrs. Faubert put the children to bed in the upstairs of the two-storey frame home about 9:30 p. m. and a short time later went across the road, where her husband was visiting with neighbors. A few minutes later when they left their friends, they noticed their own home in flames. Mr. Faubert raced to the burning building, climbed up on a rear shed and entered an upstairs window, only to be driven back by the flames. Smoke and flames also forced back his wife.

Industrials Continue Climb On Exchange

TORONTO, Jan. 9 (CP) — Industrials continued pushing their way into new high ground on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Last week's advance stretched into five successive sessions as a wide list of issues chalked up gains from fractions to a full point.

Volume for the first three hours was 665,000 shares.

Papers, steels, agriculture, refining oils, constructions and utilities showed wide majorities of advances in the groupings. Last week's advances carried the Exchange's index of 20 representative industrial stocks to the highest point recorded since it was first compiled in 1934. Today's advances broke into higher ground as the marked continued its six-month bill market.

About six issues sold at new highs, including Massey-Harris, Dominion Steel B, Algoma Steel and Walker's Gooderham and Worts.

A few base metal issues showed a brighter tone. Sherritt Gordon and MacDonald Mines turned briskly for good gains.

Golds slipped slightly with small mining prospects turning actively and western oils were mixed.

9 Summer Cottages Found Broken In

ST. THOMAS, Jan. 9— (CP). — At least nine summer cottages and the YWCA Hostel at Orchard Beach in Port Stanley had been broken into, windows smashed, and furniture damaged, it was discovered Sunday.

Owners of all cottages in the district, principally residents of London, have been notified and will assist police in ascertainng if robbery was the motive or whether it was the work of hoodlums or hunting parties.

Harry Young New President Jersey Breeders

Sam S. Staples of Cavan got himself a job Saturday as Public Relations man for the Peterborough Jersey Breeders' Club. He was nominated for the secretary-treasurers' post by Roger Hanbidge, but, in a flash of evasive thinking, he said he would take on public relations.

When the usual officers were elected, the new president, Harry Young of North Monaghan, remembered the Staples inspiration, and tossed it back at him.

"What about a public relations man?" Mr. Young asked. "Mr. Staples suggested it."

Up to that point, the PRM had not been regularly elected, and as SSS had conceived the idea and projected himself into the new office, as informally proposed, Mr. Hanbidge moved the appointment, which carried with all hands up.

Another Responsibility

So, Mr. Staples assumes another PR responsibility, without remuneration, but with all the scope he may require. For 1950 it is entirely up to him, of course with executive help. And, it is right up his alley for he is already PRM, more or less, and officially and otherwise, for the Millbrook spring show, Peterborough "Ex.", Royal Winter Fair, and Clyde horses. Not that he is convinced that Clydes and Jerseys need publicity, on their merits, but times being as they are, with competition back in its belligerent stride, probably there is a job to be done.

Besides, a lot of young housekeepers may not be informed about the class and virtues of the Jersey cow. Some of them might be content with the milk and cream of Holsteins, Ayrshires or Guernseys, or even grades. So, that is the challenge confronting SSS. The Jersey Club left him to his own resources and enterprise in getting publicity for his favorite dairy breed. At that, they believe that, if Mr. Staples really took hold of this job he brought on himself, he would get results. Any way, he has twelve months to make good.

The Jersey breeders had the largest attendance in years at their annual meeting in the offices of the Department of Agriculture. In electing officers they transposed President and Secretary-treasurer.

Switch Officers

President two years, Roger Hanbidge, one of the energetic junior farmers of the district, said the office should be passed around, and meant it. Casting about for his successor, the members elected Harry Young, sec.-treas. for 10 years. Broken in to executive work, he accepted. H. L. Bamforth was elected vice-president, and Mr. Hanbidge was pressed into the duty of secretary treasurer position. So, the lively team of Young and Hanbidge remains intact.

Directors are: W. R. Bell, Harry Gainor, Don Robinson and Foster Eggleson. Auditors: Wesley Bell and Clarence Johnston.

Representatives to the Federation of Agriculture: Wellington Sutton. Representative to the Ontario Jersey Breeders' Club: Gordon Staples. Director of Millbrook Spring Fair: Harry Young.

Mr. Young received a vote of thanks from the Club for his long service as secretary.

Harold Butcher, Toronto, Jersey fieldman, discussed breed questions including export sales, advertising, maintenance of milk supply, and so on. He recommended more activity in calf club work for juniors. The Ottawa valley club had 29 girls and boys in their calf club last year. Peterborough was one of the centres without a junior organization.

Robert E. Bell, assistant agricultural representative, said he would be glad to help in organizing a calf club, and suggested that the members begin at once thinking about boys and girls of the age group from 12 to 21 years who might be recommended for membership.

The club decided to hold their parish show again at Millbrook in June.

Toronto Livestock

TORONTO, Jan. 9 (CP)—Trade was active and strong on steers, heifers and cows and 50 cents higher on bulls at the Toronto livestock market this morning. Receipts: Cattle, 3,900; calves, 400; hogs, 580; sheep and lambs, 160. Left from last week were 50 cattle.

Medium to good weighty steers $22-$24 with good light steers $21-$22. Good heifers $20.50-$21 while common steers and heifers sold downwards to $17. Good cows mostly $15-$15.50 with few at $16. Good export bulls $18-$19 while fed yearlings mostly $21-$24.

Calves steady at $27-$28 for choice vealers while common to medium ranged from $17-$25. Grassers for slaughter $14-$15.50.

Prices have not yet been established on hogs.

Lambs firm at $25-$25.50 for good ewes with bucks at a $1 discount. Good light sheep were $11-$12.

Cause of the fire is unknown. It is believed to have started in the shed. Mrs. Milburn said that she thought it might have been caused by a "short" in the wiring. A fuse box was put in two weeks ago to connect up an electric water heater.

Car Burned Too

While trying to get his car out of the shed Mr. Milburn received burns to his hands, neck and above the ears. The car refused to start and had to be left in the garage. It is a complete loss. Mr. Milburn was taken to the Civic Hospital about 8 a.m. by neighbor, Ivan Millar. He was still in hospital at 11 o'clock today, but his condition is satisfactory.

Luckily the wind was a north wind, not an east wind. The barn, henhouse and implement shed are west of the fire-swept home. As it was, the empty chicken coop was scorched on the southeast corner. In the barn were 30 cows and three horses.

At 10 a.m. the shed was completely burned down with only the bare bulk of the car standing. A few pieces of firewood which were in the shed were smouldering while the house had only parts of the west and north walls standing. To prevent someone being hurt, the men had pushed over the other walls. Bits of smoke were still curling from small pockets in the basement.

For the past 13 years Mr. and Mrs. Milburn and family have occupied the house. It was built 45 years ago by Mr. Milburn's father, the late George Milburn.

Mr. and Mrs. Milburn with their children, Gerald 12, Joseph 10, Wayne 7 and Arthur two months, will be staying with Mrs. Lang until other arrangements can be made.

The Rev. Walter Crone announced over the radio this morning during the devotional service entitled Songs at Sunrise, that a fund for public subscription to help the family had been opened. Mrs. Milburn's permission had been obtained and donations may be sent to Songs At Sunrise, The Milburn Fund, Box 1012.

Truman Budget

domestic economy. He said his program, embracing a "moderate" tax increase, is "prudent" and provides "a solid base for moving budgetary balance in the next few years."

Truman sketched the make-up of 1951 spending in broad strokes.

He charged off nearly $30,000,000,000 or the 71 per cent his budget alloted to national defence, foreign affairs, veterans programs and interest costs of the federal debt with these words:

"Financial requirements to pay the costs of past wars and to achieve a peaceful world."

The chief executive's forecast

Based On Estimates

of a $5,133,000,000 budget deficit for fiscal 1951 based on estimates that the government would spend $42,439,000,000 in this 12-months starting July 1, and take in only $37,306,000,000.

This deficit would be piled atop the one he foresees for the current fiscal year ending June 30, amounting to $5,534,000,000 since revenues of $37,763,000,000 are expected to fall that far short of the spending total of $43,297,000,000.

And the federal debt, which accumulates with deficits, would amount to $263,800,000,000 by June 30, 1951—more than $1,754 for each person in the country.

While the president saved details of his general tax boost plans for a separate message later, he urged today several acts by Congress that would bring a bigger bite into the country's pocketbooks.

After More Money

One would raise the social insurance (old age and survivors) levy on workers and emplyoyers to two per cent each on Jan. 1, 1951—a year ahead of schedule—and apply it to income of up to $4,800 a year. Total prespective revenue: $1,200,000,000.

Another Truman proposal would hit both employees and their bosses with a starting tax of 25 cents on each $100 of pay, beginning Jan. 1, 1951, to "defray initial expenses" of his national health insurance program. The president did not specify, but presumably the tax would apply only to that part of payrolls now subject to social security taxes — the first $3,000 under present law.

Offers $1,000 Reward For Finding Of Son

WALLACEBURG, Jan. 9 (CP) —Still hopeful his two-year-old son is alive, John R. Douglas of nearby Wilkesport, today offered $1,000 for anyone finding the boy, missing for 13 days. Wallaceburg is 25 miles south of Sarnia.

Mr. Douglas said he had not given up hope, despite police belief the youngster drowned in the Sydnenham River near his home. The father said every foot of the river for miles had been dragged and no trace of the body found.

He said, "we can't concede that he is dead."

Farm Income Shows Drop Of 40 Million

OTTAWA, Jan. 9 (CP)—Canada's farmers did a near record business in 1949, earning $2,400,000,000—$40,000,000 below 1948's all time high.

This preliminary estimate of cash income from farm product sales was issued Saturday by the Bureau of Statistics. A more complete picture is expected to be issued March 1.

The estimate showed that 1949 income was about $500,000,000 more than the 1947 total, when Canadian Wheat Board participation payments were comparatively low.

It also showed that prairie farmers got about $3,000,000 less in federal farm assistance in 1949 than the $20,000,000 distributed to the drought areas in 1948.

Alberta and Saskatchewan were the only two provinces in which farmers made more money in 1949 than in the previous year. All other provinces with the exception of Newfoundland for which figures were not available — showed slight declines in farm income.

Alberta's farmers realized $452,000,000, an increase of about $4,000,000 over 1948 and more than $100,000,000 over 1947. The wheat growers of Saskatchewan hauled in $540,000,000, a jump of $20,000,000 over 1948 and about $110,000,000 over 1947.

Ontario, victim of drought, took the biggest loss—down $27,000,000 from 1948's $668,000,000, but still up $100,000,000 from 1947.

Charges Gov't Hides Figures

WINNIPEG, Jan. 9 (CP)—National CCF leader M. J. Coldwell charged Sunday the Federal government has "deliberately concealed" unemployment figures.

Mr. Coldwell told a public meeting the government has deliberately concealed unemployment statistics from the public for the last four months.

He recalled a Dec. 24 conversation with Pat Conroy, secretary of the Canadian Congress of Labor, in which Mr. Conroy said that the department of labor's monthly bulletin containing unemployment statistics, had not been received by the CCL for the last four months.

Mr. Coldwell said he later learned the CCL and Trades and Labor Congress offices had been taken off the mailing list at the request of Labor Minister Mitchell.

The figures released by Mr. Mitchell Saturday, following receipt of an open letter from Percy Bengough, and A. R. Mosher, presidents of the TLC and CCL respectively, placed the present number of unemployed at 261,000 from the industry and limits the freedom of opportunity to all except those who could challenge that power with equal strength."

The report contains a specific recommendation in regard to the protection given the Canadian match industry by duties on imported matches.

It urges the government to review the rates of custom duties with a view to assuring that the tariffs do not have the result of excluding all foreign match competition.

The match report is being studied by the Justice Department, and a decision on whether legal action will be taken against the alleged combine will be made later.

Discussing the international ramifications of the match industry, the report says Bryant & May Ltd. of England and Diamond Match Company of the United States established a Canadian monopoly in 1927.

Merge Businesses

This was accomplished by merging competing match businesses in Eddy Match Company. It was followed by the purchase of independent match factories which had the result of preventing competition in the industry.

The companies included were: Aurora Match, bought out in 1928, Columbia Match 1932, Canada Match 1936, and Federal Match 1940. The acquisition of Western Match in 1949 occurred after evidence had been taken in the combines investigation.

The report charges that as soon as the merger was arranged in 1927, prices of matches were increased. Large profits had been made by Eddy Match Company since the first year of its operations.

The establishment of a monopoly was deliberate, and did not come about as a result of other companies dropping out of the field, the report says.

The report says that one method adopted by Eddy to control the trade in its own interest was the fixing of minimum prices at which wholesale distributors were to resell Eddy matches.

More Serious

"The policy of fixing resale prices by the Eddy Match Company has certain aspects which make it more serious than in most other cases.

"Wherever the practice is followed by one of several manufacturers of the same general class of goods, the effect is to eliminate price competition amongst the distributors in the sale of that manufacurer's product.

"If the same commodity is available from competing manufacturers, a measure of protection to the public may remain. Where there is a monopoly, as there is in the wooden match industry, even this protection disappears.

"In these circumstances the public has no alternative but to pay whatever price the monopoly imposes if it wishes this particular clas of good."

Tried To Impose Controls

The report add that during the period when Eddy did not completely control the match market, it endeavored to impose a a policy of resale price maintenance in large areas of Canada.

This was done by inducing wholesalers to refrain from handling competing lines unless the rival manufacturers agreed to name a resale price which was close to the Eddy price.

Describing the difficulties of independent companies in their attempts to compete, the report says:

"Over the years Eddy match has employed similar tactics in dealing with each new producer whose sales might alter in any significant degree the monopoly which had resulted from the amalgamation of the match factories in 1927 . . ."

Father Saves Two Children

TORONTO, Jan. 9 (CP)—Two small children were carried through dense smoke to safety by their father today when fire gutted their home.

The father, Freman March, battled through flames to reach the two children in their fire-swept bedroom.

Rescued were Sandra, 2, and David, 4.

Flames drove him back on his first attempt to reach the second-storey bedroom.

The fire was believed to have been started by the children playing with matches.

Jumps Out Of Car Plunging Over Bridge

TORONTO, Jan. 9 (CP)—Bonnie Papish, 30, escaped severe injury or death Sunday when he threw himself from his automobile seconds before it plunged from a bridge in suburban East York, 200 feet to jagged rocks below. The car was wrecked.

Mr. Papish doesn't recall exactly what happened. He said he blacked out just as the car lost control on the icy bridge. When he recovered consciousness he was lying on the bridge and the car had plunged to the rocks.

He said something went wrong with the steering wheel and he thinks he must have thrown open the door and jumped.

Obituary

MRS. JOHN BRIDGE

Funeral of the late Mrs. John Bridge, 71, of 160 Hendrie Blvd., Royal Oak, Mich., who spent her childhood in Peterborough, was held today in St. Mary's Catholic church. The Rev. Father Cairns said Requiem Mass and burial was at St. Mary's cemetery.

Mrs. Bridge died on Friday at her home following a lingering illness. She was born in Peterborough, Jean Estelle, daughter of the late William O'Brien and Mary Ann Morgan, and was educated in city schools. She left Peterborough to live in Detroit and Grosse Isle, and latterly in Cadillac and Royal Oak.

An ardent patron and enthusiast of many organizations interested in horses throughout the mid-west, Mrs. Bridge was also a member of the following associations and clubs: Bloomfield Open Hunt Club, Detroit Athletic Club, Detroit Golf Club, Union League of Chicago, Marillac Club and League of Catholic Women.

She leaves her husband and two daughters, Mary Jean and Beatrice Ann, both of Detroit, and five sons, Robert J. Bridge and Harry James, both of Detroit, William O., of Birmingham, Ala., Frank Gordon of Indianapolis, Eric Joseph of Lansing and John Albert of Kalamazoo. A sister, Mrs. May Torpey, lives in Detroit.

Milder Weather Promised Across Ontario

By The Canadian Press

Milder air moving rapidly northeastward from the Great Lakes promises to end shortly the severe cold that struck large areas of eastern Canada during the week-end, bringing sub-zero temperatures with a snowfall that was measured at eight inches around London, Ont.

Cloudy and milder weather was the general eastern forecast for later Monday, with signs also that the severe cold is easing in western Canada. Saskatoon Sunday reported a minimum temperature of 20 below zero and Edmonton 15 below, but the mercury had already rebounded in Manitoba from a minimum of 23 below zero Sunday.

A general high of around 19 to 25 above zero was forecast for western regions today. The east was promised maximums of about 25-30 degrees.

Mercury Plunges

But in the cold wave late Saturday the mercury plunged to 10 below at Montreal, 14 below at Ottawa, and an official two below at Toronto. At Coldwater, aptly-named railway junction 75 miles north of Toronto, a minimum of 14 below zero was reached Sunday.

At Val d'Or, in northwestern Quebec, the cold wave struck its sharpest blow, sending the temperature down from 40 above zero after rains on Friday to a minimum of 30 below Sunday.

The Maritimes had its first real blast of winter on the heels of last week's record mild spell. Halifax reported 10 below zero weather Sunday and Saint John 15 below, while in northern New Brunswick there were readings around 20 below.

Red China Plans New Expansion

LONDON, Jan. 9 — (CP). — Communist China is staking out claims on the last holdings of Chiang Kai-shek's tottering Nationalist Government— Formosa, Hainan, Tibet, and the Chinese seat in the United Nations.

Red China's news agency, in a radio dispatch Sunday night said Foreign Minister Chou En-lai had telegraphed UN officials demanding expulsion of the Chinese Nationalist representative from the Security Council.

Promise of future assaults by Chinese Reds on the two Nationalist Islands of Formosa and Hainan, and on the mountain fastness of Tibet, were made by Pravda and Izvestia, the two biggest official newspapers in Moscow. The Chinese Communist government's leader, Mao Tze-tung, is in the Soviet capital conferring with Kremlin leaders.

Chou's telegram, reported the Peiping New China News Agency said the Chinese Communist government "holds as illegal the presence of the delegates of the Chinese Kuomintang reactionary clique in the Security Council."

WPTB Official W. Chown Dies

OTTAWA, Jan. 9 (CP)—Wilbur F. Chown, 54, deputy foods administrator of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, died in hospital Sunday following a brief illness.

He was technical adviser to the royal commission appointed recently to inquire into the cost of living in Newfoundland. He spent about four weeks in that province in November and early December on preliminary plans for the inquiry and was preparing to return to Newfoundland to take up his duties when taken ill.

Native of Kingston, he received his early education there and graduated in arts from Queen's University in 1922, later studying for a year at the Ontario Agricultural College. He farmed for a number of years at Whitby, before joining the federal agriculture department 15 years ago and in 1947 was transferred to the WPTB as deputy foods administrator.

Four Survive 84-Hr. Ordeal On Lonely Rock

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad Jan. 9 (CP)—Four survivors of an 84 hour ordeal on a lonely wave-battered rock in the shark infested Gulf of Paria told from their hospital beds Sunday night how three companions were dashed to their deaths after their tug and barge met disaster in a sudden squall.

The tug and barge were making through the gulf on Trinidad's west coast last week when a squall struck. The tow line snapped, leaving the three men on the barge adrift.

The barge, borne on mountainous seas, was swept onto the rock that juts out of the middle of the gulf. One man was thrown against the rock and died of a broken neck. Another was swept away and never seen again. The third clung to the rock.

Meanwhile, the tug's propellors became entangled in the broken tow line. The four men on the tug unable to steer, abandoned her and swam for the rock. One man was crushed to death as he struggled ashore while the three others made it.

The men had no food or water. They clung desperately to the rock as heavy seas broke over them and torrential rains poured down.

The survivors said attempts to attract passing ships were futile. They removed torn shirts and waved them as distress signals. An intensive sea and air hunt finally proved successful when a launch spotted the men on the rock.

The crew of the launch used fishing tackle to get lifejackets across a dangerous 30-foot stretch of foaming water. Then a rope was put across and the men were hauled to safety one at a time.

All four were suffering from shock, exposure and lack of food.

Mrs. David Mitchell Funeral Service Held

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 9—(ENS)—Funeral service for Mrs. David Mitchell was conducted today at Bennett's Funeral Home by the Rev. D. Mansell Smith of St. John's United Church. Mrs. Mitchell died on Saturday at the age of 62. Burial was in Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

Born in Campbellford, she was the former Ada Pearl Davidson, daughter of the late James Davidson and Annie Chalaupka. She was a member of the United Church and Red Cross Society.

She leaves her husband, one sister and two brothers: Lillian of Campbellford; Walter, Kingston; and Alex of New York City.

2,000 Miners Walk Off Job

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 9 (AP) — Nearly 2,000 United Mine Workers walked off the job today at the big coal company headed by the man who has chosen to square off with John L. Lewis in a finish fight.

Five pits of the Pittsburgh Consolidation Coal Company were closed in West Virginia when overnight shifts failed to show up.

All of the company's mines in West Virginia, Ohio, Kentucky and Western Pennsylvania are expected to be closed before the day is out. They employ 12,000.

George H. Love is president of Pittsburgh Consolidation. He's also the spokesman for the operators' negotiating committee of the National Bituminous Wage Conference.

Love has flatly refused to bow to Lewis' demands for a wage increase for the miners and a boost in the royalties the operators pay to the UMW's welfare and pension fund.

UMW officials said the strike wasn't authorized. They intimated the miners were just showing their displeasure at the operators' refusal to sign a contract.

Expedition Finds Old Tablets

CHICAGO, Jan. 9 (AP) — The manners, morals and mathematics of an ancient people are being brought to light by a digging expedition in Iraq.

The expedition, sponsored jointly by the universities of Chicago and Pennsylvania, has uncovered a number of clay tables bearing the Cuneiform writings of the Sumerian people.

The Sumerians, whose civilization flourished as far back as 3,000 or 4,000 B.C., are believed to be the inventors of that particular form of writing.

Thorkild Jacobsen, director of Oriental Institute of Chicago, reported Saturday night on the findings. He returned recently after working for a month with the expedition.

He said the prime significance of the excavations is "the opportunity they give of recovering documents of what is the oldest literature in the world—that of the Sumerians."

Jacobsen, who translated the newly-found tablets, said they dated from about 1,900 to 1,800 B.C. One dealt with ethics and moral behavior. Still others bore mathematical texts. And one listed court records dealing with a murder trial.

Two Murderers Die In State Prison

BELLEFONTE, Pa., Jan. 9 (AP) Two convicted murderers died in the electric chair at Rockview state prison early today.

Prison authorities said the two —Ray H. Simmons, 26, and Edward Dipofi, 24—both were calm as they entered the death chamber.

Simmons was convicted of the robbery-slaying of Herbert Humpert, 70, a retired farmer March 24, 1947, on his farm near Gettysburg, Pa. The elderly man was beaten to death with a claw hammer.

Dipofi was sentenced to death in the pistol killing of policeman Joseph Chlynski in Bethel Township, Allegheny county, March 5, 1948.

Belleville-Born AMA Editor Likes To Read

By WILLIAM J. CONWAY

CHICAGO, Jan. 9 (AP) — Dr. Austin Smith likes to read.

It's a good thing he does, because as the new editor of the Journal of the American Medical Association he has one of the heaviest reading jobs in the United States.

Four times each day a fresh bundle of mail is dropped on his desk. Manuscripts alone add up to about 5,000 a year, containing words like exophthalmos, mxedema, lactobacilli.

"I like to read," says the Canadian-born Dr. Smith. "When I was in grade school I often read books instead of studying. I used to read two books a night.

"I'm a fast reader. I read by the paragraph. It's not a natural knack. It's a matter of training."

Born In Belleville

Dr. Smith, born at Belleville, Ont., never has practised medicine. He got his medical degree and did postgraduate work at Queen's Univesity, Kingston, Ont. He interned at the Yonkers, N.Y., General Hospital.

He joined the AMA in 1940 and later became director of the division on therapy and research. This division tests and passes judgment on new drugs, foods and medical apparatus. He also lectured on pharmacology the science of drugs at the Universities of Chicago and Illinois. He has been a U.S. citizen since 1946.

Dr. Smith is 37. He speaks rapidly and softly. He leans toward the conservative in what he wears and what he says.

He's a busy man. During an interview he took time out to talk with an AMA official, an associate editor and a printer on problems that couldn't wait, and to answer three telephoned inquiries. On the outside desk in his roomy, wood-panelled office lay six stacks of papers and letters. The vocal and silent demands for his attention left him unruffled.

Plenty of Help

He has plenty of help, of course. There are about 100 men and women in the AMA editorial division and 260 in the printing department. They produce the Journal-Hygeia, a health magazine for laymen; nine monthly publications in special medical fields; and books and pamphlets.

The journal is the largest medical journal in the world. The presses spew out 136,000 copies a week.

Dr. Smith, who succeeded Dr. Morris Fishbein, said he doesn't contemplate any drastic changes. His aim is to "maintain the journal's position as the leading scientific medical journal."

Dr. Smith does considerable writing as well as reading. Just writing letters is quite a chore. He has written scores of articles. He has made 50 speaking appearances a year for several years.

British Paper Raps Slur On Princess

LONDON, Jan. 9 (Reuters) — The Sunday newspaper, The People, Sunday attacked the American magazine, Digest, for publishing what it describes as a "vile slur" on Princess Margaret.

The People dismisses as "uncorroborated" stories that the Princess raided the King's champagne when she was 14, soaked herself at 16 with a bottle of expensive perfume, and danced dressed in lace panties and long black stockings as "Mademoiselle Fifi" at a party given by Lewis Douglas, American ambassador in London.

There is no truth in the report that Princess Margaret will visit the United States, The People says. Stories that the Princess had been "bundled off" to Italy last year to avoid romantic complications of her liking for comedian Danny Kaye were "ridiculous."

Rockefeller Marriage Said Going On Rocks

NEW YORK, Jan. 9 (CP) — Winthrop Rockefeller, a member of one of the world's wealthiest families, and his wife, the former Bobo Sears, daughter of a Lithuanian coal miner, have decided their marriage will not work, the World-Telegram and the Sun said Saturday.

The newspaper says the marriage will end in divorce when arrangements are completed by lawyers for Rockefeller and the girl he married Feb. 14, 1948.

Nature of their difference was not disclosed. But the World-Telegram and the Sun story said the heir to part of the Standard Oil fortunes had spent more than six months trying to solve them.

Call Off Search For Seven Men

EDMONTON, Jan. 9 (CP) — Search for seven men reported overdue in the wilderness near Whitehorse, Yukon, was called off Sunday after RCMP and the RCAF had established that they appeared to be in no difficulty.

Late Saturday, an RCAF plane sighted two of the men at work on their project dismantling equipment along the abandoned Canol pipeline, 1,000 miles northwest of here. Emergency supplies were dropped although they appeared to be in no trouble.

Searchers did not see the other five, but said signs of activity along the Canol Road indicated operations were continuing between two camps 10 miles apart.

The search got under way on Friday after RCMP at Whitehorse received a report that the men were long overdue in reporting to their base and were believed short of supplies. Authorities said today radio messages regarding supplies apparently had been misconstrued, giving rise to anxiety for their safety.

Henry E. Locke Dies In Kingston

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 9 — (ENS)—Henry Edward Locke, a prominent citizen of Seymour, died in Kingston on Friday at the age of 43. He had been in poor health since October.

A funeral service, under the auspices of the Masonic Order, was held today at the family residence on the English line, with the Rev. C[illegible] J. A. Whitehorne of Tabe[illegible] United Church officiating. [illegible]urial was in Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

Son of Thomas Locke and the late Emma Stanbury, he was born in Campbellford and educated in the local schools. Later he moved to the English Line, where he became a successful farmer on the old Locke homestead that has been in the family name for more than one hundred years.

Mr. Locke was a member of the Campbellford and District Fish and Game Protective Association; Golden Rule Lodge, AF and AM; Kinsmen Club; and local School Board. He was a representative of the Mutual Life Assurance Co. and took a keen interest in all lines of sport.

He leaves his wife, the former Hellen Oddie, and three young children: Jack, Gerald and Carol Mae; also his father, Thomas Locke, and three sisters: Ada, Toronto; Mrs. H. M. Maitland, of Trenton, and Mrs. Robt. Fox, Campbellford.

SantaClausCommittee Reports On Expenses

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 9 (ENS) —The Santa Claus committee, under the chairmanship of F. M. Rutherford, met in the Council Chamber Friday night.

The chairman gave the following financial report: Collections, $381.50; expenses, $272.32; cash on hand, $109.18.

A committee, composed of one representative of each of the local service clubs and organizations will be formed with Mr. Rutherford as head, to make plans for the 1950 parade.

End Milk Rationing

LONDON, Jan. 9 (CP) — The Food Ministry announced Saturday that milk rationing will end in Britain Jan. 15—at which time Britons will generally find themselves still pretty tightly controlled on basic foodstuffs.

Police Question Woman In Killing

ST CATHARINES, Jan. 9 (CP) —Provincial police said Sunday they had questioned Mrs. Claire Dickson on Friday in connection with the slaying of William Arthur Gough, local taxi driver bludgeoned to death Dec. 22.

The 25-year-old Mrs. Dickson, a resident of this city, was described by police as a friend of Michael Palechuk, 19, charged with murder.

Police, who declined to comment on the questioning, said: "We are just tying up loose ends."

Mrs. Dickson said she didn't believe Palechuk had done the murder. "I don't think he would be capable of murder," she said.

Soviet-Biased Editor After Canadian DP's

TORONTO, Jan. 9 (CP)—Peter Krawchuk, co-editor of the Toronto magazine Ukrainian Life, was chief speaker Saturday when about 500 attended a meeting of the Soviet-supporting association of United Ukrainian Canadians.

The gathering in the Ukrainian Labor Temple was called in protest against an attempt of a group of displaced persons to break up a meeting at Timmins, on Dec. 11, when Mr. Krawchuk was the speaker.

Krawchuk said that what happened in Timmins was a continuation of what has gone on in Eastern Europe for 30 years. Recently returned from a visit to Russia, he said Ukrainian terrorists had carried on activities in that part of the Ukraine which was under Polish control between the two world wars. He said there was proof that some of these Ukrainian Nationalists had aided Germany against Russia in the war and now are in Canada.

"We do not know how they were screened," he said, "but they are here."

Mrs. Robert Bannon Dies At Age Of 88

OMEMEE, Jan. 9 (ENS)—Mrs Robert Bannon, formerly Letitia Ann Balfour, died Saturday in a nursing home in Lindsay after a long illness. She was in her 89th year.

Born in Emily township, she was a daughter of the late Mr and Mrs. William Balfour. In 1882 she married Robert Bannon, a farmer of Emily township. The couple retired to Omemee in 1929 and Mr. Bannon died three years later.

Mrs. Bannon was a member of Lebanon Methodist Church and later of Christ Anglican Church, Omemee.

She leaves two sisters: Mrs. Richard Poast (Elizabeth) and Mrs. William Connell Emma), both of Omemee. One sister, Mrs. James Seymour (Rachael) and three brothers, Robert, William and Rev. David Balfour predeceased her.

The funeral will be held Tuesday at 2:30 p.m. from the home of Mrs. Richard Poast, Sturgeon St., Omemee. The Rev. F. W. Pooley officiating. Pallbearers will be six nephews: J. A. Bent, I. Connell, O. Grandy, all of Omemee; M. Lephangue, Pontypool; C. and W. Seymour of Ida. Burial will take place in Emily cemetery.

Voluntary Repatriation

TOKYO, Jan. 9 (AP)—Russia today voluntarily offered to repatriate 2,500 more Japanese prisoners of war. The surprise offer came after allied occupation officials had hammered at the Russians for an accounting of 376,000 Japanese prisoners of war western powers say are still in Russian hands. The Russians had said they held only 10,000 more and they were war criminals and would not be sent home. They have repatriated more than 1,000,000 Japanese prisoners.

"Pardon me, Mr. Wes. Bang! May I ask to what you ascribe your phenomenal success?"

"Sure! A lot of practice—and a little 'Vaseline' Hair Tonic every day to 'check' Dry Scalp and keep my hair in position."

Short Of Cash 33 Families Donate $4,000 In Time And Equipment For Church Hall

BELLEVILLE, Jan. 9 (CP) — The new hall at Carmel United Church at Stirling cost less than $2,000 in cold cash—because 33 families donated another $4,000 in time and equipment.

One member of the congregation could spare only $1. With it she bought sugar and made candy. She sold it at baseball games and turned her $1 into $20.

Carmel Jubilee Hall, as the new wing of the church is known, is almost paid for.

"We won't paint the interior until next year," said one official "because we don't want to go beyond our finances."

Building Boom In Canada

More than a billion dollars worth of construction in this country last year set a record. It was twice as much in value as twenty years ago, and $186,000,000 worth more than in 1948. The dollar costs do not necessarily mean that more buildings went up, but 1949 was a year of stabilizing construction costs, and actually more houses were built last year than ever before. Very nearly half the money put into construction in 1949 went into residential building: $464,264,000. Contributing to the immense total of $1,140,116,000 were large public works—hydro, hospitals and schools.

• • •

Peterborough had its share of new construction, and housebuilding accounted for a good part of it. About 500 houses were erected in the city in 1949, more than half of them by private builders. This compares with 419 built in 1948, 226 of them through the agency of Central Mortgage (a Crown corporation), 193 by private builders. Peterborough's biggest year in construction was 1949, when buildings to the total value of $3,781,789 were constructed or begun (apart from Central Mortgage houses). In 1948 total construction was valued at $2,356,097. In 1947 the total was $3,511,771. The chief reason for the high 1947 figure was industrial and commercial building, school additions and hospitals.

• • •

This city has been much more prompt in attending to its construction needs, particularly of houses, than most others, so that high 1949 figures for other centres do not mean that Peterborough has been lagging behind. It has been in the van.

Blondie In Brussels

La Lanterne, a Brussels daily newspaper came to hand yesterday, and we have been looking at it with lively interest. The influence of the American press is obvious, and since the paper looked much less like a tabloid in prewar days, American soldiers' tastes during the recent war may have had a part in shaping the headlines and pictures. It looks more American than French or British. The day's eight-column front page headline was: "LA VIE AMOUREUSE D'HITLER", and the drop headings (translated) were: "Before His Rise to Power the Future Fuhrer Timid and Poor Was a Marriage Cheat and He Loved Jenny".

Inside the six pages are the usual types of articles and advertisements, news of the day, a cross-word, sports, pictures of film stars, and, yes, four comic strips: Johnny Hasard, Fantome, Professeur Nimbus, Rip Kirby, Illioc (Jiggs and Maggie), and Blondie: all under the heading "Nos Feuilletons Dessines" (Our Sketched Serials). They are not called Comics, though they have a better right to the term than the North American type of comics, for it is slap-dash stuff familiar in Canada twenty years ago. Jiggs is banged on the head and sees stars. Professor Nimbus dictates to his wife who is sweeping the floor; in the next picture she is dictating to him sweeping the floor.

Blondie has suffered a sea-change, though the drawings are authentic: Dagwood asks his son:

"Ou est ton pistolet atomique a eau".

Son: "Dans ma chambre P'pa."

A salesman comes to the door with economical size bottles of lotion at fifty francs each. Dagwood's hand comes out through the door, with the water-pistol. The salesman gets a squirt on the head which silences him. Dagwood comes back, beaming, and returns the water-pistol to the startled son: "Vraiment la science moderne est formidable."

Such a Blondie strip is intriguing to us as ours must be to a Belgian. A domestic mirror of the humours of a people? Truly formidable.

What's A Four-Letter Word

We have not bothered to look into the ancestry of cross-word puzzles—they probably have roots as old as hieroglyphics on Egyptian tombs—but it is only in this century that they have become pleasurable teasers for millions of people. In their present form they do not seem to go back much farther than 1910, so cross-words may be called by-products of the twentieth century's civilization.

Their persistent popularity is proven by daily English-language newspapers the world over. No such newspaper of repute or household use dares leave out its cross-word. Even the august London Times, which rarely condescends to popular taste—for instance, it hardly ever prints a news photograph—has a daily cross-word. They are, incidentally, about the best to be had—tricky, witty and literate. One day not many months ago the Examiner inadvertently left out its crossword. We had five 'phone calls and two letters about it the very next morning.

Cross-words reached their hey-day on this continent in 1924, and, of course, in the U.S.A. which is addicted to sudden enthusiasms. A young New Yorker named Richard Simon (of the publishing firm) was asked by his aunt if there were any books solely devoted to cross-word puzzles. She wanted to give such a book to a friend, a cross-word fan. The young man discovered that there were none, so the "puzzle editors" of the New York World, at his behest, devised one. An advertising campaign was put on:

1921—Coue
1922—Mah Jong
1923—Bananas (yes, we have no)
1924—THE CROSS-WORD PUZZLE BOOK.

It sold, by tens of thousands. Railways had to put dictionaries in all trains on the main lines. A man was sent to jail in New York for refusing to leave a restaurant after four hours of trying to solve a puzzle. A Pittsburgh pastor had the text of his sermon put in a puzzle. Everybody knew the name of an Egyptian sun-god, and two two-letter words which meant a printer's measure.

The fad faded, to leave the field to the enthusiasts, the professors and domestic couples after supper. Train travellers continued to while away the hours with cross-words, anacrostics and their relatives.

We refuse to enter the long-standing argument between the short-and-easy and the long-and-teasy addicts. We tried a Times crossword once in a quiet country home on a dull long winter's day. There was little else to amuse. It took us a full day, aided (yes, we do not play fair!) by the two-volume Shorter Oxford English Dictionary and Roget's Thesaurus, to solve all but one corner of the puzzle. The day progressed from relaxed comfort to frenzied rage. What was that four-letter word meaning thin? We never did discover.

Relief From Noise

Some while ago busy money-makers in control of the Grand Central Terminal in New York City installed about eighty loud-speakers. Over them blared constantly voices advertising this and that product. Not a few citizens protested and the weekly magazine The New Yorker was one of the first and sharpest condemners of the practice. It protested that an illiberal, undemocratic power was inflicting itself on a "captive audience". People had to catch trains, they had to use the station, a public place. Advertisers and the management of the station were taking unfair advantage of them.

The management of the terminal has heard the protest and bowed to it. The loud speakers have been silenced, and the captive audience has had a reprieve.

Similar attempts will undoubtedly be made in other cities, and against other "captive audiences", bus and street-car riders, for instance. Recently in Washington, D.C., the Public Utilities Commission ruled against broadcasting of commercial announcements, sandwiched with music, over loudspeakers in streetcars and buses in the U.S. capital. It is to be hoped that if such noises start up in Canada they will be firmly silenced. The public has a right to a minimum of privacy in public places.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A medical writer remarks that it is possible to bleed to death without suffering pain. The bleeding which is done by our various taxing bodies, however, gives plenty of pain, right from the beginning.

A new expression of disdain has been coined for a person who is a cross between a jerk and a pest; it is "jerst". This prompts us to coin "mump" to describe that large class which combine the attributes of mutt and chump, "boosance" for those who subtly intermingle the characteristics of boob and nuisance, and "bodiot" to describe the boring idiot. But none compare with Rabelais' splendid word "slubberdegullion", which embraces them all.

Musical Notes

By PETER PIPER

THE Canadian amateur musician reading English textbooks and articles about music is apt to be a little confused by the differences in nomenclature, which in this country is usually on the American model. Conversely the English reader has to feel his way. For the benefit of all concerned here are a few of the commonest expressions, with their English-English equivalents:

Canadian	English
Whole note	Semibreve
Half note	Minim
Quarter note	Crotchet
Eighth note	Quaver
Sixteenth note	Semiquaver
Thirty-second note	Demisemiquaver
Sixty-fourth note	Hemidemisemiquaver
Off key	Out of tune
Voice leading	Part-writing
Bass viol	Double bass
Pipe organ	Organ
Reed organ	Harmonium
Podium	Rostrum

The names of the notes are evidently derived from German practice, and were probably introduced into the New World by the colonies of Germans in Philadelphia and elsewhere. They are more logical and easier to learn than semibreves, minims, etc., and they link up with the study of time signatures. The French have a system something like the English for their notes. It would be much simpler if everybody were to adopt the German system.

OPERA has been called contemptuously a "bastard art", but like most children of love it shows a strange vitality. In Italy it is as popular as football or hockey, in Germany it is almost a religious ritual, while in the English-speaking countries it is (or has been until quite recently) regarded as a function of aristocratic and plutocratic society. The war has helped to bring about a change of outlook. Troops in Italy while on leave in the larger centres had an opportunity to go to opera, and many who had never before darkened the doors of an opera house acquired the taste. On their return they found themselves the nucleus of a larger public that was less interested in the "stuffed shirt" angle" and more interested in the music. When I was last in London there were three opera companies running simultaneously. It is doubtful whether Canada is ripe for opera as yet. Not only must a public be created, but also an organization capable of delivering the goods. There is still a prejudice against the "bastard art" amongst a section of musical purists who forget that music and drama have been linked together since the dawn of history. Experiments on a small scale are being made, and these may in time lead to something more substantial, but the difficulties are indeed formidable.

✧ ✧ ✧

A GOOD number of people, both experts and amateurs have tried to find out why choirs go flat. There are various factors—incorrect breathing (which in turn is often due to a faulty posture), bad production of the voice, using the chest register too high, forcing the tone, a poor ear, and so on. These are all of capital importance, but as far as correct intonation is concerned I am convinced that the main cause is inattention. It often happens that a choir that has been singing flat at rehearsals sings in correct pitch at the performance, because everybody is keyed up. I have even heard choirs through excessive keenness and nervousness sing sharp at performances, when they were singing in correct pitch at rehearsals. The remedy for flatness is greater alertness, great attention. This can usually be secured by avoiding music that has been over-rehearsed. Flatness must be checked whenever it raises its ugly head, so that the choir will become "pitch-conscious". Occasionally it is advisable to transpose an item downwards (taking care that this does not take the contralti or basses out of their depth), but this is a palliative rather than a remedy. Unfortunately even the most experienced singers are not always immune from this fault, and when this is the case they will do more damage than the beginners. The weather has a considerable influence on choral singing. Damp muggy weather almost invariably lowers that electric tension that should exist, while bright sunny weather (not too hot—that is bad too!) has a tonic effect.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE art of singing is cluttered up with more mumbo-jumbo, bogus physiology and muddled thinking than any other branch of music. Worst of all, eminent authorities contradict each other on the most fundamental issues. There is a very good reason for this. The muscular movements involved in singing are, for all practical purposes, invisible, and however learned in the physiology of the throat a singer may be it is impossible for him to regulate the muscles of his throat in the same conscious way that a pianist can do with his hand and arm. He can only work satisfactorily by trial and error. If he produces the desired result he must make a careful note of the muscular sensations inside his throat and try to reproduce them at will. The matter of breathing is easier; the muscles involved can be controlled more easily because there is a visible and tangible change, but there is no unanimity even on this subject. One expert even says "I assume the position of the highest authority, not because I know so much, but because others know so little". If as much time and money could be spent on establishing the basic principles of voice production as on the atomic bomb we might get somewhere. Fortunately it is possible for a gifted voice trainer to obtain good results even when he holds cockeyed theories.

Uncle Sam's Dried Eggs

Uncle Sam is now host to 62,000,000 pounds of dried eggs—the equivalent of 1,232,000,000 whole eggs—and the supply is constantly increasing. Disposing of this treasure is becoming an insoluble problem, since the normal U.S. consumption of dried eggs—mostly in bakery products—is only 15,000,000 pounds a year. Efforts have been made to give them away to Indians on reservations, and to those states which provide free school lunches, but, as the Christian Science Monitor sadly points out, "there are only so many dried eggs that a reservation Indian or school child will eat."

A Plea for Untaxed Books

(WATERTOWN TIMES)

"BOOKS," said Winston Churchill, "offer the means whereby civilization can be carried triumphantly forward." Then is not civilization being held back when so many countries place taxes upon books, hindering their free sale and circulation?

Sir Stanley Unwin, president of the International Publishers' Congress, deplores the system which even in enlightened countries makes the intercourse in books beset with obstacles and added expense. A large chart prepared by the British Publishers' Association shows how their books are treated in 55 countries.

Belgium places a tax on books in accordance with their weight. Brazil not only orders their weight tax, a handling charge of ten per cent. on the duty, a two per cent. social levy but a postal levy on each parcel. Canada has an eight per cent. sales tax in which books are included. In France there is a production tax levied on the cost of the books, and on the postage, a charge on every parcel and a transaction tax. Italy calls for a duty and a local tax on books. Switzerland has a turnover tax and a customs tax. This makes so much labour that defraying the costs outweighs the receipts.

Lord Unwin has spoken of the hardships such restrictions in books place upon students in foreign countries. Take a medical student who must now depend on British textbooks rather than German. The flow of such works has been brought to a mere trickle. A doctor may be kept waiting weeks for important information. Or an engineer in Japan will wait indefinitely for the technical book now so hampered in its progress from a British book-seller.

In Israel the government has almost cut off the flow of books to a population loving English literature, because in the sterling allocations the most trifling priority is not granted to books.

It is recalled that Hitler prevented circulation of thought by burning books, but taxation can just as surely become a limit to knowledge. That in Great Britain books are no longer treated like such a commodity as potatoes, but all taxation removed, may well cause that nation to experience a feeling of pride.

Sicily Smiles

(CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR)

Glorifying gangsters is a favourite pastime not only of Hollywood but of many an American newspaper. And in real life as well as the movies the minions of the law have been known to get their best clues from the stories of a crack reporter turned amateur detective. But in America neither press nor police has yet produced anything that quite matches the "crime comedy" reported from Rome by the United Press.

Sicily boasts—or is burdened by—a modern Jesse James who has defied the Italian Government for three years. At times 3,000 police have hunted this bandit chief, Salvatore Giuliano. Once when the minister of interior offered a reward for the outlaw, Giuliano answered by offering a reward of twice the size for capture of the minister. He has also publicly offered three times a policeman's pay to men who will join his band.

Italian Communists twitted the government when the bandit sent "an ambassador" to Rome to treat for terms. But Giuliano also declared war on the Reds in a manifesto printed all over Italy. Since he invited anti-Communists to come to his headquarters, many people have found it hard to understand why the police couldn't find the bandit's published address. Now even Sicilians who have no sympathy with his shootings and kidnappings cannot suppress a smile over the trial in Rome of four newspapermen on charges of "apologizing for crime and favouring" banditry.

For even, as in America, the embarrassment of the authorities is a prime source of amusement. And whatever evidence the government may have against the newsmen involves some indictment of itself. For one basis of the charge against them is that they shot the man the police can't find—with cameras.

Government Economy

Benjamin Disraeli once said: "There can be no economy where there is no efficiency."

It is on this very principle that Mr. Herbert Hoover, backed by his citizens' committee, is leading his fight for efficiency in the U.S. government. For he is convinced that one way to save the public's money is to insist upon efficiency among the public servants.

But it is a hard battle. The need for reform was revealed clearly enough in the pages of the Hoover report, which was published in instalments during the year. And the report was a thorough and searching one. Non-partisan in character, it had the benefit of expert opinion. It pointed out just how and where the money could be saved. It was not concerned with whether the policies of the government were good or bad. It was concerned only with how the money was being wasted in putting them into effect. It called for good housekeeping — a putting of the house in order.—Montreal Gazette.

Letters To The Editor

FLYING SAUCERS

Sir: I would like to express my thanks to your newspaper for a small write-up regarding Flying Saucers in the January edition of Men's True Magazine. It was interesting reading.

When I read of Captain Mantell chasing after a flying saucer and of his description of it to the air-base below, and then of Mantell's death, I was surprised, to say the least. Until I read the article in True, I had heard rumours of flying saucers, but I did not know of any that had been seen at close range. True claims numerous sightings.

There must be some concrete evidence of the inter-planetary space ships — or flying saucers—or the U.S.A. would not continue to maintain their costly "Project Saucer".

Thanking you,

A READER.

Young Artist Sells Pictures, Uses Pavement

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

LONDON, Jan. 9—(CP)—Red-haired Jan Snowden is a young artist who believes in taking her painting to the public. Daily she sets up five or six pictures on a pavement pitch near Trafalgary Square.

Some of her friends do not approve of her being a pavement artist, but Jan doesn't mind so long as her pictures sell.

"I sold five last week," she said, "but of course a lot of people just stop and look and say they'll come back. They don't as a rule."

Exception to the rule was a Cambridge undergraduate who when he bought a picture, said he would try to fix up a show for her in a Cambridge Art Gallery. "He hopes to stage an exhibition of my pictures next February," Jan said.

Gets Too Tired

Jan's chief complaint is that when she gets home at night after being in the cold air all day she is too tired to do any painting. So she has to paint all through the week-end to keep up supplies.

Her pictures belong to the impressionist school and often she uses the palette knife instead of a brush. Many are seascapes and river scenes and they glow with color.

A few years age she determined to paint or else and ever since has lived by her painting. She was determined to exhibit her work and as she could not afford to stage an exhibition she chose the pavements.

After a week without selling anything Jan struck it lucy. Louis Golding, the author, happened to be passing. He stopped to admire one of her river scenes — and bought it.

"I was very flattered," Jan said, "as Mr. Golding is a connoisseur of painting and has many fine works in his home."

Diplomat Escapes

VANCOUVER, Jan. 9—(CP)—A young Canadian diplomat whose ship ran the Shanghai blockade under fire last November arrived here during the weekend. Bruce Rankin, of Ottawa, commercial secretary for Canada in China, arrived with his wife and baby daughter by air from Australia, where he was re-united with them after escaping from Shanghai.

Dr. W. Goldie Dies

TORONTO, Jan. 9 (CP)—Dr. William A. Goldie, 76, one of the pioneers of the medical staff at the University of Toronto, died here Sunday. Native of Ayr, Ont., he graduated in medicine from the university in 1896 and was instrumental in founding a chair of medicine at the university in 1919. He retired from the university staff in 1929 but continued to practice until 1947.

Won't Give Up Fight

NEW YORK, Jan. 9—(AP) — Mme. Chiang Kai-shek Sunday pledged unremitting guerrilla warfare and propaganda—eventually a general uprising—against the Chinese Communist regime. In a radio speech before leaving for island of Formosa to join her husband, the wife of the Chinese Nationalist leader promised he will wage a last-ditch battle for the island.

Eyes On Tibet

MOSCOW, Jan. 9 (AP) — A Russian newspaper declared on Sunday that lama-ruled Tibet is to be swept out of its classic centuries old isolation into the dynamic stream of world Communism. Fairman Heads Hockey Club

HASTINGS, Jan. 9 (ENS). — H. G. Fairman was elected president of the Hastings Hockey Club which met recently in the rink to organize for 1950. Other officers elected were: Vice-president, Joe Jones; secretary, Art. Orr, and treasurer, Elmer Richardson. Mr. Orr was appointed chairman for the meeting and C. M. Baker acted as secretary.

It was moved that the Memorial Centre be asked to sponsor the two teams, midget and juvenile, while the TVL entry will be on its own.

Pres. Fairman said he had received word of an O. M. H. A meeting at Lakefield Sunday afternoon to draw up a Schedule for both minor entries.

Coach Stevenson of the T. V. L entry promised a good entry and hoped the teams would have the same support as in former years

T. V. L. manager will be J. S Stevenson and Juvenile manager Joe Jones, Murray Fife is coach.

Midget manager is H. G. Fairman and coach, Lynn Hill.

Board of Directors are: John McMillian, Douglas Wright, Arthur Covert, Frances Parker.

Postpone Strike

BUFFALO, N.Y., Jan. 9 (AP)— A strike scheduled at four plants of the American Locomotive Company Saturday was postponed one week. The strike, affecting about 10,000 Alco employees at Dunkirk, Schenectady, Auburn and Latrobe, Pa., had been set for midnight Sunday by the United Steelworkers (CIO).

15 Flee Flames

OTTAWA, Jan. 9 (CP)—About 15 people were forced to seek temporary refuge on the street in sub-zero weather today when a fire broke out in a nine-suite apartment building on Cooper Street in downtown Ottawa. Damage to the three-storey building, owned by S. C. Stevenson, of Ottawa, was estimated at $6,000.

Bavarians Rap Beer Tax Not A Luxury—A Necessity

By DONALD DOANE

MUNICH, Germany, Jan. 9 — (AP) —There's a revolt brewing in Bavaria against the high tax on beer.

In this big south German state they brew more beer and drink more beer than any place else in the world.

Or at least they used to. Now Bavarians grumble, they can't afford enough beer to keep them healthy and brewers can't sell enough to keep busy.

Why, last year, according to official statistics, the beer consumption in Bavaria was only 68 quarts a person.

You think that's high? In 1912 the average Bavarian drank 311 quarts a year—nearly a quart a day. As late as 1939 he drank 212 quarts.

Source of Colories

A decline like that is both a social and economic problem in this state which depends so heavily on beer for its calories and its income.

The breweries, just beginning to get on their feet again after the war, are working at far less than capacity. Thousands of workers are losing employment.

Most of the quaint old taverns where Bavarians in leather pants and feathered hats used to hoist big stone mugs are nearly empty.

Brewers and consumers alike blame the state government, which classed beer as a luxury and slapped on a staff tax of about seven cents a quart.

The Bavarian insists beer is no luxury, but a necessity.

Imitiation Will Do

For a long time after the war there was hardly any real beer. In those starvation days Germans were forbidden to make the usual strong brew because the grains was needed for food.

The result was a weak, watery imitation. But even that poor substitute sold freely in those days of inflated curency when everybody had money and nothing to spend it on.

When the ban was lifted last year, the brewers started making real beer again. But with the strong beer came the high tax.

Figures show why the Bavarian hollers about the price of beer. A quart costs him one mark, about 25 cents. That's not as hugh as in the United States or Canada But it's high here where wages are low. A quart of beer costs an hour's work.

CAHA Approves Playoff Dates, Banff Parley

By W. R. WHEATLEY.

MONTREAL, Jan. 9 (CP)—The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association concluded its semi-annual meeting Saturday night by approving playoff schedules and blasting the Montreal Canadien Juniors for a "Donnybrook" display in an exhibition game at Winnipeg.

The CAHA also set its annual meeting for June 6 at Banff Alta.

At the conclusion of the two day meeting the Canadian Press learned authoritatively that favorable consideration has already been given to a Quebec branch request that the Memorial Cup final be staged either in Montreal or Quebec City should a Quebec branch team win the eastern Canada finals. However, the branch's written motion can only be dealt with at an annual meeting.

The Allan Cup finals which will be held in the west this year will start either May 1 or 2. The meeting confirmed a rearrangement of dates by the eastern branches sending the Quebec senior winners against the Maritime winners starting April 1 in the best of seven series in the eastern playoffs.

Set Deadline

The Association ruled that the eastern junior finals will end no later than April 24 and the finals for the Memorial Cup will start several days later.

President Jimmy Dunn, of the Manitoba branch, brought before the meeting a first-hand account of the display of Montreal Canadiens juniors in their exhibition game in Winnipeg last month.

Dunn said two match misconduct penalties were given and, in one instance, Dickie Moore, of Canadiens, manhandled the referee.

Registrar Frank Dillio, of the Quebec branch, concurred in a unanimous resolution by which CAHA president Al Pickard was authorized to reprimand severely Moore, captain Ernie Roche and coach Sammy Pollock, of Canadiens, for the display.

President Pickard was further empowered by the delegates to deal directly with any future outbreaks in exhibition inter-branch games by ordering immediate suspensions and imposing penalties not specifically provided for in the constitution for exhibition games.

The Association left to the annual meeting a notice of motion by the Alberta branch by which a system of draft would be set up between junior A and senior A clubs. Provision would be made for a compulsory form of contract, involving a reserve clause, optional clauses and payments on transfer under option. Consent of players was also stipulated and negotiations with professional clubs provided for.

Establishment of a board of governors is among changes in by-laws to be considered by the Ontario Golf Association at its annual meeting on Saturday, Jan. 28, in Toronto. The board of governors—to be made up of the president, three vice-presidents, the honorary secretary-treasurer and three governors—would replace the present executive committee. One of the governors is to be appointed from the Toronto area, one from eastern Ontario and one from western Ontario.

The association will also consider a proposal for an annual Ontario seniors championship for amateur golfers 50 years of age and over.

A Cinderella horse may bring the Royal Family its first victory in the Grand National Steeplechase in 40 years. The horse is Monaveen, who shot from rags to riches when Princess Elizabeth and her mother the Queen bought him last fall.

Two years ago Monaveen, a nine-year-old brown gelding that looks a little scrawny for a jumper, ran in a claiming race and failed to finish. Now he's the winter book favorite for the big chase at Aintree, made world famous by the Irish Sweepstakes.

The only Royal horse ever to win the race was the Prince of Wales' Ambush II in 1900.

Laszlo Szabo of Hungary won the international chess congress Saturday at Hastings, Sussex. The 17-year-old Larry Evans, only American entry, finished fourth. Szabo finished with a score of 8-1.

Solidarity breezed to an easy victory in the $50,000 added San Pasqual Handicap Saturday at Santa Anita racetrack. He went to the front in the back stretch, then withstood the challenge of Noor, C. S. Howard's Irish importation, coming into the stretch. Souidarity won by a length and Noor, the place horse, finished three lengths ahead of Ponder, Calumet Farm's Kentucky Derby winner.

With Ralph Neves in the saddle Solidarity toured the 1 1-16 miles in 1:43 4-5. He returned $14.80, $6.2 0 and $3.90.

Police Sunday investigated the possibility of arson in a fire which destroyed the Greentree stables in Chicago's suburban Norwood Park. Twentytwo riding horses burned to death in the fire Friday.

Edmonton Mercurys hockey team Saturday night won the first game of their Scottish tour, downing Falkirk Lions 4-1, but at the cost of a severe injury to defenceman Jim Kilburn.

Tigers Crush Mercurys 5-3, Marlies Triumph

By The Canadian Press

Two trades were made in Ontario Hockey Association senior and junior games on Saturday. The change, for once, involved no players but concerned the cellar position in both the senior A and junior A loops.

Hamilton Tigers finally vacated last place in the senior circuit, blasting Owen Sound 5-3 to shove past the Mercurys and Galt Black Hawks eked out a 3-2 decision over Stratford Kroehlers, to return Stratford to the position they have held most of the season.

In the other senior game, Toronto Marboros increased their first-place lead to 21 points by overpowering Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen 8-4. In junior competition, Marlboros walloped their inter-city rivals, St. Michaels College Majors, 11-4, Windsor belted Barrie Flyers 7-1 and St. Catharines Teepees bested Oshawa Generals 5-1.

At Owen Sound, the Tigers and Mercurys ended the first frame all square at 2-2 but Hamilton took a two-goal lead in the middle session. Splitting a pair of markers in the third gave Hamilton their pass to third spot.

Veteran Bobby Laurent sparked the Tiger attack with a pair of goals while singles were picked up by Eddie Busch, Frank Liscombe and Claré Shillington. Markle, Doug Gillespie and Buck Forslund scored the Mercury goals.

Nearly Missed It

Galt didn't settle the issue with Stratford until 11.59 of the final session at the Galt Arena when Jack Price's marker gave them a hard-earned win.

Doug Green and Pete Conacher were the other Hawk marksmen while Dinny Flanagan and Jim Pernfuss flashed the red light for the Kroehlers.

Marlboros salted away their win over Kitchener-Waterloo with a typical Duke finish. Coming from behind twice to end the second period 5-4, the Toronto marksmen pounded in three tallies in the final period to win 8-4.

Don Rope and Red Johnson paced the Toronto snipers with two goals each while singletons were counted by Flash Hollett, Al Buchanan, Bob Gilhooly and Bobby Hassard. Johnny Blute was the only two-goal man for the losers, Mike Dzuira and Mickey Roth potting singles.

Outplay Irish

In Toronto, the Junior Marlboros completely outplayed St. Michael's College to rack up their 22nd victory in 30 games.

George Armstrong was firing the big artillery for the winners, pumping home four goals. He was followed closely by Danny Lewicki with three, a performance which was matched by Irish centre star Willy Marshall.

A four-goal burst in the opening frame followed with five in the second and two in the final was the sequence which sunk the Collegians. Ron Hurst, Jack McKenzie, Lorne Pirie and Red Mitchell notched singletons for Marlboros while Fred Sandford did the same for St. Michael's.

Canada Direct Places Second And Third

TORONTO, Jan. 9—McSilk, owned by Wells and Hess, of Morrisburg, won the feature at the Dufferin Park trotting meet, Saturday.

Driven by Curt Baker, the flashy gelding lorded over his fast class opponents for the second straight week, though dropping the repeat dash to March Heir.

In the first dash, the lead changed frequently, but Baker was never far away from McSilk, following along in easy style until the stretch drive when he pulled out and took over handily. Canada Direct was second for Wilmer Hillock and March Heir, Eddie Wheeler driving, a fast-closing third.

Wheeler took March Heir right to the front in the repeat, McSilk third. Positions remained unchanged until the stretch when McSilk and Canada Direct took out, but were unable to catch the flying leader.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC PERDUE, Sports Editor.

Ice ought to be plenty fast for the big senior "B" game at 8.30 tonight in Civic Arena when Belleville Diesels tangle with Legionnaires. The two top teams in this tough grouping may be expected to dish up a dandy battle before another big crowd this e'en. The Quinte crew have postponed their own district loop playoffs indefinitely in order to keep up around the top of the OHA senior "B" heap, and Diesels have the only group decision over last year's provincial champ Legionnaires this season. Yeah, it'll be a swell puck dish to start off the week this Monday night.

* * * * * *

Kingston Nylons declined to come here Tuesday to pick up that postponed fray with the Petes. Said they'd come either this Saturday or at the end of the schedule out in February. Don't know at the moment which was accepted. Meantime, Coach Ed Foley is working hard to get his club clicking as the schedule rolls along. The Petes have played a lot of good hockey, but have been dropping too many close games. Lack of finish around the other guy's net, it appears. Honey Tompkins, the old lamp-lighter, isn't sure what to do. When he rounds into shape he'll be a potent threat about playoff time, but Honey would sooner play defence. If he does, whom can Coach Foley drop? It's a problem.

* * * * * *

Which Is The Faster?

If Petes and Legionnaires could get together long enough to discuss anything amicably, we'd like to see a skating race just before the start of their next game. With Murray Fife and Bill Crowley competing, and possibly one or two more from each club. No doubt some merchant would offer a suitable prize to have the question settled as to which is the faster skater. Maybe a dark horse would take it all. Lot of folks would be interested. And, when Lakefield puckists play themselves into shape, it might be right interesting to see the Petes or Legion take 'em on in an exhibition. Lakefield would give either quite a game, we believe, as they have a number of former senior "B" stars aboard.

* * * * * *

Dan Odette of the Kitchener paper comments: "There were definite signs in 1949 that the sporting public was watching its pennies, and with employment falling off all over the country, there is every indication that attendance figures will decline even further. In other words, the bubble has burst." He goes on to say Kitchener's good senior ball club noted a slip in attendance, but Waterloo (playing under lights) did better. The hockeyists there are doing just so-so. The same is true in many Canadian centres and across the line. From the top sports down to the minors. The lush post-war days appear to be about over.

* * * * * *

Crowds Just Medium

Our OHA crowds are fair, but not as good as they might be for the class of junior and senior "B" competition served here. It is too early to see what the basketball attendance will be. Comes summer and the lacrosse, baseball and softball clubs will have to worry. Lacrossers will do okay under lights and in senior "A" competition but only if they present a stronger squad than last summer. Softballers should do pretty fair, too, under the arcs in their fine Bowl setup. The senior baseballers need a good league and floodlights or they'll take a financial beating again. The gridiron? Well, let's not worry just now about next autumn. But it's a fact that money isn't quite so free now in sports.

* * * * * *

When a goal is scored in hockey, most of us check back in our minds to figure out how that play was built up and who aided in the play which produced the goal. But the coach of the other team checks mentally to see which of his players was responsible for allowing that goal. He usually can put his finger on someone's part. If the goalie fanned on it, everyone can spot it easily enough. But usually it is the fault of one of the defencemen or one of the forwards. Ineffective covering of an opponent, making a wrong move, etc. Yeah, that—as well as ability to score or aid on a score—is what the coach watches in his players.

Funds now total $3,336 for Johnny Black, the Oakville ORFU gridder who had his neck broken in a September game. Local badminton club defeated Toronto Strathgowans 13-11 here Saturday, and Ralph Charlton beat Grant Henry. Stouffville beat the leading Meteors 7-4 as Orillia and Markham drew 3-3 in senior "B" hockey. Port Hope juniors are at Lindsay and Belleville at Oshawa tonight. Oshawa's junior "B" club don't like the enlarged group claiming they can't get ice for extra games. There are now 234 teams entered in the OMHA. Trojans No. 2 play St. Peter's bantams tonight here as IOOF meets SPS juves; two tilts listed for Keene, also. De Laval goes to Keene tomorrow, with Nashua vs. Westclox at Omemee on Wednesday. Quinte juniors meet the IOOF-ers here on Wednesday. Petes pratise that eve after the junior joust. Bowmanville has a loop tilt in Lakefield on Wednesday. Couple of intermediate school league frays billed for tomorrow aft. TVL tilts tonight: Marmora at Hastings, and Frankford at Camphellford. We trust they all have ice by now. That does it.

Expanded Sports Program Still A Dream

OTTAWA, Jan. 9 (CP)—A post war dream of a vastly expanded sports program in which every Canadian participates instead of just looking on still remains in the dream stage following the second conference of national sports governing bodies.

The conference ended Saturday night without making any progress towards its goal of setting up some sort of national body to co-ordinate and promote all sports in Canada and give sport generally a unified voice in national affairs.

Main difficulty encountered was that the representatives of 26 bodies, jealous of their autonomy, could not agree on what sort of national body should be set up.

The delegates refused to accept a constitution drawn up by a committee appoined for the purpose at the first meeting a year ago.

The committee composed of K. N. Morris and J. M. McAvity of Montreal and Melville Rogers of Ottawa, representing marksmen, tennis and figure skating respectively, proposed a "Canadian Sports Federation" with power to "encourage, promote, sponsor, organize, advise, recommend, arbitrate and publicize."

Nothing Forced

The committee stressed that the constitution did not seek in any way to "impose, enforce, govern or otherwise dominate its member organizations."

Nevertheless, a strong segment of the conference, led by Roy Ashworth of Montreal, of the Canadian Amateur Swimming Association, opposed the constitution on the ground that it imposed a new government body on other sports.

The swimming delegate heeded a sessional committee which went over the proposed constitution and made a number of amendments, but the conference was still unsatisfied. A continuing committee was established with orders to send the constitution, along with the amendments, to the various sports governing bodies in Canada for their comment.

Mr. Rogers, as spokesman for the constitution committee, urged that any national body set up must have some powers and responsibilities.

Must Show Progress

He warned that if the annual conference could not accomplish something for sport, they would die out. Delegates came at their own expense and would not continue coming if nothing was being accomplished.

The latter remark was pointed out by the absence of two major delegates — Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League, and George Dudley, president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association. Both attended last year.

Mr. Campbell's absence meant that expected opposition to federal subsidies for sport failed to materialize. The conference last year decided to approach the Cabinet for $10,000,000, to be spent over a three-year period, for improving sports facilities and a further $300,000 a year to assist sports such as field and regatta events which cannot draw large gate receipts. A brief presented to Cabinet last September brought no results.

Hockey's Big Seven

By The Canadian Press.

Sid Abel of Detroit Red Wings picked up three points—one goal and two assists—during the week-end to move within three points of teammate Ted Lindsay, leading the National Hockey League individual scoring parade with 43 points.

Lindsay picked up one goal in a game against Boston.

Four players are tied for third position—Maurice Richard, Montreal, Doug Bentley, Chicago, Roy Conacher, Chicago, and Paul Ronty, Detroit.

The leaders:

	G.	A.	Pts
Lindsay, Detroit	17	26	43
Abel, Detroit	18	22	40

Say Sports Attendance Will Continue Drop

NEW YORK, Jan. 9 (AP) — A continued downward trend at the box office was predicted for 1950 sports today—but not for college and professional football in the United States.

In the annual year end Associated press poll of sports editors and writers, 40 of 90 experts said they believed the downward trend which followed the lush war years would continue this year.

Nineteen others thought attendance at sporting events would remain on a par with 1949; 23 expect only a slight reduction if any, and eight said attendance should go up in 1950. Many believe the levelling off period from the war years already has arrived.

"Well promoted sports will continue to draw," said one writer, adding: "The others will draw only according to their worth."

Outstanding Wrestlers On Thursday's Card

WEE WILLIE DAVIS

First wrestling card of the New Year at the Brock Arena Thursday night will be an outstanding feature, with Yukon Eric, the mightily-muscled Alaska lumberjack with the 56-inch chest, colliding with Fred Atkins, the powerful Australian champion, in the headliner. Eric has hung up a remarkable record, but in Atkins, the husky northerner will be meeting a rugged, big wrestler who is himself noted for his strength and rock-ribbed frame. The resulting clash will be a rare test.

In the semi-final Kay Bell will wrestle Wee Willie Davis. Joe Christie will square off with Toar Morgan of Lindsay in the opener.

Ranger Victory and Tie Secures Them In 2nd Spot

By HARRY ECCLES,
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

The New York Rangers are really whittling down that long lead Detroit Red Wings took in the National Hockey League race. While Detroit lost to Boston on Sunday, the Rangers were getting a tie with Chicago on top of a victory over Montreal. The only team gaining three points in the week-end struggles, Rangers now are just four games back of Detroit, and solidly entrenched in second place.

The Rangers edged Canadiens, 3-1 at Montreal Saturday, while Toronto Maple Leafs were beating Chicago Black Hawks 5-2 for the first Leaf victory in eight games of which two were ties. On Sunday the veteran Frankie Brimsek in the Chicago goal was mainly responsible for holding Rangers to a 1-1 tie, while the Boston Bruins beat out the Red Wings 4-3.

The standing today showed Detroit with 48 points, New York 40 Montreal third with 37, Boston with 34 holds only a one point margin over Toronto, but the Leafs are three ahead of the tail end Hawks.

Wild Game

In a wild game at New York last night, when 15 penalties were handed out, the Rangers came from behind to gain the tie with the Hawks but they were driving hard for another victory. Bert Olmstead scored for Chicago and Tony Leswick tied it while Jim Conacher was in the cooler in the second period. Brimsek, who used used to be called "Mr. Zero" when he was goal-tending for Boston, was unbeatable when the Rangers staged a torrid third period drive, Brimsek and Chuck Rayner, of New York, each had 20 stops, bzut Brimsex had 14 of them in the final session.

At Montreal Saturday the Rangers saw Norm Dussault score for Canadiens late in the first period, but the Canadiens didn't get any past Rayner after that. Rayner was brilliant in stopping 23 shots, some of them coming thick and fast in repeated power drives by Montreal in the third period. Meantime, the Canadiens were caught flat-footed twice on goals by Jack McLeod and Don Raleigh, and Edgar Laprade got the third.

Free-For-All

The final siren at Montreal was the signal for a free-for-all and although play had ended, misconduct penalties and automatic fines of $25 were assessed against Maurice Richard and Ken Reardon of Montreal, and Tony Leswick and Pentti Lund of Rangers. The brawl lasted more than three minutes in fron of the New York bench, an aftermath of the close checking tactics with which Rangers had hamstrung Canadiens' great forward Maurice Richard.

Captain Ted Kennedy of the Maple Leafs, playing his second game since being out for more than a month with a knee injury, scored two goals as the Leafs overwhelmed the Hawks at Toronto Saturday. Kennedy was highly effective on the attack and on defence, checking persistenly and easing the Chicago pressure more than once. Left-winger Harry Watson also scored two and Johnny McCormack, Edmonton amateur star with the Toronto Senior Marlboros, scored the other. McCormack also had an assist on one of Watson's goals. Gaye Stewart and Metro Prystai were the only Hawks to beat goalie Turk Broda.

Broda required five stitches for an accidental cut on the forehead with a stick and referee Bill Chadwick took a bad fall, striking his head on the ice. A woman spectator was also hurt at Toronto—she needed two stitches for a head cut from a flying puck.

At Detroit the Bruins finally beat the Wings after seven previous unsuccessful attempts. Terry Sawchuk, up from Indianapolis in place of the ailing Harry Lumley in the Detroit goal, had 22 saves for the night but didn't get much help from his team-mates on some of the shots that counted. Sylvio Bettio scored two, Phil Maloney and Woody Dumart getting the other Boston goals. Sid Abel also scored two for Detroit and Ted Lindsay got the other but the Wings couldn't get the tying goal.

FIELD MARSHAL ALEXANDER PAPAGOS, above, who came out of retirement to lead the Greek army to victory over the Communists, is reported in some quarters to be emerging as the leading Greek statesman of the future.

Spiritual Factor Needed To Bring Peace

ROSENEATH Jan. 9 —(ENS)— "Equal distribution of world's goods will never bring peace on earth" said the Rev. J. N. Lovelace as guest speaker at the January meeting of Roseneath Women's Institute. His subject was, "Important Things in Life."

Starvation or plenty will not change the attitude of man, as man is naturally a selfish, beligerent creature, humanity started out by one brother killing another, he said. The speaker referred to the road of life as a person walking a tight rope between two worlds and the danger of losing our balance going downward toward disaster. He declared there is also the danger of leaning too hard on the physical world and becoming pagan; danger of leaning too hard on spiritual world and becoming religious fanatics. It is necessary, he said to maintain a proper balance.

The meeting was held in the township hall, with Mrs. George Mouncey as hostess. The president, Mrs. Harold Taylor, presided with Mrs. Oscar Adams as pianist. Mrs. Bart Thackeray, treasurer, reported a balance on hand of $106.62. Twenty-two boxes were sent to the ill, the aged and the shut-ins of Alnwick township at Christmas time by the good-cheer committee with Miss Jessie Johnston as convener also a carton of boxes was sent to the Hospital for Sick Children.

A letter of thanks was read from Miss Isa Lewis, Baptist deaconess in England acknowledging the large Christmas parcel sent to her by the members of the Institute. Miss Lewis stated 35 of parishioners shared the contents.

Plan Bazaar

It was decided to hold a bazaar in the town hall on February 11, beginning at 3 o'clock. Every member is to bring a donation, to the February meeting toward it.

Plans were made to hold a quilting in the hall on January 12 to work on two quilts.

A bank book was presented to Brenda Jane, infant daughter of Mrs. Cephis Robins. It has been the custom of this organization for a number of years to present a bank book with a dollar deposit to each new baby whose mother is a member of the Institute Mrs. Frank Brown, brench convener of publicity, was in charge of the following program community singing with Mrs. Bart Thackeray at the piano; the contest "How many Roseneath Fairs have you attended? Was won by Mrs. Fred Norris with 54 fairs to her credit. A recipe for a Happy New Year was given by Mrs. J. W. Pacey; Mrs. J. N. Lovelace conducted a quiz on "Wives of Prominent Men; Miss Nelda Brown played a piano solo; Mrs. Fred Murphy conducted a contest won by Mrs. Charles Sandercock's group.

Lindsay Gives Carter Franchise

LINDSAY, Jan. 9 (CP)—Twice within the past year citizens of this Victoria county town of 9,000 have voted overwhelmingly in favor of a bus line. In 1949 the electors voted 2,815 to 242 for the service and in November Ed Carter, enterprising young Sudbury operator, the lone bidder, gave Lindsay its first bus line.

In Monday's election the voters voted 3,284 to 111 to grant Carter (owner of Lindsay lines limited) an exclusive 10 year franchise.

The half-hour service to the four sections of the town was inaugurated with three buses from Chatham and one additional bus.

Citizens, press and M. P. Clayton Hodgson co-operated in supporting the company's request for a permit from the foreign control board to purchase four new buses from the United States. Permission has now been given by the F. C. B. for the buses — two of which will be delivered this month.

15 WEEKLY PRIZES
RULES — READ CAREFULLY

The "Radio Ad-O-Gram" Page will appear in The Peterborough Examiner every Monday. In the spaces, in the heading of this page there appear phrases and slogans which have been taken from the advertisements appearing on this page.

TO QUALIFY FOR PRIZES

The reader must find among the advertisements appearing on this page, the ones from which the phrases and slogans have been taken. In making up solution, first write down the number as it appears in the heading. Then opposite the number, write the name and address of the Advertiser from whose advertisement it has been taken listing them in order of number. To make your solution eligible for entry, attach to it a receipt or label showing that goods or service have been purchased from any one of the Advertisers on this page.

AWARDING OF PRIZES

From all correct and eligible solutions received during the week, 15 will be drawn and the prizes awarded to each respectively in the order in which they are drawn, 1st, $5.00 —2nd, $3.00—3rd, $1.00—4th, $1.00, the next 10 will receive a Capitol Theatre ticket.

MEYERS STUDIOS, are awarding a special weekly Prize. This is an 8 x 10 Black and White Portrait, nicely mounted in a folder. This Award will be made to the person whose reply is judged the neatest.

Mention the "Radio Ad-O-Gram" advertiser on whom you wish your prize order. Address replies to the "Radio Ad-O-Gram" editor and make sure they reach The Peterborough Examiner by Friday.

Awards will be made in the form of merchandise orders, redeemable at any Advertiser on this page. State on your solution, at which of these "Radio Ad-O-Gram" establishments you wish to redeem your prize order.

RADIO Every Monday the Radio Ad-O-Grams will be announced over CHEX and attention directed to the page in that day's Peterborough Examiner.

J. T. O'Connell Fire Victim Critically Ill

The condition of J. T. O'Connell, 71, of Armour Rd., severely burned late Friday afternoon in a flash fire at his Water St. real estate office, remains critical, hospital authorities report today.

"He is a little brighter this morning, but had a poor night," was the comment. "On the whole he hasn't improved very much. He is still critically ill."

Mr. O'Connell remains conscious, however.

The $4,000 fire raced through the ground floor of 384 Water St. gutting his two small offices, the dispatching office of the Riverside Cab, and also damaging the storeroom of George Hutchinson, Plumbing and Heating at the rear of the premises.

The upstairs apartments received some damage from the combined effects of fire, smoke and water.

The outbreak is believed to have started when a space heater was knocked over on the paper-littered desk of his inner office. In some manner the fire flared up with semi-explosive force, setting the whole room afire in a matter of seconds.

Mr. O'Connell was unable to escape and was dragged to safety by four men, Arnold Bonner of Stewart St., Ted Cooney of Water St., Frank Wood of Maniece Ave., and Frank H. Patterson, proprietor of the Filter Queen Store, next door.

When pulled from the flaming building through the shattered front window of the office the skin was peeling from his badly-burned hands and face. He was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital after Mr. Cooney applied some ointment to the burns.

Massive Ice Floe Rides On Current

A ten-acre turntable of ice moving with the secondary current in Little Lake was a rare occurrence attracting attention from the Crescent St. shore Sunday.

The main current of the river carries through the lake to Cemetery Point, but part of it switches off at a tangent more than half way across to Burnham's Point. Its motion diverts this water in toward Crescent St., circling its bay and completing its round of the lake toward McDonald's Point. It then moves into the main current, and this tangetial action is rotarily repeated.

Along Crescent St. shore Sunday there was a fringe of ice and then some 30 feet of open water to the edge of the ice floe. That was the setting all along the south sector of the ice acreage, a channel of 30 or 40 feet, around the circumference.

The circular motion of the water in that arm of the lake was communicated to the ice, and it was turning as a big disk, at the same time maintaining, as if it were fixed, the margin of open water around it on the south side. The opposite side of the ice floe reached into the main current of the river traversing the lake.

Fined $15 For Hitting Man Who Was Asleep

A fine of $15 and costs was imposed on Elgin Bell, 229 King St. when he pleaded guilty to a charge of common assault on Rex Glen, who lives at the same address, before Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC in police court today.

Glen said he was asleep in bed the night of Jan. 8. He said the light in his room went on, he turned over and "the first thing I knew I had a fist in my face."

He added there had been ill feeling since New Year.

"He has been agitating it since we moved in there," Bell told the court.

500 Members

Kawartha Medical Health Association doctors reported Saturday night total membership of more than 500 persons. They represent some 210 separate applications, in groups and otherwise, indicating the growth of this rural organization providing insurance in hospital and other costs in the event of illness. It has been established generally on the Blue Cross service plan. Directors arranged Saturday for the closing of the books of the Association, closing its first year of operation.

Car Accidents Busy Police On Weekend

Six car accidents, apart from one reportedd elsewhere, kept Traffic Officers Claire McGillen and Harold Mesley busy over the week-end.

William Peters, Rabbitt St., Lakefield, skidded his truck across the road into a ditch while making a right turn from Clonsilla Ave. into Sherbrooke St. Saturday afternoon.

The same afternoon cars driven by Douglas W. Young, 124 Dublin St. and Thomas Griffin, 258 King St., collided at Rubidge and Sherbrooks Sts. Griffin was driving west on Sherbrooke St. Young was driving north on Rubidge and told police he did not know of the stop sign on Rubidge St. at the corner.

Three Cars Involved

Shortly after that there was an accident involving three cars at George and McDonnel Sts. Frank Hall, 509 Chamberlain St., driving east on McDonnel St. said he stopped at George St. before proceding across. About three quarters of the way across George St., his car met in collision with a taxi driven by Donald Barringer, 491 Bolivar St.

Hall's car jumped the north curb of McDonnel St. plunged between a stop sign and a car parked at the curb, but hit another parked car owned by George K. Goodwin who was in the Public Library at the time. Little damage was done to the Goodwin car but both the other cars suffered considerable damage. No one was injured.

Weller St. Hill

A car driven by Mervin Armstrong, Lindsay, Saturday night ran into the rear of a car driven by John W. Johnston, 51 Victoria St. just west of Monaghan Rd., on the Weller St. hill. The Johnston car had stopped to pick up a passenger.

Sometime during the night someone crashed his car into a fence on the west side of Armour Rd. opposite McFarlane St. breaking one post.

Sunday afternoon, two cars, driven by Wesley Chamberlain, RR 4, Norwood, and Jack Sherk, 584 Bolivar St., collided at Sherbrooke and Stewart St. Sherk had been driving east on Sherbrooke St. and Chamberlain south on Stewart St.

Rules Driver Not Careless

Charged with careless driving, Ivan Ross, 454 Wellington St., was found not guilty in police court today by Magistrate W. R. Philp K.C.

The charge arose from an accident Dec. 23 in which Ross's car ran off Park St. across railway tracks just south of Albert St., jumped a three-foot deep ditch and knocked down 40 feet of old wire fencing. From the point of leaving the road to where it stopped at the fence, the car travelled about 10 feet.

Constable Dennis M. Traynor, who investigated, said there was no evidence of high speed, but Ross was a borderline drunk. No one was injured in the accident.

Wants Jail Term; Breaks Window Of Jewelry Store

Pleading guilty to a charge of throwing a brick through Warne's jewellery story window Saturday evening, John Junkin, 54, no fixed address, was remanded one week by Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, in police court today. No evidence was heard.

"I don't remember much about it, but I guess I'm guilty or I wouldn't be here," Junkin said.

Police allege that Junkin heaved a brick through the top of Warne's store window doing several hundred dollars worth of damage.

Since Jan. 1 Junkin has been in the police station four times for a night's lodging and has been looking for work in several places about town.

Friday he entered the police station and asked to be arrested as a vagrant and sentenced to one month in jail. He was told there was no court Saturday to have him sentenced.

Constable John Morrow, who arrested Junkin walking north on George St. near Simcoe St., reported the man had been drinking. Constable Morrow said Junkin told him, "I asked you fellows for a month yesterday and you wouldn't give it to me. It is getting cold, so now I'll have a place to stay."

It is believed Junkin threw the brick through the top of the window in order that nothing could be stolen from it by others. The brick was found inside the store.

A quantity of china figurines and fancy china plates were shattered as well as two or three watches broken and considerable silverware damaged.

OBITUARIES

HAROLD B. BALL

Shortly after he had attended the funeral of his mother-in-law, Harold B. Ball, 44, of 85 Princess St. died Sunday at his residence. The illness was sudden.

His mother-in-law Mrs. Harriet J. Bradley of 299 Sherbrooke St. was buried on Saturday.

Son of the late James Ball and Susana Brown he was born and educated in Peterborough. He lived here for 41 of his 44 years; the other three in Hamilton.

For the past 10 years he was employed with Nelson Routley as a butcher.

He leaves his wife the former Loretta Bradley; a son Donald; two daughters, Shirley Ruth and Nancy Jean, all three at home; three brothers, Thomas and Albert of Peterborough, and Fred of Hamilton; three sisters, Mrs. E. Stephenson (Susy), Mrs. R. Carter (Lillian), and Miss Violet Ball, all of Hamilton.

Mr. Ball was a member of St. James' United Church where he taught Sunday School. He was also on the Board of Sessions. During the Second World War he served in Canada with the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders.

He was also a past president of the Gladiolus Society.

The funeral will be at the Belleghem Funeral Home on Wednesday at 2 p.m., the Rev. F. W. Craik of St. James' United officiating. Burial will be in Little Lake cemetery.

MRS. DAVID W. PAYNE

Mrs. Effie Charlotte Payne of Dummer Township died Sunday in Hospital after a short illness. She was the widow of the late David Walter Payne and the daughter of the late John Gow and Jane Wood.

Born in Dunsford, Mrs. Payne was a resident of Dummer Township practically all her life. She was an active member of the Bethel United Church and the Red Cross Society.

Surviving are: daughters, Mrs. Wesley Stark (Alice) and Mrs. Crawford Salt (Doris), both of Toronto; Mrs. Harold Wilson (Velma) of Keene; sons, Sherwood of Warsaw and Walter of Lakefield; a sister, Mrs. Hurley Carroll (Beatrice) of Eckville, Alberta; a brother, Charles Gow of Prince George, British Columbia.

The Rev. J. W. Wilkinson of Oakwood will officiate at the funeral service at the family residence Wednesday at 2 p.m. Interment will be at the Lakefield Cemetery.

EARL MAXWELL ROBERTSON

A lifetime resident of Peterborough, Earl Maxwell Robertson of 263 Bethune St., died Sunday at his residence after a short illness. He was in his 53rd year.

Son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Robertson, he was born and educated here and was employed at the Peterborough Co-Op.

He leaves his wife, the former Florence Emily Sanders; a daughter, Lois, at home; a son, Robert of Peterborough; a sister, Mrs. Ella Wedlock of Peterborough; and two brothers, Harry of Peterborough and Charles of Winnipeg.

Mr. Robertson was a member of Knox United Church.

The funeral service will be at the Comstock funeral home Tuesday at 2 p.m., the Rev. H. G. Douglas of Knox United officiating. Burial will be in Little Lake Cemetery.

John C. Ruse Of Cobourg Former Police Chief Dies

JOHN C. RUSE

COBOURG, Jan. 9 (ENS). — John C. Ruse, a former Chief Constable of Cobourg and a lifelong resident of this town, died suddenly at his home on Saturday afternoon. He had been ill for about two days. In his 91st year, Mr. Ruse was one of the best-known figures of the town and was a noted authority on Cobourg history.

He is survived by his daughter Mrs. C. Harcourt of Cobourg, and a son Wilfred in Atlanta, Georgia. There are four grandchildren, Catherine at home, Jack in Miami, Wilson and Nancy at Atlanta, Ga. The funeral will be on Tuesday at 2 p.m., services being conducted at his home by the Rev. H. Bedford-Jones, and interment in St. Peter's Anglican Cemetery.

Still known as The Chief to his close associates, Mr. Ruse was born on Victoria Street in Cobourg and entered the employ of the town as teamster and constable in 1883. He joined the Fire Department in 1878, and was made Chief of the department in 1897, retiring as Fire Chief in 1928. He was appointed Chief Constable in 1897, holding the position until he retired in December of 1936 after 53 years of service with the town.

Hard work, long hours had no ill effect on his health, and he remained active right up until his retirement. His intellect remained very keen in spite of his advancing years, and he had a very fine reputation throughout the province as a public officer He was the only surviving member of the original Dominion Chief Constables' Association.

In the 1870's there were many fires in all parts of the town, and it was suspected some had been set deliberately. Deciding that something should be done about it, the Council made Mr. Ruse Fire Chief in 1897, and soon after the incendiary blazes stopped.

For 30 years he was a member of the Cobourg Heavy Battery, his service dating back to the time of the North-west Rebellion. Mr. Ruse was also a member of Cobourg Band for 30 years and for five years was band leader.

Marble Workers Back Again Technicalities, Says Firm

For the first time in the new year some 30 production employees at Ontario Marble clocked in this morning for a day's work. They were laid off during the four working days last week. Superintendent G. Eggerdon of the Ontario Marble Co. said it was not lack of work that caused the layoffs. The company did not have information on the proper sizes required for cutting stone on its present contract and work could not go ahead, he said.

It was the first production since the employees left the shop on December 30 for the long New Year's week-end. Office workers went in as usual last week.

Union Negotiations

The shutdown came at a time when the marble workers, members of Local 527 UE, were negotiating with the company for a new contract. Union officials told the Examiner that the anniversary date of the contract is January 22 and the Company notified them on December 18 they wished to terminate it.

The Union is asking for a 40-hour week with maintenance of take-home pay and a substantial wage increase. Also demanded by the Union is an improved vacation plan.

At present the employees (all male) receive $1 an hour as the labor rates for the shop. Maximum runs to about $1.50.

Deny Hunting In Closed Season

Four charges under the Game and Fisheries Act were laid against two men in police court today. Wilbert Bauder, 21, Kingston, was charged with three offences and Stanley E. Lonsberry, 21, Warsaw, with one.

Both pleaded not guilty and their cases were adjourned until Jan. 16.

Bauder was charged with having possession of deer in the closed season; carrying a .44 rifle on the Peterborough Crown Game Preserve in Burleigh Township and carrying a rifle for hunting deer without a licence. Lonsberry was charged with transporting two deer during closed season.

Asked whether he pleaded guilty or not guilty to the first charge, Bauder said, "I was there, but I didn't have anything to do with deer."

4 Cars Tangle Fenders In Squeeze On Ice

Four cars tangled fenders when one car driven by S. E. Mitchell tried to squeeze through a space between two cars waiting to make a left turn and the fourth car travelling in the opposite direction.

Fred Parkes, 548 Edison St., and William Falconer, 120 Aylmer St., were driving west on Lansdowne St. followed by Mitchell. The first two stopped to wait for a car driven by Ed Freeburn, 442 George St., coming toward them before making a left turn into Monaghan Rd.

Mitchell was unable to stop because of the icy surface of the road and attempted to go between the east and west bound cars. There was not enough room and all four cars came out with damaged fenders.

Need More Snow For Good Skiing

With snow, three to five inches deep, the skiers took advantage of the opportunity to try out the slopes Saturday and Sunday However with that depth of snow the ski enthusiasts were playing a continual game with the small stones and boulders.

One hundred people took to the hills in the Bethany area where the skiing was reported as fair. The big tow was operating.

Among those skiing was a group of Torontonians who hired a bus to take them to Bethany. Others were from the Oshawa and Northumberland Clubs.

With only a thin layer of snow covering the hard ground a few minor accidents such as scraped arms and bruises were reported. One Toronto skier left for home with a sprained ankle.

At Kempt's Hill the skiers had fair skiing both on Saturday and Sunday. The base there is grassy making the skiing better than out at the Bethany playground. They had trouble with the tow Saturday but it is now repaired. One hundred skiers used the slope Sunday afternoon.

Other skiers braved the cold blasts in the afternoon on other hills around the city. Several found the going rather rough at Hetherington's hill, northwest of the city. The snow there was just enough to cover the small stones.

In the city, sleighs, toboggans and skiis were used on Peterborough's standby, Victoria Park. The snow was well packed down making the hill dangerous for skiers but ideal for tobogganing. The hill of Prince of Wales School had its share of winter's sportsters.

Two Girls Hit By Car Driven By R. Pace

TORONTO, Jan. 9 (CP)—Two young girls were taken to hospital after they were struck by a car driven by Ronald Pace, 38, of Peterborough, in Scarboro Junction today. Injuries to the girls Eleanor Hibbett and Pauline Allison, both of Scarboro Junction, were undetermined.

Pace told police he was passing a truck and did not see the girls who were walking along the highway.

Six Classmates Pallbearers Of Edgar Hunt

Six former classmates, all graduates of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, were pallbearers Sunday at the funeral of their colleague, 24-year-old Edgar Hunt of Lakehurst.

Mr. Hunt was drowned late Thursday afternoon when he fell through the ice of the narrows between Pigeon and Bald Lake.

Following were the pallbearers, Elwood Junkin, Fenelon Falls; Doug Morrison, Seaforth; Donald Loft, Tnedford; Robert Bell, Peterborough; Donald Jose, Newcastle; and Everett Bolton, Guelph.

Six others, cousins and friends were flowerbearers: Kenneth, Herbert and Merle Hunt, Harry Coones and Clifford and Murray Whetung.

Lakehurst United Church and the adjoining hall were filled to capacity with friends, neighbours and relatives who had come to pay their respects. There were many floral tributes.

The funeral service was conducted by the Rev. Kenneth Stewart of Lakehurst United. Burial was in Lakehurst Cemetery.

Local CG Plant Not Included In Union Parley

The minority report of the Conciliation Board, appointed to help settle the contract dispute between Local 524 UE and CGE, will be the basis for new negotiations with the Company, a Peterborough membership meeting decided Sunday night.

C. S. Jackson, Canadian UE president, has been informed of the Company's willingness to reopen negotiations tomorrow with the four Toronto plants. Because of alleged confusion regarding the official status of the two contending unions in both Peterborough and Cobourg, these two will not be included.

An estimated 400 members endorsed the previous recommendation of the UE-GE Joint Conference Board which met earlier in the week in Toronto, laying down the basis for negotiations.

The Executive of Local 524 was instructed to inform the Company it was not living up to its obligations under the existing contract by refusing to negotiate jointly with Peterborough, Cobourg and Toronto works.

A minority report filed by J. L. Cohen, union nominee on the Conciliation Board, asked for 42-hour week with maintenance of take-home pay; a general wage increase of five cents an hour, and automatic progressions to middle of the range of rates.

The majority report recommended a reduction from 44 to 42 hours for Toronto workers and from 45 to 42 for those in Peterborough and Cobourg. To maintain take-home pay the Board suggested a 4.77 per cent increase, amounting to an average 5.5 cents an hour for CGE employees.

A special method equalization for Peterborough and Cobourg workers has been urged as the reduction in their work week was three not two hours.

Pastor In Crash Going To Church

HARWOOD, Jan. 9 (ENS) — Driving to St. John's Church to conduct the afternoon service, the Rev. A. W. Smith was involved in a collision with a car driven by Eric Kelly of Harwood. The cars collided at Corkery's Point on the outskirts of the village and Mr. Smith was cut by glass from the windshield. He received first aid treatment at the home of Mrs. Josephine Corkery.

Both cars were damaged but the drivers were able to return to their homes.

Provincial Constable D. Nichol investigated.

Richard J. Lillico Dies In Toronto

TORONTO, Jan. 9—(CP)—A leading figure in the development of Forest Hill village, Richard James Lillico, 76, died Saturday after a nine-month illness.

Born on a pioneer farm in Elderslie, Bruce County, Mr. Lillico was educated in Chesley and Peterborough. He was in the law office of the late Charles J. Mickle, in Chesley, for 25 years.

UEFB DONATIONS

Recent donations received by the local branch of the United Emergency Fund for Britain, include those from former Mayor James Hamilton, Ven. Archdeacon C. W. Balfour, H. G. E. Choate, Alec Browne and Miss Fanny Rosenburgh. After fulfilling its objective of $1,000 for the Christmas Fund, there is now a balance on hand of over $50 towards further assistance for the namesake city in England, and donations to augment this may be left at any bank, the Examiner Office, or sent to the local chairman at 199 London St., city.

Otonabee Farm Forum Begins 10-Day Course

Farm Forum Folk School for Zone 5 began Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Stewart, Otonabee. It was reported that Peterborough county was not represented by any one intending to remain for the ten day course to Jan. 18.

Mr. R. Hergott of Toronto is here for the school period directing the general program. Separate subjects are assigned to each day's talks and studies. Government is the subject for Wednesday; culture for Thursday; soils on Friday; home on Saturday.

Varied Program

For Thursday the study periods begin at 9 a.m. with Mr. Hergott in charge. At 10:30 a.m. Mr Donald Kennedy, B.A., Mus. Bac., musical director at Trinity United Church will discuss music appreciation: Mr. W. Graff of Peterborough Public Library, literature, and Mr. Wilson Gemmell of the Royal Bank, finances

The Monday (today) program subject is the church. Rev B. Morwood of Mark St. United Church conducted the study period in the afternoon, and Rev. Father McCarney this evening, followed by the Farm Forum broadcast.

Directors are anxious that Peterborough farmers take advantage of this school in their midst. They may come for the entire program, or for any parts of it.

Teachers In Training Back At Normal School

Students are back at study at Peterborough Normal School after a week's teaching in the rural schools. This was their first full week of teaching in the country schools. During the first term the teachers-to-be had one week of teaching in the urban schools.

Each year the students have two weeks of both urban and rural teaching. They will be in the urban schools before Easter and in the country after the holidays.

The area from which students are attending the school is from Kingston on the east and Midland on the west, Bancroft on the north and the lakeshore on the south.

Glen Morphet Fatally Shot Fixing Revolver

A former Peterborough man died at his home in Toronto Saturday when a French automatic accidentally discharged and a bullet struck him in the stomach. The victim was Marshall Glen Morphet, 43, of Wright Avenue.

He is the son of Vernon Morphet of Armour Road.

The fatally injured man was born and educated here in Peterborough and left the city when about 18.

Considered an expert on firearms, Morphet, a real estate salesman, was helping a friend fit a new firing pin into his gun. The other man, Ernest Wheatley of Coxwell Ave., told police he had made the new pin but it was not functioning properly.

Wheatley was holding the gun and Morphet was trying to fit the ammunition clip when it discharged.

The bullet entered Morphet's stomach and lodged in his neck and he died almost immediately.

He leaves his wife, former Mary Menary, son Raymond, 19, and a daughter, Barbara, 16.

City Chinchillas Tops In Quebec

Chinchillas bred and raised in Peterborough took top honors at the first annual show of the Quebec Branch of the National Chinchilla Breeders of Canada held Saturday in Montreal. They were exhibited by G. R. Schwab, owner and operator of the Kawartha Chinchilla Ranch, East City.

All six of the animals Mr. Schwab exhibited took ribbons. A 15-month-old male of the Kawartha Ranch was judged show champion and won the silver trophy. It was judged above its nearest competitor because of a slight margin in body size and the length of fur.

Four of Mr. Schwab's chinchillas took first prize ribbons, three of these getting rosettes as champions in their respective classes, and two going on to be judged champion male and champion female of the show, winning the silver cups.

Telephone Signal For WI Planned

MOUNT PLEASANT, Jan. 9—(ENS)—A special Women's Institute ring on country telephone lines, which would be recognizable by all on the local line, is being considered by the Women's Institute in the Toronto area, which includes Peterborough district.

The special ring would inform all on the line that a Women's Institute announcement was to be made and would save one person making individual calls to all branch members.

This suggestion, made at the Toronto convention, was considered by Mount Pleasant Institute at the January meeting at the home of Mrs. M. Handley.

Mrs. E. McLean conducted the meeting. Methods of raising funds for the Institute hall were discussed and a committee comprising Mrs. McLean, Mrs. H. Tully, Mrs. D. Armstrong and Mrs. R. Carr was appointed to make arrangements for a dance Thursday.

Mrs. Ira Lowe, Mrs. H. Baker, Mrs. Lawson and Mrs. Newton Fee were appointed a committee to arrange a progressive euchre party later in the month.

Mrs. Newton was in charge of the program when Mrs. Lowe read a prize winning essay, chosen from 300 entries and Mrs. Fee presented a paper on citizenship. Mrs. McLean gave household hints.

Members contributed to a fund for the purchase of a plant for a hospital patient.

Assisted by Mrs. D. Armstrong and Mrs. L. Handley, Mrs. McLean served refreshments.

Dedicate Chairs Given St. Paul's By Mrs. Ada Craig

Mrs. J. Stevenson, new president of St. Paul's Ladies' Aid Society, conducted a meeting Friday afternoon in the guild room at which there was a record attendance in spite of stormy weather. She extended a New Year message of good fellowship.

Three walnut upholstered chairs and four dozen Windsor chairs, purchased for the guild room with money left by the late Mrs. Ada Craig, were dedicated in her memory by the Rev. C. G. Boyd. The chairs, which greatly improve the appearance of the room, were selected by a committee composed of Mrs. J. McLeod, Miss L. Eakin and Mrs. E. Fraser.

Devotions were in charge of Sunshine group and Mrs. H. G. McKenzie read scripture and led in prayer. Organist Mr. Christopher Gledhill played for the hymns in the absence of Mrs. L. R. Mitchell.

Annual reports, given by the secretary and treasurer, showed a most gratifying year, and these members were thanked for their work.

West - end group announced plans for an open meeting on January 18 in the Sunday school hall when Miss Ruth Kingan will show colored pictures taken during the past summer when she and her parents toured Europe. A free-will offering will be taken and refreshments will be served.

On February 3 there will be a supper meeting of the society, commencing at six - thirty, to which all members of the congregation and friends are invited. Tickets are being sold by members. The Young Women's Auxiliary will cater.

Gracie Fields' Husband Dies

MILAN, Jan. 9 (AP)—Monty Banks, 50, actor, film director and husband of British comedienne Gracie Fields, died Saturday of a heart attack aboard the crack Orient Express.

Dr. Gino Onestu, who was accompanying him, said death occurred while Banks was being carried from the railroad station in the nearby town of Arona to a hospital. He was on his way with Miss Fields to their home on the Isle of Capri. Miss Fields was at her husband's side. She told the stationmaster at Arona that her husband complained of feeling ill while he was shaving aboard the train.

The stationmaster said he received word shortly before the train was due to be ready to rush a sick passenger to the hospital. When the train pulled into the station a doctor boarded it and immediately rushed to Banks.

The doctor said there was no hope of saving Bank's life but he gave him injections before he was placed on a stretcher and the journey to the hospital began. Banks died en route. A certificate of death by heart failure was issued.

Dr. Onestu, administrator of Banks' estate, said funeral services wold be held Tuesday at Cesena, near the Adriatic coast southeast of Bologna.

Daughter Prepares Dinner Hint for Other Mothers

By MARY MOORE

The finishing touches were all that needed to be made to a pot roast I was about to serve, when I realized I was being quietly watched at the stove by one of Marianne's friends who was our guest for dinner.

This lovely girl has assumed a serious mien for she has become engaged and knows very little about housekeeping of any kind. Cooking is a complete mystery to her.

When she tasted the tender brown beef and rich gravy and fluffy mashed potatoes she kept querying me: 1. What do you ask the butcher for. 2. how much would she buy for two, 3. how much would it cost, 4. would she buy potatoes by the basket, bag or pound?

All of these questions drew me up short. While this girl who is twenty, had come from a small town to the city to do office work, and had little opportunity to do housework, I wondered if Marianne's present spasmodic training-in-cookery was adequate,—even though she is three years younger—and daughter of an alleged good cook.

I decided it was not. I forthwith ordered a pot roast for a modest start in meat cookery. Besides our budget is badly bent and will take weeks to straighten.

Pot Roast of Beef

(Buy 4-lb. piece or larger of rump, chuck or round.) Saute in Dutch oven or iron kettle or large kettle a piece of beef suet, which butcher may include with roast, until fat is tried out. Remove the suet and brown the beef on all sides in the remaining fat, adding salt and pepper while meat is browning, and using big spoons to turn meat as forks pierce it, and allow juices to escape. The sauteing is to "seal in" the juices. Add 2 tablespoons water; cover tightly, reduce heat as low as possible and simmer for about 4 hours, or until meat is tender. Turn meat occasionally during this cooking period. If meat is cooking too hard when your burner is turned as low as possible, put an asbestos pad over the burner. Remove meat to hot platter and keep hot. Pour off all but 6 tablespoons of the fat from kettle. Stir in 6 tablespoons flour, then add 3 cups water or liquid from boiling potatoes or carrots, then stirring until it thickens. Add more salt and pepper if desired. If desired the amount of water may be increased to 1½ or 1 cup.

NOTE: This may be pot roasted with vegetables by adding diced or sliced carrots, onions, turnips, potatoes, green peppers in varying quantities after roast is sauteed and just before simmering is started; tomatoes and celery are good additions to the vegetables but not commonly used. When I add vegetables to his I also add 1 bay leaf, and remove it before serving.

Fluffy Mashed Potatoes

I have mentioned before that potatoes lose much of their vitamin and mineral content if soaked after paring and slicing. But for special occasions when we have guests I sacrifice good nutrition to texture and flavour and soak the starch out of the potatoes. This gives a fluffier dish of mashed potatoes. To serve five or six, wash, pare and quarter 6 potatoes and soak 1 hour. Drain. Barely cover with boiling water, add 1 teaspoon salt, cover and boil until tender. Drain, but save liquid for pot roast gravy. Shake potatoes over hot burner to dry them. Have ready about 1 cup boiling hot whole milk in which 3 tablespoons butter is melted. Mash dry potatoes well, add the hot milk and butter, beat until your arm aches or beat in electric beater, and then stir over burner until very hot throughout. Serve in preheated bowl, with little well of butter in centre of mound.

Burkitt Couple Married 40 Years

BONARLAW, Jan. 9 (ENS) — The 40th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs Arthur Burkitt was celebrated Thursday with a family party.

Mrs. Harry McAdam read an address and Gerald Burkitt presented, on behalf of the family, an electric kettle and warming pad to the couple. Mr. Burkitt then presented Mrs. Burkitt with a wrist watch.

Other gifts received were a chenille bedspread from Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mumby, Mr. and Mrs Alex Bush, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Burkitt and Mr. and Mrs. John Burkitt; a silver casserole from Mr. and Mrs. Harry Grills, Mr and Mrs. Lons. Green; Mr. and Mrs. H. Collins and Mrs. T. M Reid and a plastic table cover from Mr. and Mrs. Fred McKeown.

Refreshments were served by the girls. The wedding cake was cut and served with coffee.

The couple also received many telephone calls including one from their daughter, Mabel, Mrs C. Baker, in Hamilton.

Starts Search For Gold Seen In Dream

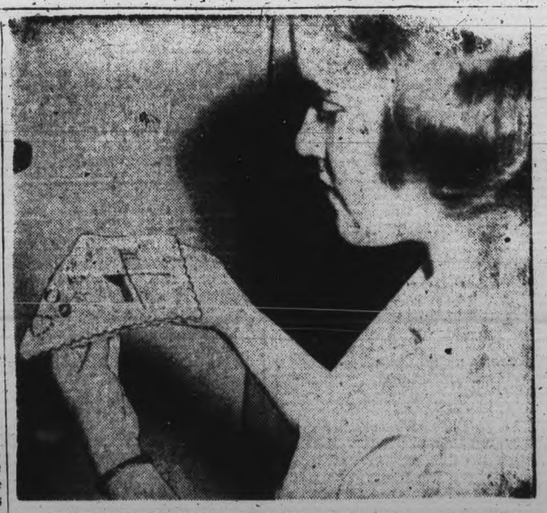
IPSWICH, Eng. — (CP) — A dream of 45 years ago is taking 80-year-old Herbert Cole, his wife and their four children on a pilgrimage to Australia in search of a gold mine.

Cole says the dream came to him when he was working in Western Australia in 1904.

"In my dream I was walking towards a certain hill when I felt an urge to dig for gold. I grubbed into the soil with my hands and pulled up a nugget of gold as big as my fist.

"I know the district where the hill is to be found," he adds, "and as soon as I land in Australia I shall make for it. I shall recognize my hill when I see it and I believe I shall be able to walk straight to the spot where my nugget lies buried.

"Then I shall stake my claim in the official way."



Bets On Dream

Why is Cole so sure his gold will be there? Because this dream "is only one of a remarkable series." Several times he claims he has backed horses in his sleep —and they have always won.

Meanwhile, still hale and hearty, Cole works as a jobbing gardener in Ipswich. He plans to sail as soon as he receives official nomination papers from the Australian government.

In Western Australia he has two sons and a daughter by a previous marriage, who will act as his guarantors. Cole and his present wife will take with them Sylvia, 13, Jill, 11, Jack 9 and Michael, 8.

"My husband is a spiritualist," Mrs. Cole said, "and he has great faith in dreams. He has the strength and health and mental alertness of a man in his prime. The children and I are longing for the day we set sail."

Hitlers Mountain Retreat Draws Germans Despite Ruin

By DON DOANE

BERCHTESGADEN, Germany — (AP) — Is Hitler's former mountain retreat likely to become a Nazi shrine? Not if the U. S. army can help it.

This alpine paradise where Hitler and his top Nazi henchmen used to play is now a playground for American soldiers and allied tourists.

Sightseers sip coffee and munch sandwiches in Hitler's famous "eagle nest." Below this they scratch their initials and draw mustached cartoons on the walls of his once luxurious mountainside villa—now a fire-scarred shell.

Refugees from eastern Europe live in former Nazi garrarks. A U. S. army post has its headquarters in the building Hitler used as a "summer chancellory."

Germans get no chance to turn these Nazi relics into a shrine Most Germans can't even get near them. Nearly everywhere else in Germany the army is turning back requisitioned property to the Germans as fast as possible. But there is no sign of turning Hitler's playground back to the Germans.

When the army does turn loose this area, it probably will go to the German government — with careful restrictions on how it may be used.

Climbing Pilgrims?

Would the Germans try to make it a shrine if they could? Well, a lot of German sightseers try to get in. Hundreds scale the mountainside afoot to get a glimpse of the Nazi ruins from outside the guard lines.

"It's hard to tell whether it's just curiosity or whether they do regard it as a shrine," said Col. Stanley Grogan, commander of the Berchtesgaden military post.

Col. Gorgan is taking no chances. He's even done some changing of place names to get rid of reminders of Nazism. For U. S. soldiers ann allied tourists, however, these Nazi ruins are still among the chief attractions in all Germany.

Every month between spring and autumn nearly 3,000 sightseers drive up the steep, winding road to this shattered mountain paradise. They get one of the most beautiful views in all Europe. But their attention still centres on the battered relics of Nazi glory.

It was a fantastic place in its heyday. The Nazis poured an estimated $100,000,000 into its development. They drove out the local population and took over an entire mountainside. Halfway up the mountain, on a 3,000-feet-high promontory, Hitler built his huge house.

Hitler's chief aides built similar homes nearby. Even Germans had to have a special pass to get inside this playground.

Crowning touch of the whole amazing project was Hitler's "eagle's nest," perched high atop the 6,000-feet-high Mt. Kehlstein. The "nest" actually is a big stone house. Hitler never really lived there, though, and Germans say he visited the place only four or five times.

Even Popular Girl Has Her Problems

TORONTO—(CP)—The prettiest, most popular girl in a class often has the most troubles says Jessie MacPherson, for 15 years dean of women at Victoria College at the University of Toronto.

"Students' problems stem from emotional conflicts that must be dispelled before they can be happy, and often these problems are attributed to the home," Miss MacPherson told an interviewer.

"With the world so open and complex, it is much harder for modern girls to believe either in themselves or in the world.

"I'm a firm believer in progressive education, not exactly in a hands-off policy but in leaving a student alone to develop in natural and positive trends."

Of Interest to Women

DOROTHY DIX

Husband's Right to Have One Evening Out a Week

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: My husband and I have been happily married for two years and are very much in love with each other, have the same interests and pal around together. We are both very young. But this is the trouble: My husband likes to go off by himself once in a while. When he returns from one of these evenings out, he always tells me how he has spent the time and there is not the slightest doubt in my mind that he tells tre truth. Will these outings finally involve women? He says there will never be anyone but me. I am not idle or alone these evenings, as we have a very young baby. What is the best thing to do?

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: When a man marries, his wife has a right to expect him to spend most of his evenings at home, and the husband who jams on his hat every day as soon as dinner is over and steps out to some amusement certainly gives his wife a raw deal But, equally, every man has a right to at least one evening out a week. He has a right to a little diversion of his own choosing, to go to a play or a picture that suits his own taste instead of something his wife wanted to see, or to spend a few hours with men indulging in men's talk instead of playing bridge with his wife and her friends.

Don't Tie Him Down

So my advice to you is to let your husband have his innocent night off now and then without making any scene about it. The more you make him feel that he can go out when he pleases, the more seldom he will want to do it. Because, for one thing, he will not have the sense of being hobbled that will make him want to free himself, and for another, he will be so thankful he is married to a woman who is fair and sensible that he will not want to leave her.

As for the danger of his finding another woman when he is out of your sight, that will happen no more one time than another. The world is full of pretty girls, and there is no way that you can keep your husband from seeing them. Every wife has to take her chances on that.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a man 46 years old, cultured, widely travelled, and in a comfortable position in life. I have never wished to marry until now, but lately I have met a young woman who comes up to the ideal of the wife of whom I have always dreamed. But she is only 26. From your experience in life, do you think it wise for me to marry her, provided she is willing, or is the difference in our age an insuperable barrier to happiness?

LATE LOVER.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You cannot count age in terms of years. It is a matter of character, of disposition, of health and spirit. Also of sex, because a woman, physically and emotionally, is nearly always much older than a man of the same age. Therefore, I see no incongruity in a man of 46 marrying a woman of 26.

At 46 a man who has not spent himself in dissipation is still young. He belongs in the same age class as the woman of 26, for at 26 a woman has come to her zenith. She is mature, fully grown, with her values and ideas formed. She's ready to settle down and get on the business of life.

The question for you to ask yourself, Mr. Bachelor, is not how many birthdays you have had, but what the years have done to you. Have you formed little fussy, peculiar habits? Have you accumulated "ways"? If you have then don't ask any woman of any age to marry you. Stick to your club, where you can have all your little peculiarities catered to, and don't make any woman miserable by having to adjust herself to your whims.

But if you can read your paper in any chair that happens to be handy and can eat what is set before you without asking any questions, pop the question. And Heaven bless you.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: We have an adopted son and have recently moved into a new neighborhood. The woman next door has several children somewhat older than our boy and she has influenced the children in the neighborhood not to play with him. She says she does not know what kind of parents he had. This is breaking our hearts as well as the child's, and we are wondering if we will have to move from place to place because people won't let their children associate with him. L.M.N.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Certainly you won't for there surely can't be more than one such narrow-minded, cruel woman in the world as this neighbor of yours. Decent, right-minded people feel no such prejudice against an adopted child. On the contrary, they are filled with sympathy for it and with respect and admiration for the man and woman who have adopted it and given it a chance in life.

I would move away from that woman as soon as I could, because she may give the child a wound from which it will never recover. But you need not fear meeting her like again. She is a rare wild beast not indigenous to many communities.

Question: I want to make burnt almond ice cream. My husband gave me a new refrigerator for Christmas, and now we can have all of the frozen desserts I have dreamed about making. The first one I intend to master is this burnt almond cream. Would you print it and any others that you think are real good made in home refrigerator. Sara.

Answer: You are in clover aren't you? I will give you my favorite recipe for ginger sherbet too.

Burnt Almond Ice Cream

Five-eighths cup sugar, ½ cup boiling water, 1 cup evaporated milk, ⅛ teaspoon salt, 1 egg, 1 teaspoon gelatine, 1 cup heavy cream, ½ cup chopped roasted almonds, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 tablespoon cold water. Put ½ cup of the sugar in iron frying pan, and stir until melted and golden brown. Add boiling water, and stir fast until sugar dissolves. Add the evaporated milk, salt, and egg beaten with the remaining sugar. Cook over low heat, stirring until thickened. Add the gelatine which has been soaked in the cold water. Chill. Then fold into the cream which has been beaten until stiff. Add nuts and vanilla. Freeze in refrigerator trays, stirring at one hour intervals until frozen.

Ginger Sherbet

Dissolve 2¼ cups sugar in 1 quart water and boil 10 minutes. Add the strained juice of 4 lemons and 1 orange and the finely grated rind of 1 lemon, and ½ cup finely chopped preserved ginger. Chill and then freeze to mush, then stir and freeze until firm. Delicious with cocanut macaroons or "snowballs" (bits of angel food cake frosted with white icing and rolled in freshly grated cocoanut) for a special dessert.

Question: The hard sauce recipe was wonderful, Print some more good steamed pudding sauces when you have time will you?—June D.

Answer: See how you like these two little numbers.

Lemon Hard Sauce

Cream one-third cup butter with 2¼ cups icing sugar, 1 egg yolk until very light and fluffy. Then add 3 tablespoons lemon juice and beat it in. Beat the left-over egg white until stiff and fold it in. Arrange attractively on serving dish, or force through pastry tube into rosette shapes. Chill well.

Mocha Sauce

Two egg yolks, ¼ cup granulated sugar, ⅛ teaspoon salt, ½ cup very strong coffee (not ground coffee but brewed liquid coffee), 1 cup whipped cream—about ½ cup when unwhipped. Beat yolks, sugar and salt together. Add the coffee while beating, then stir over boiling water until it thickens slightly. Cool. Fold in whipped cream just before serving over plain steamed pudding or steamed date or raisin pudding or "spotted duff."

Menus For Special Purposes

By MARY MOORE

Directions

For the Braised Celery and Carrot, use 1 large bunch celery weighing about 1 lb and 3 large carrots, 1 onion, 1 sprig parsley, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 teaspoon salt, shake of pepper and 1 cup canned bouillon. Wash celery, remove leaves, and cut celery into 2-inch pieces. Slice the carrots and onion very thinly. Put melted butter in bottom of glass baking dish, put vegetables in, in layers. Sprinkle with the salt and pepper and chopped parsley, pour over the bouillon (or consomme) and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for about 1 hour.

The filling for the banana cream pie is a little different than usual, for it calls for cream, added after the filling is cooked. It is rich, but delicious for special occasions. Mix together in top of double boiler ½ cup sugar, 4 tablespoons flour, 3 tablespoons cornstarch, ¼ teaspoon salt. When mixed stir in 1¼ cups hot milk, and cook over double boiler until thick, then cook for 15 minutes, stirring occasionally. Remove from heat, pour slowly over 2 beaten egg yokes, stirring, and return to double boiler for two minutes. Slice 1 banana in baked pastry shell and sprinkle with 2 tablespoons powdered sugar; beat ¾ cup table or heavier cream into the filling and pour over half of it into the banana. Slice on another banana and sprinkle it with 2 tablespoons sugar and pour over remaining filling. Cover with meringue made by beating the two remaining egg whites, and adding while beating 4 tablespoons sugar; flavour meringue with ½ teaspoon vanilla. If desired, a few drops almond flavoring may be added to filling. Bake meringue at 350 deg. Fahr. until golden. Serve cold.

Gives Europeans Large Doses Of Swing, Ballad

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 9—(AP)—Chirper Jo Stafford is going to give European radio listeners large doses of swing and ballad, a taste of Americanism and a minimum of bebop.

The popular singer hopes that recipe will bring her success as the first United States entertainer to invade Europe with a disk jockey program.

D-Day for the Stafford invasion came last week when her first half-hour show was beamed from radio Luxembourg. The station can be heard in Britain and throughout western Europe.

"One of the things we have already found out about the show," said Miss Stafford, "is that Europeans are not so hot about bebop.

"A friend of mine told me they were. He said that you could find dozens of night clubs in Paris featuring bebop. But apparently that craze is limited pretty much to Paris. Radio Luxembourg has told me to include less bebop in the future."

Rounded Program

The songstress has tried to present a well-rounded program, based on European musical taste.

Selection are picked at random. A representative program contains eight numbers, including such disks as "Tiger Rag" by the Mills Brothers, "Fine and Dandy" by Woody Herman and "Apple Blossom Time" by the Andrews Sisters.

"I'll describe the background for some of the numbers," Miss Stafford added. "For instance, Europeans probably wouldn't known what a mule train is."

Capsule Review

"Thelma Jordan" (Par) tells of the reluctance of a prosecutor (Wendell Corey) of a murder suspect (Barbara Stanwyck). Except for a slow start, it is well told, with some suspense. However some may see it as just another treatment of the screen's most overworked themes—adultery and murder. Miss Stanwyck is her smooth self and Corey is also good in a stone-faced way.

HALF-CENTURY HIGHLIGHTS

TURN OF THE CENTURY in 1900 found the 63-year reign of England's Queen Victoria within a year of its end. Her strait-laced personality's standards of manners and morals made an impress so deep that after her death in 1901 a whole generation of Britons and Americans lived in the slow-slackening grip of the "Victorian Age." In the U.S., 1901 saw the emergence of a contrasting personality when Theodore Roosevelt became president. Dynamic proponent of "the strenuous life," he inaugurated an exciting period of overseas expansion through "manifest destiny," dealing the cards as America played its first hand in the game of modern power-politics.

Mrs. McCracken Celebrates 88th Birthday

ROSENEATH, Jan. 9 (ENS)—Mrs. Thomas McCracken is celebrating her 88th birthday today at the home of her son, Mr. Ross McCracken.

Four generations of the family will be present at a birthday dinner this evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ross McCracken. There is Mrs. McCracken's son Ross, his daughter, Mrs. Neil Sherwin and her daughter Elaine, aged five months. Mrs. McCracken also has seven grandchildren and four great grandchildren.

A three tiered cake with 88 candles, will centre the dinner table.

Mrs. McCracken, Sr., formerly Mary Elizabeth King, was born in Percy township, near Hastings, on January 9th, 1862, a daughter of the late John King and Catherine Thompson.

On December 28, 1882, she was married to Thomas McCracken at St. George's Rectory, Hastings, by the late Rev. John McCleary. Since that time Mrs. McCracken has lived in Alnwick township and has been a faithful member and regular attendant of St. James' Anglican Church. On Christmas Day she was the oldest communicant at the church.

Six children were born to Mr. and Mrs. McCracken, three dying in childhood. A son, Thomas, Jr., died in 1939. Two remaining sons Herbert and Ross live in Alnwick township.

Mr. McCracken died in 1936. Mrs. McCracken lives with Mr. and Mrs. Ross McCracken on the McCracken homestead.

2442 Divorce Cases In Scotland in '49

EDINBURGH — (CP) — More lads and lassies are going to the divorce courts.

In the court of session here, 1949 divorce actions numbered 2,442, up 396 from the previous year.

Rev. William S. Tindal, chairman of Edinburgh Marriage Guidance Council, blamed housing shortages for the increase in broken marriages.

"The old idea of marriage as a union for all time no longer applies" said Professor Tindal "More and more people in marriage regard it as a temporary arrangement."

Dr. William P. Kraemer, psychiatrist at Edinburgh's Davidson Clinic said the end of the war had brought an increase in the number and variety of marriage problems. He said Davidson Clinic plans a summer school this year for psychologists where some of the difficulties facing married couples would be examined.

Roseneath News

Mrs. Ross McCracken was guest on Friday of her sister, Mrs. Stanley Hutchison, Mr. Hutchison and family, Fenella.

Miss Mae Thompson has returned home from Picton.

Among those from Roseneath attending the funeral of the late W. B. Heal, Peterborough, were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Norris, Mr. Allan Norris, Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Varcoe, Mr. Cloyse Varcoe, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Varcoe, Mr. Orra Varcoe and Mr. and Mrs. Rae Brown.

Mr. Robert Winkworth spent the past week in Cobourg General Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold McCracken visited the latter's brother, Mr. Milford Macklin, in a Toronto hospital during the week.

CARELESSNESS COSTLY

About 92 per cent of all Saskatchewan forest fires are caused by humans, the provincial forestry branch reports.

WARM-UP—At the Chelsea Arts Ball in London, Daphne Page warms up—but just a little—in a leather flying jacket before going on. Daphne was one of the twin princesses driving the "Weather House," and the weather was a trifle nippy.

What's Right

When you have guests you are tempted to tell something you do not want your maid, who is in an adjoining room to hear.

WRONG WAY: Lower your voice to almost a whisper when you are telling an anecdote.

RIGHT WAY: Wait until she isn't around to tell the story. Lowering your vocie suddenly will only make her think she is being discussed.

6—In Memoriams

GRIEVE—In loving memory of Edna Grieves who passed away one year ago.
In our hearts your memory lingers
Sweetly tender, fond and true
There is not a day Dear Mother
That we do not think of you
—Sadly missed and ever remembered by Husband, Sons and Daughters.

McILWAIN—In loving memory of Mrs. Robert McIlwain, who died seven years ago today, January 9, 1943.
Just when your life was brightest,
Just when your years were best,
You were called from this world of sorrow,
To a home of eternal rest.
—Sadly missed by the family.

SNELGROVE—In loving memory of Mrs. Herb Snelgrove who passed away January 9, 1946.
Gone is the face we loved so dear,
Silent is the voice we love to hear
Too far away, for sight or speech
But not too far for thought to reach
Sweet to remember her who once was here.
And who though absent, is just as dear.
—Ever remembered by husband and sister.

WHITWORTH— In loving memory of my dear mother, Mary Ann Whitworth.
I have only your memory, dear mother
To remember my whole life through
But the sweetness will linger forever
As I treasure the immage of you.
—Lovingly remembered by Budd in Vancouver.

WHITWORTH— In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Mary Ann Whitworth.
God called her home, it was His will,
But in our hearts we love her still;
Her memory is as dear today
As in the hour she passed away.
—Ever remember by husband and daughters.

7—Cards of Thanks

My sincere thanks to all my Supporters of Douro Township and all who helped in any way too make my election for Council possible.
Wishing you all a Very Happy and Prosperous New Year.

Reds Suffer 2 Losses But Still Head AHL

By The Canadian Press

Despite a double loss during the weekend Providence Reds still lead the Eastern Division of the American Hockey League today with Buffalo Bisons breathing down their necks.

The Western Division leaders, Cleveland Barons, Sunday night edged Providence 5-4 on Tod Sloan's two final-period goals. Saturday the Reds lost 6-4 to Hershey Bears. And the Barons, who pace the pack with 16 points, whitewashed New Haven Ramblers 4-0 in Saturday night activity.

To last-place Cincinnati Mohawks in the Western Section it was the same old story Sunday—a draw.

The Mohawks made it number 13, sixth straight on home ice, by tieing St. Louis Flyers 3-3.

District Juveniles Form OMHA Group

HASTINGS, Jan. 9 (ENS)—At a meeting held in the Town Hall, Lakefield, Sunday, a juvenile group composed of Lakefield, Keene, Hastings and Campbellford was formed. Members were present from Keene, Hastings and Lakefield, and Mr. Hopkins, of Lakefield OMHA, convener, acted as chairman. It was pointed out by the chairman that winners must be declared by Feb. 12 in order to go into OMHA playdowns. As Campbellford and Lakefield are in "C" grouping, while Keene and Hastings are in "D" grouping, it was moved that a recommendation go into the OMHA executive that the higher team in the respective group go on into the playdowns; this would tend to give the games more importance.

The following schedule was drawn up:

Jan. 11 — Campbellford vs. Keene.
Jan. 12—Lakefield vs. Hastings.
Jan. 17—Keene vs. Lakefield; Campbellford vs. Hastings.
Jan. 20—Keene vs. Campbellford.
Jan. 25—Lakefield vs. Keene.
Jan. 27—Hastings vs. Keene.
Jan. 30—Hastings vs. Lakefield.
Feb. 2—Keene vs. Hastings.
Feb. 3—Lakefield vs. Campbellford.
Feb. 7—Campbellford vs. Lakefield.

PUNITIVE SEVERITY

Two hundred different crimes were punishable by death under English law at the time that America was colonized.

MINOR HOCKEY

In a one-sided fray Saturday at the Arena, Harold Coleman's had a field day 12-0 over the weak Keene Midgets. Batley led the scoring with two goals and three assists which puts him on top of the midget section players' scoring race. Other goals for Coleman's were by Scriver, Hope, McCarthy, White, Colby, Driscoll, one each, with Mongraw and Curtis getting two each.

Clappers Win 10-3

Taking over first place in the juvenile section by getting two points in Saturday's game, Clapper's defeated Keene 10-3. It was a fast, rough game all the way with Keene at one time with three men in the sinbin. Altogether there were five penalties to Keene and three to Clapper's. Saunders and Heffernan stood out for Clapper's with two goals and an assist apiece. Other Clapper goals were by Wilson, Douglas, Stewart, Gandy, with Ferguson getting two. Keene goals were by Whalen, Stock and Thaine.

Although a good crowd saw the Saturday games, a lot more parents should be down to the games to see their boys perform. Nothing encourages these young athletes more than the fact that dad saw the game, too.

Cheese, Produce And Livestock

TORONTO PRODUCE

TORONTO, Jan. 9 (CP) — Produce prices quoted on the spot market this morning:

Churning cream: No. 1, 62 cents fob, 66 delivered.

Creamery prints, first grade 62-63.

The Toronto egg market was steady this morning with receipts ample. Spot prices were unchanged from Saturday but some wholesale grades were down fractionally. Country shippers quoted graded eggs, cases free. rade A large, 31-32; A medium, 26-27; a pullet, 23-24; grade B 25; grade C 22. Wholesale to retail. grade A large 36-37; A medium 32-33; A pullet 28-30; grade B, 29-31; grade C 25-27.

Butter solids: first grade solids, 60¾; second grade solids, 58-59.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Jan. 9 (CP)—American buying in rye featured dull trade today, as feed grains moved narrowly on the Winnipeg exchange.

Oats and barley both turned easier in fairly steady sales which outmatched light domestic buying. Rye, however, posted modest advances in July contracts. Flax was open, but generally quiet.

Prices.

Oats—May ¼ lower at 79⅝; July not open.

Barley—May ⅜ lower at $1.27 ⅜; July ½ lower at $1.21¼.

Rye—May unchanged at $1.55 ⅝; July ⅛-¼ higher at $1.52⅜ B.

Flax—May unchanged at $3.72; July not open.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Jan. 9 (AP) — Grains mostly were a little lower at the opening on the Board of Trade today. Dealings again were slow and featured by a lack of aggressive demand.

Wheat started ⅜ lower to ⅛ higher, March $2.18¾-¼; corn was ¼-½ lower, May $1.30⅛, and oats were unchanged to ⅛ lower, May 70¼. Soybeans were unchanged to ¾ cent lower, March $2.33½.

BUFFALO LIVESTOCK

BUFFALO, N.Y., Jan. 9.—(AP). —Cattle 800; receipts included 10 loads of Canadian steers and heifers; 100 head of medium to good Canadian steers sold from 22.00-23.00; beef cows 15.00-17.00; good dairy type heifers for slaughter 17.00-18.50; good weighty sausage bulls 19.00-20.00.

Calves 500; good and choice handyweight calves 31.00-35.00; culls and bobs 16.00-22.00.

Hogs 2,250; good and choice hogs 14.00-17.25; good sows 11.50-12.50.

Sold First Policy To Father Of 9 Children

"I was handed a rate book, a road map, territory with no fence around it, a pep talk and the good wishes of the manager, A. W. Gibbon."

That was the induction of John A. McLaren, Feb. 1, 1924, into the insurance business as a representative of North American Life Insurance Company.

Of course, Mr. McLaren had been instructed by the manager in types of policies, rates, and various other essential information, but, when he left the office on his first foray among people who should have insurance, it was a stark matter of sell or sink.

The world seemed full of prospects, but not one was in sight.

Mr. McLaren is now a life member of the Quarter Century Club of North American Life, and will be a guest of the company at a dinner in Toronto next Friday. He is to receive a sterling silver tray with an inscribed reference to his long service with the company.

"I sold my first policy in Lindsay to a father of nine children," Mr. McLaren recalled. "The youngsters were climbing over both of us, and I had to talk insurance in a din that was really amusing. It was a question of us being ables to hear each other. Finally, he signed an application for a $2,000 policy. Eventually it became a claim against the company. That father died, and his family got the benefit of the first signature I saw written on the dotted line."

Millionaire Club

Mr. McLaren has been a member of the Millionaire Club of his company for 15 years. To qualify for that circle of producers, the agent must have one million dollars of insurance business in force. His volume of sales won for him invitations to most of the conventions of North America, all the way from Winnipeg to St. Andrew's by the Sea in New Brunswick. Trophies and other recognition came to him as he consistently accomplished his quotas of new business, and he has long been prominent among the company's sales agents.

"That's the bright side of it," Mr. McLaren briefly recalled today. "Many times I was dispirited and discouraged, lying awake at night wondering and worrying about new business. But, the morning would come, with a new day, and you start out again. I was always hard of hearing the word 'no.' Naturally that was a help when you didn't catch that word clearly, and kept on as if it hadn't been said at all."

Mr. McLaren was asked to recall an outstanding sale in his experience and memory.

"Here's one," he replied. "I had a prospect, not to mention the place in my district, who had not made up his mind about the size of the life policy he was thinking of. One day I called at his house and his wife emphatically told me she did not want me coming any more, that I was going to take all her husband's money he needed for other things. Well, I had to tell him about his wife's ultimatum. He said he would come to our office, and he did, and signed for a policy that was substantial. But, he had thought it over himself, and I know he was doing without things he could have bought with the premium.

Five years later that man died. After the funeral, I went to the house with the usual forms which his wife, as beneficiary, would have to sign. His wife was in tears as she said: "I don't know what we would have done, only for you." Her husband did have some other estate, but the income he earned was gone. The children were educated, and the widow is still receiving monthly cheques from the company, by conversion from lump sum payment.

That is more or less a common experience in the life insurance business. When I think of them, I forget the tough times. If I were beginning all over again, I'd go into insurance."

$200 Taken From Vault

BRANTFORD, Jan. 9 (CP) — Scholastic records were strewn about and the principal's office left in disorder during the night by thieves who forced their way into the Brantford Collegiate Institute and Vocational School, apparently searching for money.

Headmaster W. S. Turner said today that approximately $200 is missing from the vault which contained the records.

The school records, dating back to 1927, were dumped from drawers in the vault which had been smashed open with tools from the school's automobile shop.

Entry was gained by smashing a glass door in the drafting room.

British Doctor Describes Mercy Killings

LONDON, Jan. 9 (AP)—A British doctor was quoted in a London newspaper as telling how he performed the "mercy killing" of three patients whose cases were hopeless.

His purported "frank confession" was printed in the Empire News, London Sunday publication of Lord Kemsley's newspaper group, under the title: "Why I let three people die."

The article was one of many examples of Britain's interest in the case of Dr. Hermann N. Sander of Candia, New Hampshire, accused of putting a cancer patient to death to end her suffering.

The Empire News did not name the author of its article. The paper said it did not necessarily agree with his opinions but published them as a matter of vital public interest.

The writer said he deliberately had taken three human lives "in the ordinary course of my progressional practice, twice with the approval of the nearest relatives" and once on his own responsibility.

"I have never for one moment doubted that what I did was right," he said. He added this was typical of what "many medical men in this country" think about euthanasia, or mercy killing.

Describes Patients

The doctor told this story:

He had a cancer patient, a man of 75, whose case specialists pronounced incurable. He was giving the man drugs to ease his pain and the "slightest overdose would still that pain forever."

The patient's wife, only a few years younger, told the doctor "It would be mercy if he could die. Couldn't you just let him slip away?"

"I acceded to her wishes. Her husband slept his life away," the writer said.

A similar case came up nearly 10 years later.

A "charming and intelligent woman" in her 60s was suffering from a "comparatively rare internal complaint which in its later stages is held to be incurable."

"She herself called her family around her bed to decide whether the doctor should be asked to end her suffering. All so decided.

The third case "happened fairly recently."

A young wife bore a first child, "so grotesquely malformed that its only life if it survived infancy would be in the seclusion of an institution....

"The baby did not survive its birth and the mother never saw it."

Start Investigations In Freight Derailments

SAULT STE. MARIE, Jan. 9 — (CP)—Investigations will be started today by Canadian Pacific Railway officials into Sunday's derailment of four freight cars which dumped a load of veneer logs along the right of way near the Bruce street railway yards.

Crews worked all night clearing the wreckage and two cars were back on the rails at midmorning.

A CPR official said that the engine coupling snapped when the first car left the rails. No reason was given for the derailment.

One of the engine crew was injured.

The okapi, a large animal of central Africa, was not known to white men until the 20th century.

Claim Inch Differs In Britain And States

LONDON—(CP) — Britons and Americans have been magnanimous toward one another in the matter of their inches, but scientists are beginning to say it's not good enough.

They want the inches to come together. For all the layman cares they're identical now, but those who know say the British inch is two-thousandths of one per cent shorter than the American.

The weights and measures legislation committee has prepared a report for Harold Wilson, president of the Board of Trade, recommending that British and United States experts get together soon to work out a common system of weights and measures.

The present differences, also affecting the gallon and the ton (both shorter in the United States), are complicating matters for high-precision engineers and scientists.

Bob Hope Injured When Car Overturns

RIVERSIDE, Calif., Jan. 9 — (AP)—Bob Hope was injured Sunday night when his car skidded off a road during a rainstorm and overturned 16 miles south of here.

The comedian, who was driving, and his passenger, Fred Williams, one of his gag-writers, were hurled from the machine. They were returning from a week-end in Palm Springs.

Hope, taken with Williams to hospital, said:

"I feel fine. The Doc says my shoulder is dislocated but he may be underplaying it."

The car rammed into a tree beside the highway.

Williams was treated for bruises. Hope's arm was placed in a sling. Later both left for Hollywood.

Dies From Exposure Indian Believed Drunk

MATTICE, Ont., Jan. 9.—(CP). —Andrew Neegan, 25 year old treaty Indian of this village on the Canadian National Railways main line 125 miles northwest of Timmins, died Saturday from exposure to the cold after what police described a drinking party.

Neegan died 10 minutes after he was found by his mother on a path leading to his home. Police said he failed to return home Friday night when he went out for some liquor in 42 below zero weather. A search party spent most of the night looking for him without success.

Police said Neegan's mother saw him lying on the path when she looked out the window in the morning.

Provincial Police said the case was turned over to RCMP investigators to look into possible liquor peddling among the Indians of the Hearst district.

Morgan Eastman Dies

TORONTO, Jan. 9.—(CP). — Morgan Eastman, 59, widely-known Canadian advertising man, died in hospital Sunday night following a cerebral haemorrhage.

He was vice-president of McConnell, Eastman and Company Advertising Agency and president of the Canadian Association of Advertising Agencies.

40 Die In Blaze

DAVENPORT, Ia., Jan. 9—(AP) — Coroner C. H. Wildman said on Sunday night that 40 women died in the fire Saturday in which screaming patients perished behind barred windows of a hospital mental ward. Wildman boosted the total to 40 after checking morgues and hospital records.

Madam Chiang Denounces UK 'Betrayal'

NEW YORK, Jan. 9 — (AP) Mme. Chiang Kai-shek — headed for Formosa to rejoin her husband—pledges that the Chinese Nationalists will battle to the last bullet and last propaganda blast against the Communists.

There will be guerrilla warfare and propaganda against the Reds and eventually an uprising of the people on the mainland, the Nationalist Leader's wife said Sunday in a radio speech.

Mme. Chiang will leave the United States this week for the Island of Formosa, one of the last remaining Natibnalist positions.

Speaking over the NBC network, she said "For shame" to Britain and called its recognition of the Chinese Communist regime the act of a "moral weakling."

Sells Soul For Silver

She said "Britain has bartered the soul of a nation for a few pieces of silver."

"'One day," Mme. Chiang predicted, "these pieces of silver will bear interest in British blood, sweat and tears on the battleground of freedom."

She said "Russia will never know one day of peace in China. Russia will never own China. China will remain free."

Mme. Chiang said the Nationalists are "abandoned and alone," but she had some kind words for the United States, which is not responding to Nationalist appeals for aid in holding Formosa, but is not recognizing the Chinese regime.

"Yours has been a contribution of affection," she told Americans. "....Your name among us will always be cherished for its friendship and kindliness."

Trap 3 Youths In Wild Chase

BROCKVILLE, Jan. 9 (CP)— Three young men, arrested here Sunday night after an 80 mile an hour chase, are in custody today awaiting transfer to Toronto where they are wanted in connection with the theft of a car.

The three are Robert Williams, 29, no fixed abode; Albert Smithers, 21, of London and Ronald Gokay, 26, of Moose Jaw, Sask.

Police said they were arrested after a 30 mile chase when they were forced to stop for a road block set up about a mile west of Brockville.

Provincial Constable Ken Taylor spotted the 1948 model stolen car near Gananoque and he radioed to Brockville where the road block was set up.

Four cars and a truck were commandeered and placed across the highway and the trio, rather than ram the vehicles, stopped.

Toronto Safecrackers Have Busy Weekend

TORONTO, Jan. 9—(CP)— Safecrackers struck here for the third successive week-end, stealing hundreds of dollars from strongboxes. None of the culprits was captured.

Thieves hammered open a large safe at the North Toronto Chainway store and escaped with hundreds of dollars, the exact sum not being immediately available. The same gang is blamed for theft of $1,100 in cash and a number of negotiable cheques from a safe at the Arlington Athletic Club. The Superior Electric Company on downtown Victoria Street lost $300 when its safe was opened. Thieves who smashed open a strongbox at the downtown Pryl and Nye Company got $100.

19 Perish Over Weekend In Various Accidents

By The Canadian Press

Nine persons lost their lives in fatal accidents during the week-end in Ontario, the highest toll of any eastern Canada province.

A Canadian Press survey showed today in the six eastern provinces a total of 19 persons died in accidents of various causes, including the death of four children by fire in their home at Duhamel, Que.

The children's death were among the six fatalities reported from Quebec. There were two fatal accidents in Newfoundland and one each in New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island.

Burned to death in the fire at Duhamel were the four children of Mr. and Mrs. Leopold Faubert; Jean Guy, 10; Michel, 4; Remi, 2; and Simonne, nine months.

The children had been put to bed by their parents who then went across the street to visit friends. The parents attempted to rescue the children and Mr. Faubert suffered severe burns.

Double Drowning

A double drowning fatality—among five in eastern Canada—was the sudden end for two Toronto youths, who were skiing on the thin ice of Toronto's Grenadier Pond. The boys fell through a hole into the water and despite efforts to pull one of them to safety with a rope, they both perished. The boys were identified as Robert Brandon and Frank Sykes, both 18.

Wingham was the scene of a heroic drama which ended in the death of 14-year-old Lois Dawson. Walking over swamp ice with two of her chums, the ice gave way and when Bill Reavie, 10, plunged into the water, Lois went after him.

The plucky girl managed to save Billy by helping him grab onto a small tree and save himself. Exhausted, the girl sank into the water and by the time help was summoned, she was too weak to move. She died shortly after in hospital.

Warwick Cole, 7, and Eldred Dean, 11, were also victims of a double drowning at Carbonear, Nfld. They fell through thin ice while playing.

Traffic accidents accounted for six of the victims.

Mrs. Gerard Lauzon, 37, and her daughter Paullette, 4, were struck and killed by an automobile while walking along the highway near St. Therese, Que. Mr. Lauzon was severely injured.

Anthony Vautour, 76, of Lewisville, N.B., was killed by a bus while walking toward Fredericton during a snowstorm.

A St. Marys, Ont., resident, Thomas O'Dea, 82, died in hospital from injuries suffered when he was struck by a motor car near a hospital where he was waiting to be admitted for treatment.

Two men were killed in Belleville when the motor car in which they were riding crashed into the side of a freight train at a level crossing. Dead are Albert Wright, 35, and Gerald Reid, 41.

Killed In Cell

In other mishaps a Summerside, Prince Edward Island, jail inmate was killed in a cell accident. Police said James Crossman, 72, apparently pulled an iron bunk on top of himself.

There were two gunshot fatalities reported and one was believed to be a suicide.

At Windsor, Robert Dupont, 17, died from a head wound suffered in a shooting incident at his home in Windsor. Police termed it a suicide.

At Toronto Glen Morphet, 43, was fatally wounded when a gun discharged.

Another suicide was reported in Owen Sound. James Trafford, 34, was found dead from carbon monoxide gas poisoning.

WRITERS HONORED — Life-sized masks of 10 noted Canadian newspaper men have been carved into the limestone walls of the Court of Honor in the Parliament Buildings at Ottawa. The work was done by Cleophas Soucy, a Quebec sculptor who has carved scores of famous faces into the walls. Here, working from a photograph, he puts the finishing touches on a plaster cast of M. Grattan O'Leary, vice-president of The Ottawa Journal, one of the 10 men honored. The cast later was used as a model when the mask was carved.

Farmer Always On Firing-Line Over Income

By FORBES RHUDE,
Canadian Press Business Editor.

Any one gets alarmed if he thinks his income is going to drop.

It is not surprising, therefore, when the farmer becomes vocal, as he has done recently, over a fall in the prices for his products.

The farmer, it seems, is always on the firing line. His stock in trade is in the wide open spaces and only rarely is everything friendly to him.

There is too little rain when he needs it and too much when he can do with less; too much sun or too little; frost at the wrong time; insects to attack his crops and illnesses to kill his animals.

The farmer is on the firing line not only to weather but to economic changes. Let conditions slacken and, for a while at least, the carpenter, the bricklayer, the lawyer, the doctor, still charge the same—and there is unemployment insurance.

Most Sensitive Income

But the farmers' income changes overnight. It is the most sensitive of all. Those big fat hens are only a liability if their eggs won't bring enough to pay for their feed.

And so the farmer looks around for some of the security which other people have been trying to build for themselves. And some attempt is made to give it to him, by means of floor prices which guarantee him against a drop beyond a certain point. But like any one else, he probably thinks they are not fixed high enough.

Over the last few years things have been good and many farmers have become relatively wealthy; but others are on the borderline. They have big investments, and it requires a high income to support them; to keep them producing.

Virtually everyone wants the farmer to be well off, because we think if he is not well off neither can any one else be prosperous. And so we see people calling for lower prices for food, and yet sympathizing with the farmer if food prices start to drop.

It is difficult to strike a just and proper solution. We just have to watch supply and demand work, and put in supports here and there to try to see they do not bring undue hardship to any section of the community.

US Evangelists Stoned Near Pope's Summer Home

ROME, Jan. 9 — (AP). — A group of Protestant evangelists said Saturday they had been stoned out of Castel Gandolfo, summer home of Pope Pius. The group, members of the Church of Christ, has been running an orphanage in a nearby town, Frascati.

One of the group said: "The priests aroused the people against us."

A Vatican source said priests in the Castel area, 15 to 25 miles south-east of Rome, had been complaining for several months that the evangelists had been teaching heresy. But the source said he doubted that the priests had aroused the townspeople against the evangelists.

Church of Christ members say they want to return to the simple Christianity of earliest times before the growth of organized churches.

Climax of Trouble

The Castel Gandolfo incident, about a month ago, climaxed a series of troubles which saw the evangelists move out of a string of towns in the Castel area. It happened after the group had conducted Bible classes for several weeks while the Pope was in residence.

K. D. Pittman of Corpus Christi Tex., one of the evangelists, said they were told later by Italians who came to their orphanage and Bible classes that priests had preached against them.

One of the Italians, Pittman said, quoted a priest as saying to his congregation at a Sunday morning service:

"Why don't some 300 of you young men turn their jeeps over so they will know you don't want to become Protestants?"

Pittman said there was a gang of youths waiting for them at Castel Gandolfo. The youths halted their jeep and began to flail it with sticks.

"Then they began to throw stones," Pittman said. "We got out of there. I don't know what would have happened in another moment."

Thirteen Church of Christ members, including six married couples, have been working in Italy for the last year. They are mostly from Texas and obtain their support from the Texas Churches of Christ.

They run the orphanage, which now has 22 boys, most of them war orphans from poor families, and conduct Bible classes in Rome and surrounding towns for adults.

Business Manager

TRAIL, B.C., Jan. 9 (CP)—Appointment of Toronto-born J. G. Leyman as business manager of the Trail Times was announced Saturday by W. A. Curran, publisher. Mr. Leyman joined the paper's staff in 1938 as an advertising salesman and later was appointed accountant.

See Strang Light

BERWICK-ON-TWEED, Northumberland, England, Jan. 9 (Reuters)—Coast guards on the north-east coast of England reported Sunday having seen a brilliant light streaking across the eastern sky Saturday night. The light, they said, was travelling northwards at a "terrific speed."

Relations Strained?

LONDON, Jan. 9 (Reuters)—A foreign office spokesman said Sunday he knows nothing of a report by American Columnist Drew Pearson that atomic talks between Britain and the United States are "near the breaking point."

Denies Brief Being Colored

QUEBEC, Jan. 9 (CP)—Claude Gagnon, president of the Canadian Federation of Catholic University Students and Graduates, denied Sunday night charges that the brief his organization will present to the Massey Commission on Arts and Sciences here Tuesday, is politically-colored.

Mr. Gagnon, a son of Hon. Onesime Gagnon, provincial treasurer, was commenting on the resignation in Ottawa from the federation of Marcel Roussin, past president, and two other members of the executive.

Mr. Roussin said they resigned because the brief is politically-colored and "out of the sphere of activity of the federation."

Mr. Gagnon said he had not officially heard of Mr. Roussin's resignation along with those of Honorius Lacombe, general secretary and Leopold Demers, publicist.

Asked if the brief contained any suggestion of a political nature Mr. Gagnon said it recalled the fact that education is a matter of provincial legislation according to the constitution.

He said it also suggested that the federal government give financial aid to students and libraries since, according to statistics, the federal government levied a greater amount of taxes than the provinces.

India Hoping To Halt All Grain Imports By '52

NEW DELHI, Jan. 9—(Reuters)—India hopes to stop the import of all food grains by the end of 1951.

Announcing this target at the recent conference of agricultural officials from all parts of India, Prime Minister Nehru said that food self-sufficiency must be achieved "whatever happens, whether there is a cyclone or an earthquake."

He added: "After the target date (December, 1951) we shall not import food grains for our consumption.

"This decsion is forced on us by the pressure of events. No country can continue to live beyond its means."

India's requirement of food grains is estimated at about 50,000,000 tons a year. Internal production at present does not exceed 45,000,000 tons. The deficit is made up by imports.

Imports for the current year are estimated at about 3,800,000 tons of which 3,578,000 tons have already arrived in India.

Total Cost

The total cost of imports this year is estimated at about 1,500,000,000 rupees ($90,000,000).

Recommendations made by the conference of agricultural officials include the formation of larger agricultural units, effective measures against plant pests and diseases, legislation to bring fallow land under cultivation and compulsory preparation of compost manures by municipalities.

The conference expressed the opinion that uneconomic small holdings caused by fragmentation of land are responsible for the low agricultural yield in the country. It recommends that co-operative farming be introduced at the initial stages in lands reclaimed by the government for cultivation.

To bring fallow land under cultivation, the conference suggested that legislation enabling the government to direct owners of fallow land to put it under cultivation should be passed by all provincial legislatures.

Fifth Arson Attempt

OTTAWA, Jan. 9—(CP)—A fire-bug, believed by authorities to be a teen-age youth, attempted to set fire to Brebeuf Separate School Sunday night. It was the fifth arson attempt on the school in Anglesea Square in Ottawa's lowertown district in less than a month. Damage in Sunday night's fire was confined to an oil-soaked window frame at the rear of the building.

Shooting Suicide

WINDSOR, Jan. 9 (CP)—A 17-year-old Essex County youth whom provincial police said shot himself between the eyes Saturday died later in hospital here. Police termed as suicide the shooting of Robert Dupont, of Colchester South.

40 Cows, 23 Hogs Die In Barn Blaze

PICTON, Jan. 9 (CP)—Loss of $8,000 in livestock, feed and property was reported by Kenneth Edward Carter, whose Ameliasburg township barn was destroyed Sunday by fire.

The blaze destroyed 40 cows, 23 hogs, hay, grain and a quantity of farm machinery.

District farmers aided the Belleville fire department in battling the flames in 12 below zero weather.

The barn and its contents were valued at $10,000. Carter's insurance was for $1,500.

Raise New Questions

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (AP)—Britain's recognition of Communist China raised new questions Sunday from some senators about the advisability of sharing any United States atomic secrets and weapons with Great Britain. The United States, Britain and Canada have held "exploratory talks" on sharing atomic secrets and the Belgian Congo's output of uranium—the key A-bomb material.

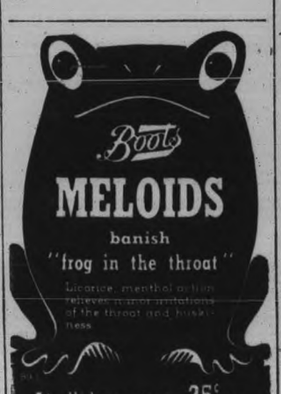
Manufacturer Stabbed

NEW YORK, Jan. 9 (AP) — Joseph R. Failla, 39-year-old Bronx manufacturer stabbed to death in his home Christmas morning, left his entire estate to his wife who is accused of slaying him. The estate was said to be valued at $100,000. Awaiting trial on a homicide charge, Mrs. Failla could not, under State law, inherit the estate if she is convicted.

Drink Anti-Freeze

UTICA, N. Y., Jan. 9 (AP) — A coroner Saturday ruled "accidental" the deaths of three lumberjacks who drank an anti-freeze solution drained from the radiator of a truck. Police said the men had had a private "cocktail party" in a camp bunkhouse Friday night, when they drank the anti-freeze.

Stop For Spaniel



ELLENSBURG, Wash., Jan. 9 — (AP)—A cocker spaniel with cold feet held up a Milwaukee freight train Saturday. The train pulled to an unscheduled stop after the dog failed to move from the track. Enginemen found the dog's four wet paws frozen to the icy rail. They freed him and the train went on.

Predict U.S. Car Sales Will Drop By 20%

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (AP)—The Commerce Department predicted during the week-end that automobile manufacturers' sales in the United States this year will drop 10 to 20 per cent compared with 1949. The Department said last year's all-time production record of 6,200,000 vehicles is "unlikely to be equalled in the next few years."

OUT OUR WAY —By J. R. Williams

CHIANG LOSES ANOTHER ARMY—Rather than risk capture or death at the hands of advancing Red troops, remnants of the Nationalist armies on the China mainland—estimated at 23,000 soldiers—fled over the border of Indo-China near Lookmith and surrendered to French colonial troops. Here are some of the surrender scenes. LEFT: Having surrendered their arms the Nationalist soldiers trudge wearily down a dirt road to an internment center. TOP RIGHT: Defeated Nationalists surrender their arms to French colonial soldiers wearing "Aussie" hats. Guns are stacked in the truck at left. LOWER LEFT: Young women soldiers were among the tattered remnants of Chiang Kai-shek's armies. Note personal belongings carried by soldier at left.

Find Coal Mines Cutting Down Research Funds

By WILLIAM G. SMOCK

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 9—(AP)—Coal mines and railroads are cutting down on their expenditures for research on coal in 1950.

Coal producers and railroads are contributing $405,000 to Bituminous Coal Research for 1950. That's a drop of $110,00 from 1949.

At about the same time, Pittsburgh Consolidation Coal Company, the world's largest commercial coal producer, announced it would cut its research on production of Synthetic Gasoline and other fuels from coal.

Pittsburgh Consolidation plans to close its coal gasification plant which has been working for more than a year to effect commercialization of the coal-to-gasoline process.

Company officials blamed unstable labor conditions which made operating costs and a continuous supply of coal uncertain. The factor of increasing world supplies of crude oil also weighed in the decision to halt work.

The supply of coal figured in the reduced amount of money being made available to the B. C. R. Contributions of coal operators is based on production. In 1949 mines produced about 430,000,000 tons of coal compared with 580,000,000 tons in 1948.

Twenty-four projects have been lined up for the coming 12 months. They include studies on steam locomotive combustion, railroad electrification, smokeless stoves, boilers and furnaces, ash handling and stokers.

B. C. R. said "an intensive and technical survey" will be made co-operatively by the coal, railroad, electric utility and electric manufacturing industries on "possibilities of expanding the electrification of railroads."

Railroads once were soft coal's biggest customers. Utilities now are forging ahead. The coal industry is interested in electrification of railroads because it can supply the fuel needed to produce electricity. If diesels win out over coal burning and electric locomotives, king coal will be a chief victim.

Animal Plague Usurps British Papers

By JOAN CAPREOL

LONDON, Jan. 8—(Reuters)—An animal plague has hit Britain.

In the last few months Britons have staggered under the news of maddened elephants, sick pandas, dying giraffes, kittens bearing charmed lives, cigar-smoking pigs and channel-swimming sea lions.

Antics of domestic pets have rivalled foreign news on front pages. Animals have been getting into more trouble than human beings.

An eight-ounce black-and-white kitten called scruffy was the latest animal to make a splash. She got jammed in a rear wheel of a truck and escaped alive after being whirled round more than 5,000 times in a 12-mile journey across London.

Another animal in the news is a pig who pines for cigars. Since his owner threw his christmas cigar to the pig he wants a cigar three times a day. The owner did not mind when his pig was satisfied with a couple of cigarets or a chew of tobacco every day, but he draws the line at the cigar business.

Follow Dog Battle

People all over the country are reading voraciously about the dog-lovers of Brighton who are threatening to boycott the local bus service because full adult fares are charged for their pets.

Some human beings are beginning to hit back at the animal invasion of the news. A reader complained to the London Evening Standard

'During the last fortnight I have read more about the illness of Lien Ho, the giant Panda than the vastly more-important activities of Mao Tze-Tung, Communist boss of 450,000,000 Chinese people. And today the death of an elderly giraffe called George makes front-page news, while the death of Emil Jannings, the great German screen actor, goes unnoticed in your columns."

Use New Year Theme At Auxiliary

HASTINGS, Jan. 9 (ENS) — The Women's Auxiliary of St. George's Anglican Church, held their first meeting of the year, at the home of Miss D. Plant., The president, Mrs. C. M. Blake presided.

The new year was the theme of the meeting, and the worship, including hymns and scripture, followed along this line. The year's report for 1949 showed a profitable year. Mrs. C Baker and Mrs. E. Smullin were leaders of the study book on Japan. Votes of thanks were given to Miss Plant for her work during the year and to Mrs. E. Smullin for her success in selling Christmas cards.

Canon Spencer announced the vestry meeting to be on January 30, and the women are planning a pot-luck supper.

Millions Can Satisfy Curiosity By Taking Peek At Clarence House

By EDWIN A. SHANKE

LONDON, Jan. 8—(AP)—Millions of Britons, Canadians and others at last can satisfy their curiosity — what does the dream house of a Princess and future Queen look like?

"Clarence House," a book by Christopher Hussey, takes you through the home of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburg from the entrance hall to the nursery of their first-born, Prince Charles, and into the modern kitchen.

The book is elaborately illustrated in color and black and white photographs. It was published by Country Life, Limited, in England and will be published in the United States by Scribners in March. The book was produced with the approval of the young Royal couple.

The book demonstrates that Clarence House was meant to be lived in. It is not a palace, but a comfortable dwelling furnished in a late Georgian character.

The four-storied cream colored building standing next to the weathered, dull red-brick St. James's Palace already has become a landmark for Britons and tourists.

Glimpses of Family Life

The book gives some revealing glimpses into the family life of the Duke and the Princess.

They have a little hideout called the "quiet room," built for downright comfort where they can retire to study, loll about in private conversation and just be themselves.

It took 18 months to renovate the ancient house.

Parliament authorized £50,000 ($220,000 at the then rate of exchange) for the work, plus an additional £5,000 to take care of underestimates.

Most of that money went into installing electric lighting, putting in a central heating system, replacing the old copper bathtub with a modern bathroom, and converting the ancient kitchen into a modern workroom of stainless steel.

Into the kitchen went a prize wedding present—a £2,000 refrigerator capable of making 20 pounds of ice at a time.

The Prince and Princess were still watching their house take shape when rumors of extravagant spending spread through London.

The Communist Daily Worker, for example, complained Clarence House would cost £250,000 — money which it said could be used to build "a splendid block of flats for working class families."

The government's public works ministry promptly denied the charge and author Hussey says "the result of this book will certainly be to show how ridiculous those criticisms have been."

Looking Ahead In Ottawa

Political Observers Trying Guess Parliamentary Date

OTTAWA, Jan. 9 — (CP) — Various dates now are being picked by political observers trying to forecast the date of the opening of the next session of Parliament.

Prime Minister St. Laurent has not yet fixed a date and likely will not until the conclusion of the Dominion-Provincial Constitutional Conference opening Tuesday. The date will depend on the length of the conference.

One source close to the government said that if the conference lasts only a few days, as some believe it will, the session will be called for Thursday, Jan. 26—the same date as the opening of the first 1949 session.

If the conference goes beyond a week then, said the source, the session likely will not be called until Thursday, Feb. 2.

At a recent press conference, Mr. St. Laurent said there would have to be a brief interval between the end of the Dominion-Provincial talks and the opening of the session.

Following that statement, there was speculation that the session would not begin until Thursday, Feb. 9, or Thursday, Feb. 16.

Justices

The two men justices of the Supreme Court of Canada — Mr. Justice Gerauld Fauteux of the Montreal division of the Quebec Superior Court and John Cartwright of Toronto—will be sworn in Jan. 30.

Originally it had been expected that they would be sworn in last week, however, the ceremony was postponed and will take place shortly before the court begins hearings in a case in which the validity of federal rent controls will be tested.

Mr. Justice Fauteux, 49, and Mr. Cartwright, 54-year-old well-known Toronto lawyer, will increase to nine the membership of the court, recently made the final Court of Appeals for Canada.

The full court is expected to hear the rentals case, but as it was instituted before proclamation of the new Supreme Court act an appeal against the decision of the Canadian judges may be appealed to the judicial committee of the Privy Council in London.

No appeal can be launched in cases filed with the court following proclamation of the act Dec. 22.

Develop Gold Mines

JOHANNESBURG, Jan. 9 — (Reuters)—Nearly £2,000,000,000 ($560,000,000) is to be spent on the full development of 13 gold mines in the Orange Free State, Sir Ernest Oppenheimer, chairman of the Anglo-American Corporation, said here today. He described this development as "the most extensive the world has ever known."

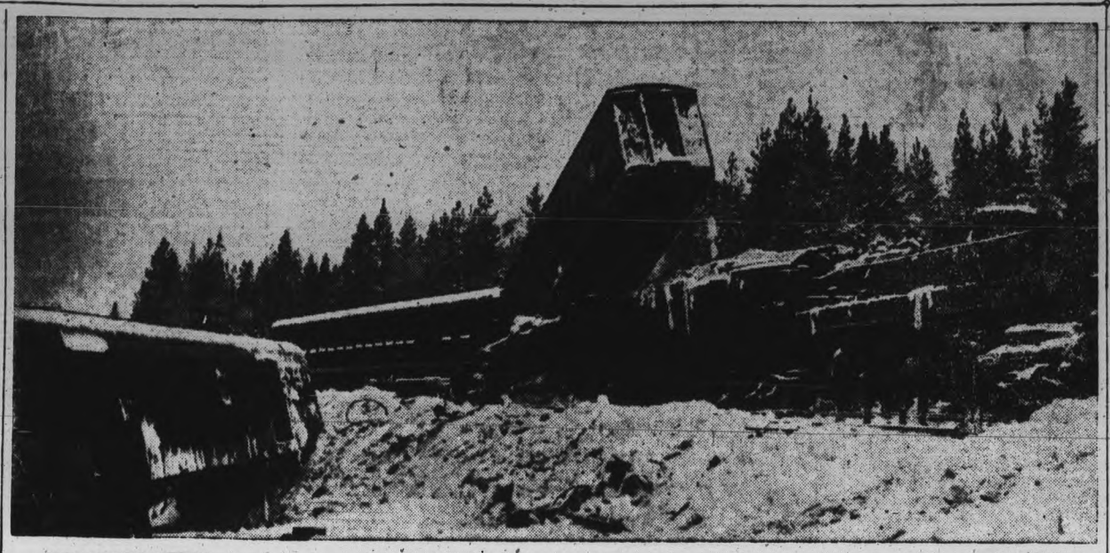
PROVINCES-GOV'T OPEN HISTORIC TALKS

Say Canada To Ship Pork To U.S.

Government Planning To Lift Embargo Send Best Bacon Too

OTTAWA, Jan. 10 (CP)—Canada today was preparing to gradually re-open the United States market to her pork producers for the first time since 1940. The industry, faced with a declining United Kingdom market, is expected to be told within the next day or two that export permits will be made available for shipment of surplus smoked or curel pork to the U.S. this will include bacon. Both the U.S. and Canada erected barriers against the movement of pork products between the two countries early in the Second World War when the U.K. contracted for as much as 700,000,000 pounds of Canadian bacon in one year. Canada cut off the U.S. market to send every available pound of bacon to Britain.



Can Invade Market

To the hog producers, the policy of re-opening the U.S. market will provide an opportunity to invade the rich American market with top-quality bacon—a market little touched by American producers who concentrate on a more modestly-priced standard-quality product.

Export permits, to be made available through the federal trade department, will cover only surplus smoked or cured pork. They will not cover fresh pork, or whole pigs either in live or dressed form.

Recently the U.S. has been trying to increase its market in Canada to find an outlet for a large surplus of standard-quality pork. The embargo against the U.S. product worked to the advantage of Canadian producers in the domestic market.

To enter the U.S. market, however, Canada will have to consider removing the embargo against U.S. pork. Although the effect this action would have on Canadian prices is not known, it is expected the U.S. would be able to absorb that part of the Canadian market that can only afford a more lower-priced product.

Expect Russia To Fire Blast

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y., Jan. 10 (CP)—Russia is expected today to fire another blast at Nationalist China on the diplomatic front when the United Nations Security Council convenes for its first 1950 meeting.

The 11-country council is scheduled to meet at 3 p.m. to discuss a proposed world-wide non-atomic arms census, but the situation is complicated by these factors:

1. The council president for this month is Nationalist China's chief delegate, T. F. Tsiang, whose right to represent China already has been challenged by Russia.

2. The Chinese Communist regime in a series of messages has asked the council to expel the Nationalist delegation.

3. Five members of the council—Russia, Britain, Yugoslavia, India and Norway—have granted diplomatic recognition to the Chinese Reds and no longer look on the Nationalists as rulers of China.

Plunge Through Ice Pair Escape Freezing

DAWSON CITY, Y.T., Jan. 10—(CP)—A "double-miracle" escape has saved two men from death in the clutches of Arctic cold.

A story of hardship and escape, during which their clothing froze to armor-hardness, was related from their hospital beds Monday by Edward J. Kimbel and Fred Harper, both of Mayor, YT.

The first escape came when the truck in which they were riding plunged through ice into the Stewart River. Their second, when they ran and crawled four miles to safety in 40-below-zero temperatures. They found shelter in a sawmill cabin.

They were suffering from severe frost bite to their hands, face and feet.

Cabinet Told Election Date Public Tomorrow

LONDON, Jan. 10 (CP)—Prime Minister Attlee told his cabinet Britain's big official secret today: the date of the general election.

Tomorrow he is expected to let the country in on it. Word spread quickly that Feb. 23 is the most likely date.

For weeks this has been the date most favored by guessers for the clash at the polls between the Labor party, in office since 1945, and Winston Churchill's Conservatives.

Attlee's ministers left the 90-minute meeting at 10 Downing Street smiling broadly.

Health Minister Aneurin Bevan assured reporters the prime minister would have an announcement on the election "later today." But Herbert Morrison, deputy prime minister, who was the last to leave Attlee, would tell the correspondents only:

"Stop all this guessing. You are in danger of making fools of yourselves."

Then the lobby correspondents—accredited political experts of the British press—were called into 10 Downing Street for a briefing.

The Press Association lobby man afterwards made these predictions:

Attlee will announce his election plans tomorrow.

He will dissolve the present parliament Friday, Feb. 3, and voting will take place 20 days later.

A "snap" election at an earlier date now can be virtually ruled out.

The session of parliament scheduled for Jan. 24 will be cancelled The present parliament will be dissolved without ever meeting again.

Feb. 13 was considered likely to be named as nomination day for candidates.

Destroyers Guard Freighter

By WAYNE RICHARDSON

ABOARD THE FLYING ARROW, Jan. 10—(AP)—Two American destroyers were alongside the shell-battered American freighter Flying Arrow tonight ready to escort her to any port but Communist Shanghai. They arrived in midafternoon. They are the Stickell and Bausell. Lieut. C. L. Stuart, who boarded the freighter from the Stickell, said escort would be provided to any port but the ship's destination, Shanghai. In the distance lurked a Chinese gunboat at dusk. It was the only other vessel in sight, although other Chinese Nationalist warships had been visible during the day.

The ship was hit by 30 to 40 Nationalist gunboat shells in international waters Monday. She was about 20 miles off the Chinese mainland when the attack started.

Her master, Capt. David Jones, 31, says the shell hits rendered her unseaworthy. He asked for U.S. naval escort to the nearest port for repairs.

The nearest port is Shanghai, where the Isbrandtsen Line freighter was bound with a cargo worth $10,000,000. Chinese Nationalists say they have mined the approaches to Shanghai.

Lieut. C. L. Stuart, of Chico, Calif., boarded the Flying Arrow from the Stickell and was shown damage by Captain Jones.

The lieutenant said the two destroyers would remain here as long as the Flying Arrow and the American State Department desired.

Warships Near

Crew members of the Flying Arrow and the 12 passengers, seven of them women, awoke this morning to see two Nationalist warships standing two to three miles away. A little farther away was the British sloop Black Swan which Monday helped extinguish fires started by the Nationalist gunboat shells.

The Flying Arrow made no move to try to leave her anchorage which is still far out in international waters.

The morning of the attack I got up early to watch the arrival of the ship outside of the mouth of the Yangtze River. On the starboard side about 200 yards away was a lone Chinese gunboat. It was sending warnings by blinker that mines were being laid.

Even at that we least expected the gunboat to start blasting us.

I went to the radio shack where Operator Lawrence C. Klosowski of New York was at the key to

Australia-New Zealand Rap Recognition of Red China

COLOMBO, Ceylon, Jan. 10—(CP)—Australia and New Zealand today criticized Britain, India, Pakistan and Ceylon for recognizing Communist China without first consulting their Commonwealth partners. When the Colombo conference—now in its second day—turned to the China situation, the foreign ministers of the two countries declared there might have been Commonwealth discussions before individual members recognized Mao Tse-tung's regime.

Both critics are new ministers, appointed in the recently-elected anti-labor governments of Australia and New Zealand.

P. C. Spender, Australian External Affairs Minister, said that while appreciating the liberty of each Commonwealth member to act individually, he felt that recognition of Communist China might possibly have been delayed until ministers had had an opportunity of first-hand exchanges to amplify the consultations he said had preceded individual recognition.

F. W. Doidge, New Zealand External Affairs Minister, was understood to have taken a similar line but both ministers showed understanding for the reasons which had prompted India, Pakistan, Britain and Ceylon to recognize China.

Canada and South Africa are the other Commonwealth countries which have not recognized the Chinese Communists.

Adhere To Freedom

A communique said the ministers stressed at today's meeting that the Commonwealth practice of allowing each government to make its own individual decisions on all important world problems, following inter - governmental consultation, would be adhered to.

Missing Ship Reaches Port

HALIFAX, Jan. 10 (CP)—The 70-ton coastal vessel O.K. Service, reported overdue and floundering off Nova Scotia's western shore Monday night, was safe in port today.

An extensive sea and air search had been planned before the craft was reported at Yarmouth, apparently delayed by storms on her voyage from Gloucester, Mass. She carried seven men.

Meanwhile, the salvage tug Foundation Josephine was racing to the side of the rudderless Norwegian freighter Grey County, adrift some 300 miles southeast of Cape Race, Newfoundland's southeastern tip.

The Foundation Josephine was expected to reach the 7,286-ton freighter sometime today.

An RCAF Lancaster from Greenwood, N.S., started an air hunt Monday for the O.K. Service but bad weather forced it back to base.

The fisheries department patrol boat Cygnus put to sea in a driving snowstorm to seek the missing ship, owned by E. Himmelman of Lahave, N.S.

Owners of the Foundation Josephine said the Grey County would be towed to either Halifax or Saint John, N.B. The freighter, carrying a crew of about 35, was reported in no immediate danger.

Two Ontario Plowmen On Way To Britain

TORONTO, Jan. 10 (CP)—Two Ontario plowmen visited Toronto today preparatory to leaving by boat for a month's tour of the British Isles. Their program here included a luncheon attended by Agriculture Minister Kennedy and officials of the Ontario Plowmen's Association.

The plowmen, Ronald Marquis, 28, of Sunderland, and 30-year-old James Eccles of Brampton, won the trips at the International Plowing Match held near Brantford last October. They will be accompanied by Alex McKinney, Jr., of Brampton, as the team's coach manager.

They will compete in plowing matches in Britain and study British methods of agriculture. At the end of the British Isles tour they plan to visit Holland, Denmark and Western Germany at their own expense. They will fly back to Canada, returning to Toronto Feb 17.

50,000 Miners Stage Walkout

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 10 (AP)—More than 50,000 United States soft-coal miners are on strike today. Many of them don't even know why.

Industry spokesmen say the walkout is another effort by United Mine Workers President John L. Lewis to needle mine operators into signing a contract.

The strike began Monday morning. UMW officials denied the action was ordered by union headquarters. By nightfall scores of mines were empty in Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Kentucky, Alabama, Virginia, Ohio and Utah.

Some miners—those who were willing to talk with outsiders about it—said the strike was decided on at meetings of their UMW locals. Other miners said their locals held no meetings.

Senators Demand Right To Question Formosa Deal

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 (AP)—A group of Republican Senators today pressed for the right to question State Secretary Dean Acheson face to face on the Truman Administration's disputed Formosa policy.

Their requests went to chairman Tom Connally (Dem. Tex.) as the Senate Foreign Relations Committee gathered to receive a personal report from Acheson on United States cold-war policy moves around the world.

Acheson usually makes his reports only to the committee.

Republican Senators William Knowland of California, Homer Ferguson of Michigan, Charles Tobey of New Hampshire and Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts are among those known to have asked permission to attend

Knowland and Ferguson, have led the Republican criticism of President Truman's decision against U. S. government military aid or advice for the defenders of Formosa—the big island off China which is the last stronghold of the Chinese Nationalist government.

Knowland was primed to ask the Secretary a series of questions which he said need an answer. Knowland told the Senate Monday he wants to know:

Who drafted a State Department document telling U. S. diplomats in the Far East that Formosa had no "strategic" value?

Did the State Department receive the views of the U. S. Joint Chiefs of Staff, Gen. MacArthur and other military leaders in reaching the Formosa decision?

Connally challenged Senators Monday to stand up and say they favored sending U. S. troops to Formosa.

Frost Says Ontario To Co-operate

Criticizes Ottawa Embarking Alone On BNA Amendments

OTTAWA, Jan. 10 — (CP) — Premier Frost of Ontario, addressing the Dominion-Provincial conference, today criticized the Federal Government for embarking alone on a constitutional amendment giving Parliament power to change the British North America Act on purely Federal matters.

Declaring the constitution should not have been changed in "piecemeal" fashion, he suggested that the new power assumed by Parliament last fall should be wielded only after a wider consultation than that afforded in Parliament.

Amendments made under the new set-up—including the abolition of appeals to the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council—could have important effects on the provinces, Mr. Frost said.

For that reason, he proposed that the present conference, called primarily to deal with amending the BNA in other respects, also should deal with the question of laying down procedure for amendments on Federal matters.

Will Co-operate

The Ontario Premier said his delegation was willing to co-operate completely in reaching the objectives of the conference. He declared Canada should have power to amend the constitution, without reference to the British Parliament, on matters of joint Dominion-Provincial interest.

"Ontario is prepared to consider any proposals advanced by any of the other governments," he said. "We also are prepared to advance some of our own, not dogmatically, but only as a basis for discussion."

In expressing his views on Parliament's action last year in obtaining power to amend the BNA itself on federal matters, Mr. Frost said Ontario would have "felt better" if the current conference had been asked to deal with the whole question instead of having it done piecemeal.

He made clear that his reference was both to the assumption of new powers by Parliament and the establishment of the Supreme Court of Canada as the Dominion's court of last resort, replacing the United Kingdom Privy Council.

British Try Luck

HONG KONG, Jan. 10 (Reuters)—The first British ship to try to run the Chinese Nationalist blockade since Britain resognized Communist China is due at the mouth of the Yangtze tomorrow—where three Nationalist warships are believed to be on watch.

The British Frigate Black Swan also is patrolling the waters of the Yangtze mouth.

The blockade runner—the Else Moller—is bound for Shanghai from Hong Kong with a general cargo.

Strikes Tie Up Italy

ROME, Jan. 10—(AP)—Twenty-four hour general strikes stopped industry and business through most of northern and central Italy today in a Labor union protest against the deaths of six workers in a riot clash with police. More than 1,000,000 workers, struck on orders of the Communist-dominated Confederation of Labor and Chambers of Labor in various northern and central provinces.

Food Supplies To Be Boosted Britons Expect

LONDON, Jan. 10 (CP)—Britons look forward to more plentiful food supplies in 1950 and some foods may be freed from rationing. But due to devaluation of the pound, prices of certain foods are likely to rise.

Food Ministry officials point out that the world position has improved so much that only Norway and Britain now operate full rationing schemes.

This is a forecast of Britain's 1950 rations and price prospects based on current information:

Meat: stocks excellent and all cold stores filled. Hope of a ration increase from the present 1s 6d. to 1s 10d. during the early spring and summer.

Pork in quantity still is a housewife's dream, but there will be some pork in the stores occasionally if Australian and New Zealand experiments to bring over chilled pork in good condition are successful.

Butter: it is hoped to maintain the present four-ounce weekly ration for the greater part of 1950. Prices may go up one penny a pound before April.

Outlook Cheerful

Margarine: outlook cheerful. Ration may go up to four ounces early in the year.

Cooking fats: there may be an increase of one ounce around midsummer. Prices are not expected to change.

Bacon: despite dollar difficulties, Britain has completed an agreement to buy 60,000,000 pounds from Canada this year at 29 cents a pound.

Milk: rationing, now varying up to 3½ pints a week, will end Jan. 15.

Tea: stocks and prospects appear to justify a year-round ration of 2¼ ounces.

Sugar: no increase expected.

Eggs: a few more are expected than in 1949. Prices rose recently and are unlikely to go up again so long as the government subsidy is maintained.

Candy: more expensive candy may be taken off the ration later this year.

Soap: rationing may be abolished before spring.

Cheese: there may be difficulty maintaining the present two-ounce weekly ration. Only hope of avoiding a summer cut will be if cheese is made available to Britain under Marshall Aid. The price may rise by one penny a pound.

Gambling Now Hot Issue O'Dwyer Stirs Up Furore

NEW YORK, Jan. 10 (AP) — Gambling popped up today as a hot political and moral issue in New York State after Mayor William O'Dwyer's proposal that betting on sports contests, including hockey, be legalized and supervised by the state

Chances for adoption of the proposal were viewed as dim at the state capital at Albany where several members of the Republican legislative majority voiced opposition.

In some quarters some hailed the suggestion as practical horsesense, in the view of realities Others condemned state-licences betting as a threat to the public's morals.

Still others—including the leaders of the sporting world—remained guardedly non-committal on the potentially hot political issue

Some of the ferment stemmed from one of society's oldest ethical questions—the virtue or iniquity of the game of chance.

But the big factor, says the New York City mayor, is this:

Enforcement of present anti-gambling laws is onerously expensive and, furthermore, virtually impossible because thousands of people want to bet, and do—even though it's against the law.

In his statement Monday, O'Dwyer said he would ask the state legislature for "courageous and sensible" action to legalize sports betting and put it under strict state control.

This, h said, would bring bookmaking out from underground and drive the "criminal element" out of gambling, much as the repeal of prohibition purged the liquor trade of crime and violence

At present, only two states in the United States—Idaho and Nevada—have legal commercialized gambling, in varying forms, according to the council of state governments.

Can't Afford Differences P.M. Declares

Must Decide Way Best To Serve Nation As A Whole

OTTAWA, Jan. 10 (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent said today at the opening of the Dominion-Provincial Constitutional Conference that "we cannot afford to permit differences to frustrate the continued development, in a desirable direction, of the national as a whole."

Mr. St. Laurent declared the historic conference open at 10.45 a.m. EST after welcoming the premiers of the 10 provinces and their delegations.

"The purpose of this conference is to seek together to devise a generally-satisfactory method of transferring to authorities responsible to the people of Canada the jurisdiction which may have to be exercised, from time to time, to amend those fundamental parts of the constitution which are of concern alike to the federal and provincial authorities," said Mr. St. Laurent.

"There will no doubt be substantial differences of view today, as there were in 1867, as to how best to serve the common needs of a single nation stretching across half a continent.

"Eighty-three years of Confederation have greatly strengthened the sense of unity and common interest of the Canadian people, but differences still exist and are still important, and differences must be respected if we are to achieve a satisfactory solution of our constitutional problem, and, indeed, of all our national problems."

Recognize Differences

In a 2,500 word speech he said that in devising ways of amending the constitution, the conference should recognize that differences exist between the attitudes, the views and the ways of life of different provinces and different parts of Canada.

"It is, I believe, of the utmost importance that we should fully appreciate the values that these very differences have in enriching our national life," he added.
